ONE ACT PLAYS TO BE STAGED FRIDAY EVENING

Three Plays to be Given in Chapel at Eight O'clock

GIVEN BY DRAMATIC CLASS

Students will be admitted Free of Charge

An evening of one-act plays will be given in the chapel on Friday evening, February 1, at eight o'clock. As the program is under the auspices of the student council, students will be admitted free. Admission for others will be twenty-five cents for children and thirty-five cents for adults.

The Patchwork Quilt is a touching play, centering around an old woman's love for her patchwork quilt, every colored square of which holds for her a memory. By means of these squares the audience is given a glimpse into the past and her youthful courtship and marriage.

Those in the real play are: Mrs. Willis—Lillian Horning. Anne (her daughter)—Ploy Brown. Joe (her son-in-law)—John Lehman.

Betty (her granddaughter)—Ruth Teach.

Those in the dream play are: Molly—Ruth Anderson. William—Oliver Ikenberry. Emily—Margaret Davis.

Touching a phase of human nature often manifested consciously or unconsciously, the play Finders-Keepers, by George Kelly, reveals two attitudes toward the social problem about which it centers.

Jeanette Hoover as Mrs. Aldrid, Charles Collins as Mr. Aldrid, and Mildred Swenson as Mrs. Hampton compose the cast of characters.

The Brink of Silence is a realistic play by Esther Galbraith based on the "Enoch Arden" theme. The setting of the play is a cabin in the Arctic.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Cole—Ernest Toland. MacReady—Franz Crumpecker. Darton—Leland Lindell. Johnson—Murlin Hoover.

The Flower of Yeddo, a Japanese comedy in one act, by Violet Mapes, will be presented by members of the dramatic art class for the Cosmos at the Mohler home, the evening of January 25, and for the McPherson Rotary club at their annual reception to the Rotary Annex, January 29.

The characters and members of the cast are:

Kami (a Japanese poet)—Sylvia Edgewood. Momo (a kindhearted mischief-maker)—Ruth Trostle. Taiphoon (a sheep in wolf's clothing)—Helen Hudson. Sainara (whom Kami loves)—Dorothy Lilholm.

Y. M. C. A. TUESDAY

The program in Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, was led by Wray Whitbeck, who read devotions. The topic of the program was "How Should the Principles of Christ Affect our Lives?" The first speaker, Harold Fasnacht, showed just how Christ's principles can apply in our lives in the Dormitory, and that in the Dormitory is a test of our training and ability to produce the best in us. "Man is like a Labrador Spar and reflects his life at certain angles," said Fasnacht, "and what other men see in us is the result of our experiences".

The second speaker, Walter Fillmore, talking about Christ's influence in the classroom, said we should use Him as a guiding light in being kind, considerate and virtuous toward others and the instructors in the classroom. "We cannot become true examples until we get the spirit of the good Samaritan on the campus".

"GOODIE SHOPPE" TO BE HELD FEBRUARY 4TH

Sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. of the College

At their last meeting the members of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet decided that the "Goodie Shoppe" be held next Monday evening, February 4.

"The Goodie Shoppe" is one of the outstanding functions sponsored by this organization's social committee and in past years has been considered very successful.

Plans as to the menu and theme of the project have not yet been made known, but more definite announcements in regard to it will be made later.

The social committee under the leadership of Miss Arlene Saylor is working on the project.

W. A. A. TO INITIATE NEW MEMBERS TUES. MORNING

May Fete Committee Make a Brief Report

One of the matters of greatest importance considered at the meeting of the Women's Athletic Association Monday evening of last week was that of the initiation of new members.

After much discussion pro and con, a motion to the effect that part of the initiation program be conducted Tuesday forenoon (today) and that the remainder of the ordeal take place in the evening concluding with a luncheon was passed.

Misses Edna Hoover, Ada Stutzman, and Clara Burgin were elected as a committee to take charge of the initiation and the accompanying entertainment.

The May Fete committee made a brief report, but as yet few plans have been made in regard to that function.

TYPICAL TYPES

On a college campus are more typical types of otherwise than ever typed a typewriter in Wall Street. Honest, it's a truth. There are more different people gathered together than one ever meets anywhere else—so come to college for the contacts, socially speaking, and have studies as a side line.

There is the bold person who tries and generally fails, to make himself the center of attraction in a group usually composed together in the parlor after the effort of obtaining nourishment. He usually yells about what he did, or grades he made, or how popular he is. Well—his egotism and the laws of the country are the only things which prevent his quick departure from the world of trials and tribulations by lynching.

Now the Skek is a welcome change, as long as he changes his location long and often enough. To any real dyed-in-the-wool college student that patent leather effect on the head casts the reflection of doom on the person in question. Other ear marks are trousers creased to a powerful point, nails manicured to a pink 20th degree, face shaved so close that he might as well be an 75 cents weekly. In a nut shell he gives us a pain intellectually, physically, morally, and every other location.

Pardon—the wise-cracking individual is found on every campus, in fact they are as prevalent as fleas on a dog and much more irritating—to us—not the dog. College Humor and other like literature is their meat. Witness some genius of wisdom as these come gushing from their epiglottis, a conversational Niagara, if you please. She's only the taxidermist's daughter, but she knows her stuff". "She's only the cooched daughter but she could upset the dog". "She's only a fisherman's daughter but she could really throw a line". "She's only a zoo keeper's daughter but she could make a monkey out of me". "What you don't know won't hurt you but Crapes! how it slows up your progress".

Oh, yes—Coeds is college girls what tell a guy they enjoyed being out with him and then rush up stairs to tell the girls what an awfully ripe egg he was". (All above with apologies to the Sour Owl)

Even so—the book worm appears on the scene. How wondrously intelligent. If a girl, hair slicked back, shiny nose, sloppy dress, the inevitable notebook, horn rimmed spectacles, and arm load of books. These people hardly realize that many a good brain may hide under a plucked eye brow, so why not take a hint and perk up a bit. The world may be going to the bow wows, but why hasten the untimely end—Book worms need reviving, many a beauty may be under a shiny nose and only needs a powder puff to discover it. In the case of the dumbbell "beauty is their only excuse for being"—sometimes.

Every dormitory has the so-called "snappy" type who consistently help themselves to various and sundry articles such as records, magazines, candy, without a by-your-leave. If said articles are misplaced, broken or consumed, "Oh I'm so sorry but I didn't think you'd care". Well, records don't grow on bushes and if they are broken while in transit from place to place without the owner's consent or blessing, it's just

ENTERTAIN LADY TEACHERS

Dinner Party Given Last Wednesday Evening

The home of Dr. and Mrs. V. F. Schwalm was the scene of a small dinner party given last Wednesday evening to the ladies of the college faculty. The dining and living rooms were made cheerful by the use of roses and carnations.

Those present at the dinner were the Misses Della Lehman, Mildred Lamb, Marietta Byerly, Jessie Brown, Edith McGaffey, Fern Lingenfelter and Mrs. Anna Tate.

According to one who was there everyone had a pleasant evening and appreciated the hospitality of the Schwalm's.

TABOR COLLEGE ORATORIO SOCIETY COMING TO M. C.

There are two hundred voices in the Chorus

Arrangements have been completed for the Tabor College Oratorio Society to appear at the McPherson Community Building on March 11. There are two hundred voices in the chorus that will sing one of the most popular of the modern oratorios, "The Holy City," by Gounod.

The Tabor College Oratorio Society will be accompanied by the McPherson Salon Orchestra. Mrs. Anna Tate, Voice Instructor of McPherson College will sing the soprano solos.

This program is being sponsored by the Cecilian Music Club and the McPherson College Student Council.

An eminent scholar complains that college graduates are earning more in their chosen professions than the professors who taught them the professions. What better way for the students to get even for all the "flunks"?—Washburn Review.

FIELDS LEADS Y. W.

"Going Forward" was the theme of the program in the meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association last Tuesday morning, which was under the supervision of Miss Evelyn Fields.

A vocal duet was sung by Miss Margaret Devillis and Hazel Falls, entitled "Lullaby Moon".

The subject "Aims" was discussed by Miss Esther Rice. She stressed the fact that one never rises above one's aims or ideals; therefore that ideal or aim must be high.

"Serving Others" and the part it plays in going forward was told by Miss Mildred Mitchell.

Miss Lois Wine in her subject "Faith" defined it as the advancing force that draws us to attempt and to accomplish.

The Y. W. benediction closed the service.

"BETTER SPORTSMANSHIP" CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED BY THE ILLINOIS U.

To Be a Real Sportsman Adopt the Following Code

The students of the University of Illinois have recently originated and conducted a campaign for better sportsmanship. They adopted the following code:

A true Illini sportsman:
Will consider all athletic opponents as guests and treat them with all the courtesy due friends and guests.

Will accept all decisions of the officials without question.

Will never hiss or boo a player

SPEAKING OF OPPORTUNITIES

Some saw that opportunities knock only once. That scarcely fits into our philosophy, but there is an opportunity coming this week that at least does not knock every day of the year. The large art exhibit of over two hundred pieces is presenting an opportunity before students to enable them to become acquainted with the great masterpieces of the world. A familiarity with such is certainly a part of a complete and finished education. A side from simply being posted on such matters there is a value in knowing about them from the standpoint of personal enjoyment and the cultivation of one's sense of aesthetic beauty. The price of admission is within the reach of any student, and the programs promise to be of much interest. The proposition is well worth considering.

The coming few days seem rich indeed with promises of various kinds. The art exhibit marks three red letter days. Two more appear shortly following. Next Sunday and Monday Sherwood Eddy comes to our campus. The dynamic of his personality and the influence of his effervescent spirit are ours for the having. He will deliver a number of addresses while he is here, and that is another opportunity that knocks rarely indeed. Let us consider it so and act likewise.

Bulldogmas

Hell week is over. Diggs: I believe the school is haunted. Kenberry: How's that? Diggs: There always talking about the school spirit. K. Hays: Gee this seems like Friday. G. Hays: This is Friday. K. Hays: I guess that's what makes it seem like it. Harris: Were any great men born in your town? Negley: Naw, nothin' but babies. Prof. Heckman: How did the faculties treat Saul the day he was made king? Margaret A.: I don't know. I was sick that day. Prof.: Leave my class room. Student: Alright. I don't need it.

To keep chaps off of the lips, eat onions.

Mother: Did you wash the fish? Daughter: What's the use? They've lived in water all their life.

Roland Lindell requests that I admit that I took the above out of the Window Booster.

Sjoberg: She's the kind you read about in books.

Keith H.: What kind of books have you been reading.

Patient coming to: What happened doc?

Doc: We removed your tonsils, appendix and pancreas.

Patient: Good night, and I duly came for a prescription for cough medicine for my wife.

Tripple threat, I love you, I love you, I love you.

I know a fellow so dumb that he thinks a microbe is an Irish nightie.

By The Way

Miss Olga Edwards who is a student at Bethany college visited her sister Mercedes at the dormitory Monday night of last week.

Charles Collins went to his home at Larned Saturday and returned Sunday evening.

Miss Lois Dell and Floy Brown spent the week end at the Brown home near Hutchinson.

Miss Irene Steinberg went to her home near Lorraine Wednesday and returned to the dormitory Monday.

Cecil Davidson who was a student here last year returned Sunday and has enrolled for the second semester.

Miss Doris Ballard spent the week end with home folks at Lovewell.

Miss Margaret Devilbiss spent the latter part of last week at her home at Ottawa.

Glen Seltz of Larned visited dormitory friends here Sunday and Monday.

Miss Beth Hess spent the week end at her home at Morrill.

Miss Arlene Saylor spent the week end at her home near Ottawa.

Kermit Hayes and Don and Clinton motored to Nickerson and Hutchinson Saturday.

Miss Chester Carter is spending the week at her home in Perryton, Texas.

Miss Thelma Budge spent Sunday and Monday at her home near St. John.

Miss Ruth Peterson of Windom called on friends at the dormitory spoday.

ROY TEACH WRITES FORM NEBRASKA AGAIN

This is the Third of a Series of Letters Received from Our Field Secretary

Spectator: Last week I said I was going out to see Franklin Evans. Well, we were glad to see each other. He was gathering corn. He was deeply interested in the affairs of the school and I told him if he would subscribe for the Spectator he could keep up with the activities of old Mac. I think you can expect his subscription. I am finding out this state of Nebraska is a Kingdom of its own. I spent a part of Sunday in the north central part of the state at Arcadia and I felt I was nearly out of reach. Wondering if you might be going to send out a searching party for me. I am finding several young folks who are interested in McPherson College. These churches are asking if we are going to send them a deputation team this year. They are hoping they can have a good team. I found the work of the team did as much good advertising for the school as any other means that have been used. How is the weather at McPherson?

son? It is ten degrees below zero here this morning. I drive awhile and then stop and warm while and then go again. I drove over a hundred miles yesterday. I passed thru Clay Center. Ate dinner and went out to the Radio Station of K M M J. As soon as I registered on the visitors roll, they announced in the air that I was with them visiting the station. Did you hear my name called? First time the world ever knew there was such a fellow as the field secretary of McPherson College.

Say, are the Bulldogs winning the games 100%? Nebraska papers do not publish the sport news from Kansas.

So much for this time and I hope to be among you soon after this week's Spectator appears.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

TOURNAMENT

Two weeks ago at a mass meeting of the college men called by Dean Mohler it was decided that a basketball tournament should be held for the benefit of the fellows who could not play on the varsity squad. Plans were made whereby each man was to draw for his place on a team so as to have equally divided teams, the number of players on each team being limited to six. The following committees were elected: Official committee, Paul Bowers. Schedule committee, Wray Whiteneck, and Championship committee, Murlin Hoover.

The men decided that the tournament should start as soon as possible and last until about the first of March. Each team will have an opportunity to play every other team and at the end of the tourney an All Tournament team will be selected and a record of the ten high scorers will be made.

As a result eight enthusiastic teams were organized, the line-ups of which follow:

Hot-Shots—G. Lerew, captain, J. Harsh, C. Collins, R. Yoder, W. Whiteneck and R. Burdison.

Pla-Mors—F. Andrews, captain, O. Whitebeck, Roy Franz, Raymond Peterson, H. Crist and W. Bigham.

Question-marks—R. Buskirk, K. Keck, J. Yoder, M. Hoover, H. Ely, and R. Turner.

Sharpshooters—N. Wine, captain, R. Landes, J. Hart, V. Spillman, R. Swain, D. Kelly.

Clowns—L. Diggs, captain, R. Bowers, V. Ohmart, C. Walker, T. Crist, and A. Harris.

Blue-Streaks—P. Bowers, captain, G. Harris, C. Bishop, B. Sjoberg, C. Trostle, D. Kerlin, J. Eifer.

Fighting Cocks—E. Kanfman, captain, E. Metzger, G. Hayes, M. Early, H. Hoffman, and H. Pasencht.

Comets—D. Dutton, captain, "D. Trostle, Raymond Landes, D. Stutzman, L. Myers, K. Hayes, and O. High.

The captains of the teams together with Dean Mohler compose the executive committee of the tournament.

STUDENT SINCERITY

Campus frivolity is the typical college attitude conveyed by the public press. It is the best understood side of college youth by the communities from which students come. Occasionally, the general public hears of intellectual work of university students. Rarely does any mention of the religious side of students' life come to the attention of others.

Those unacquainted with student life and the psychology of youth are likely to proclaim college students irreligious. Any such sweeping judgment is as erroneous as any judgment made of a group represented by thousands of students with hundreds of interests, coming from a myriad of homes.

College students are likely to be critical of religion. They have not abandoned the idealism of youth. They are seeking the highest. They are not satisfied with sophistry, nor mouthings of insincerity. When interest of the college student turns to religion, it turns to a religion of reality, not a religion of superficiality. His fundamental belief may be the same as hundreds of thousands of his elders. He sees religious belief far ahead of religious expression. Practical, earnest, sincere, he is likely to hesitate to voice religious beliefs. He is likely to prefer to try to realize them first.

Of such sincerity is the so-called irreligiousness of college students often made.

MEN'S INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT STARTED TUESDAY

Much Interest and Enthusiasm is shown

The men's intramural basketball tournament started off last Tuesday afternoon when the Fighting Cocks tangled with the Comets in a hard-fought fast game. Although they were outplayed throughout the game the Comets emerged in the last minutes of play with a 26-24 victory. Ray Landes, star forward for the Comets threw eight field goals and was high point man in the game. The same night the red and yellow Clowns completely smothered the Pla-Mors in a fast and rough game with a 39-23 score. Ohmart and Myers led for the Clowns in the scoring column with six baskets each. Thursday afternoon the Hot-Shots outplayed the Questionmarks in a 19-12 game and that night after leading by a large margin in the early part of the game the Bluestreaks were defeated by the Sharpshooters 20-19. The game ended with the score standing 17-all. At the end of the first extra period it stood 19-all. In the second extra period Ralph Landes was awarded a free throw which he made good a few seconds before the final whistle blew. Kerlin, playing his usual individual game, led the scoring for the Blue Streaks with eleven points and Joe Hart led the Sharp Shooters with nine points.

SHERWOOD EDDY

Christian leaders will be on the McPherson College campus. To the student, meeting him is a red-letter day, not soon forgotten. Behind the Sherwood Eddy known to the student world today is a life lived to the full. A recent quotation says: "He is a fighter—He is a tremendous worker. He seems to be in touch with reality—He is neither genius nor saint, but it appears almost obvious that he had been caught by a power and a way of life neither too lofty nor too intricate for even the average fellow. That power is Christ, and the way of life is Christian, lived without equivocation or excuses, daily renewed, daily expanded". The Gospel was first a personal one and later a broad social Gospel, with a wider and deeper meaning. It was a missionary gospel—glad tidings for the whole world.

Dr. Eddy is a native Kansan, born at Leavenworth in 1871. Upon the wealthy mill owner, he and a brother inherited a considerable estate. He retained a part of his share, and lived off the income, spending his time without salary in Christian service, besides supporting a number of other workers.

He graduated from Yale in 1891. From 1896 to 1911, he did mission work in India as a national secretary for the Y. M. C. A. Much of his time up until the war was spent in the Orient, and he worked much among the students of Europe and America. Great religious interest was aroused. During the war, he was Secretary for the welfare work of the Y. M. C. A. Since the war he has worked as a great advocate of peace and social justice, becoming thoroughly-awakened to the futility and uselessness of it during the world's struggle.

He is the author of a number of books, written during his years on the field, and since, on religion, peace, and social problems.

Each summer he heads a research party to Europe. This party is made up of professional people. It is generally believed that his name will go down in history along with those of Dr. John R. Mott and one or two others as the outstanding religious leaders of the century.

A recent survey shows that 48% of the women graduates of the University of Wisconsin in the past 20 years have remained 'old maids'.

Because of the unusually large enrollment at the University of Oklahoma, a six-day week has been established in order to eliminate the crowded conditions of the classrooms. The present enrollment is 4656, which is 224 greater than that of a year ago. School authorities expect the enrollment to go beyond 5000 next semester.

M. C. CAGERS DEFEAT THE KANSAS WESLEYAN COYOTES

The McPherson College Bulldogs defeated the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes last night by a count of 34-25 in the fastest and hardest fought court battle seen in the local Convention hall since the Bulldog-Bethel game nearly a year ago.

Although they were unable to start off true to form the Bulldogs managed to hold the lead by a narrow margin throughout the first half which ended with the score standing 12-11. Frequent fumbles, bad passes, and poor shooting were largely responsible for the Bulldog's inability to gain a larger lead early in the game.

In the second half the Bulldogs began with a flash, sinking two baskets in the first few moments of play and gaining a lead which was soon overcome by the Coyotes who now began to play a style of basketball that almost swept the Bulldogs off their feet. At this point in the game, Stabe, a clever Coyote, succeeded in breaking through the tight Bulldog defense and making several counters in rapid succession which finally resulted in a one-point lead for the Coyotes six and a half minutes before the end of the game. Captain Nonken called time out, after which the Bulldogs returned, their strong offense taking full possession of the court, and played a kind of basketball that brought every spectator to his feet. Nonken broke through in his usual manner for a set-up which was followed by baskets by Rump then Crumpacker in rapid succession which according to the timekeeper took place in thirty seconds, giving the Bulldogs a lead which they continued to widen with baskets from Miller and Rump and the Bulldog defense did not allow the Coyotes to score again in spite of their threats, before the final gun cracked.

The entire game was a thriller. There was not a second of performance in the whole game in which attention of every spectator was not riveted upon the action of the players. At no time during the game did either team have reason to feel assured of victory.

Melvin Miller lead the scoring with eighteen points to his credit. Stabe, the man who was largely responsible for the 24-25 Coyote lead in the final period of play, was high point man for the Wesleyans with thirteen points. Nonken and Blickenstaff played an outstanding game on the defensive.

Canadian college girls use more rouge than British co-eds, according to a group of English women students who visited the University of Toronto recently. One of the visitors suggested the situation as being a result of American influence.

A lounge room is being furnished in the armory at the University of Oklahoma for military students to wait between classes. It will be stocked with magazines and newspapers.

It's the things that occupy our minds when we have nothing to do, that show our true character.

Burning Out Fuses?

The deceit of intemperance is cunning indeed. As you approach its sanctum, you are dazzled by the bright lights of splendor and lured on by the promised pleasure of self indulgence.

But as you pass thru its portals the lights are dimmed and the scene is quickly shifted. Then your way is lighted only by the green glow from the eyes of that serpent, REMORSE—tortured by the derision, jeers and mockery of the falsifier.
