Approximately fifty young people took part in the program. Each appeared dressed to represent some certain candy and played an appropriate number on the piano. Viola Harris, Lucille Kistner, and Blanch Harris assisted in the program.

Furniture Has At Last Arrived

Furniture for the Student Union Rooms has at last arrived. The furniture which was ordered from Atlanta, Georgia has all been received. There is yet a shipment to come from Chicago.

The Alumni Banquet will be held Thursday evening. Kenneth Rock of the class of '26 will be Toastmaster. Professor Dell, of the faculty, will give the address of welcome to the class of 1936. Archie Van Nortwick, president of this year's graduating class, will give the response. Mrs. Edith McGaffey Bright will give the welcome to the class of 1926, to which Sam Kurts will give the response. Program chairman for the banquet is Moffat Eakes, Helen Holloway is general chairman. Dr. Harney is in charge of the reception of the guests.

Thursday noon the Calss of 1926 held their luncheon in the student union room. Sam Kurts, president, was in charge of the meeting. Professor Dell is general chairman.

President Entertains Seniors At Ninth Annual Reception

Observing an annual tradition, Dr. and Mrs. V. F. Schwalm entertained with a reception at their home for the members of the senior class on Saturday, May 23. This was the ninth reception given by the president. Following a delightful evening spent at games, delicious refreshments were served.

Upon their arrival at eight o'clock, the guests were served punch, poured by Miss Betty Schwalm. Various games in the form of examinations provided entertainment for the evening. The first quiz was on geography; couples were given a story with blank spaces for them to fill in with the appropriate abbreviation of some state. The next quiz was on music, where the guests attempted to recognize songs of which only a few measures were played. A comprehensive literature quiz followed the one on music. The final examination covered the fields of art. Here each one was supposed to draw a profile view of his partner.

Approximately thirty-five seniors accepted invitations to the reception.

Declarations of Friendship Fill Quadrangles

The fates weren't satisfied with having final examinations. "They decided that exams weren't enough torture so they got together and thought up some horrible plans. They finally, after a great deal of study, decided to originate the Quadrangles.

They have succeeded too well, for all over the campus students are feverishly writing in Quads. Writing cramps have become as common as cramps in a band of Hottentots swimming around the north pole.

"This has become the great feature as school draws up like lightning to a close. Each friend writing in his pal's book. The fates were, however, fooled in their plans, in that the Quadrangle experiment was a great asset to the future, each student looking back and sighing and blushing as he casts eager eyes back through those pages of scribbled passages. These little skits will certainly bring back memories of the good old times at M. C.

So let's defy the fates and make this the greatest year of the writer's cramp in the history of McPherson College.

Achievement Awards Are Given Students for Outstanding Work

Awards for achievement were presented in chapel today by Mrs. Albert Dean for the W. A. A., by Coach Binford for the Athletic Board, and by Paul Booz for the Student Council.

Dr. Smith, a "freshman of the faculty," gave tribute to McPherson College. She painted vividly with words her original picture of the College, then told wherein her picture was wrong.

Dean R. E. Mohler outlined the outstanding achievements of the past year, and compared them with the accomplishments of earlier years in his experience here.

A number of brief talks were given by seniors and alumni.

Doctor Bottrott will teach during

College Orchestra Concludes Year With Broadcast Sunday

A Sunday afternoon broadcast from KFBI, Abilene, concluded the college orchestra's busiest week. A thirty minute program or varied music was presented by the orchestra last Sunday.

The orchestra, according to comments that have been made, has just completed one of its most successful seasons in the last few years.

Other programs the orchestra has appeared on the past week were county graduation program Wednesday, and in Chapel Friday. During the year the college orchestra has given programs in other towns. Among those included were Wichita and Moundridge. Several programs have been given in McPherson, the annual concert being the main one.

Arnoldites See Preview Legally

At last the girls can say that they have seen a preview without whispering in a low tone that the fire escapes had been used or that they had stayed over night with someone. It seems that Dr. Schwalm out of the kindness of his soul decided that the girls should have a break. Hence, those that wanted to, saw "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." The whole affair which was extraordinary was climaxed by another quite out of the ordinary thing, rain. For awhile it looked as if boats could have been used to transport the Arnoldites home.

Yes Mother Emmert met them at the door but her usual demerit measuring stick was as useless as a feather. The girls arrived home at one and two with a look of aloofness and with a word or two that might have said, "I told you so."

Well, that was one way to prevent the wearing out of the fire escapes.

Paul Booz Is Chosen Chairman Of Student Conference At Estes

Paul Booz received word this week that he has been chosen to be chairman of the Student Conference at Estes Park this summer. About sixteen students from McPherson College will attend this conference which will include about 550 to 600 students.

The trip to Europe which Mr. Booz had planned for this summer will be postponed until after the conference.

Make Bird Baths For Campus

Members of Professor Deils' industrial arts classes have made two cement bird baths which they made in class and presented to McPherson College as gifts. The baths have been placed on the north and south side of Sharp Hall.

Schwalm Talks On Character

Baccalaureate Sermon Deals With Meaning of Character And Its Enemies

Music Is Included

Margaret Fry Sings and A Cappella Choir Gives Last Local Presentation

"Character and Religion" was the subject of the highly inspirational Baccalaureate sermon delivered by Dr. Schwalm Sunday night.

In a general introduction to his sermon Dr. Schwalm discussed the meaning of character giving illustrations and comparisons of good and bad character, and the advantage of social cooperation in building character.

"The qualities of a man's reactions to influences that come to bear on his life determines his character," stated Dr. Schwalm. "A man of good character selects desirable ends and pursues them by ethical means. Some characters are understandable because their methods of pursuit are unethical. Some people are 'flimsily' weak. They mean well, but they never do anything to promote ideals. Character is an process. It is not born within an individual, but is built on human relationships."

In a second division of the sermon Dr. Schwalm enumerated and discussed briefly five enemies of character. "Lack of clear, harmonious purposes in life are not labelled clearly. We must select some great purpose and then focus our powers toward the achievement of that purpose, not allowing ourselves to drift unconsciously into attitudes that have no end. A cold enemy of character rests within the clamorous inner urges that seek satisfaction at great moral, spiritual, physical, and social cost, the speaker further stated, "These are not necessarily wicked, but are a part of life's legitimate equipment that must be curbed and controlled. Self-mastery is the price of mastery of other men."

"Our friends," said Dr. Schwalm, "are perhaps the third enemy of our character. If we live by the advice of our friends alone, we are doomed for a lonely life."

"The fourth enemy is found in the people who oppose us. Many people are weaker in the face of opposition. We must prepare to face opposition such as that that Garrison met in trying to free the slaves and that constantly confronts the prohibition movement."

For the fifth enemy Dr. Schwalm pointed to "fading ideals." So many lives become cluttered with common every day experiences. The power of self-mastery stands alone in keeping one's grip on ideals."

In the third division of the sermon Dr. Schwalm pointed to some of the things religion can do for these evils: "Religion offers a supreme value and challenges individuals to loyalty to it. All pathways of truth, liberty, and peace lead to God. We should put on the altar one great value to which we are willing to give our lives."

Secondly, religion offers great communion. It gives to us a potent interior feeling of command of the fundamental principles for which we live.

In the third place religion sets one free to dynamic living.

A fourth offering of religion is that it offers great fellowship to those who wish to be inspired by thought of walking life's was in the highest fashion."

A well-balanced musical program aided in making the Baccalaureate program the inspiration that it was.

A Cappella Choir Has Picnic

The A Cappella Choir held its last rehearsal in the form of a picnic yesterday. The picnic was held at a picnic resort south of Hialeah. Baseball provided entertainment for the evening. Later the choir held its last rehearsal in preparation for the commencement program on Friday, May 29.

Have You Really Broadened This Year?

LITTLE has been left undone at McPherson College this year. As one specific example of what is Scholastic ratings have been high. Accomplishments in all fields covered by the college have been outstanding this year.

Still, there are some ways in which the students have missed the full significance of the broadening they should have received in the course of the year. They still will read the comic strips before the news is come, light fiction has top honors over real literature, and radio fans include a very small percentage of really high class entertainment on their programs.

meant, the college orchestra concert may be cited. A really fine program was given with an easy access for college students, yet the number attending was pitifully small. The audience in general numbered few, but the college students made up a very small per cent of it.

It is futile to try to analyze why the regard for the finer things of life is so submerged. Perhaps it is the fact that the students are pressed for time. Or, they may consider the fact that they have a heavy load a sufficient excuse to indulge in the lighter entertainments only. At any rate, there is a lack of real appreciation and we feel something should be done.

They're Climbing on the Upward Way

Mildred Stutzman is an outstanding star among the women athletes of M. C. She has participated in basketball, soccer, volley ball, and has been a member of the W. A. A. for four years. Mildred is known for her systematic and business-like manner of attacking every task that confronts her. History is her major field. She has, in addition to her athletic activities, been a member of International Relations club, World Service, and Y. W.

Aethle an Northwick, president of the senior class, has been outstanding in athletics during his college career. During the first two years he played football and since his sophomore years he has been active in track. He has been business manager of the Quadrangle. He was a member of the Thespians Club and had a major part in the senior play, "The Romantic Age."

Glenn Webb has practically lived his college career in the chemistry laboratory. His major is chemistry. He has been a member of the Chemistry club, and has served as an assistant in the chemistry department. Glenn has also been a member of the Y. M., the Quadrangle staff, and The Spectator staff. Glenn and his, or his family's car, have been of considerable service as a special taxi or bus for the transportation of individuals, deputation groups, and the like.

If anyone needs something done, some advice, or a cheery word, the person he looks for is Leta Wine. She is known as the girl with the perpetual smile. Leta has been president of the Y. W., and has been active in World Service. Her interest in music led her to participation in the Pep Band, Church Choir, and a quartet. Leta has been coach for the Senior play, "The Romantic Age."

Carrol Whitcheer is a man of business. About all that is seen of him on the campus is a streak he makes with the Silver Springs delivery truck. Carrol did part of his work at the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas at College station, Texas. Carrol is majoring in commerce.

Professor Mohler will be the guest speaker at the Alumni Banquet at Kansas State Teacher's College at Hayes on Saturday. He will also give the annual alumni address Saturday night.

Peterson-Duncanson Wed at College Church

The marriage of Miss Arvilla Peterson to Mr. David Duncanson was solemnized Sunday, May 24. The ceremony was read by Dr. V. F. Schwalm, in the Brethren church after the regular morning services. David Metzger and Harold Mohler lighted the candles while Margaret Polster played "I Love You Truly," Professor Voran sang "Oh Promise Me" and "I Love You True." The processional was Lovengrin's "Wedding March." During the ceremony Miss Polster played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The bride was dressed in a blue silk crepe dress with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, Joy Cullen, was dressed in pink with white accessories. The groom was dressed in black. Clarence Sink, best man, was also dressed in black.

After the wedding ceremony, the couple received congratulations in the reception hall of the church.

Plan Good Lyceum Next Year

The Lyceum Course for the next year is to consist of the following: 1. Masters singers which bring with them an octette, director and accompanist from Chicago. (2) Le Petit Ensemble entertainment, (3) Whiting Williams who will lecture on "The Workers and His Problems, and (4) Fred Eastman, lecturer, and (5) Carl Van Hoffman, explorer.

Dave Duncanson of Wiley, Colorado, has been visiting friends on the campus over the week-end.

Seniors Give Play May Day; Eighth Graders Special Guests

"The Romantic Age," the Senior Play, was given at the Community Building last Wednesday evening as part of the May Day festival of the city. The play was given for the benefit of the eighth grade graduates of the county. This is the second presentation of the play this spring. The class received 40 per cent of the proceeds for their presentation.

Dr. and Mrs. Brown shopped in Wichita one day last week.

Lillian Pauls, a former M. C. student visited Margaret Hahn on May Day.

Exams are over! When I had finished my last agonizing two hours I felt worse than Lady MacBeth in the sleep-walking scene when she continued to repeat, "What's done cannot be undone."

This sn't that: Laurels to our brilliant-looking faculty robed in the gowns of their professions. And laurels to the Seniors for whom mere adjectives are not adequate. . . . These soon-to-be-separated couples make awfully interesting studies for one's sly observation. I'm from the desire to weep for them or to slap their faces and tell them to wake up. . . . Crack shot in the Trail of the Loneome Pine: "Two pink-eyed doves sitting in a tree; one for you and one for me."

I snuffle with great turmoil of feeling when I think that for three months I shall miss; the bombarding noise of the chapel books being dropped in their holders; the excitement of staying up until midnight studying; the flippant sincerity of Dr. Flory; the restless mob in the library; the roses I am often given after work on Saturdays; the hollow thrill of being penniless with all resources five hundred miles away; the disgrace of admitting, "I don't know"; the trivial caretaking of Foreney; the up-to-the-minute news items that abound in the art room; the inevitable sufferings of our long mourned Jezebel.

And oh! I'm going to miss Guordie Green too. Those words will somehow have to state my feelings because like Cyrano I just can't say such things in 'formal nosegay order.'

Dr. and Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Emmert, Miss Lehman, and Dr. Smith spent Sunday visiting Dr. and Mrs. Petry.

Professor Voran and Margaret Fry went to Lorraine Friday evening to attend an Alumni Banquet.

(From the Diary of Gourdie Green)

Thurs., May 21. Disappointed today because the Specs didn't come out but I got a good job which helps me endure the suspense.
OBITUARY—JEZEBEL

Jezebel, youngest child of Frank Forney, Ph. D. (doctor of phumes), was born in Forney Hall January 23, 1936, and departed this life May 20, 1936, as a result of a severe burn. She remained a widow all her eventful life. She was a member of the Knights of Terror, and the scholastic sorority, Goada Guyta Boose. She lived a hectic, well-meaning, but—on account of inherited inhibitory weakness—useless life; and leaves to mourn her passing a host of c'usins, and nobody we have been able to find.

Jezebel was a consistent sufferer from schizophrenia, the deterioration being especially marked after a series of convulsions and a stroke of paralysis on April 6 (the attending physician being Willard Fleming), and other occasional attacks, and passed to her final rest as a result of justifiable homicide.

Funeral services were held in the attic of Sharp Hall at midnight of the second Tuesday this week, according to economical arrangements by Prof. Fries. The eulogy was gladly rendered by Dr. Petry, and the remains laid to rest in a dusty corner of the infernal regions of Sharp Hall.

There is now an empty washtub in the regions overhead. There's many an empty classroom, whence raucous sounds have fled. How thick in the neighboring graveyard the little hillocks lie. And the latest hillock represents one less demon in the sky.

Fri. 22. We had a good chapel this morning. I am especially happy to have Dr. Bright class me as a good student by saying it was important to develop and exercise the art of conversation. I'd rather get into a conversation with a bunch of the boys than to study any time. A bunch of the girls moved from the dorm porch to the west one on Fanny tonight, but we couldn't have that so, carried their things back. After that a bunch of ostriches went here and there doing this and that until some visitors came with flashlights and a car and then the birds flew.

Sat. 23. Rained to-day. I was too sleepy to go out and work, but I did get some back work done. Boy it seems I don't have time to sleep or rest or anything besides study, hardly time to get into my daily good deed.

Sun. 24. Boy! (things are sure crowding in on me, there was so much to do. I had to do some studying today, much as I hated to do it. I have been keeping Sunday as a day of relaxation and rest from my school work all year, but things finally piled up to where I had to do it. I sponse a lot of folks will laugh at me for having to break my rule, but it still holds for next year, and anyway before they say too much they ought to make a good resolution like that and only break it once in 35 tries or so. I think it's better to try and fail occasionally than never to try at all. Went to Baccalaureate tonight, and the pros were there in all their be-robed regal splendor. Bright sure looked dignified and Petry looked un-concerned like he knew the honor was deserved. Some of the robes looked more like an afterthought. I wonder if the moths got into Dr. Smith's uniform or why she sat back in the crowd in civilian clothes. I thought Dr. Schwalm sure made a good address.

Mon. 25. Whew! I don't think I ever will get through all these tests. I haven't had a bit of time to reveue and I tried to think so hard my head feels like the first of January. The hardest test to pass was to get Frieg's permission to take the other tests. Pooley- it's too muddy to pull any pranks tonight.

Tue. 26. Boy, I feel all in, but I finally did all I could do to my tests and now it remains to be seen what they have done to me. I still got a lot of work to do though on account of not doing what I should do when I should do it. Heard rumors of things going on outside tonight, but decided I couldn't afford a dollar for amusement just now.

Wed. 27. Boy I'm still writing papers and wishing I had worked harder. Just found out where the Industrial Arts books are. Chapel was good this morning, Smith made a dandy tribute to a good college Sure was a good testimony meeting, with the Seniors all shedding their last tears, and Messamer looking forward to some grand years in the future. Hope I get to make one of those "I didn't intend to but it's been so much fun" speeches. I don't know how I manage to keep out of mischief so well these last few days.

Thurs. 28. Did a little bit of a lot of things today. Since there isn't much else to do I guess I'll kind of figure out where I been and write a set of rules for next year.

How To Get By in College:

1. Never let your school work interfere with your education.
2. Save all your laboratory experiments until the last two weeks, so you will have something to do then.
3. Have your eyes tested and get glasses so you can see as far as possible in examinations; the more papers you can see, the wider choice of good answers you will have.
4. Never miss a show in town.
5. Make your room the rendez-vous for all bull sessions, and never miss one elsewhere, whether you have any studying to do or not; they might be about to discover whether the hen came ahead of the egg.
6. Never go to bed at night. You can always sleep in class when there is nothing important going on.
7. Enroll in one class under Bowman each semester so you will get some deep sleep.
8. Never miss a monopoly game.
9. Go to class any time it suits, or not at all; good students are self reliant.
10. Never pay any attention to anybody else in the dining hall, but eat all you can hold and never take any exercise.
11. Remember Hershey wants brief, concise answers in examinations.
12. If you want a library, wake the boys up early Sunday morning to go to church.
13. Remember, the library is there so you will have some place to take your date or chat with your friends—it has such a stimulating atmosphere it is truly remarkable how much more you can think of than usually. If you do get a book, never sign the card and just throw it down wherever you get through with it.
14. Try to find all your reserve shelves by the last week of the semester.
15. Never let them make you think a new thought; it might change you.

16. Never go to a teacher for help unless it is to fool her by making her think you are getting something out of the course.

17. Don't pay attention to rules; they are just made to plague you anyway.

18. Never hand in your work on time, for there will be plenty of time to do it later.

19. Go home at least twice a month, it helps keep your mind off your school work.

20. Never let them intrigue you into doing anything you don't have to.

Fri. 29. Commencement was a dream—wonder if it'll ever come true for me. Here I been wanting school to get out all spring so I could get home to my summer's work and Henrietta, and now its here I just hate to leave. This is such a swell bunch here and they treat you so wonderful it hurts to say goodbye Home tonight.

EPILOGUE

So ends the freshman year of Gourdie Green. I wish to express my appreciation to the editor for the freedom he has given me, to various ones for inspiration, and to the rest of you for your support. And finally, I wish to pay this tribute to one who has endured cheerfully countless fictitious references, made to add humor or interest to the diary, with the bigness of heart to read them impersonally;—to the one who is Henrietta to me, Miss Agnes Black of McLouth.

M. C. Fares Well In Track This Season

Small Bunch Out for School Team—Juniors Win Most Honors with Haun & Meyer

McPherson College fared well through the season's track campaign, considering the small group of aspirants for track honors.

The track season of 1932 opened with an inter-class track meet. The juniors easily won with a total of 49 1/2 points. The freshmen were second with 32 1/2, with the seniors closed behind with 26 points. The sophomores were fourth with a total of 18 points.

Haun and Meyer, juniors, formed a formidable pair, as each seized 32 1/2 points and 15 1/2 points respectively. Vaughn was second on the scoring list with 26 points.

In the initial meet with Bethel McPherson's unexperienced track team went down to defeat before the heavy onslaught of track veterans that Bethel had produced, 84 to 72.

Lee Haun is outstanding man. Lee Haun was the outstanding man of the meet. He entered seven events and piled up a total of 25 points to take individual scoring honors. Meyer easily won the discus and shot put to add to the Bulldog total.

The Bulldogs still feeling the sting of defeat from the Bethelites trounced on Sterling and came out on the big end of the points 78 to 53. McPherson's track team showed much improvements and placed in every event.

McPherson Relays Is Main Event

The McPherson Relays on May 11, was the outstanding track feature of the year. McPherson College captured fourth place with 21 points. College of Emporia was first with 69 points. Kansas Wesleyan emerged a poor second with 36 points, followed closely by Bethel with 30 1/2 points.

Because of the rain, Southwestern, Ottawa, Baker, and Friends failed to appear which hindered somewhat the success of the meet. Two McPherson Relay's records were broken and one tied. Lindbloom of C. of E. set a new shotput record of 41 feet 8 inches. The javelin record was lengthened by Herzman, also of College of Emporia. Rock also an Emporia man, tied the 120-yard high hurdle record in 16.6 seconds.

Haun of McPherson, record holder in the pole vault, although hindered by the wet ground, cleared the bar at 11 feet 6 inches. Meyer, McPherson's discus record holder, failed to surpass his record with a throw of 127 feet 1 inch.

McPherson was represented by Meyer, Reinecker, and Toland in the conference meet at Baker. Haun placed second in the pole vault and Meyer tossed the plate for 135 feet 8 inches to place a first for the Bulldogs. Reinecker brought in a third in the two mile heat to add to the total. McPherson was fifth with 10 points and Baker edged out Ottawa's 47 1/2 points to take first with 51 points. College of Emporia was third and Kansas Wesleyan fourth with 21 1/2 and 26 1/2 respectively.
