S. C. M. Pictures Of Estes Camp

Reels of 1937 Rocky Mountain Christian Conference To Be Shown

Moving pictures of the 1937 Rocky Mountain Student Christian Conference at Estes Park, Colorado, will be shown in the general S. C. M. meeting, Tuesday, May 17.

The inspiration reaching you through this conference is brought into your consciousness by living with and through contacts with experienced leaders; with fellow students of the Rocky Mountain region. This camp is a chance to learn how you stand in relation to the Universe, God, and yourself. There are ten days in which to climb new heights, actually, spiritually and intellectually.

Typewriting and shorthand are Ohio Wesleyan University courses.

Operatic Soprano

Hilda Burke, bright young star of the Metropolitan Opera Association, will appear here with Charles Hackett Metropolitan tenor, in the first concert of the McPherson Cooperative Concert Association next November. This Baltimore girl made her debut in 1927 with the Chicago Opera in "Aida."

Fine Arts Faculty In Final Program

Final Program of Year Will be Presented by Members Sunday

As the final musical program of the year by the McPherson College music faculty, a vesper concert will be presented by Miss Jessie Brown, Miss Fern Lingenfelter, Mr. Loren Crawford, and Mr. Nevin Fisher next Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church. The program will begin at 4 o'clock and the public is invited.

Most of the numbers on the program will be group numbers. However, Miss Lingenfelter will open the program with several organ solos. Miss Lingenfelter, instructor in piano at the college, is appearing in this concert as an organist. She has held the position of organist at the Presbyterian church this year. Several interesting combinations have been worked out, the most interesting perhaps being the group for voice, violin, piano, and organ. This unusual combination is seldom used by musical groups, but is very interesting from the standpoint of ensemble.

The program is comprised of Ave Maria by Bach-Gounod, Meditation from "Pia" by Massenet, O' Mine Those Tears by Del Riego, O Lord Most Holy by Cesar Franck, the famous Handel's Largo from "Xerxes," and Fantasia by Clifford Demarest.

Appearing with Miss Crawford is Marcus Gordon, pianist, whose brilliant and facile technique as well as his well chosen, joyful, have brought him high recommendations from the critics.

Play Read In Chapel

Advanced Expression Class Presents "Overtones" By Gerstenbery

"Overtones", a one act play by Alice Gerstenbery, was presented by the advanced expression class in the form of a matinee frolic at the chapel program, Friday morning, May 6.

This type of play is read with no exits, entrances or action on the part of the readers. The actions of the play are read by an interpreter, who makes all necessary explanations.

There are four characters in this play. The parts were taken by Vera Heckman, who read the part of Harriet, a cultured woman; Helen Dean Gibson was Hetty, Harriet's primitive self. LaVena High read the part of Margaret, a cultured woman, and Glee Goughour was Maggie, Margaret's primitive self. The cultured woman said only the conventional things to each other, while the primitive selves expressed the real thoughts of the cultured women. Josephine Shirar was the interpreter for the play.

To Hear Tenor

Charles Hackett is one of the most popular tenors of the Metropolitan Opera. He appears in McPherson next winter in joint concert recital with Miss Hilda Burke, also of the Metropolitan, on the McPherson Cooperative Concert Association series.

Popular Artists Selected For Year

Metropolitan Stars, Violinist, And Reader, On Concert Program

McPherson Cooperative Concert Association members closed their second annual membership campaign Saturday afternoon in a satisfactory and successful manner, officers stated.

J. E. Stover, Columbia Cooperative Concert representative who was in charge of the week campaign, said the results were more than gratifying, especially since Lindsay this year is forming its own Association and approximately 170 memberships were thus lost to the McPherson Association from last year's lists.

The local talent committee met Saturday night to elect the artists who will appear here next winter, and an outstanding program was chosen. Charles Hackett and Hilda Burke, both popular Metropolitan stars will appear in joint concert here as the opening number in November. Iso Briselli, brilliant young violinist, who for several years was with the Philadelphia Orchestra as soloist, and who has appeared in joint recital with Josef Hoffman, will be the second artist who will be presented here. Student Body Yesterday Voted Former Treasurer Into Office

Stover, Treasurer

Sophomore Wins Race For Second Office In Rank

William Thompson, senior, emerged victorious as the president of the Student Council in a rather noisy election yesterday. Steven Stover, a Junior, was elected as his aide as treasurer.

Thompson was treasurer of the Student Council this year, president of his class, and has been active in debate and oratory. Stephen Stover was president of his Freshmen class and this year was business manager of the Quadrangle.

Dale Stucky will be next year's Spectator editor, not being contented in the election. Carl Smucker barely nosed out his contender for the office of editor of the Quadrangle. Gordon Bower ran unopposed as business manager of the Quadrangle. Dean Prantz was supported by a majority to win the business management of the Spectator.

Three cheerleader were elected unopposed; Rilla Hubbard and Olive Edgcomb were reelected, with Eugene Charbonneau being the newly elected Freshmen cheerleader.

This year's election, although quiet, was supported by the largest number of students for a number of years, with 210 voting.

Ballyhoosers were quite witty, but lacked the force and enthusiasm of former years. They were as follows: Alberta Keller for Phillip Myers, resident of the Student Council; Edward Jones for Thompson, president of the Student Council; John Bower for Joelle Letkeman, treasurer of the Student Council; Dave McGill for Stephen Stover, treasurer of the Student Council; Lowell Brubaker for Smucker, Quadrangle editor; Mark Porter for Gordon Yoder, Quadrangle editor; Raymond Flory for Dean Prantz, Spectator Business Manager; and Dwight Horner for Donald Davidson, Spectator Business Manager.

Dell Entertains Graduate Majors

Seniors and Guests Entertained at Dinner by Major Professor.

Ten Industrial Arts majors and their guests were entertained at dinner at Prof. Dell's home, Wednesday evening. Each of the guests received a small souvenir suggestive of the Industrial Arts, such as hammers, wrenches, and screw drivers.

After dinner, each of the majors was called upon to give a three minute talk on a subject suggested by Prof. Dell. The ladies participated in a "Professor Quiz" after the talks. The rest of the evening was spent playing games and in informal conversation.

Those present, majoring in Industrial Arts were: Donald Barringer, Erwin Bentz, Lyle Brower, Thad Fretz, George Toland, Herbert Kenberry, Chet Johnston, Lowell Brubaker, Martin Seidel, and Mark Porter.

Choir Ends Season

The past Sunday evening the A Cappella Choir was splendidly entertained with a 6:30 o'clock lunch by the ladies of the Monitor church. After being quite satisfied with that part of the visit, the members of the choir endeavored to return the favor by giving this neighbor church the best concert of the year.

Many comments of the program led many to believe that it was the best given. This concert was the last full evening's program that the choir will give. The McPherson College A Cappella completes another successful year.

Dignified Seniors Retreat From Faculty Discipline and Classes

Rain? Not rain but retreat! So said the seniors as they departed Monday afternoon for a retreat from faculty discipline and classes. The possibility of a damp bed and chilled bones created some doubt before Monday noon but nothing seemed to dampen the senior's spirit so they captured Dr. Bright in a good mood and taking him along escaped to twin mounds for the evening.

A ball game before supper proved that the girls could do their part in spite of Rae Toland's skepticism which excluded Bertie. We also found that Mac has a new way of playing ball. Then supper—the marginal utility on wetters is very high said Ronnie.

What an evening. Moon light streamed down upon green hills interlaced with rows of dark trees. The air was liquidly still, voices floated far, echoes produced a sense of unreality until Evelyn's giggle came back and sounded so familiar. Rocks, earth and trucks held bed rolls containing seniors trying to sleep. There really were no pillows except those "few" who returned after prayers had been said. Don't tell Mother Emmert because Dr. Bright did set a "closing hour".

The break of dawn found seniors crawling from their nests. The girls can no longer keep the secret of how they look before they put on their second face. Cold, cold water dashed on our faces awoke us thoroughly for the day. Soon breakfast was ready. Our appetites had increased during the night. Before breakfast was over our number was increased by those other seniors who were unable to partake of the nights experience.

Sallina found the seniors occupying the park, tennis, courts, tables and river on Tuesday. Did the grass feel good between your toes Avis and Mark? Barney's a real help as a cook and Dr. Bright is one grand sport. We liked him. We returned to McPherson from our last retreat weary but happy.

Why of Student Christian Movement

To exist, an individual, or an organization must justify that existence. For many years, organizations have been kept alive when they had no right to live, and would have been much more valuable dead. In fact, many would be happy to attend the funeral of some of them.

However, there are some small organizations that have some distinct values but because of their weakness are not able to make themselves felt in any large way on the campus. Herein lies the value of having an united student movement.

There are principally two reasons, among many others, for a S. C. M.

1. It is a federation of all Christian groups on the campus with united efforts to make Christian precepts a vital part of life. The smaller groups, who have a message and who otherwise would be too weak to propagate it, enjoy the strength of a large group and can thus make their influence felt. Such a federation would be a distinct value to the cause of peace, for example, or for the World Service. At the present time the peace movement is not concentrated in any one group; the World Service with its vital program suffers because of the strength of the S. C. M. If these two groups were a part of the federation, they could enjoy the strength of the S. C. M. and at the same time, not lose their aims but have them strengthened.

2. The second purpose of a student movement is the attempt to put into effect the practical application of the Christian message. As you will know, that has often been dubbed by strange names; radical, left wing, red, anarchist, etc. It seems strange that members of a church that claims to be a leader in Christian idealism and whose founders were 100 years ahead of their time in ideals of brotherhood, peace, temperance, etc., should look with advance upon movements for social equality and cooperation. To be more specific, only the young leaders have asked this question: "Why are efforts for cooperation discouraged even in our own college?"

All of this merely opens up the discussion of why a Student Christian Movement. The big answer is: to apply the principles of Christ if possible, on our own campus. An united movement looks beyond denominational lines and yet maintains denominational integrity when desirable.—L. H.

Flory Recital Popular

Misses Vera and Vera Flory, twin musical artists, presented a joint recital, last Friday evening in the college chapel.

With Vera Flory, pianist, and Vera Flory, violinist, alternating, they presented a pleasing and varied repertoire. A large audience, by their applause, gave evidence to its popularity.

The repertoire consisted of piano selections from Bach, Beethoven, Handel, Rhein-Baton, Liszt, and Godard; violin selections from Corelli, Spalding, Kreisler, Gardner, and Bruch.

Charles Waggoner—"Charlie" is little but he's mighty. He is in the A Cappella choir and the orchestra. He is assistant choir director of the church and his major is science and he may teach.

Daniel W. Zook—Dan has been one of the outstanding leaders on the campus. He is one of the few who has been in the A Capella Choir all four years. He has been a leader in the activities of the choir as well as in the boy's dormitory. His major is in education and he is considering teaching.

Charles Nettleton—"Charlie" is another one of our outstanding soloists. He attended Winona Teachers College, Winona, Minnesota, his freshman year before coming here. He has been a member of the A Capella choir his three years here, as well as the variety male quartette. His major is history and he plans to teach.

Kurtis Naylor—"Babe" has been active in athletics, World Service, and S. C. M., being on the cabinet in the latter. He has been assistant to Prof. Mohler and his major is in Biology. He already has a teaching position and he is overjoyed because it is not far away.

Mark Porter—Mark is one of our most outstanding trackmen, having set two school records last year. Mark spent his first two years at Independence Junior College, Independence, Kansas. His major is in Industrial Arts and he plans to teach and coach.—R. F.

Mother's Day R. Y. P. D.

String Choir Concert

The Hutchinson string choir gave a concert at the Brethren church, last Sunday evening. This choir, an organization started last year, is under the direction of S. Alan Watrous, band and orchestra leader in the Hutchinson high school.

The choir, largely made up of high school and junior college students, displayed remarkable ability for such a group. This concert was the second they had given at McPherson.

Hutchinson Choir Here

Wednesday morning the Hutchinson Junior college Choir directed by Mr. Bernard Regier, gave a forty-five minute program in the McPherson College Chapel. Mr. Regier is director of Music in the Hutchinson Public Schools. The choir wore robes of Royalallure.

Smyth Voices Appreciation

Miss Smyth wishes to thank the students, faculty, and friends of McPherson College for many kindnesses in the form of visits, cards, flowers, and other gifts, besides numerous helpful and comforting services, all of which have aided in consoling her since her unfortunate accident, suffering a severe break of her limb.

Among these favors should be mentioned her use of the S. C. M. room, which she appropriated, it is to be feared without asking permission. She appreciates also the patience shown by all during this time when she has been unable to perform her duties properly. These past weeks have increased her affection for McPherson College and her desire that happy and fruitful years may lie ahead of it.

« « COLLEGE DAZE » »

Student elections have come once more, reminding us again that about nine-eighths of politics is pure tommyrot—beg pardon, did I say pure? It smells to high heaven! And, speaking of heaven, we are reminded of Sheller's comment that there must be work to do in heaven, because we would get tired of singing praises to God for a million years, to which Dr. Metzler replied, "Maybe He would get tired of it too."

Betty Gay speculates as to who will be "the next in line to follow the other ten happy and mutual promises." Well, as one speculator to another, why don't you? Does it have something to do with the million dollars Paden asked about?

We went to the concert Sunday night, and heard some good music. I like to hear those low notes roll out. Sometimes the violin seems to squeak, sometimes to shriek, but the cello and the viola just rumble along—I like powerful music. (Maybe that is why I like to hear a freight train roar past with the engineer whistling while he works). All the time they were playing I kept thinking, "It will be all right if the old boy does not reach out too far and swat that blond with his baton." I think the choir members had the most fun in their jam sessions backstage.

I had fun when I went to town to buy the little woman a pair of slacks. I strolled into the ladies' department in the store with that perfect composure which comes only from a guilty conscience, feeling about as inconspicuous as good English in a college conversation. Finally I picked out a sympathetic-looking saleslady, and tried to make her understand what was wanted. She grasped the fundamental proposition with commendable alacrity, assisting in the selection with remarkable judgment and consideration. Shucks! I believe I could do that again—as Ben Franklin put it, "Experience is a queer teacher."

so I guess we had better tell you all about it. We had a good ball game, although the umpire did seem to be a little prejudiced toward Dr. Bright's side—too near final time to take any chances. McGonigle was kind enough to hold the ball while the other side filled the bases with the winning run.

We took Dr. Bright along instead of Buck because we couldn't get anyone to drive Buck's car for him and we did not want any accidents. George and Ray appeared to be pretty much alone in their car, with four unconscious people in the back.

It was moonlight, and we climbed to the hilltop to sit on the rocks and sing. Then we strolled across the hills. Off in the distance two groups were singing "Home on the Range" antiphonally from two adjacent hilltops. I never heard it sung so beautifully before. And then they stood to sing the college song. There is something about being out in Ggd's great outdoors on a moonlight night—

The radio signed off at one o'clock, and things quieted down except for a few interruptions. We slept well, although our blankets were too short on both ends and too narrow on both sides. It was some sight, I'm telling you to see the girls come down to the pump to get their faces wet and take their teeth out and wash them. We were agreeably surprised to learn they are not so bad looking without their war-paint after all. But it was not long until the mirrors and so forth came out and you could begin to be sure who was who again. And so on through a busy day.

Boy, it was tough having to get out and limp off to school next day. I was stiff as an old plow-horse. The Seniors left chapel like the march of

Campbell in Recital

Miss Frances Campbell, violinist will be heard in recital next Monday night in the college chapel. The program, beginning at 8 o'clock, will be open to the public.

Miss Campbell, a student of Prof. Loren Crawford, is one of the outstanding violinists of the school. She appeared in recital last year with remarkable success, and served as concertmaster of the College-Community orchestra last year, and the Violin choir this year. She was also a member of the McPherson String Quartet last year.

Her program is comprised of numbers taken from the early classical school of violin composition to the modern works. Included in the recital are the Sonata in e minor by Veracini, the Lalo F major concerto, Adagio from the Third Suite by Riles, and Sarasate's Zapateado. Miss Campbell presented the same program last Tuesday night at Canton.

Frances Campbell went to Canton Tuesday night to give a violin recital. Lucille Ullery was her piano accompanist.

Bulldogs Enter K. C. Track Meet

Eight McPherson Tracksters Participating In Events At Baldwin.

Unless incident weather this afternoon forces postponement of the conference track meet at Baker University, Baldwin, the finals will be run off this afternoon. Beginning at 10 o'clock this morning the trial heats and preliminary eliminations were made.

Coach "Buck" Astle is entering only eight men in the meet. They are Rollin Wanamaker, high hurdles, broad jump, mile relay, and high jump; Joelle Letkeman, high and low hurdles and mile relay; Olan Ninceheler, 880 and mile relay; Mark Porter, mile and 2-mile; Dan Zook, shot and discus; Tony Meyer, shot and discus; Dave McGill, shot and discus; LaVorne York, mile relay.

Possibly "Hucks" Van Vleet and Glen Funk will enter the broad jump and high jump, but at this writing it is indefinite. College of Emporia won the meet last year and will again bring a strong team this season, however, they will be faced with much stronger competition.

Doubles Team to Baker

Salina, May 10—McPherson college and Bethany college tennis players represented the western division of the Kansas conference in the annual conference meet at Baldwin yesterday as a result of a playoff here.

The doubles team of Barnegrover-Rothrock, McPherson, will go to Baker. This team drew a bye in the first round Monday and then defeated Shaw-Piper, Wesleyan, 6-4, 6-0.

Results could not be obtained of the conference meet in time for publication.

The Quakers will play a return game with the Bulldogs at McPherson on All-Schools Day, May 18.

Etiquette and advanced etiquette are Cleveland College courses.

Cinders In Your Eye

By The Colonel
Conference Crystal—

Regardless of the high-scoring Ottawa Braves, Bud Selves' highly-touted Presbys, and the Baker Wildcats, McPherson may accumulate enough points this afternoon to take first place or runner-up in the conference meet at Baker.

With a splendid chance to win the laurels in the hurdles, discus, mile, 2-mile, 880, and high jump, the Bulldogs deserve more than passing notice. The mile relay team, Ninceheler, Wanamaker, Letkeman, and York, will probably be near the top.

Don Meek has returned to the Ottawa aggregation to gain consideration in shot and discus events. Other high-geared performers will be Cliff Rock and Johnson, C. of E.; Jack O'Neal and Bill Mattis, Ottawa; George Bonebrake and Earl DeLafield, Baker.

A big question mark is raised on McPherson's strength on the sprints, broad jump, and javelin. Coach Astle will probably enter no men in these events.

Track is an individual sport and the team that wins is the one which has the most men in proper condition and a competitive spirit. Captained by Mark Porter, the Canines hope that individual performers will place first in many events.

Around the Horn—
With Marvin "Gabby" Fox, Tony "Screwball" Voshell, Bob "Southpaw" Wiegand, Meredith Rogers, Jack Oliver, Dave "Tennessee Terrier" McGill, Olan Ninceheler, "Slinging Sam" Elrod, Earl "Smoky" Mathiot, Bob Frantz, and Dohn "Fly Swatter" Miller, composing a first-rate baseball team, it is time for weeping and wailing because the college is not able to support the great American pastime.

In makeshift uniforms and using poor equipment, the Bulldog ning has eagerly practiced "just for fun" in order to gain valuable experience under the tutelage of a former short stop, Coach "Buck" Astle.

If it were possible for the college to purchase bats, balls, protectors, uniforms, shoes, and socks, the boys would be even more willing to buy their own caps, gloves, and individual equipment.

On All-School's Day, May 18, the Canines will play the Friends nine in a return engagement at the athletic park. Roxbury high school will meet either Moundridge or Huhler in a preliminary.

Adjoining the south edge of the Prairie Gardens nursery, the park will probably be filled to a capacity by enthusiastic downtown boosters.

Olan Ninceheler is characterized by teammates as a "human dynamo" . . . . After working on the campus most of the afternoon, "Olie" goes through a full track workout in about thirty minutes, then he practices baseball. . . . Marvin Fox, Bulldog backstop, plans to tryout this summer for the Larned Ban Johnson team. . . . By exchanging a dollar bill and passing it to Coach Astle, Dale Stucky, Mark Porter, Roy Robertson, Dave McGill, and Gordon Bower almost convinced Tony Meyer he had to pay for winning his points during the track season.

The postponed Sterling Relays will be run off Tuesday under the klieg lights. . . . Everything we said about the respective teams is still valid, however, McPherson will claim its share of trophies and medals. . . . Dewey Burrows, Canjine grid center, has moved to Denver, but he cheered up gridsters by announcing his plans to don Bulldog togs next fall. . . . plenty of best wishes to Kurt Naylor on his new coaching position at Hollywood, where he will also teach social sciences. . . . Marvin Killfol, Bethany Swede, will coach next year at Lost Springs.

Initial Contest Lost By Canines

Bulldogs Return To Diamond After 8 Years; Drop Game 5-0.

Wichita, May 11—The McPherson college Bulldogs returned to the diamond yesterday for the first time in eight years and dropped a 5-0 decision to the Friends university Quakers on the local field.

McCaul, Friends hurler, allowed only four hits and led the Quaker attack with two hits. Bob Wiegand, starting pitcher for McPherson, was ineffective in giving up three hits in part of the first inning. Meredith Rogers replaced him and turned in a brilliant performance by fanning eleven opponents.

The Bulldogs showed plenty of hustle in their first encounter of the season, but were weak at the plate.
