

McPHERSON ONLY CITY IN UNITED STATES THAT CAN BOAST OF TWO CARNEGIE LIBRARIES IN ONE CITY

Campus Library Personal Gift Of Andrew Carnegie—S. B. Fahnestock—Instrumental In Securing Picture Gift From The King Of Italy For College Library

"Believe It or Not," but there is only one city in the United States that has two Carnegie libraries within its limits—that city is McPherson, Kansas. The manner in which this city secured the help of Andrew Carnegie in building their libraries is a coincidence, due to the fact that the Carnegie corporation for the purpose of building libraries grants donations or gifts for only one library in one city.

These two reading centers, the McPherson Public Library, now supported by taxation, and the McPherson College Carnegie Library, private property of the College, a denominational school of the Church of the Brethren, both received half of the cost of the construction from the steel magnet.

In 1902 the Ladies Reading Circle of the city at a public meeting considered a library for public use. At this meeting the McPherson Library Association was organized. The association secured two rooms in the county court house and with 200 members on February 26 of the same year secured 199 books as a result of a book shower, constituting the first volumes for the newly established library of the city. Miss Ada E. Henry secured the position as the first librarian.

After nearly three years in the court house the library had grown rapidly and had become quite popular with the public. On December 20, 1904, the voters of the city at a special election acquired the small library, "consisting of 1000 books, book cases, etc. and $113.24."

The library continued to grow in the number of books and popularity and in 1916 the library board secured a donation of $12,500 for the construction of a public library building from the Carnegie corporation. The ground on which the library was built was donated by the county commissioners and in 1918 the cornerstone was laid with fitting ceremonies.

Today the building is a large, modern, fire-proof structure and includes 6,927 volumes. An auditorium on the ground floor seats 250 people and it is used for civic purposes. Lillian Barber is now librarian.

But with the College it was a different proposition. The institution established in 1887, was a growing educational center of the Church of the Brethren, but as all small colleges of that time was struggling to keep up a high standard. S. B. Fahnestock, a popular trustee and instructor in the early days of this century, was instrumental in securing the donation from the Carnegie interests.

In applying for the donation he was told that the Corporation would furnish funds for the construction of only one library in one city but the hopes of the McPherson professor did not waver and so he sought a new avenue of approach. The interest of Mr. Carnegie was aroused and he agreed to give as a personal gift to the College half of the cost of the library if the College would raise the other half.

In making this decision Mr. Carnegie made certain qualification, one being that there be a certain number of books on hand before the gift was granted. By means of a canvass of the city for books on the part of the faculty and students the required amount was secured and plans drawn up for the building. Mr. Carnegie soon sent his check for $13,000 as half of the amount for the building and later added $2,000 to this amount, making a total gift of $15,000. It took many trying months before the College was able to raise this amount of money. The College library was not aided by the Carnegie corporation but from

BULLDOGS WIN MORAL VICTORY IN DEFEAT

McPherson Wrecks Sterling's Aerial Attack—Outweighed Nearly 50 Pounds To Man

STERLING 27, McPHERSON 6

Miller Makes Touchdown For Mack Men—Last Home Game, For Sterling This Season

Sterling, Kan., Nov. 14.—(Special)—It's aerial attack unsuccessful, Sterling college took to ground warfare here tonight to defeat McPherson college, a traditional rival, 27 to 6, in the last game of the home schedule.

Sterling won the game by a margin of three touchdowns, and three extra points, but the Bulldogs chalked up a moral victory. Not only did Coach Melvin Binford's Bulldog clinch score against the Kahlerites, but it wrecked Sterling's vaunted aerial attack, outplayed Sterling in one quarter, and gave the home team determined, if not serious opposition.

In the second quarter McPherson reversed the order of procedure and outplayed Sterling from the start to finish. Sterling, averaging 52 pounds to the man more than the Bulldogs, were unable to stop their onrush and after a long pass from Miller to Cox and successive line plunges Miller carried the one over for McPherson's touchdown. Throughout the rest of the period McPherson outplayed Sterling, over confidence hampering the play and generalship of the Sterling team.

SOPHOMORES TO BATTLE

—FOR THE "GREEN CAPS"

Tomorrow afternoon the great grudge battle between the freshmen and sophomores to decide whether or not the freshmen will discard their "green caps" on Turkey Day or whether they put them away in "moth balls" and then wear them again in the spring, will be staged. Rivalry between the two classes is tense and any man may play who did not make the Sterling trip. Last year the sophomores were victorious.

— DRIPPINGS —

THE DOPE BUCKET

All we can say about St. Marys triumph over Baker to win the Kansas conference championship is—pretty scratchy. However, we do take off our hats to them.

At last the battle that we so long have been hinting about is here, but we must not over rate it. We must think of it as just another battle and be determined to win.

The Sterling game proved beyond a doubt that the team is improving both defensively and offensively.

Sterling could do nothing but give ground before that terrific 80 yard drive of the Bulldogs. And another thing, the Bulldogs thoroughly wrecked that well known passing machine that Sterling boasts.

Sterling beat the "swedes" 12 to 0 but it was said that Sterling muffed a half dozen other chances to score.

Of course to win, the strongest effort yet will have to slow up but what looks so good to "yours truly" is the fact that the Bulldogs scored against a strong team by using the orthodox style of football.

McPherson is claiming a moral victory over Sterling in light of the fact that five of their regulars did not play and that they were outweighed nearly 50 pounds to the man.

With nearly two weeks before him Coach Melvin Binford will have the services of regulars who have not been playing in the last two games because of injuries that might have kept them out of the "Swede" game.
