

THE WORLD FROM WASHINGTON

(Furnished by the National Council for Prevention of War)

Washington—Youth today is news. Youth is crowding into the headlines all over the world.

In Germany, the Catholic youth are the recipients of a startling message from the Pope, urging them to fight the "propaganda of allurement" and to be ready for even greater sacrifices than they have made to date. In Russia, the younger generation is asking for broader education. They are tired of materialistic and political education alone, and want more classical studies. A student conference in New York gave expression to the growing sentiment of American young people the country over against war and corruption. Their deliberations went into the realm of practical politics when they went on record against the Administration's program for building up the nation's armed forces as "unsafe and unreasonable."

The cry of "take the profits out of preparation" is gathering momentum. So much momentum, in fact, that Washington thinks it likely that the Nye-Vandenberg resolution for investigating the munitions trust may be voted on in the very near future. Senator Nye is leaving no stone unturned to fight the commercializing of war for private profit. He has proposed an amendment to the tax bill providing for confiscation of practically all individual incomes over $10,000 a year during war time.

Apparently the President's implied invitation of December 25th to the public to make its opinion known has been accepted literally. Last week's announcements of war attitude polls conducted on several American campuses, with a large number of students registering their refusal to take part in any war, is one evidence. The widespread attention given to the petition being circulated by some 20 peace organizations asking the United States to declare its desire for world cooperation and urging that terms be stated under which full membership of this country in the League would be possible, is another. In a statement issued by Newton D. Baker he said that the petition is designed to let the Administration know how far it may "rely upon the united support of millions of Americans when it finds the opportunity to associate America" with the forces working toward peace. . . . "An expression of cooperation from the United States may turn the balance. . . . The more signatures there are to this petition, the more definite the expression it makes and the stronger the hand of the President."

College Departments Exhibit Work May Day

Exhibits from the woodworking department, art department, and the home economics department will be placed in the show windows of the department stores downtown May Day, May 16. The art exhibit will include work of each student in wood carving, pen and ink drawings, pencil sketches, oils, pastels, water colors, and stenciling. Clothing for different occasions will be featured by the home economics department.

Hess at Classical Meet

Prof. M. A. Hess read a paper on "Adoption in Roman Families" at a meeting of the Classical Association of Kansas and Missouri at Topeka last Friday.

Grace Heckman, '33, now teaching at Marion accompanied Prof. Hess. About sixty teachers attended the meeting. Next year it will be held at Kansas City.

Lectures on Braille Method

An unusual and interesting program was given in the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday. Mrs. G. W. Griffith gave an illustrated talk on the Braille method. This is a system of raised letter by which blind people may read. Mrs. Griffith had the material with which to make the Braille writing and explained how it was done. The meeting was closed with the group repeating the benediction.

What a break for Dame Rumor! What a break! The jolly juniors quietly sneak all on a Sunday nite, accompanied by flying eggs, et. al. Then the sedate seniors suddenly decide to follow suit and they sneak also. What a break! But to get down to the business of news—

From what has come to the ears of Dame Rumor lately, most everyone interested got in on a pitched battle at the cemetery Sunday night—with the lowly egg for ammunition. Our guess is that somebody's car came in for a good washing Monday morning. If anybody wants a new recipe for eggs, see Otho Clark. He can tell you how to fix them a la vest or a la ju—whichever you prefer. This is a tested recipe, guaranteed to work. Witness successful trial Sunday nite. By the way, it's a darn good thing those eggs weren't rotten!

Per custom, the lower classmen calmly and deliberately set to work to do the business of efficiently stacking the rooms of absent juniors and seniors. And just in case you didn't get to see any of the rooms—take our word on it—they were stacked just plenty. What with beds taken apart, dresser drawers and contents strewn everywhere, pictures and curtains askew, tables, desks, chairs, etc. all piled together, and everything topped off with a liberal sprinkling of salt or trash, these rooms presented an awe-inspiring spectacle. Not satisfied with this, the saboteurs nailed doors and windows shut. Well, there's nothing like doing a thing up brown!

However, don't think the mischievous scamps responsible for above damage got off scot free. There was a little score to settle when the victims got home, in the form of cold showers and paddie lines. We'll wager that there were a few people going around Tuesday who would just as soon stand as sit. By the way—Archie Van came over from Hoerner Institute to visit Mike Monday nite and got taken for a cold shower along with the rest, despite the fact that he was entirely innocent.

The only unpleasant part of the sneak is the after effects. Witness a number of sore and stiff upperclassmen. And we noticed Rep looking pretty sleepy Tuesday morning. As if this weren't enough, Dr. Schwalm gave a history test to the kids who "snook".

We're told that Person makes quite an admirable baseball umpire (except when he got sore). And we should like to see some of those pictures Cheesy took.

Oh, yes! We're nearly forgetting the Freshies and Sophs. They all got obstreperous and tried to organize a sneak too, but alas and alack—as usual it failed. Some few did brave the wrath of the professors and hiked out for a picnic, but the

JUNIOR-SENIOR SNEAK BRINGS GREAT EXCITEMENT TO M. C. CAMPUS

"I'm sick. I've had a fever all day." These were a few of the words used by Mike when the Seniors and Juniors returned from their sneak last night. The boys remaining in the "dorm" took this chance to have some fun for themselves and proceeded to "stack" the rooms of those left vacated-by the upperclassmen. When the Seniors returned and discovered the condition of their rooms, Mike was the first one to be singled out for revenge. This was what caused the sick feeling to creep into Mike. Van Nortwick had conceived the brilliant idea of sleeping with majority made a belated sneak into classrooms.

You know, if the truth were known, I'll bet some of the professors could tell some high old tales of wild escapades in their college days. Unfortunately, that's all buried in the past.

Dame Rumor scores a scoop and brings you some of the high lights of the Huteh trip. Next time you see Jack Gordon ask him just what prompted him to turn over on the way down there.

We thought H2S smelled bad, but believe you me, we revised our opinion when we went in the fibre plant. Boy, I can smell it yet.

Hey, Dunn—how does it happen you know so many dames in Huteh? And just who was that good looking jane in the salt plant you were so chummy with?

Considering the amount of salt blocks carried out of the Carey plant in pockets and under coats, it's a wonder the company isn't bankrupt.

Dear old Bradshaw saved the day in home ce for men the other day. When some of the kids didn't have their reports, he accommodatingly took up the whole hour giving part of his. Now take prunes for example. . . .

Fond—one baby's stocking in Kurtz' car. Well, well, well! Must have been having kindergarten. Quite unusual, to say the least.

We are waiting with interest to see Max Montor impersonate these guys that Dr. Schwalm "doesn't know".

And so, boys and girls, this concludes the best-time story for tonight. But we'll be seeing ya . . .

Dame Rumor.

Mike so that he might see the fun and not miss out on anything upon the return of the sneakers. He chose the wrong fellow, however, with whom to spend the night, for he was marched along with Mike and put under a cold shower. Some of the others had their punishment "dished out" to them in a different form. After much pleading of innocence, which was only wasted energy, a few learned again how a paddle felt. It isn't known just what scared the Seniors into sneaking at the very last moment Sunday night. It might have been that it was against their principles to sneak on Sunday, as they didn't leave until after twelve o'clock. This late start was no doubt for the best for they might have all frozen their toes or something, because they chose a cold spot, one more suitable for penguins, in which to spend the night.

TENNISERS LOSE BUT THREE MATCHES

In connection with the track and field meet last Thursday, a triangular tennis match was held. The Bulldogs scored a rather decisive victory in tennis. McPherson won ten out of thirteen matches, Bethel was second with five wins and nine losses. Hutchinson Junior College won four matches and lost seven.

The Bulldogs won all of their matches in doubles and lost three matches in singles. The doubles were not completed because of darkness. Two matches were scheduled to be played when darkness halted further playing.

Following are the results of the tennis tournament:

- Singles:
 Binford, McPherson, won from Sparrow, Bethel, 6-3, 6-4.
 Binford, McPherson, won from Kaplan, Hutchinson, 8-6, 6-1.

SPORT LIGHTS

By Paul A. Lackie

Well, McPherson turned the trick again by a close margin when they defeated both Bethel College and Hutchinson Junior College in a triangular track meet held here last Thursday afternoon.

In this meet, while the work of the whole track squad was commendable, the tennis squad is due for some nice praise in winning nearly every match they played!

This victory makes 24 in a row for the Bulldogs on the home field, a record any team and its coaches can well be proud of.

It proves of interest to look over the papers of other schools in order to determine their track, field, tennis, and baseball prospects.

Sterling High School is sponsoring an Armory Ball Tournament which will be held in the near future at the school auditorium. This is a popular and well-liked sport in many towns.

Winfield Southwestern Builders took Arkansas City Junior College to a 03 1/4-20 1/4 trouncing in a track and tennis tournament last Friday.

John Yergler, a sophomore, annexed 15 points to take high honors. He took first in discus, shot, and the javelin.

Pittsburg Teachers' College neatly took the recent Hastings Relays held in Hastings, Neb., in which much competition was afforded them.

They took seven firsts to win the meet, with Stambach setting a new high jump record. It was the Gorrillas' third straight victory in Hastings.

W. A. A. ELECTS SPORTS MANAGERS FOR NEXT YEAR

The Women's Athletic Association met Tuesday evening to elect the sports managers. The following were chosen: soccer, Mary Eisenbie; basketball, Fern Early; volley ball, Ruth Tice; baseball, Irene Bales; horseshoe, Leone Shfrk; tennis, Esther Stegeman; hiking and health, Viola Holderread; and ping pong, Velma Keller.

After the election the organization settled a few points of business. It was decided to buy the tin cups belonging to the seniors in order to use them for coffee sold at football games. The club agreed that next year, instead of having a special student council representative, the vice-president should fill the position.

Lois Edwards announced that registration for the play day for high school senior girls will begin at 9:30 Saturday morning. Since a job is arranged for each W. A. A. member, son; Miller, Bethel, second; Clawson, Bethel, third. Distance 126 ft., 3 in. Javelin—Won by Roberts, Bethel; Wiggins, McPherson, second; Cooper, Hutchinson, third. Distance 147 ft. 3 in.
