COUNCIL SPONSORING RECREATIONAL PARLOR

Plans for Student Union Are Tentative Arranged by Governing Body

FINANCES DELAY ACTION

Room To Be Located In Sharp Basement; Decorative Furnishing a Feature of Project

The Student Union, a parlor for the use of students and student organizations, is to be an outstanding project of the Student Council this year. The need for such a room having been realized last year, plans were started which are soon to make the dream a reality. The parlor is to be a student room for student use. It will be finished, decorated, and furnished as well as the best of parlors in other colleges. The room will be available to students for the use of leisure moments, for both formal and informal meetings, committee meetings, receptions, and parties. M. C. students have been impressed by the usefulness of a suitable reception room when they have been received as guests in our neighboring colleges such as Friends, K. S. C., and C. of E. while in debate, athletic, or other representative groups.

Plans, such as decorating, furnishing, and financing, are being cared for by Student Council committees. The idea has already had the unanimous approval of the executive board. The plans are, as yet, not definitely set, but at present are promising. There are a few business matters which must be straightened out before actual work can begin.

The Student Union will be located in Sharp Hall. The west partition of what is now the classroom of Professor Hess will be removed, thus making one large room of the two south rooms. The room will be completely remodeled, refinished, and furnished with artistic care so that it will rank with the best of parlors. The room will have a floor space sixty-three feet by twenty-five feet. Ten windows will admit natural light to add to the cheerfulness of the room. The two doors will be replaced with new doors. A new oak floor will be laid, the walls will be replastered, and new light fixtures will be installed. With a fund of about $400 to $500 it will be unnecessary to use any second class materials or furnishings. Magazines and newspapers will be included among the useful furnishings.

Approximately $200 was handed down by last year's Student Council for the Student Union. The Quadrangle turned in a profit of $43 and the Spectator a profit of $7. This money plus the surplus item in this year's budget of the Student Council will be used for the project. An additional small amount of money will be needed which may be raised by programs, subscriptions, and donations. Accurate estimates concerning the funds on hand and the money needed will be available in about a week.

It is hoped that the Student Union will satisfy the need for a place to spend leisure time in friendly chats, recreational reading, and at the same time provide a suitable meeting room for the Y. M. C. A., committees, and other groups. The room will be open at all hours during the day, and will be available at all times. Student committees will supervise and care for the room.

DRAMATIC ART CLASS WORKS ON MARIONETTES

The dramatic art class spent last week working on marionettes. Miss Della Lehman and Miss Ada Brunk supervised the making of the marionette stage and dolls some time ago; now the students have been dressing the figures, making the back scenery, making properties, sewing the curtains, and writing the script. Members of the class plan to put on a marionette show sometime in the future.

JOINT Y MEETING HELD

The program of the joint meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. Tuesday morning was presented by members of the Y organization of Bethel College, in charge of their president, Art Landis. As the opening devotion, Edmund Miller read a poem; then Miss Martha Penner gave a vocal solo.

The remainder of the program consisted of a play, prepared and presented by members of the comparative religion class of Bethel. The play concerned a young man, played by Felix Schrag, who is in search of truth and satisfaction in religion. He is approached first by a Hindu priest, played by Ted Voth, and secondly by a Buddhist priest, enacted by Bill Yanke, who present the tenets of their respective religions. Then the representative of the Christian religion, Reynold Weinbrenner, comes to the young man, and convinces him that Christianity is the one, and only religion for him. The play is ended by a vocal trio composed of Misses Martha Penner, Gustie Plett, and Ruth Roth.

VISITORS INSPECT DORM

One Hundred Ninety-Five Call On Arnold Girls Friday Dec. 7.

For many years, it has been an annual custom of the girls of Arnold Hall to hold "Open House." At this time, all the friends of the residents of the hall are invited on an inspection tour of the girls' living quarters. The event this year was held last Friday evening from 8 until 11 o'clock.

Mrs. M. W. Emmert, matron of the ladies' dormitory was hostess of the evening. Each guest registered as he entered the building. "Mother" Emmert's report shows that 195 visitors called during the evening.

Dainty refreshments consisting of iced punch and wafers were served. The hostesses, who presided at the punch bowl during the evening, were Mrs. Ellen Wagoner, Mrs. A. J. Voran, Miss Jessie Brown, and Mrs. Emmert.

Each girl acted as hostess in her room, serving light refreshments to her guests.

Debate Trip Proves to Be "Quest for the Holy Grail or Something" for Orators

Just why anyone would want to know what happened on the way to, at, and on the way back from Winfield is more than I can tell, but the Spec editor seems to think that it would make good space filler, so here goes.

Bright and early Friday morning sixteen young hopefuls who had spent several weeks of intensive training for the event left for the Winfield Tournament at Southwestern. Now this story would be incomplete if I didn't tell you what happened in Wichita. Weaver wanted to stop in Wichita, so to appease the boy, Booz, (the driver) said that we would try an experiment and find out what the people in the state of Kansas think about international issues. So with suitable stakes set up to back the enterprise in the form of a bet, Weaver and Booz agreed to ask four individuals on the streets of Wichita appropriate questions on the aforesaid subject.

The first man appeared to be fresh out of college, not too dumb, and yet not too intelligent. Booz stopped the car and says: "What do you think of the present international situation?" The chappie grins and gets pink behind the ears and thinks for a moment. Then he says, "Well, it's hard to say." So we drive on.

The second man was also quite young, and seemed to be on his way to his office. After calling him over to the car, Weaver asks, "Can you tell us what you think of the recent expansion of the Hungarians, from Jugoslavia?" This gentleman, likewise grinned, scratched his head and said, "No, I can't tell you." So we went on again.

Now the third bear—pardon me, I

The Juniors and seniors have in all their pictures and proofs at the "Quad" office. The sophomores have 4 pictures yet to be taken and the freshmen lack 19. These remaining 23 students are urged to get their pictures taken immediately.

The Juniors were rewarded for their active campaign in the contest of promptness in having pictures taken by finishing first and winning the $10 prize.

This year there is a possibility that every member of each class and the school will be represented in the "Quad." At the present time about one-half the faculty pictures have been taken besides the informal pictures of the faculty that will be featured in the annual. It will be interesting to note that there is a further possibility that the faculty will be represented 100 per cent in the pictorial section.

It looks as if another good "Quad" is going to be produced. Have you given your order for your annual yet?

YODER SPEAKS AT W. S. G.

Dr. J. J. Yoder talked at World Service, Tuesday evening, about "What Should Be College Students' Attitude Toward Missions." Dr. Yoder has been connected with mission work for many years and has made trips to some of the foreign fields. He has the privilege of giving his consent to missionaries that go to the foreign fields.

It is his idea that students who want to do mission work should fit themselves for it while in college.

Thought I was writing a fairy tale—I mean the third gentleman wasn't so polite; as a matter of fact he wasn't even a gentleman. Of course we have to give him credit for the fact that he might have been sore because we made him walk half a block to our car. Still, that doesn't make him a gentleman. Now this guy looks like a small-stuff business man, and he had just left his office when we whistled at him. When he gets abreast of our vehicle, Booz pops this eyespener on him. "Do you have an opinion on what causes the death of talent in the international 'smuggling ring'?" The gentleman, pardon me, I mean the brute, gets blue in the face, just like a thundercloud, you know, and says, "Yes, I have. You can —"

"And with that he made off. After a bit of appropriate razzing, we likewise wended our way on toward Winfield. Now our fourth and final victim was a man who was pouring hot water on his frozen radiator. We risked the possibility of his being mad already, and Weaver broached him with this Chinese puzzle: "Can you give us your opinion of the World Court?" Now this guy was not as hostile as his immediate predecessor, but he was no better informed. He says only, "I sure can't follow, I don't know." And so we were no wiser than before, and slightly chagrined.

Thus ended our quest for the holy grail, or something, and we went on, Booz and Weaver rejoicing in the anticipated cokes, which they had rightfully won.

When we got to Winfield we had to settle down to work and debate, of course. There were debates from

CHURCH CHALLENGES YOUTH

The program committee of the College Church wishes to express its gratitude to the many students who have responded to the call for increased attendance at the worship services. There has been a special effort made to offer sincere challenges through these services in the hope that the college students would find the time spent there worthwhile. The presence of a large group of college people is a source of real inspiration to the committees in charge and to those who help in the programs.

We are indebted to the Church for our College. It is through the concern of the Church for the welfare of youth that many of us are permitted to attend. Does it not seem, then, that we should consider it a privilege to reciprocate by supporting the church program by regular attendance? You need what the church offers—and, in turn, the church needs what you can offer.

The morning worship hour on Sunday, December 16, will follow the regular order of service, Rev. J. S. Sherry delivering the address. At 7:30 p. m. there will be presented a musical program of varied type of Christmas selections.

PRACTICE IS RESUMED BY DEBATE TEAMS

Two Teams Advance Three Rounds Into Elimination—Large Tournament

McPherson debaters were permitted to forego many of their strenuous practices this week following the interstate debate tournament at Winfield last Friday and Saturday.

Monday the entire debate group met for a short session to discuss the problems arising out of the tournament and the possibility of rearrangement of cases. One other practice was arranged for this week and one for next.

In the men's division of the elimination at the Winfield tourney the two McPherson teams advanced three rounds into the elimination, while one of the women's teams had two rounds in the elimination. Each college was permitted to enter six teams in the elimination part of the tournament, two from each of the men's women's and junior college divisions. Three rounds of non-decision debates had been engaged in, previous to the elimination.

Winners in each of the divisions were: Junior college, Hutchinson Junior college; men's division, Nebraska Wesleyan university; women's division, Bethany college.

This was the largest tournament on record at Winfield with fifty-four colleges entered.

SCHOOL OFFICERS MEET AT C. OF E. ON SATURDAY

Schwalm and Replogle Attend Sessions of Deans, Registrars, and Presidents

GROUP MEETS ANNUALLY

Local Dean Is Chosen as President of Kansas Association of Collegiate Registrars

Dean Fred A. Replogle attended the meeting of the Kansas Association of College Deans and the Kansas Association of Collegiate Registrars at the College of Emporia last Saturday. At this same time, Dr. V. F. Schwalm attended the sessions of the presidents of the Kansas Council of Church Colleges. A joint meeting of the presidents, deans, and registrars was held in the morning. In the afternoon, each group met alone. At the meeting in the forenoon an address on "The New Standards of the North Central Association" was given by Dean Stouffer. A discussion, "Liberalizing the Transfer of Credits" was led by Dr. Lull.

For the registrars, Dean Replogle presented a discussion on "Uses of Freshman Intelligence and Placement Tests." For the deans, he led the discussion on "College Entrance Requirements" and "Workable Curricular Changes in Kansas Colleges."

There were about twenty-five deans and registrars present at the convention. Besides Dean Replogle, the only other man there filling the dual capacity of both dean and registrar, was Lee of the Kansas State Teachers College at Hays. Every other school has two men filling these places. Larger schools, such as the University of Kansas, sent departmental deans.

Round table discussions on various problems were conducted during the afternoon.

Dean Replogle was elected president of the Kansas Association of Collegiate Registrars for the ensuing year. Miss Bundy, registrar of Ottawa University, was selected as vice president, and Miss Hoff, registrar at Friends U. is the secretary.

The 1935 meeting of these two associations will be held at Baker University in October.

About ten presidents of denominational colleges convened Saturday afternoon. Problems common to all of them were discussed. Matters concerning a uniform scholarship program were presented. It was planned to have another joint publicity program by all the church colleges. This program will probably be held in April, 1935. Last year such a program was worked out whereby the church colleges advertised by radio, the press and posters to induce Kansas students to attend their schools. Dr. Schwalm was made chairman of the committee to work on these plans for 1935. Other members on the committee are W. H. Fleming of Baker University and W. P. Behan of Ottawa University.

ATTENDS HEALTH MEETING

Miss McGaffey Represents College at Sectional Meeting of National Association

Miss Edith McGaffey attended a meeting of the National Health Association Saturday, December 1, at the University of Kansas.

Representatives from colleges and universities of Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri, and Kansas met at Watkins Memorial Hospital to organize a sectional unit of the National Health Association.

The main objective of the meeting, effecting the unit organization, was to bring together the efforts of colleges to insure better health to students by a closed co-ordination of medical need and medical care.

Dr. Schroeder of St. Louis University was the main speaker on the program. Chancellor Lindley of the U. of K. also spoke. In addition, several papers were read by participating physicians on the subject of "Student Health."

Recreation Project Requires Cooperation

Announcement this week of the completion of plans for the recreation project in Sharp Hall should be welcomed by all McPherson College students. The room is to be well finished and adequate in its facilities to meet a long standing need on the part of the recreational facilities of the campus.

The Student Union as the project is to be officially known will provide a place for group meetings, will solve the problem of organizational entertainments to a large extent, and make possible worthwhile leisure that is now wasted. Decision to use first class materials in the project is important. A project of this type is worthy of the waiting during the past two years which has made it a possibility. In every way the project should be of first class type. If this is not possible under the present financial condition of the school, quality products should be used in that part of the room possible at the present time.

Encouraging as the announcement is at present the difficulties are far from solved in connection with the project. To help those in charge make the plans possible to be executed the cooperation of every student and every organization is not only desired but necessary for its completion.

How Much Are Intelligence Tests Worth

Two child prodigies have been discovered in New York, six and seven years old, who rated 196 and 230 in an intelligence test popularly known as the I. Q. tests. On the other hand Einstein produced a 205 mark. This leads to the question of what can be done in the way of measuring intelligence.

The same question is far from settled among current psychologists. All have worked upon some scientific and accurate means to gauge the intellectual ability of individuals. Some 2000 tests have been devised in their attempts.

The problem presented is a many sided one. In the first place they do not know what intelligence is, and what different aspects should be included in the test. The most widely known test of this type is known as the Stanford-Binet-Simon test. The designers of this test hoped to measure innate intelligence rather than information, or intelligence in handling concrete objects. Their ability to do this can be questioned seriously.

In the second place there are other aspects of intelligence which the test do not attempt to answer as well as certain non-intelligence factors such as determination, patience, and imaginative power. At best the tests are arbitrary and are valuable insofar as they make possible general indications for the purpose of education.

Can Long Dictate to Students

College students who are known for their independence and outspokenness on all questions were ruffled and irritated last week to hear that Senator Huey Long had caused the dismissal of twenty-six at the Louisiana State University when they refused to obey his orders.

A review of the circumstances un-cripp will probably take the entire day or which the resignations were intended to visit Southwestern brought about is hardly necessary to University, also, while they are there.

the wide-awake student of today. His domineering attitude in the matter was climaxed when he sent a squad of highwaymen to the university to prevent Editor Cutrer from printing a letter rebuking the senator for declaring half-back Abe Mickal a state senator.

Following this rebuke Puppet President James M. Smith declared the student publication to be under permanent supervision. When the editor and five of his associates resigned twenty-six students were suspended for threatening to cease writing for the paper unless the staff were reinstated.

College students writing for a college audience and representing student opinion alone need no mention. Further expression should be made to student bodies against this dictatorial radical whose views on this matter are revealed in his statement. "This is my university."

Intra-Mural Basket-Ball Gives Needed Recreation

Intra-mural basketball is here along with varsity basketball. Is it fun to play intra-mural basketball? Yes. Is it interesting? Yes. Is it creative? Probably!

This more recent arrangement for basketball playing is growing out of a need on the part of students for participation in this body-building sport. During the years of the famous "prosperity," the privilege of playing basketball was allowed to only a few highly specialized individuals who sacrificed their opportunity to become educated so that they might win more basketball games for the glory of dear old alma mater. This they did while the majority of students looked on, working themselves up to a frenzy, and telling themselves that they were receiving untold benefits from this hysterical outburst of loped emotionalism.

Quite obviously, it would be crediting the depression with too much to say that it had relieved athletics of all its insanity and corruption, yet the depression has served as the blacksmith's forge to heat the commercialized athletic department so that the hammer of experimentation can beat and shape it into a more sane activity upon the anvil of experience. As this change is being wrought, we see intra-mural sports coming to a more significant position in the college program. We see that highly developed skill is losing place to a more wholesome idea of common participation and enjoyment, and we see students joining together to engage in a sport not for glory, nor for money, nor for social prestige, but for the spirit of comradeship felt in a common enterprise, for the value of socialized recreation, and for the joy of playing just for the love of playing. The administration and the athletic department of this college deserve approbation and appreciation from the student body for promoting intra-mural athletics.

Spec-Yu-La-Shuns

My, how time does fly. We no sooner get a column written for one week than it seems that another one is due. Last night we went out to the fountain to get a drink and were quite dumfounded when our foot trod nothing but thin air. In other words, the foot pedal had been removed, which is a sure sign that winter is here (as if we didn't already know it).

Three Freshman girls sure got hooked yesterday. They all went to town to see dear Greta Garbo in "The Painted Veil," and got to the show late. They sat down and saw half a picture, a comedy, a newsreel, and then, lo and behold, they find that the feature is "Wednesday's Child." And were they ever charmed. One of them said, "Well, I get wondering when Garbo was going to come in!"

Retaliation comes sure and swift to him who opens his mouth too wide. You know Mike kinda spilled the beans about some of his pals last week. The result—he got his diaphragm area neatly painted red with mercurochrome.

Now take heed all you lads and lassies. According to Prof. Bollinger, the world is coming to a sad and fatal end on or about Jan. 1, 1956. So if you have been particularly sinful or naughty the last few years, now is the time for all good men to atone for their actions. And if for no other reason, Santa Claus is coming to town. Which means simply that you do as you please or words to that effect and nobody thinks anything about it, maybe. Any way, if you doubt this, you ask Bollinger and he will give you full proof.

Oh, yes. We don't know anything about this for sure, but we hear that there were a lot of blind dates last Sunday night. Gosh, looks like MC coeds and fellows can't make the rift, and it takes some out of town guys to do the work. Tak, tak!

If you want a good mechanic to tear up your car and not put it back together again, just see Glen Webb. He guarantees all work, and says that he is sure not to put anything back right. Also to get the distributor head on backward every time.

We all wonder when a certain senior, who is a chemistry assistant and also a photographer for the Quad, is going to start studying.

The boys in Fannysock have taken to stacking rooms again. Just this week Bollinger got his room neatly fixed by enterprising friends. The language he used when he found his door unfastened and his belongings scattered around is not exactly fit to print.

By College News Service
Conway, Ark.—Faced by economic "starvation" and social strangulation, America's small colleges today are taking a united stand against extinction in the opinion of J. H. Reynolds, president of Hendrix college.

Seeking through a process of merger to reduce maintenance and overhead expenses, the small colleges assertedly are endeavoring to widen their constituency and yet retain the teaching and social benefits of the smaller institution.

This consolidation movement is noted at Hendrix College, which is now merged with Henderson-Brown at Arkadelphia and Galloway Woman's College at Seary.

"Many educational commentators have seen in our system a solution for the future of the small college comparable to the plans tried for the large college by Harvard and Yale in breaking up their student body into 'houses,'" states President Reynolds.

"Besides this consolidation plan and the house plan there is a third development," he said, "a kind of federation of colleges, each in close association with the central unit. Under this plan the undergraduates enjoy the domestic, religious, social and educational advantages of the small college along with the stimulating intellectual life of the university."

"This development is seen in the Claremont colleges in California, which consist of Poinsett and Scripps colleges," the educator added. Pointing out that America has seven or eight different states—all the way from Denver to the Mississippi, and from Augustana, Illinois, to Dehlon, Texas. Our teams gave a good account of themselves, the two varsity teams getting within three rounds of the finish, with only nine teams out of 65 going ahead of them.

And so Friday ended and Saturday rolled around. After the debates were over, Booz' carload went out to third hill, to visit all the little lads and lassies. It is interesting to note that Bollinger got lost around the institution and had everybody worried sick before we found him. And I don't want to forget to mention the good looking waitress at King's Cafe—the one Stants liked so well.

On the way back we politely brought home a couple of dames who live in Wichita. Now we won't say anything about these women, except that if you're curious, ask Paul about Dorothy and Helen. And "Amos" got awful tired holding one of them on his lap.

In Wichita we had an exciting race dodging cars, buses, trains, etc., trying to catch John Goring and his bunch. After nearly getting killed, more or less, we caught them and effected a transfer of passengers. Those of us who went back to Wichita all went window shopping and saw the movie, "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," which wasn't so good and wasn't so bad. And then we came home, older and wiser and none-the-worse-for-wear, etc., etc. And the only thing that we regretted was the girls held "Open House" while we were away.

DORM DRESSES UP FOR ANNUAL SURVEY

Once each year the residents of Arnold Hall arm themselves with dust mops, brooms, and the various other articles which are equally significant of the undignified process called housecleaning, and prepare their places of abode for the event termed "Open House." During the preceding weeks scarfless dressers, rugless floors, undressed windows, and runnerless tables vie with each other for attention. Almost all of the useful little articles which tend to clutter up a girl's dressing table are chucked into drawers and the best which she possesses is placed thereon with an eye for balance. Needless to say the home town boy's picture disappears completely from view. Papers and books are stuck out of sight, the dust mop misses no crevices and then the entire room takes on an air of perhaps a little strangeness. Lo and behold! everything is in readiness for "Open House."

Girls stand waiting impatiently to receive their guests in lamp-lighted, incense-scented rooms. The first sign of arrivals is the noise of a wild dash of Fahnstock inmates for third floor. They have conceived the idea of starting at the top and coming down. For this the girls on first and second are quite thankful; at least they won't be able to eat so much candy.

Guests come and go; candy and peanuts disappear with unusual swiftness; compliments are accepted with thank-yous; accidents happen; blinds and curtains come down unexpectedly in the search guests make for dust. Eleven o'clock arrives, a long sound of the bell signifies the time; people are still mingling in the parlors and lobby, consuming weakened punch; bed spreads are wrinkled; pillows are misplaced; and rugs are thrown away.

At last "Open House" has come and gone. Tired, sleepy girls climb into dormitory beds not to be disturbed by the 6:30 rising bell.

"The Saar Struggle" by M. T. Florkinsky has been given to the International Relations Club by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

This is the history of the Saar from 1920 to the end of 1934. The Saar, the only territory directly governed by the League of Nations, presents an international question of primary magnitude which is in a sense a pivotal factor in the Franco-German relations upon which so much depends. The existence of the Saar in its present form is practically certain to come to an end on January 13, 1935.

"International Traffic in Arms and Munitions," a volume of The Reference Shelf Group, compiled by Julia E. Johnson has been purchased for debate.

Other new books are: "Technique of Executive Control" by Erwin Hasckell Schell, "Discovering Music" by McKinney and Anderson, and "Being Well Born" by Michael F. Guyer, and "Family" by Meyer F. Nimkoff.

For a year or more, people have been making cracks about John Xance Garner being the "forgotten man"—but this week it took three University of Pennsylvania seniors to prove it. They were among a group of students who asked, "Who is vice president?" None knew, though one was sure it wasn't Roosevelt, while another thought "it might be a guy named Robinson."

But if that's something, take the Whitman College student who recently said, "Epicurean is the Upton Sinclair plan in California" and another who defined vandalism as "being without work." Osculation was defined as everything from "ostracized" and "obscurity" to "vibration."

It says that although we have no serious danger of foreign aggression there is a danger that the problem of educating for peace may be handled from an emotional, rather than a realistic standpoint.

Security for the United States lies only in a satisfactory solution of the world peace problem. Youth must not be allowed to believe that safety can be obtained through political isolation. Concern for the general peace problem should be aroused.

Professor Einstein believes that military means of defense should be internationalized. In preparation for such steps as these, he says youth must understand the importance of the problem.

SPORT LIGHTS

By Orval Eddy

At the first call for basket ball candidates for the squad, thirty men reported. These men all showed ability and will be a great asset to the team.

On Monday the squad was cut to twenty men. Many good men were eliminated because the group was too large.

It is the opinion of Coach Binford that many of the boys who were cut off the squad this year would ordinarily have been good enough to make letters. Now, however, the material is so good that these men do not have a chance. This should be an indication of the type of ball team that the Bulldogs will have after it is in shape.

There are eleven men on the squad that are six feet tall or over. The list is headed by Anton "Tony" Meyer who is six feet six inches tall. Meyer played center last year. Others that are over the six foot mark are Herrold, Pauls, Wiggins, and Kauffman.

Probably the only pre-season game to be played this year will be with Bethel college at Newton. The date of this game is not definite but will probably be next Tuesday or Wednesday evening.

With a squad of veterans for every position and a few new men who will be joined to the former quintet, the Canines have the odds as the favorites in the conference loop. Last year C. of E. and McPherson shared the title. The Emporians lost most of their men through graduation. Possibly some team in the conference will stop the Bulldogs in a single encounter but nothing should keep them out of the championship this year.

Pauls will be out of practice until after the holidays because of a knee sprain received in the Ottawa football game. "Whitey" will be missed in the line up. However, there are other good men that will capably substitute for the Teutonic tribesman until he is able to go again.

FOOTBALL SQUAD TO BE GUESTS

The members of the football squad will attend a Christmas party at the Persian Room in the McCourt Hotel Friday evening, Dec 14, 1934. This party is given by both coaches, Melvin J. Binford, Lester J. Selves, and Tom Harden, a Bulldog booster. The party is to begin at 7:30.

INTRA-MURAL BASKET-BALL AROUSES KEEN INTEREST

With sixty players signed up, there promises to be keen competition and intense interest in the intra-mural basket-ball season competition this year. With so large a number out it is possible to divide into many teams. Participation in intra-mural basket-ball fulfills the freshman requirement for physical education during the season. All men are eligible to participate except those on the varsity squad.

W. A. A. VOLLEYBALL SEASON WILL CLOSE NEXT MONDAY

The W. A. A. volleyball season will be brought to a close next Monday evening when the tournament will be played. Practices have been held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 6:30 for the past four weeks. Florence DeCoursey's team has defeated Faye Sandy's in the majority of the games.

BULLDOGS' FIRST GAME WITH BETHEL COLLEGE

Coach Binford Tries Various Combinations for Team; Sure-Starters Are Tall.

With a game less than a week away with the Graymaroons of Bethel the McPherson College Bulldogs are working on various combinations in an attempt to find the quintet that will work best together.

After a week and a half of practice, the Canine squad is gradually rounding into shape, but at the best the team will not show much polish by the date of the opening game.

Coach Binford is well pleased with his tall boys. Tony Meyer heads the list, being six feet in height and weighing two hundred pounds. Others that will be almost sure-starters in the first game will be Herrold and Wiggins or Haun as forwards, and Johnston and Binford as guards.

Others that are showing up well are Kauffman, Haggood, Crabb, and Don Barngrover. These men will probably all see action in the Bethel game.

The Graymaroons have a squad of veteran players. Kennison, last year's star forward, was lost by graduation, but aside from that the team is fairly well intact. These boys always would rather beat McPherson than any other team. This year McPherson was the only team that beat Bethel in football. They will be seeking revenge at the expense of the M. C. basketballers.
