The first half ended 14 to 6 for McPherson and it was not until after half of the first period was ended that St. Mary's scored. The second half opened with both teams scoring heavily with St. Mary's gaining a closer margin and at one time brought the score up to within one point of the Mack men, 17 to 18, but they were unable to gain the lead and McPherson added more baskets to make their lead more substantial. Cantillon, St. Mary's, was high point man of the game with a total of 10 points. For McPherson Jamison, accounted for 8 points for the leading scorer of his team. Rump, McPherson, making only five points, played the best game of the season, coming out of seemingly dull period proved himself of good teamwork and passing ability.

JUBILANT CO-EDS' MISTAKEN IDENTITY COUNCIL PRESIDENT CAUSES CONCERN BUT MIRTH

Craving excitement last Thursday night, a group of the industrious M. C. Co-eds cast aside their books for a few minutes of recreation and they left the library and promenade to the gym. where they saw the faculty, with their long faces off, getting their daily dozen and forgetting the worry that had caused ten grey hairs that day. These girls could hardly believe that the jolly ball players were the same persons that stood (or sat) in the class room each day and caused them to bear so much misery. The players seemed to be having a grand time and it was hard to imagine from the evening's observations that they would ever burden anyone with unpleasant things, but of course the co-eds in their jubilant manner knew better.

It is usually understood that people "fall" in the spring but Professor Blair believes in rushing the season. He didn't wait until that

TO GIVE RECITAL

Miss Brown Announces Recital For Jan. 26

Sat., Jan. 10—Miss Jessie Brown, professor and head of the music department of the College, announced today that a student recital would be given in the college Chapel on the night of Jan. 26. The recital will be given on the night of the holiday between the first and second semesters.

GIVE SECOND REPORT DETROIT CONFERENCE

Williams Tells Of Problems On Colleges Campuses

Wed., Jan. 7—The second report in chapel of the Detroit Student-Faculty conference was given by Ward Williams this morning. Mr. Williams in giving his reactions to the conference stated that the great problem on the campus today is to overcome student indifference. Students accept just what they find—they should remember that as the school benefits, so does the individual. "The problems we solve in college," Mr. Williams stated, "will help one and prepare him leadership in the future."

In closing the delegate is quoted as saying, "Do not drift with the circumstances but direct the forces within your own life."

TO PLAY RETURN GAME WITH FRIENDS FRIDAY

Game Promises To Be A Hard Fought Contest

Friday night the McPherson Bulldogs will endeavor to make it two straight wins over the Wichita university Quakers on the home court. The game promises to be hard fought and more closely contested than the first game with Friends as neither team was playing top form the first game.

The Bulldogs hold a slight edge over the Quakers, however, the loss of Sisk, speedy McPherson forward, will cause the Bulldogs some handicap but no worry.

Wichita has three veterans in Whitelow, Casement, and Sanders on whom they bank heavily. Friends put up a fighting defense against the Bulldogs but McPherson's short quick passing attack frequently found a man standing flat-footed and a set-up resulted.

"night in June". A strong armed faculty member was serving the ball and instead of going across the net the ball connected with Professor Blair who immediately fell to the floor, flat—that is as flat as possible. It was quite a sight and the spectators had to smile a little (all those except the one that took psychology of Ed, or some educational course).

As nine-thirty rolled around the girls had to start ambling back to ward Arnold Hall. As they left the gym, there were three that decided they hadn't had enough excitement so indulged in a "little more mirth." The fair co-eds noticed a car parked by the walk that leads to the gym, and believing it to belong to the president of the Student Council, they gathered all the rocks and stones they could find and pilled them in the seat of the benevolent Ford.

GRADUATES CONTINUE WORK IN CHEMISTRY

Eight Are Now Working For Their Higher Degrees

ALL ARE CHEM. MAJORS

Are Scattered Over Nation—Some In Commercial Work

Dr. J. Willard Hershey, head of the department of chemistry of the College, has recently announced that at the present time, there are eight chemistry majors from McPherson that are continuing their chemistry work in higher institutions in advanced courses.

Abram E. Hostetter, B. S. '25, is continuing his work for his M. A. degree at the State Agricultural college at Manhattan. Roy Wampler, B. S. '20, is an industrial chemist in Toledo, Ohio, and at the same time he expects to finish his work for his Ph. D. from the University of Chicago sometime this year. Roland Warren, B. S. '28, is a chemist instructor in Michigan State college, Lansing, and he is working part time for an advance degree. Mr. Warren was an assistant in the McPherson laboratories two years.

Adelaide Glaser, A. B. '27, is working toward her advanced degree in chemistry and home economics in the University of Wisconsin, at Madison. Daniel P. Johnson, B. S. '30, is working for his Master's degree in Physics in the University of Kansas where he is assisting this year, Robert Puckett, B. S. '29, Wichita, is continuing his work for his Master's degree in chemistry at the University of Wichita. Ralph Garman, Corvallis, Oregon, B. S. '25, is finishing his chemistry for his advanced degree in the Oregon State College. One of last year's graduates, John Cottingham, is taking chemistry in the Pharmacy school in Kansas City and he is also teaching a few classes.

TO THE STUDENT BODY

A speaker can not tell that which he has to say until he has someone to listen to him. It is disappointing and discouraging to one who has prepared a lengthy speech to find that he has no one to whom he might transmit his acquired knowledge.

We, as cheerleaders, were elected by you to lead your songs and your yells for our teams. We cannot exert our best ability when a "pep" rally is scheduled and only a very small percentage of the student body appears. It is not only disappointing to us when only a few student attend "pep" rallies, but it does, we believe, show a slight disrespect to not only the team but also the Coach who is doing his utmost to mold a winning team.

We, as your cheerleaders, urge your full support at all "pep" rallies, and hope that the future may hold many "peppy" gatherings.

HERSHEY TRYING TO DETERMINE MAXIMUM TIME MAN CAN CEASE BREATHING AND YET RECOVER

Is the air we breathe the best possible gas for our lungs? Can we live on other combinations of gases other than air? (Air consists of 21 per cent oxygen, 78 per cent nitrogen and 1 per cent rare gases). These questions are being answered in a strictly accurate and scientific way by Dr. J. Willard Hershey, professor of chemistry of McPherson college. Dr. Hershey is experimenting with white mice in his private library in Harnly Hall, testing various combinations and pressures of gases on these animals.

His current experiment of reducing the atmospheric pressure, around a mouse, by means of a vacuum pump, 20 10 cm. (normal air pressure, 76 cm.) This is done at first momentarily then the reduced pressure is maintained for 20 seconds; then for 60 seconds. At an atmospheric pressure of 10 cm. the mouse ceases to breathe and when immediately

MILITARISM AGAIN?

The reaction of the German people and their former allies to the filming of "All Quiet on the Western Front" seems strange to us who had regarded the book and picture as an entirely fair treatment of the World War. Especially does it seem strange to us since the book was written by a German.

Perhaps the newspaper reports have been grossly exaggerated or distorted, or it may be that the riots are carried on by isolated factions discontented with the present state of affairs in Europe.

Should the riots, however, represent the sentiment of the bulk of the German people, the inevitable conclusion would seem to be that the Germans and their former allies are still stirred by the old idealization of military power; that they still uphold the Fatherland right or wrong; and that they are still bent on aggression at a favorable opportunity in the future.—Dally Kansan.

WHAT MEN EXPECT

A college man should reasonably expect a college girl:

1. To have moral convictions of a high order, and the courage to stand by them.
2. To be always honest, fair, and broadminded in her relations to him.
3. To wear the neatest and most attractive apparel possible, tho avoiding conspicuousness.
4. To be distinctly feminine in appearance and actions.
5. To be both intelligent and interesting in conversation.
6. To have at least an interest in such finer things as music and art.
7. To know and observe the proper rules of etiquette.
8. To be in sympathy with his problems, his ideals, and his plans.
9. To take care in the selection of intimate friends among both women and men.
10. To employ the principles of Christianity in her own life and her dealings with others.

WHAT SHE EXPECTS

A college girl has a right to expect a college boy:

1. To be clean and neat, tho not expensively dressed.
2. To be able to carry on intelligent conversations about something besides "shop."
3. To be a good sport when the joke is on him.
4. To be manly without being tough.
5. To be interested in others besides himself.
6. To admit and act according to the theory that girls are the equals of boys.
7. To be thoughtful and courteous in treatment to both girls and boys.
8. To cultivate the casual friendship of a large number of girls as well as boys.
9. To overcome conceit, be it conscious or unconscious.
10. To learn and adopt the best forms of table etiquette.
11. To be always and unquestionably fair and honest.
12. To have respect for and interest in the influences on the campus which promote Christian living.

THE CRIMINAL—IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN

A great, if not the greatest, detriment to modern society is the criminal. He lives as a parasite at the expense of others in both finance and life, the greatest being life.

Society deals with the criminal in a seemingly severe manner to "deal out justice" to both the offended and the offender. Under present conditions and modern law a man may be sentenced for the highest crime in some states while in others he may be given the greatest penalty—that of death. As a social moral society demands that an offender of a social or civil law might be punished to the "fullest extent of the law" of the land.

During an administration of one of the political parties in recent years the governor acquired the habit of freeing prisoners in a wholesale manner. Some of the greatest criminals were set free during this governor's regime that are again prowling within the shadows of society's coffers. A few of the prisoners were murderers, the greatest criminals. A later administration was faced with the problem of recollecting these men whose wounds on society had never healed since their first offense.

Death—the supreme penalty, is a definite and absolute manner of freeing society of its desperate criminals. It is a right of every individual to live, but when he becomes poison to the social order and under present conditions a prison sentence is merely a "piece of paper." Crimes occur, the criminal is caught, he is sentenced to life imprisonment, and after a few years of confinement he is set free by the governor or his lawyer, or by that great and misused means—parole.

Prison life is not evangelistic nor is it a means of education for undisciplined criminals. In a recent survey of a state prison in a neighboring state the results indicated that the prison was a "school for crime." Such schools are dotting the nation along with the colleges and universities. Both institutions are attempting to dispense knowledge or cure one of weakerills or moral habits. Each institution has its graduating class and both classes are mingled together. The one class lives off the other class while the other class lives with the lower class. In other words the criminal is back in circulation again, a no better man than before he was sent to the prison cell—but a better criminal.

That "how were your exams" fellow will be around next week. Swat him.

One instance when the phrase "The calm before the storm" will not hold true will be next week. Examinations and then a one day holiday. Maybe the holiday won't be the calm?

"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." We hope all professors bear this in mind next week.

SPECULATIONS OF A SPECULATOR

W "Spec" someone has soured on the world when they wrote this, but here's what someone said about men:

"Men are what women marry. They have two hands, two feet, and sometimes two wives, but never more than one idea and one collar at a time.

"Making a husband out of a man is the highest plastic art known to civilization. It requires science, sculpture, common sense, faith, hope, and charity—especially charity.

"If you believe everything he tells you he thinks you are a fool, and if you don't he thinks you are a cynic. "If you wear gay colors, rouge, and a startling hat, he hesitates to take you out, and if you wear a little brown suit, he takes you out and stares at a girl in gay colors, rouge and a startling hat.

"If you are a clinging vine type, he doubts whether you have a brain and if you are a modern, advanced and independent woman, he doubts whether you have a heart.

"If you are silly, he longs for a bright mate, and if you are brilliant, he longs for a playmate.

"If you are popular with other men, he is jealous, if you are not he is afraid to marry a wallflower.

"Gosh darn men—anyhow."

—from Collins Correspondent.
If this makes you mad, wait until next week for what someone thinks about women.

When we saw the biscuits this morning, we were convinced more than ever that the rising bell did not ring.

Some of this long moss we hear about came form the southland to stay in Arnold Hall and caused some comment.

Velma asked, "Is that the kind of moss that grows on people?"

Ruth, laughing, "Why, of course not. What gave you that idea?"

Velma, "Well, we hear a lot about moss-backed people. Don't we?"

DISTRICT JUDGE TELLS OF TRIAL PROCEDURE

Sommers Speaks In Chapel On A Murder Case In Kansas

Fri., Jan. 9—Judge J. G. Sommers of the 9th District of Kansas, stated in chapel this morning that only 10 to 15 per cent of the cases he handled were criminal cases, in the reviewing to the student body the procedure in a murder trial in Kansas. "A man is arrested," stated Judge Sommers. "Given a preliminary hearing before the justice of the peace, and if enough evidence is produced he is bound over to the district court for trial. Ordinarily bail is fixed, of course at such a price that the accused will appear for trial. Papers are filed in district court. These papers are quite detailed and based on the Common Law of England.

"All facts in the papers presented must be proved. The case is set for trial some time later and during that time the jury is selected from the list that has been sent in by township trustees and city clerks. The jury assembles a few days before the trial to settle a few preliminary affairs.

"The lawyers begin to forget law and use mob psychology, reduced to twelve. If the accused is a young person, the lawyers will want a young jury." Judge Sommers stated that he is in favor of the jury system but said that it is the best form we have at the present time.

"The county attorney presents his case to the jury, then the defendant will give his case. The evidence is put on in chronological order. The witnesses are sworn in, if no objection is made, and introduced to the jury. Lawyers may cross examine witnesses. The usual defense is an alibi.

"The court instructs the jury as to the law of the case. The defense plea is sympathy often after which the jury goes out to deliberate over the case. On the whole the jury is right in its verdict; however the court has the last word and need not abide by its decision."

HOT SHOTS from the Days' Weekly NEWS

There is a notice on the bulletin board in the "Ad" building inquiring for a "girl who wants to work for her board and room." We thought that Judge Ben S. Lindsay was the only one that believes in companionate marriage but from the looks of things in this notice some one around the Hill is looking for a wife—we imagine this would be one nice way for some nice young girl to get free board and room.

How are you going to tell if a man is enjoying himself or just yelling?

"Wild Bill" Murrey, the new governor of Oklahoma, predicts six more months of the worst conditions the nation has ever experienced. We thought it was only a little over a week until examinations.

A Democrat-socialist member of the Junior class, it is rumored, has suggested that instead of the Juniors giving a banquet to the Seniors that they give them a wleener roast and then give the balance of the money that would have gone for the banquet to charity. Now what would the poor Seniors do for favors to remember their Junior-Senior formal in the spring? We might suggest that the casings of the weiners would make swell favors and would be fitting for a weiner roast.

BUSINESS WOMEN MAKE THE BEST WIVES BECAUSE IN BUSINESS THEY LEARN THE VALUE OF THE DOLLAR

Women Are Not Deserting The Home For Professions—Today She Says, "Shall I Go Into Profession Of Home Making Or Into A Business Profession?"

By EDNA HOOVER

Women of today are going into business. This is not new, for there have been business women for years. The number of women in business has not greatly increased in the last twenty years, but the lines of work which women enter have become much more varied. Today we find women who are bankers, insurance agents, manufacturers, publishers, authors, saleswomen, interior decorators and physicians; also we find some lawyers, aviators, policewomen and farmers. It would seem that man performs no labor which some woman has at some time not performed or aspired to perform, in her attempt to be his equal.

College women prove to be the most successful in the business and professional world. Marguerite Mooers Marshall gives three reasons for this. Her first asset is her physical fitness and her knowledge of how to maintain it. Another very decided asset is her trained mind and executive ability. Pose is a third asset which aids a business woman. She can meet people and be at ease with them.

In former years a girl asked, "Shall I have a house or a career?" and she received answers in favor of each. Today she asks, "Shall I go into the profession of home making or into a business profession?" and the answer is, both, "if you wish." Is a woman deserting the home? She certainly is not. She is maintaining a modern, well regulated home and at the same time has a business profession.

Elsa S. Conners says, "For years we have tried to make all women housekeepers, to make them all enjoy exactly the same line of work, to make them all conform to the same mold." It is no more likely that all women should enjoy keeping house than it is that all men should enjoy farming. If a woman gets more pleasure out of teaching school and hiring some one to care for her house, no doubt that would be the thing to do. She of course would be the manager, but someone else would carry out her plans.

"We have learned that marriage does not change the color of our eyes, or the shape of our noses, or alter our dispositions, or kill our bad tempers. Then why should we expect it to change at once, all of a woman's natural talents, abilities and inclinations, whatever they may be?" If a woman has a desire to "keep house" along with her home making, that is the place for her, but all women do not have that desire.

Do business and professional women make good wives? Will Irwin answers, "Decidedly yes! Women who have outside interests are more intelligent companions to their husbands, and are more sympathetic and understanding. No longer need we go outside our homes for advice; we can confide in our wives. No longer are we treated to a stiff dose of petty gossip, retailed from neighbor to neighbor. Outside work has provided the proper perspective to women; they think clearly and do not exaggerate the importance of domestic trifles."

The home is likely to be more harmonious as both are tired and will prefer to stay at home instead of "stepping out." The woman manages her home more efficiently. "The same system and economy which she must use downtown prevades her household activities. A business woman appreciates the value of a dollar." The same efficiency which directs the supervision of the home, functions in the training of the children, according to Mr. Irwin. "Surely the mother whose knowledge of the world is based on actual experience, is a better spiritual and intellectual guide for her children than the sheltered woman whose ideas are based on books and theories, the old-fashioned type of mother."

OFFER NEW COURSES IN MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Sufficient Demand Must Warrant Course Says Brown

Mon., Jan. 12—Miss Jessie Brown, head of the music department of the College, announced this morning that a number of new courses would be given during the second semester. However, these courses will not be offered if there is not a sufficient demand for them.

A two hour course in Conducting under Miss Margaret Shelley and a course in appreciation of music under Miss Fern Lingenfelter will be offered. The course on appreciation is open to all music and college students and is good for two hours credit work. Piano methods under Miss Brown is required for all candidates for teachers certificates or diplomas in piano and it is open to intermediate or advanced music students. This course is a two hour course.

Mrs. Anna C. Tate, instructor in voice, will give a class lessons in voice and the book of Frantz Proschowski, "The Way to Sing Record Course," will be used. This method is used in the schools of Kansas City and the voice studios of the University of Kansas as well as many other schools and private teachers. Mrs. Tate studied with Proschowski last summer.

Tuition will be one half the price of private lessons, or $12.50 the semester.

The largest room in the world is the Room for Improvement.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS GIVE VOCATIONAL PLAY

Boone Gives Vocational Guidance Address In Church

Sun., Jan. 11—A program on vocational guidance was given this evening in the College Brethren church by members of the high school Christian Endeavor, under the direction of Professor G. N. Boone.

After a fifteen minute talk by Professor Boone the selection of a proper life work for young people, members of the department gave a playlet concerning the problems of vocational selections.

The first scene of the play a number of young people told of their choices, made under the guidance of parents, church, and school. Following this was a series of impressive tableau scenes showing the success or failure of each in the work which he had chosen. Leading parts were taken by Chester Caldwell, DeVona Caldwell, Harold Johnson, and Lucille Bowers.

WRONG TIME TO STOP SCHOOL MOHLER SAYS

Would Pay Students To Borrow Money At 15 Per Cent Interest

Tues., Jan. 13—"Nineteen hundred, thirty-one is the wrong time to lay down on the job," says Dean R. E. Mohler. "It is time to build up a reserve, and a personality."

Because of the financial, business, and general depression, unemployment, and non-marketable products prevailing throughout the past year expenses or the price paid for the first semester of school just ending has been very low. In dollars the cost is equal to the actual campus expense plus the loss in income that would have been derived had one not attended college, but worked instead. But the work would probably have been a missing quantity to many of the students.

Dean Mohler, in speaking upon the outlook for 1931 to the Y. M. C. A. this morning, said that it would be advisable for any young man to borrow money with a rate of interest as high as fifteen percent is such an act would insure his continuing his college education.

JUBILANT CO-EDS MISTAKEN IDENTITY CAUSES MIRTH

The next day the jubilant co-eds expected to hear something about the "rock and car" episode, but they were sadly disappointed for not a word was said by the thought-to-be owner of the car. But three days later the co-eds heard that the rocks had been put in the car belonging to the Sunday school superintendent and not in the Ford of the president of the Student Council.

FRESHIE HITCH HIKERS HIKE TO WICHITA GAME?

Long may the hitch of the hitch-hikers hitch but may all good motorists with a good Sarmatin complex beware of the highway trodders. The tale goes, as all good tales of hitch-hikers; that two freshmen, desirous of following their team to Wichita for the Friends basketball game started on the southern sojourn the original way—on foot.

Their episode was ended long before they were hardly out of the shadows of McPherson's towering skyline. They were tired and neither one wished to suggest an about-face to their alma mater and it was not until they had reached the forest of derricks in the Voshel pool nine miles south of the Mack city that they turned their backs on Wichita, and the Friends game.

Nine miles they had walked without even a hint of a lift. For nine miles they had wondered if they were going to have the honor of cheering their team to victory. For nine miles they had nursed a sore feeling of the return trip to their fair city.

They finally turned back. One can imagine their chagrin when they had gone but one hundred yards on the return trip when a kind-hearted motorist suggested they return to McPherson with him. Did they heed his suggestion? And how.

We have appreciated the patronage the students have given us in the past year and wish you a happy and prosperous New Year. The Hawley Barber and Beauty Shop, Phone 499, Viola Crippin, Operator.—adv.

BETHEL 29, McPHERSON 18

Jamison High Point Man For McPherson With Seven Points

Newton, Kan., Jan. 13—Bethel college defeated the McPherson college Bulldog cagers here tonight in a fast and one sided game with a score of 29 to 18.

The Bulldogs dropped this non conference game with Jamison as high point man with a total of seven points. Only five field goals were tallied by the visiting team. The McPherson quintet was unable to release their passing attack that has won for them a number of games so far this season and lacked the customary teamwork that has been in evidence in previous games.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

A dorm student went to the kitchen, after our taffy pull the other night, to ask Mrs. Brunk for a favor. "Can you fix me up a dose of castor oil, so you can't taste it?" "Why, yes," Mrs. Brunk busies herself to do so and while fixing it, said, "Would you like to drink some of this apricot juice while you wait?" "Sure." He drinks it with relish. "Now, was there anything else you needed?" "No, just the oil." "But you've just drunk the oil." "Heavens, it was for my roommate, not for me."

STUDENT IS INJURED BY EXPLODING BOILER

Miss McWilliams was preparing a buffet luncheon when the boiler suddenly exploded, the reason being unexplained, throwing the steam onto her face and neck. Medical aid was immediately rendered and Miss McWilliams' condition is not considered to be serious, however, she is being confined to her room, suffering a great deal from the shock.

CAU, CHINESE, TOPIC

Hoover Tells Of Estes Conference Personality

Tues., Jan. 13—The great personality of T. Z. Cau, the great Chinese leader, was brought forcibly to the girls in Y. W. C. A. Edna Hoover had seen him at the Estes Conference a year ago and she was impressed by the way in which he himself was able to overcome race prejudices. He was by far the outstanding personality in the conference, Miss Hoover stated.

— DRIPPINGS — from THE DOPE BUCKET

Kansas Wesleyan upset the dope bucket last week by defeating Ottawa who has been slated as a contender for Conference honors this year. Last year Kepner, Ottawa, was one of the three high scorers among Conference players but in the Wesleyan game he accounted for only 6 points, two of them being charity shots. The Coyotes found a way to stop Kepner's scoring by having him heavily guarded all the time which the reason for every man that played on the Ottawa to score four points each, with Binns getting 11 points. Baker was unable to find a way to stop Larson, Bethany's elongated center form Kansas City, from scoring his usually high average, tallying 15 points. Poston seems to be scoring well for Baker for in the Sweden game he chalked up 12 points. With 10 men playing during the Baker game only four fouls were made on the Bethany team while Baker with 13 men playing totaled 14 fouls, indicating that Baker made an attempt to stop the Swedes scoring by over guarding. Larson, Bethany, made but one foul during the Baker game. We are anxious to see Rump of Bethany, and Rump of McPherson, play in the same game. The two are brothers and we are wondering if there will be any "brotherly-love."

Making his only score in the St. Mary's game since the first game of the season in which he was high point man, Rump, McPherson, came out of his dull period of three games to not only score but also to play a good game of floorwork and passing. Hill was sent out of the game because of four personal fouls and Hill states that this is the second time he has ever gone out of a game on fouls. Last Saturday night Bethany played the Kansas City Athletic Club and were taken for a trimming by nearly a double score. Ottawa has defeated the K. C. A. C. and Kansas Wesleyan has defeated Ottawa. What does dope mean any way? Klenck, St. Mary's, did not play with his team the other night. He is still out of the game because of injuries sustained during the football season. Klenck will be a great addition to the Irish team and St. Mary's is going to show a great deal of improvement before the season is ended.
