COSMOS CLUB PRESENTS REDECORATED Y. W. ROOM

Friends of Organization Entertain in Social Hour Yesterday

As a courtesy to the visiting women and members of the Y. W. C. A., the Cosmos Club entertained with a tea Wednesday afternoon Feb. 21, 1934. A special feature of the program was the presentation of the redecorated Y. W. C. A. room to the group present.

Mrs. M. J. Binford, president of the club, introduced Miss Edith McGaffey who told of the origin of the room. Miss McGaffey also thanked those who had contributed articles and help in redecorating the room.

During the social hour tea was served from a long, beautifully decorated table by Mrs. F. A. Vanman and Mrs. J. J. Wall. A ladies trio composed of Gulah Hoover, Mildred Gordon and Lois Edwards accompanied by Bernice Dresher sang a group of two numbers, "Londonderry Air" and "The Weaver." In the first number Professor Alvin C. Voran sang a solo part.

Three wicker sets and a wall hanging were given to the Y. W. C. A. room by Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Heaston. The furniture was painted and upholstered by the industrial arts classes. Santa Claus sent the material for the drapes. Curtains were given by the Cosmos Club, and members of the club made these and the drapes. The walls and ceiling of the room are to be painted and the money for this work was given by the Y. W. C. A.

ANNUAL TRUSTEE DINNER GIVEN MONDAY AT CHURCH

As a means of acquainting faculty members and their families with the trustees who are here for the Regional Conference, a dinner was given at the College church on Monday evening, at 5:30. Professor Voran officiating as toastmaster. This get-together has become an annual part of the spring trustee session.

Following the dinner, Dr. Schwalm introduced all those present, after which Miss Edith McGaffey gave the address of welcome. The response on behalf of the visitors was made by Ray E. Zook, a trustee from Elkhart, Iowa.

Although Dr. D. W. Kurtz, one of the main guest speakers of the Conference, and a guest at the dinner, was asked to give a toast, he declined because of his unwillingness to delay the evening's lecture in which he was scheduled to take part.

CHEMISTRY CLUB TO SHOW SLIDES ON PURE FOOD LAW

Does it make any difference to you whether or not the foods you eat are adulterated, or the medicines you take are falsely labeled? Of course it does! And you are interested in knowing facts about just such evils as these.

For your benefit, the Chemistry Club, at its next meeting, Tuesday, February 27, is showing a series of slides about misbranding and adulterating of drugs and foods. Everyone who is interested in pure food laws will enjoy this demonstration, and everyone is invited.

Every one can remember that which has interested himself—Plautus.

GEORGE WASHINGTON (1732-1799) FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

I hope I shall always possess firmness and virtue enough to maintain what I consider the most enviable of all titles, the character of an "honest man."

When Washington's secretary excused himself for the lateness of his attendance and laid the blame upon his watch, his master quietly said, "Then you must get another watch, or I another secretary." It will generally be found that the men who are thus habitually behind time are habitually behind success; and the world casts them aside to swell the ranks of the grumblers and the railers against fortune.

"Washington stands among the greatest men of human history, and those in the same rank with him are very few. Whether measured by what he did, or what he was, or by the effect of his work upon the history of mankind, in every respect he is entitled to the place he holds among the greatest of his race.

"Few men in all time have such a record of achievement. Still fewer can show, at the end of a career so crowded with high deeds and memorable victories, a life so free from spot, a character so unselfish and so pure, a fame so void of doubtful points demanding either defense or explanation. Eulogy of such a life is needless, but it is always important to recall and freshly to remember just what manner of man he was."

STUDENTS AND TEACHERS ELIGIBLE FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

The Drama League Travel Bureau, a non-commercial organization, has at its disposal scholarships covering full tuition for the six weeks summer session at the Central School of Speech and Drama, affiliated with the University of London. These scholarships are primarily intended for students interested in literary and drama study, but are also given for the more important purpose of promoting international understanding. We are very eager that the donors of these scholarships shall not be disappointed in the response to the unusual opportunity offered American students.

Students of the theater and teachers of drama and its allied arts are eligible to come before the committee on awards, and application blanks may be obtained from the League's headquarters in the Hotel Barizon-Plaza, New York. We welcome all letters of inquiry concerning the granting of scholarships.

KURTZ DISCUSSES PROBLEMS EXISTANT IN MACHINE AGE

Dr. D. W. Kurtz in his speech in chapel, Monday, spoke of the coming of the machine age, the problems that have grown out of it, and the influence the church may have on this new era and its problems.

Dr. Kurtz pointed out that this machine age first began to grow into the lives of our citizens about one hundred years ago, and that since that time this industrial revolution has grown so rapidly that near the turn of the century the great problem of overproduction forced itself into prominence.

Five of the problems and dangers of the machine age in its present state of development were enumerated. They are: the practical materialistic attitude, unemployment, the new nerve wrecking drudgery, increased danger to life, and the war machine.

The great problem of the future, says Dr. Kurtz, is that of the correct usage of the vast amount of leisure time which everyone will possess.

In closing, Dr. Kurtz pointed out that the important part the church may play in the solution of this problem is in teaching the proper utilization of this leisure time for the increased usefulness and happiness of future generations.

CONFERENCE LECTURES HAVE GOOD ATTENDANCE

Nearly Seventy-five Visitors Registered This Week At College

LARGE STUDENT ATTENDANCE

Kurtz and Mendenhall Lectures Create Interest and Enthusiasm

McPherson College this week is the mecca for ministers and educational leaders throughout the Central West Region of the Church of the Brethren. Approximately seventy-five out-of-town visitors had registered late yesterday. Many of the guests have come long distances. Their home states include Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Colorado and Oklahoma.

The Regional Conference got into full swing Monday after Dr. D. W. Kurtz spoke in the college church on Sunday on "The Ideals of the Church of the Brethren," and "Choosing a Hero." Dr. Kurtz is president of the Bethany Biblical School of Chicago and former head of McPherson College. Dr. Kurtz gave addresses in chapel on Monday and Tuesday. He also spoke Monday on "The Gospel of Freedom" and again last evening on "The Gospel of Suffering."

President W. O. Mendenhall, of Friends University at Wichita opened his addresses at the Conference with an address Tuesday evening. He also spoke during the regular chapel hour on Wednesday and again Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Mendenhall's speeches dealt with social and religious problems as they affect the individual.

A series of lectures delivered by Dr. Kurtz on "How I Find, Prepare, and Deliver My Sermons" has drawn considerable comment. The four lectures in the series dwell upon the problems in the title.

Four days of this week Dr. Ray C. Petry has led Bible discussions at 10:30. His Wednesday, Thursday and Friday discussions centered around the Book of Amos.

M. T. Ziegler has been holding Ministerial and District Board Conferences on every day except Monday. He also addressed the body in chapel hour this morning.

Other speakers thus far this week include C. E. Davis of Independence, Kansas, who spoke Tuesday on "Democracy and Our Thought of God," Dean F. A. Replogle on "The Clinical Opportunity of the Pastor," and Dean R. E. Mohler who spoke yesterday on "The Church, the Christianizing Force of Society."

Today Miss Ada Correll, an alumna of McPherson College, led a group discussion for children workers. M. R. Ziegler spoke in chapel and Dr. Petry led the Bible hour which was followed by the third of Dr. Kurtz's lectures in his series. This afternoon's program will be closed by "The Gospel of Victory," an address by Dr. Kurtz.

Tomorrow Dr. Kurtz and Dr. Petry will conclude their addresses, ending the conference at noon.

In addition to the speeches a series of conferences and meetings have been held throughout the week.

Music has been furnished under the direction of Miss Lois Wilcox and Prof. A. C. Vgran.

The Annual College Trustee meeting was in session throughout Monday and Tuesday.

DR. MENDENHALL SAYS MAN'S GOAL IS SELF-RECOGNITION

Dr. W. O. Mendenhall speaking in chapel yesterday stated that the goal of man has been a search for recognition.

The apparent feeling of superiority may come through wealth, social crime. This feeling of recognition position, ancestry, race and even expresses itself in war, race prejudice and dislike for the wealthy.

To rid us of this destructive attitude Dr. Mendenhall stated that each of us must consider every other person as an individual with equal rights.

Welcome

Once again McPherson College is fortunate in being privileged to play host to the Regional Conference of the College Church. The staff of The Spectator takes this opportunity to welcome the trustees of McPherson College, the alumni of this institution, and the many college friends who are met in McPherson for this event.

Perhaps the student body as a whole does not fully appreciate what a conference of this order means to them. It is rare, even in much larger schools, that an opportunity is given the student body to hear such noted speakers as Dr. D. W. Kurtz, Dr. W. O. Mendenhall, and C. E. Davis, who are now on our campus. Much of inspirational value and of practical knowledge can be gained from attending the sessions at which these men speak.

In view of these high values received from the Conference, it is certainly to our own advantage as well as that of our guests, for us to make them feel "at home."

Value In Regional Conference To Students

The Regional Conference in session this week has attracted wide comment from outsiders and from students. Student interest in the group discussions that are being held is evidenced by their large attendance.

Discussions carried on in this manner have greater value than single discussions or lectures to which college students are accustomed. In the first place a continuous discussion does not permit interest in these various subjects to lag. Throughout the entire week discussions have had a common viewpoint and theme. The different phases of the subjects are discussed with the result that a center of interest can be found by students, not possible in a single lecture.

In the second place the student is given a chance to become familiar with many different viewpoints. All these come from the outside where world conditions can be learned first hand.

A conference of this type takes the student out of his narrow circle to bring him into contact with new personalities and new viewpoints, both of which are invaluable.

Why Not An "M" Club Banquet?

The "M" club does not seem to have the prominence on the campus that former students think it had when they were in school. The club now takes part in very few things and about the only time it functions is for initiations. Such initiation as the club shows during initiation is enough proof that there are some people in the club that can do considerable thinking.

Last year the club did not hold its annual banquet as was the custom in former years and it looks as though there will be none this year. Undoubtedly one of the reasons that a banquet was not held last year was that of finances. This is in itself a good reason. Since we all saved a little last year it seems to me that some effort should be taken to try to have a banquet this year. The banquet need not be an elaborate affair but it could still be an enjoyable social gathering.

We that have been in college and are now widely separated from our college friends always look forward to the "M" club banquet as a time to meet once more and enjoy old acquaintances. And—it would give the "M" club a little publicity.

Appreciation

Sid Easterling, one of the prominent barbers of the town and a loyal Bulldog supporter has just recently donated a little of his good work to some of his college customers.

Sid, as he is known to the college men, has always been a close follower of the Bulldog athletic teams and is a booster for the school in general. He has recently invited the coaches and football lettermen to come to his shop for one free job. Haircuts, shampoos, tonics, and all the other beautifiers have been given to our Bulldog gridmen. Football men feel that this little word of appreciation should go to Sid for his splendid spirit and thank him for his recent bit of loyalty.

Is CWA For Students Only the Beginning?

The decision of President Roosevelt's Federal Emergency Relief Administration to provide part-time jobs for 100,000 needy college students can well be greeted with frenzied cheers on every campus in the country. It accomplishes two things:

First, it provides a means whereby genuinely deserving students may continue their educations, having otherwise been faced with the necessity of bucking a cruel economic situation which would have denied them the right to further training.

Second, it removes these 100,000 college students from competition with hundreds of thousands of other individuals, many of them heads of families, who desperately need jobs. In addition, of course, there is to be considered the whole conception of the president's re-employment campaign, which is designed to place more money into circulation.

Direct federal aid for college students was advocated last year by leaders such as President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago. As an experiment, the government inaugurated a student work relief plan at the University of Minnesota, and it has been so gratifying in the results shown that the plan has now been extended throughout the country.

Many predict that this is merely the first step toward a "New Deal" in higher education which they believe is inevitable. At least it indicates that we are discarding an old theory that education should be a competitive process entirely, rather than a cooperative activity on the part of all the individuals concerned.

More Emphasis On Kinds of Education

Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul—"Bob" Sproul to his intimates—during the relatively short time he has been president of the University of California has established a reputation as one of the nation's leading progressive educators.

Recently he took issue with a theory of higher education which has been at least tacitly accepted as a necessary accessory to democracy. Said he:

"There are many young people for whom a college or university training is not to be recommended; our society must be willing to grant that it is respectable for a young man or woman to refrain from a university career."

He further declared that it is a mistake to force "higher education" on those who do not want it or those who cannot profit by it. Practically everyone who has any connection with the business of training college students will agree. There is a tremendous amount of lost motion in our present system, and a general re-

Campus Chaff

Regional Conference week is usually the most "fun" week of the year. Half the classes don't meet and if they do the profe come in hurriedly and look absent-minded. Moreover, one can always take his pick of uncles, aunts, nieces, nephews, sisters, brothers, grandmothers, — and what haven't you.

One tiny conventioner who, I'm sure, hasn't seen Santa Claus more than twice, stopped me by saying "What do you do here?" "Oh, I go to school here," I replied brilliantly. "What do you do?" "Oh, I'm not going to stay!" she informed me.

Faith Ketterman tells that another diminutive Miss asked her where she lived, and when Faith returned the question, she answered, "I live at home."

The change of weather has affected hearing apparently; I walk into the chapel just after a well-attended lecture and remark, "It's stuffy in here!" "No," someone told me. "Tuffy is at the other end of the hall."

Then I went outside and asked a girl if she would like a peppermint. "Do you have any button ones?" she questioned. "Such English" I thought as I answered. "They are all bought in of course."

That chapel program about etiquette was quite elevating — and realistic. We felt so sorry for Modena when she dropped her fork when we could feel how embarrassed she must be feeling. (We've had experience too). Imagine our relief when the speaker mentioned the "faux pas" and we realized it had been intentional.

The bachelors at the "Horner Institute" are getting along famously. The latest is Wingerd's putting milk in the chill soup.

May we, then, repeat what we stated several weeks ago: "Acute as the problems of higher education may be, the solution is not less education—less training—but a better distribution of KINDS of training." It is no longer feasible to attempt to run every individual through the same educational mill.

FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN TO WIPE OUT DEFICIT

Chamber of Commerce to Stage Drive To Raise $10,000 for College

A financial campaign is underway by the McPherson Chamber of Commerce which has as its purpose the wiping out of the deficit of the college. The goal of the drive has been set at $10,000.

This action on the part of the directors followed a talk by Dr. V. F. Schwalm, president of the College, who was in attendance at the meeting to tell the vital importance of raising this money, explaining in much detail conditions at the school. It was made clear that this is not to become an annual affair, and the present need of it is the result of deficits that have been building due to recent depression years. It was pointed out that the outlook is much brighter for the future, and it is felt that if it is made possible for the college to "clean the slate" as it were, there will be no need of a repetition of such a request in the future.

Members of the board expressing themselves in the general discussion that followed Dr. Schwalm's talk and preceded the taking of a vote on a motion made that the Chamber of Commerce take charge of this important task, stated that it seemed necessary that the community assist the college in this crisis as its importance to community life was such as to make it the duty of the citizens to lend their aid in seeing that this deficit, the result of conditions over which no one at the college had control, was cared for.

Plans for the campaign will be worked out immediately and the drive launched, with members of the Chamber of Commerce members in the work college faculty assisting the Chamber that will be outlined.

Hectic But Enjoyable Life

Bill of Fare for Dorm Girls

Time is 7 in the evening of an average day. Place is Arnold Hall.

Groups loitering in the parlor and the hall begin to disband as students prepare for an evening of study. Casual parties stray by as they go to the library and finally a suggestion of quiet settles only to be broken by other students' going to a Cappella practice. Another period of silence in order, only to be interrupted by a series of telephone calls.

Several corks run in and are heard laughing and talking on the way upstairs. Suddenly a shriek is heard followed by loud laughter. Then high pitched, prolonged squeals are heard until the bell sounds to remind the lassies that study hours are to be quiet hours.

Wanderers begin coming in about 9 o'clock for the night. A hustle and a bustle can be heard over the whole building as girls rush from one place to another. Someone turns the radio on and enjoys a few strains of a theme song before she is told to go upstairs.

Later wiled groans come from the upper floors and one begins to think that someone has suddenly become ill but is soon assured by more groans and shrieks that it is only someone putting on an original opera during the process of getting ready for bed.

Girls scatter finally to their own rooms and all becomes quiet as the bell sounds on each floor warning the girls that it is long past bed time. Soon nothing can be heard but an occasional snore from a heavy sleeper.

C. E. DISCUSSES POSSIBLE FOUNDATIONS FOR LIFE

"Foundations for Life" was the subject of the college Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening. Four students gave talks on possible life foundations. Velma Keller spoke on "The Home." Kenneth Weaver discussed "Money." Joe Zuck spoke on "Habits," and Corrine Suter on "Loyalty to the Principles of Jesus." Leonard Low was the leader of the meeting. Corrine Bowers played a violin solo.

The organization will not meet during the remainder of the time that the union evangelistic meetings are being held downtown.

THE Spectator

You folks don't want to forget to say good-bye to Allen. What? You didn't know he was leaving? Well, at any rate, he stood up in chapel Wednesday when they called for visitors from Iowa to stand, so we concluded he must be leaving us.

NOTICE! All "Boy Scout" meetings will be discontinued for this week. Furthermore, all radios in the dorms must be off by 10 o'clock sharp. You know, guests and trustees are not used to college hours.

No wonder the girls use rouge and lipstick, considering the examples set for them. If you were at the women's program Tuesday night you saw Mother Emmert and Mrs. Schwalm quite well rounded up.

John Bowers, our new preacher at the dorm, has aspirations for higher things. The urge got so great when we beat C. of E. the other night that he climbed the Ad building in his bare feet and pajamas to blow the whistle. And what a shame, the stream was too low to make much noise. All that work for nothing.

Talk about high pressure people—we sure had one in the referee at the Friends game. He was so strong lunged that he blew all the inmates out of his whistle, much to the amusement of the crowd.

You know, when a boy and a girl are going together and buy their own lycium tickets, it makes a bad situation when they bust up. There's been recently been some trading around by certain parties to avoid having lycium seats together. Now you guess who.

more energetic than we gave him credit for being. He got a CWA job and was so anxious to please that he busted a shovel in his efforts.

Spring is evidently coming. There has been a great deal of carrot throwing all winter, but it looks baseball when apples start flying around. A stray apple lit in the milk pitcher at table No. 5 one evening last week, and caused quite a commotion.

What's this? Something about a new couple? Oh yes! We do remember seeing Paul Heckman with Margaret Messmer the other day—and they say he had her over for supper the other night.

Did you see a certain tall member of our basketball team asleep in chapel Wednesday morning? He nearly fell out of his seat, he was so sound asleep. We wonder what he was doing the night before the morning after?

We wonder just what were the motivating urges which were responsible for Blat's reaction when Thatch was taken out of the C. of E. game?

Arthur Ehlers, freshman at Iowa State University, was dead this week as the result of injuries received during football practice.

It's the same old dirty business. We have made bar women out of the girlhood of America—Billy Sunday.

LATE BULLETINS

Washington, (CNS)—Colleges and universities required by law to charge tuition will be allowed to take part in the government's new work relief plan for needy students, Civil Works Administration officials announced this week. This is a modification of a previous order, which required all institutions to waive tuition and fees for students who receive federal aid.

Ann Arbor, Mich. (CNS)—Dr. Hans von Hattlingberg, psychologist of Berlin University, has been invited by the University of Michigan to conduct a series of lectures here as guest professor. It was announced this week. He is the first psycho-therapist to be officially permitted by the Nazi regime to visit a foreign university.

Getting Acquainted With Your Campus

Of all the buildings on McPherson College Campus, none carries with it the air of venerable old age and romance which is found in Fahnestock Hall. The spirit of those who have come, made their mark, and gone still lingers in its corridors and rooms. Its dinky closets and antiquated cornices lend an atmosphere of times gone by that is difficult to erase.

Fahnestock Hall is located on the southeast corner of the campus. It is the oldest of the seven buildings which now form the college, having been erected in 1888, at a cost of $25,000. It has three stories and a basement, and occupies a space of 100x40 feet. There are approximately 50 rooms in the three floors, which form the homes of the men living on the campus. Mr. and Mrs. Voran are in charge of the building, and have come to be known as "Mom" and "Pop" to the students.

In the basement of the building is now found the Industrial Arts department under the charge of Prof. S. M. Dell.

Fahnestock Hall has not always been the simple dormitory which it is now. When school was first opened on Sept. 5, 1888, it housed the dormitories for both boys and girls, the dining hall and kitchen, the recitation rooms, the chapel, the offices; in fact, it formed the whole school for three years. Various departments were moved out as new buildings were built, and now the building is reserved entirely for the private sanctum of the men.

In the old day conditions, of course were much different from now. The basement held, the commercial department, the dining hall and the kitchen, the first floor contained the chapel, offices, and class rooms; the girls lived in the north end of the second floor and the boys were in the south end of second and all of third. There were no electric lights and water from a well on the northeast corner of the campus was pumped into a large copper tank in the attic for a water supply. Each room had its own individual stove. At this time there were a half dozen professors living in the dorm, among whom were Prof. and Mrs. Fahnestock. The building was named in honor of Professor Fahnestock for his valuable service in the early years of the school.

The building is not as staunch as it once was. A close examination discovers a number of missing bricks and shingles, spots of fallen plaster, and a general air of decadence. Despite its disadvantages and deficiencies, the men who have spent their years of college life in it will always cherish fond memories of their former home on the campus of good old M. C.

BULLDOGS WIN OVER PRESBYTERIANS, 35-34

Rally After Half to Overcome Handicap; Game Ties M. C. For Lead

The Bulldog basketball team went into a tie for the lead in the Kansas Conference with College of Emporia by defeating the Presbyterians 35-34 here last Friday night. An extremely large crowd saw the game which was acclaimed the best college game seen on the local court for years.

College of Emporia jumped into the lead with a basket following the opening tip-off. The Bulldogs stayed close to the Emporians during the early minutes of the game but during the latter part of the first half College of Emporia scored consistently to draw away from the Binford men. C. of E. was experiencing an extremely warm "spell" with long and medium length shots ripping the cords of the basket. On the other hand the Bulldogs seemed unable to penetrate the defense presented by the Emporia five and at the half the Bulldogs were on the short end of a 25-13 score.

Following Coach Melvin J. Binford's intermission talk the McPherson quintet looked like a different team. The Bulldogs scored 16 points while C. of E. failed to score a single point. At this stage of the game the Emporians staged a little rally and from then on the score was extremely close.

Both teams were trying desperately to score and gain the lead and play became faster as the game neared the end. With about a half minute to play Meyer scored a basket to put McPherson in the lead by two points. A free throw by C. of E. just before the game ended left the Bulldogs a one-point margin with the score standing at 35-34. The scoring for the Bulldogs was evenly divided among the men that played.

The box score:

DEPARTMENTAL EXHIBITS INTERESTING TO STUDENTS

"Did you see those good-looking pictures in the art exhibit? — and those dresses and coats in the sewing department?"

"Yeah, but did you happen to see your eyes on the tables, picture frames, and lamps down in the industrial art department?"

Expressions similar to these have been heard about McPherson College campus for the past week. And everyone will have to agree that the compliments paid to the various departments referred to are indeed justified.

Many beautiful pictures make up the art exhibit. There are large oils, heavy oils, smooth oils, pastels of all descriptions, water colors, and sketches. A tiger carved out of a block of wood has obtained considerable comment. The group of sketches includes one of the Globe refinery that deserves much credit. Some lovely trays and flower baskets are shown as representative of the weaving done in the department.

Print dresses, silk dresses, skirts, baby dresses, and even coats are exhibited by the clothing department. Here one also finds a collection of foods notebooks which are neatly done and which contain much valuable material. Many persons were particularly attracted to the section of the display pertaining to the care and dressing of the baby.

SPORT LIGHTS

By Paul A. Lackie

"Gee," said a bystander last Friday evening after the game, "I'll bet it won't be hard to write some Sport Lights this week!" However, there really isn't much to say that hasn't already been said a dozen times over. Those who saw that game only have a pleasant but blurred recollection of a very shaky and "jittery" evening.

And as for anyone who didn't see that encounter, well, our opinion of any perfectly normal person who could resist being on hand to back the team in a crucial game like that one could hardly be expressed here.

Most of the spectators voiced the confidential opinion that they could not have been much more "drug out" had they participated in the game themselves instead of only being on-lookers.

As a result of the Bulldogs' 35-34 defeat of Emporia, and Baker's 32-27 win over the Bethany Swedes, McPherson College is in second place and the Wildcats are holding down third.

With two hard contests on tap for this coming week-end, Coach Binford's crew is now facing the deciding turn in Kansas Conference affairs, and a pair of wins are needed.

On Friday evening the Canines are scheduled to appear in action against the Baptists, in Ottawa. While Ottawa has run up against several teams which have proved to be too strong for her, yet O. U. can always be depended upon to put up a strong battle!

After this encounter, M. C. meets Baker on a foreign court Saturday night in a game upon the outcome of which depends much.

While the Baker Wildcats have a goodly number of freshmen upon their team, yet they are swiftly slipping into a nice ball club, and will give all opponents a good run during the remainder of this season!

Because they will have played a hard game on the day previous, they will have to hit their stride early and play some real ball to return with these two necessary scalps.

Well, the Bulldogs had a little game with Friends University furnishing the opposition Monday evening. This game turned out to be a "Comedy of Errors," with the Ca-

WEEK-END TRIP WILL DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP

The Bulldogs have two more conference games this week and in order to remain in the running for the conference championship they will have to win both of them.

The Bulldogs will play the first of these games Friday night at Ottawa against the Ottawa University Braves. McPherson defeated the Braves here early in the season but since that time Ottawa has improved until now they are one of the strongest teams in the conference.

On Saturday night the Bulldogs will tangle with the Baker Wildcats at Baldwin. McPherson won from Baker here by a 10 point margin early this month but since that time Baker has climbed up close to the top of the conference. At the present time Baker is in third place in the conference with College of Emporia at the top and the Bulldogs in second place.

The squad will leave for Ottawa early Friday morning in cars. Coach Melvin Binford has announced that nine men will probably make this trip to the eastern part of the state.

nines taking the long end of a 57-28 count.

It must be said in all fairness to the Quakers that their team work was handicapped by the absence of their center during most of the game because of an ankle injury.

However, while the Bulldogs played some nice ball, they will need to make every shot count in this week-end's games in which opposition of an entirely different type will be forthcoming!

KURTZ DIAGRAMS LECTURES

There are three possibilities and one solution to the problems of "Theology in America Today," each with salvation as its ultimate aim and ambition.

This view was diagrammed and outlined by Dr. D. W. Kurtz, president of the Bethany Biblical Seminary, in a lecture to a large group of delegates and students who assembled in the College chapel Tuesday morning.

The three possibilities, belief in one of which excludes all others, are: first, the fatalistic belief that God does all, that only the elect will gain salvation; second, that man does all, determines his own state without the aid of an immortal guidance; and third, the belief, which Dr. Kurtz upholds as the solution, that God and man co-operate. Man the sinner must go direct to God in repentance; in return God will forgive the human, giving him salvation.

BULLDOG HEADQUARTERS

QUAKERS SWAMPED IN NON-CONFERENCE GAME

McPherson College won a non-conference basketball game from Friends University Monday night by the lopsided score of 57-28.

The Bulldogs took the lead at the start of the game and kept increasing the lead as the game progressed. McPherson used a fast, short passing system and worked the ball in for set ups which was much in contrast to the long-shooting, wild game presented by the Quakers.

Coach Binford used nine men in this game with every man breaking into the scoring column. Substitutions were made frequently but the Bulldog scoring machine still continued to function. Meyer, tall blond center for the Bulldogs was high point man of the game with 15 points.

Many ministers and friends of the college who are attending the Regional Conference were present to see the Bulldogs in their one-sided victory.
