McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPHERSON, KANSAS, TUESDAY, MAY 19, 1931

NUMBER 35

"WORK" IS THE THEME OF HARRY ZINN'S 1931 McPHERSON COLLEGE QUADRANGLE

Representative Section Is Outstanding Difference From Books
Of Other Years—Section Includes Eight
Pages—Out Next Monday

ISSUED AFTER CHAPEL

Will Contain 128 Pages—To Enter
American Critical Contest—
G. N. Boone, Adv'or

Editor Harry Zinn has promised that the 1931 Quadrangle will be ready for distribution following the chapel period Monday, May 25. The yearbooks are now in the hands of the binders.

The dedication of the book, not yet disclosed, will be announced during the chapel period next Monday. "Work" is the theme followed throughout the book. The staff have emphasized the necessity and importance of physical labor, especially that which is required in the process of getting a college education. An unusual cover design has been selected in keeping with this theme. A three-color scheme is followed, and the building section, representative section, and snapshot section are all printed in purple ink.

The outstanding difference between this book and those of years past will be the representative division, which replaces the usual beauty section. This department, including eight pages, is intended to base recognition on merit rather than on mere personal appearance, the editor stated. It will contain, besides pictures of the two representatives chosen by each class last fall, picture of ten additional students and faculty members whose achievements have been unusual during the past year.

The yearbook will be the usual size, containing 128 pages.

Members of the Quadrangle staff who have done a great deal of work to make the book possible are: Harry Zinn, editor; Eber Fice, business manager; Vernon Flaming, Carroll Walker, Lloyd Larsen, Percy Jamison, Dave Schalkford, Ethel Sherfy, Christine Mehler, Alberta Yoder, and Prof. G. N. Boone, advisor.

It is the intention to enter the 1931 Quadrangle in the All-American Yearbook Critical Contest, sponsored by the National Scholastic Press association. The 1930 yearbook won a first class honor rating in its division, scoring 900 points out of a possible 1000.

Miss Della Lehman, head of the expression department of the College, is playing the leading part, that of Widow Cagle. The production is under the personal direction of Mrs. Lawrence Gates of this city. Last year Mrs. Gates was connected with the College as head of the expression department.

Mrs. Cagle, a widow in the mountains of North Carolina, has a son who decides to enter the war. The widow protects a stranger who she learns is the son of her mortal enemy, deserted from the army.

She plans his punishment, but finally realized that the basis of want is unreasoning hate, and she would like carrying the principle further in killing an innocent man, so she gives him her protection instead.

CONVENTION HALL MAY 26

May Secure Tickets From Members
Of The Mixed Chorus

A chorus of 50 voices, a ten piece orchestra, and a cast of 15 leading characters, will cooperate in putting on "The Lucky Jade," a modern light opera to be given May 26, in Convention Hall.

The following are the leading roles in the cast:
Mary Ann Courtney, a daughter of the Sunny South—Nada Mao Riz.
John Endicott, a bashful aviator—Charles Anstett.
Mr. Courtney, a sheltered husband—Clarence Brown.
Mrs. Courtney, a careful wife—Ellen Steinberg.

Horace Ferguson, "He never misses"—Vernon Rhoades.
Colonel Waverly, uncle and guardian of John—Lawrence Lehman.
Downs, pensioner on the estate—Orville Voran.

Liza, Mary Ann's colored maid—Eugenia Dawson.
Fanchon, her French maid—Ruth Turner.

Sheriff, a man of authority—Everett Fasnacht.

Nancy and Jeanne, friends of Mary Ann—Helen Eberly and Opal Bowers.
Herbert, Bill, and Ted, just home from college—Harvey Shank, Norris Nelson, Roy Dies.

Mr. Courtney and his daughter, returning from New York, bring along a guest, Horace Ferguson. He comes ostensibly to do some hunting, having a reputation as a great marksman, but really to acquire the valuable jade ear of a voo-doo idol which is in the possession of Liza, Mary Ann's colored maid. During a party given in Mary Ann's honor the jade ear disappears, and not resting easily in strange hands it brings a number of misfortunes upon the house.

John, the boyhood sweetheart of Mary Ann, believing Horace guilty of the theft challenges him to a duel, but the Sheriff appears in time to prevent it. The difficulties are then resolved in such a way that John wins Mary Ann and also comes in for a bit of additional good fortune.

This opera is becoming well known throughout the United States. Last Sunday night it was broadcasted from radio station WGN, Chicago, with well-known artists carrying the loads.

Tickets for the opera may be obtained from members of the mixed chorus. A general admission price of thirty-five cents will be charged, while the center section of the auditorium will be reserved at fifty cents a seat. These tickets may be reserved at the Hixby and Lindsay drug store on Monday and Tuesday, May 25 and 26.

PROF. BOONE GIVES HIS LAST CHAPEL ADDRESS

Was Graduated From M.C. Ten Years Ago—Taught
Eight Years

Mon., May 18.—Prof. G. N. Boone, head of the Industrial Arts department of the College, gave his last chapel speech this morning, before going to California to complete his work for a doctor's degree.

Ten years ago, Professor Boone was graduated from the College. He has taught here for the last eight years. If his present plans work out he will attend Leland Stanford next winter, if not he will go to the University of Southern California where he has previously taken work.

He said that it is hard to go and that he and Mrs. Boone called it a great "adventure." The thought he would leave to the students of the College is this: "Don't worry and fret about the future. Do now what you know is right. Start the work in this life you wish to carry on in eternity. When considering a certain line of action, think of the result if every one did the same thing."

Henry Clay was elected speaker of the federal house of representatives the first day he was a member.

GRADES: Spoon comes the nemesis of college students—grades. Like the measles, everybody has to have them, but no two people have them alike.

For some they mean little—lucky ones!—but to others they mean everything, graduation, a job, approval of the folks at home, and all the rest of it.

The idea of the system—it is really flattery to call it that—is to have the students as a whole graded and put into convenient pigeon holes depending on the merits of their work.

One instructor says that A means perfect work, that no human being can be perfect, and it logically follows that there are no A's. Under such an instructor, some of the B's are really A's according to the standards of others.

There is a range of variables in between, and the unlucky students suffers under the stricter ones, and loafs under the lenient ones. As it is, a grade doesn't mean much until it is accompanied by the name of the instructor who gave it, so that it may be translated into terms of evaluation.

A SENIOR PRELUDE

Each year as graduation time approaches, the feeling becomes current—What will we do next year without the seniors? This year there is as much justification as ever for the feeling. The class has made a large contribution in the campus organizations, in scholastic and athletic achievements, and in influencing campus conduct and attitude.

The professor was attempting to make himself heard above the roar of the lawn mower, but soon decided to try something else.

"I hardly want to run competition with that thing all hour. Let's see, 'Jack,' will you see what you can do about it? We'll see how good a de-hater you are."

"Jack" left the room but the noise kept on and the voices continued until the negative lost to the affirmative. "Jack" returned a hero and Forney moved on to other fields to conquer.

Eastern Dean Warns Wealthy Girls Graduating From College
—Barnard College Dean Raps "Silly" Rich Who Become

About Coming Out "Intellectually Lifeless"

Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard college, and one of the foremost women educators in the country, says that girls graduating from college in this year of depression should not seek jobs unless they are forced to earn their living.

"If the girl graduating this June has a family that can possibly support her for a while longer, or a kind aunt to help her, or a little money in the bank, then she should not try to get a position in times like these," Dean Gildersleeve declares.

Instead of attempting to compete for jobs that are none too numerous, the graduate should get technical or professional training that will enable her in the long run to do high grade work, the dean says. She is especially opposed to the entrance of wealthy college graduates into such activities as ordinary office work.

"A few years ago," she says, "a silly custom grew up among girls of the rich set, of studying stenography and taking posts as clerks in offices, even though they had no special taste for the jobs. At the present moment this would be even more foolish for such affluent workers."

A college girl in dire straits, she declares, should take up an honest work if she can "in order to keep off the breadline." "No kind of honest work, well done, will ever disgrace anyone," she avers, "even though it be dish washing and the girl's ambition is to sing in grand opera."

Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, chairman of the Experimental college of the University of Wisconsin and former president of Amherst, declares that if the young men who are graduated this June emerge "intellectually lifeless" they might have "spent the years in digging ditches than in going to college." Says he to the college graduate:

"What have you been doing with your mind? Is that mind an eager, living, venturing energy going forth on its own initiative? Or have you come to deal with your mind as a sort of bucket to be filled by the inert results of other men's thinking?"

ESTES PARK CONFERENCE AN OUTSTANDING EVENT

Many Well Known Speakers To Be Present For Ten Day Session

Students from seven states in the Rocky Mountain area will meet at Estes Park, Colorado, for a conference on social, economic, and religious problems for 10 days, beginning June 8.

The program for this conference, which annually attracts approximately 400 students, will provide discussion on the most perplexing and interesting problems of American life. International cooperation and understanding, national political entanglements, prohibition, the interpretation of the world brought to us by modern physical science and psychology, and some of the aspects of our economic system will receive considerable attention. For these discussions and addresses men and women of wide experience and fame will be brought to the student conference.

In addition to the consideration of specified situations and problems of a very practical nature, it is planned to carry thru the entire conference a series of addresses dealing primarily with the meaning of religion in the world today. This will involve open discussion on the sources of religion, the significance of Jesus, the place of the organized church in modern society, and the current trends in religious thinking.

Among the leaders secured at the present time are Kirby Page, editor of the World Tomorrow; Goodwin Watson, professor of psychology at Columbia university; Margaret Quayle, also of the department of psychology at Columbia; Marion Cuthbert, dean of women at Talladega college in Florida; W. O. Mendenhall, president of Friends university; and James T. Carlyon, III, of school of Theology, Denver.

The Estes park student conference is sponsored by the student Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. organizations in this region. The conference is open to all students. Practically every association is planning to send a delegation. Information concerning future plans of the conference may be secured thru the local office.

NEW BOOKS IN LIBRARY

Three new volumes and several pamphlets have been added to the library recently. Two of the books are gifts of Prof R. E. Mohler. They are "Outlines of Agricultural Economics," by Taylor, and "Principles of Soil Technology" by Emerson. The other new volume is a physics reference book, "Spectra," by Johnson. A series of four pamphlets on "Honor to George Washington," edited by Dr. A. B. Hart, have recently been sent to the library by the George Washington Bi-centennial Commission. The pamphlets are to further the study and understanding of this great national figure who was born 200 years ago next February 22.

NIGHT AND A FAST TRACK!!

A TRACK man will tell you that records are broken when the track is fast. Think of this setting—a cool evening, the stands overflowing, the whole spectacle brilliantly lighted with G-E floodlights, and a fast track—a record simply couldn't stand the "gaff."

Nighttime, when people naturally turn to diversion, is the logical time for a track meet. Lack of support will be a thing of the past. And just watch the athletic fund grow.

G-E floodlighting projectors, largely the development of college-trained men, are easily adapted to any occasion whether football, track, tennis, commencement, receptions, or plays. Efficient G-E illumination promotes athletics and builds school spirit.

HORSESHOE PITS IN

The installation of the horseshoe pitching pits have been completed at the extreme southeast corner of the campus. Wooden frames have been sunk into the ground and then filled with sand. The installation of the pits was promoted by a few students in the dormitory.

— DRIPPINGS — from THE DOPE BUCKET

With no more intercollegiate sports left for this school year, college students are to content themselves with campus horseshoe and tennis. Some may even keep the standings of the national baseball teams in mind as a diversion. For recreation some are even going to study, or complete "that theme." For mental relief some, both male and female, are thinking of home, their sweethearts, etc., etc., etc.

The sports situation at McPherson college for next year gives promise of being both interesting and unique. Coach Melvin J. Binford is endeavoring to develop and institute an athletic program that will meet the needs of every man on the campus. He is instituting the plan of having each student participating in some form of athletics, under a very systematic manner. Coach Binford feels that such a system as this will be of greater benefit to the College as a whole than by centering his efforts upon a group of athletes in one definite sport.

ST. MARY'S ATHLETES GRANTED NEW RIGHTS

Salina, Kan., May 15—Athletes at St. Mary's college who attend other Kansas conference colleges next year will be eligible for varsity competition immediately under a special ruling the Conference adopted today.

Officials decided that, because St. Mary's ceases operations as a college in June, the one-year migratory rule by which athletes transferring to other schools must wait a year before beginning competition will be waived for students from St. Mary's.
