VOL. XXIV. Z-223

McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPHERSON KANSAS, FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1941

NUMBER FIFTEEN

They Tell Me—

Tomorrow night McPherson will contest her rival college to the north, Kansas Wesleyan, in a friendly game of basketball. Rated pre-season favorite, Kansas Wesleyan is doped by many to win by not too small a margin. Wesleyan has only lost one conference game and that to Baker university.

McPherson, typically a dark-horse, has always enjoyed upsetting the conference hopes of Kansas Wesleyan and has had the pleasure quite often. With the Bulldogs building an improved team, the game should be very interesting. We don't predict a win or a loss, but upsets still happen.

On the subjects of upsets, the present basketball season of the Big Six Conference is an excellent example. Kansas university, regarded by most sports fans to be a shoo-in before the season started, lost a game to Oklahoma. Kansas State, not regarded too highly in the conference race, upset Oklahoma after losing to Nebraska.

Kansas won a close game from Iowa State, previously beaten. Of the six teams in the Big Six only Missouri was unbeaten up to Wednesday, and only then because it hadn't yet played any conference games. No team is going to go through the Big Six this year with a perfect record.

Tuesday night witnessed the Kansas Wesleyan cagers defeat the Bethel college squad 49 to 32. The game was really much more lop-sided than the score indicates, but with Russell and the rest of the Bethel squad manhandling Hunt and other Coyote cagers the Salina team was showed down a little and the game was even a little ragged. In the opinion of the editor, who witnessed the game, there isn't a single team in the Kansas Conference against whom Wesleyan couldn't make 100 points any evening that they make a half-way decent percentage of their shots. They get that many GOOD chances.

But Vic Ebaugh, who agnored high-scoring honors in the Tuesday affair with 17 points but who also played the more important part of spark-plugging his team in their last-half spurt, was dissatisfied with his performance.

Concerning the game Saturday night, when the brave Bulldogs encounter the last squad from Salina, Ebaugh said, "McPherson's going to be tough. McPherson always

Sports Day Brings Co-Eds From 7 Schools

Robin Hood, His Merry Band Theme For All-Day Program Tomorrow

Robin Hood and his Merry Band will be the theme of the volleyball Sports Day, which is sponsored each year by the Women's Athletic Association of McPherson College. Twelve nearby colleges have been invited to attend the annual fund-day which will take place tomorrow on Macampus.

Seven colleges have reported, so far, that they are planning to participate. They include Sterling college, Central college, Bethany college, Southwestern college, Bethel college, Wichita university, Friends university, and McPherson. Five girls and one sponsor from each college are expected to come.

Co-eds will be met at the gymnasium door tomorrow morning by Macampus girls, arrayed in Robin Hood hats, and will be given their identification cards. Doris Voshell, president of the W. A. A., will welcome the group and a group-mixer will be in charge of Miss Lilyan Warner, sponsor of the club. At 10:00 a. m. two rounds of volleyball will be played between the mixed teams.

During the lunch, which will be served in the gymnasium, Donna Jean Johnson will give a reading and Lois Lawson and Marilyn Sandy will present a stunt. There will be a special musical number and also group singing.

The last round of volleyball will be played at 1:15, after which the teams will be presented with their awards. Everything is being carried out in Robin Hood motif, including identification tags, official's badges, color bands, the lunch, the favors, and awards.

Members of the W. A. A. club will assist as umpires, linesmen, referees, and time-keepers. Referees for the day will be Gladys Watkins, Edith Spengler, Ruby Peterson, and Lois Lawson. Harriet Pratt, Mary Ann Stucky, Geneva Schiehuber, Barbara Hamm, Wanda Howard, Twila Peck, Jean McNichol and Helen Kittell will be linesmen.

Alta Gross, Marilyn Sandy, Doris Duane, and Flora Mae Brooks will act as umpires. Scorekeepers are Margaret Hamm, Dorothy Gross, Frances Petefish and Maurine Blair. The timekeepers will be Bernadine Ebbert, Lucile Harris, Dora Vandamant, and Esther Unruh.

Macollege Teachers Are Far From Being Unmerciful

Every nine weeks after the grades are given to the students (and parents), they are tabulated according to classes and various students are placed on the honor roll, deans list, and honorable mention.

However, Dr. Hotznots has reversed the situation this time. Students not only know the receiving, but the giving side of the grade card. The grades (A, B, C, D, F, and I) were recorded on a 100-percent basis for each teacher. Each teacher was given a code number and these figures were placed in the hands of the faculty.

The totals were as follows:

8.23	A
33.73	B
47.59	C
8.13	D
.18	F
1:57	I

These figures show that the teachers weren't so unmerciful when it is noticed that there is not even 1 percent F's. A large amount of B's, 33.73% were given to Macollege students.

Heard In Chapel

"Cancer Can Be Cured," Says Dr. Rector

"Cancer can be cured," says Dr. Rector, the field representative of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, "if it is treated before it gets in its advanced stages." Surgical operations, radium rays and X-rays are the methods that he said modern science uses to combat cancer.

Dr. Rector suggested several signs or symptoms by which cancer could be recognized. They are painless lumps in the breast regions, sores that do not heal (particularly around the mouth and lips), unnatural bleeding in natural body openings, persistent indigestion, and sudden change in moles and warts.

Dr. Rector suggested several helpful preventions that would be well to observe. They are having an annual physical examination, and not over exposing yourself to the sun. He also mentioned the fact that a tobacco user would be harder to cure.

Dr. Rector, who has given one of the most enjoyable and educational talks that has been heard in chapel, was brought here through the efforts of the women's field army for the control of cancer.

"Democracy Fails, If Christianity Dies"

"Democracy fails if Christianity dies. Christianity has been dying and democracy will follow unless there is a great revival—a new faith in God," stated Victoria Booth Demarest, the lecturer who spoke in Wednesday morning chapel.

Mrs. Demarest is a former native of France and a member of the internationally known Booth family, she has become an American citizen and now resides in the United States where she devotes her time to preaching and lecturing.

The theme of Mrs. Demarest's address centered around the inspiration she received while visiting the chapel in Jamestown, Virginia, in which the first communion was celebrated in the United States by the white men and Indians. The thought-provoking passage was taken from the English Prayer Book lying open on the chapel pulpit, "O God, without whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy."

"The Bible is the greatest book in the world because God is in the beginning." Justice, law, education, morality, the home, and the walls of the nations are weak and unholly when God is omitted. These things must be grounded firmly in a faith in God if they are to be strong and holy. The Constitution is the body of our democracy and the Declaration of Independence is the soul. Our fo-fathers inculcated God into the life of the nation when they formulated the latter document. The Ten Commandments are the basis for all law and when these are no longer regarded—when God is taken out of the law—there is no longer law.

In Russia today, the value of a person is ninety-eight cents—the cost of chemical substances making up the human body and food for fertilizer. They have succeeded in "liquidating" persons. They have taken God out of morality and, therefore, there is no morality. The conflict is basically spirituality, and freedom.

Education has its merits and should not be minimized in value, but education without God leads to disillusionment as in the case of the French youth people who are considered the best educated youth. "Education is a tool. Everything depends upon the man who wields the tool." The Divine Order of spirit, mind, body has been upset and today we find that it has been reversed by many educations. "It is not so much the knowledge we possess as what we are in our hearts that affects posterity most."

The day has come when we can take nothing for granted and when we do we deserve to lose much. "One thing is sure, the future rests with the youth of today and the responsibility is terrific. Youth must stand by the supreme foundations and encourage others to do likewise."

Dr. Schwalm Is Unanimously Elected President of Large Manchester College

Presidents Here Since 1927, Dr. Schwalm May Not Be Able To Make His Final Decision This Month

Dr. Vernon F. Schwalm, president of McPherson college since 1927, was unanimously elected president of Manchester college by the trustees of McPherson's sister college. As yet he has not accepted the position and will not know whether he will accept it for some time, perhaps not until after the board of trustees of McPherson college meet on the campus in February.

President Here 1927—?

Pres. V. F. Schwalm, successful in his long term here as president, was honored by unanimous election to the presidency of Manchester college by their board of trustees. Dr. Schwalm will be unable to accept definitely until an interview with the trustees of Manchester college this month and perhaps until a meeting of the McPherson college board of trustees next month.

Dr. Schwalm stated that there were two things on which his decision would depend. First, Dr. Schwalm will meet some of the trustees of Manchester college at St. Louis the 25th of this month and will have an important interview with them. Second, Dr. Schwalm was just last year given a five-year contract to the presidency of McPherson college and the board of trustees must release him from his present position before he will feel free to consider his acceptance final.

Four Schools Have Undeclared Debate Teams

El Dorado Judo, Hays Have Best Ratings; Dodge City Judo Third

One hundred and sixteen debaters from three states Saturday competed in the annual McPherson college invitational debate tournament for undergraduates in one of the best tournaments of its kind ever held in McPherson.

The colleges whose teams ranked the highest included El Dorado, Junior college and Fort Hays State college, who tied for first with an average of .800, while Dodge City Junior college was next with a rating of .760. Two colleges tied for fourth, Hastings, Neb., college, and Kansas City, Kan., Junior college, with a rating of .677.

Five teams were undeclared in the tournament from four different schools. The schools were Arkansas City Junior college, Chadron, Neb., college, Hastings, Neb., college, and Fort Hays State college, who had two undeclared teams.

The tournament opened early Saturday morning and was finished late in the evening. Prof. Maurice A. Hess, who was in charge of the tournament, said the five rounds of debating were carried out smoothly. Dr. Desmond Ilttinger, debate coach of McPherson college, was in charge of the eight teams McPherson had entered in the tournament.

McPherson was represented by Kathleen Brubaker and Maxine Oberlin, Frances Petefish and Jean Oberst, Wayne Geisert and Ernest Peterson, Eugene Lichty and James Crill, Dean Stucky and Charles Lunkey, Wilbur Linville and Harold Bowman, Alvin Klotz and Wayne Crist, Hubert Sheeley and Harry Reeves.

Stewardship Will Be Discussed Sunday Night

In keeping with the theme of stewardship for all churches throughout the nation for the month of January, the B. Y. P. D. will have a discussion centered around stewardship next Sunday night at 6:30.

Such questions as "How much time should the student devote to God daily? Why should he?" and "Is stewardship an expression of Christian living? Does it express our Christianity?" will be brought up.

Markham To Speak Here Monday

W. T. Markham, state director of guidance and vocational information, will be on the campus next Monday morning and will speak in chapel at 9:45 and before the Orientation Class at 11:19. Markham is a recognized authority in education and was formerly state superintendent of public instruction. He has spoken here in chapel in previous years.

Dr. Otho Winger, who dedicated the First Church of the Brethren here in 1925, has been president of Manchester for the past 30 years. Pres. Winger resigned last year because of ill health and his resignation will become effective at the close of this school year. Pres. Winger has been one of the greatest college presidents ever produced in the church and one of the greatest church leaders.

Dr. Schwalm, a native of Wakarusa, Indiana, attended Manchester Academy for his teacher's training work then taught in his home town. Later, he attended Manchester college under Pres. Winger and received his A. B. degree there in 1913. In 1914 he received his master's degree from the University of Chicago and became professor of history at Manchester college. He was Dean of Manchester college from 1918 to 1927, when he accepted the presidency of McPherson college.

After ten years of effort here, he finally succeeded in getting McPherson college admitted into the North Central Association of Colleges, the largest college accrediting institution of its kind.

Manchester college is the largest Church of the Brethren college. Last year there were 652 students enrolled during the winter term, and 564 attended the summer school session there. There are 44 members of the faculty. It is located at North Manchester, Indiana, near the homes of both Dr. and Mrs. Schwalm. Manchester college serves a constituency of over 49,000 in four states.

A Cappella Choir Begins Heavy Work

This Year Formal Concert Will Be Sung In Local

Previously, at the beginning of the new year, members of the McPherson College a cappella choir have always started heavy, concentrated work in preparation for their one big event of the year, their formal concert. This year's choir is no exception, for they have already begun long hard practices, which will be climaxed this year on March 7, when they will give their formal concert in the McPherson High school auditorium. The high school auditorium has not been used before by the choir.

Although only about half the size of last year's choir, this a cappella choir of 30 select voices is rapidly becoming a choir of distinction and concert-goers may well be promised a very interesting, varied and pleasing concert later on, stated Ramona Fries, director of publicity for the choir.

The detailed plans for the concert are not as yet available.

Kirk Naylor, who is now teaching at Holyrood, Kan., spent the week end in McPherson.

Tolerance Is Still Essential

Uncle Sam is the personality most often used to designate our American type of government, a kind of democracy. Just as John Bull of England has characteristics, Uncle Sam is often considered as a friendly business man ready to give newcomers a chance in this world. A few have wanted to think of Uncle Sam as an ideal "rich uncle," but such optimists have been sadly disillusioned by not being given something for nothing by their paternal uncle.

Of late Uncle Sam has become a godlike being for all to salute and thus show their unity to some sort of Americanism. We hope that all who salute Uncle Sam and all who hold democracy dear will remember that a principle fully as important as the principle of majority rule is that of minority rights. In our break-neck program of national defense may we be tolerant of others who may not hold our own political ideas dear to their hearts. Tolerance is still a characteristic essential to a democracy, else individual wills must and will be bent to fit a totalitarian ideal.

"Card playing isn't in my line!" The details aren't altogether known to the general public, but it seems that William Harvey is badly bewildered. It was not long afterwards that Harvey, all smiles and

Panel Discussion Today

The International Relations Club is giving a panel discussion on the topic "Should the United States give aid to Britain?" today at four o'clock in the S. U. R. Able members of the club will take part in the discussion, which will later be opened to a general discussion. Everybody, whether IRC member or not, is invited to this program.

The World At Large

While Europe and Asia are entangled in fighting for their very lives, a battle rages here in America. President Roosevelt, supported by a host of followers, pushes on our program to aid Great Britain to the utmost. Committees organized to promote national defense by aiding Great Britain join in the spree and furnish many slogans to raise money and good will.

Opposition to such programs of aid has largely been overshadowed by the sweeping programs of congressional legislation proposed and debated for the benefit of our democracy. But the greatest opposition to such programs finds its voice only in the senate chamber. Probably the voice of Henry is not heard with all the shouting.

"Where's Henry?" ought to be the slogan, much more appropriate than "Where's Elmer?" ever was. Does Henry want Hitler to win? Does Henry want to be a "Seiectee"? Does Henry like Winston Churchill? Does Henry think America has gone too far towards war? Does Henry think the United States has aided Great Britain as much as it should? Does Henry still hold hopes for isolation? America should know. Henry should make himself heard, and America should listen.

To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Let's Get Together On This

The one crying question of a recent Spectator article was: Why don't fellows date girls? Being in a position to view the existing order from a point of vantage and, being males, hence able to speak authoritatively, the collaborating parties undertake to indicate the various implications of the problem, to point out the factors involved, and, if possible, to clarify the confusing issues.

It is probably unnecessary to emphasize that successful social relationships entail mutual responsibility. However, since the question has been put by the girls, it is the suggestion of the writers that they consider this response most carefully. Naturally, it is impossible to state conclusions with any hope of unanimity; yet, confident that thoughtful analysis of the situation will lead to certain fundamental truths, the authors, who shall be nameless, submit the following.

Even the most ardent Don Juan (modern) doesn't rush the object of his affection without some idea as to whether the girl will be receptive. Be more cordial in casual relationships. Smile and talk to him. You can do this without violating the dictates of society. Third party introductions are practically unnecessary (and certainly inconvenient) on a small co-ed campus. Talk about anything—even a biology assignment. Be friendly, it may give the fellow the impression that you are a nice girl. If it does, he won't forget you.

Dating should not be taken too seriously. In this connection it is pertinent to observe that there is too much talk (gossip is such a loathsome word) about dating especially about what appropriately may be termed casual dating. If a fellow is seen more than once with the same girl, the campus, not by formal decree but with almost irrevocable finality, decides that she is his. This creates an extremely difficult situation. The fellows hesitate to cut-in on him, and the girls seem reluctant to date him. If some intrepid soul does manage to date several different girls in a comparatively short time, still more talk evolves an even more difficult situation. It is unnecessary to establish the fact that this sort of talk in current. Our position is to condone rather than to condemn seriousness in boy-girl relationships, but in the name of Hyman take plenty of time. Also in the name of the aforementioned deity, let your classmates determine for themselves whether or not they want to be serious about each other.

What is euphemistically referred to as "limited means" per se is a negligible deterring factor. Yet, entertainment remains a problem. Partially responsible for this is the lack of cordiality, the onus of the opening proposition. Fellows are hesitant in asking girls to go anywhere anything after I come out of the anesthetic!" Doc—"Well, (hum) that's expecting quite a lot from just a little anesthetic!"

Being editor of the Quadrangle must be an awfully hard task, or else the 1941 Quad is going to be an especially good one. Why of course it is, because just about every night, one can see by the light in the Quad office that Virginia Kerlin and her assistant, (he must be her assistant), Bernard Nordling are working fast. Yes, indeed, it must be some job.

One never knows what to expect next. You can even come into Arnold Hall and see Richard Burger, alias "Two Gun Dick," shivering, shaking and hiding behind the davenport. Several boys had called up a second-floor girl, made a date with her for Dick, and then discreetly made their exit—leaving him to face her. He did what any normal man would have done in such a crisis—hid.

What happened then? Well, the two "just ain't talkin'". The scaly-wags who played such a trick were Russell Eisenbise, Roy McAuley, and who knows—maybe even that Clarence Bunyan. No? Well, it sounds like one of his stunts, anyway. They are smart jads.

Definition of the week—"A smart man is one who has never let a woman pin anything on him since he was a baby."

with them unless it does cost money. Does this require further explanation? Plainly, then, fellows don't ask you to go walking, or driving or perhaps bicycling, because they think you would resent such an invitation. It should not be difficult for you, with your subtleties and artifices, to let them know that you would be delighted. Consider for a moment how much better acquainted you would be than if you attended a concert or the theatre for instance.

Petting-archaic. Pitching woo—obsolete. The current cliché slips our minds for the moment, but you get the idea. Or don't you? Briefly, the point is that you can show that you appreciate and enjoy your date without it. By Artemis, think on these things.

Like incautious turtles we have stuck our necks out too far. Having stretched so far, we may as well remain out of the shell a little longer and finish what we have so boldly begun. Fellows go for good listeners, intelligent and interesting conversationalists, individual and sincere personalities. You need not be beautiful, but attractive. You need not dress expensively, but neatly. Disagreeing with my distinguished conferee, I assert that you need not necessarily have that type of appeal commonly modified by the adjective sex. It is admitted, however, that said appeal is a valuable and almost indispensable asset.

In closing let it be known that college fellows in general have not sworn themselves to oaths of celibacy. It is true that many of them are simply disinterested. That, however, is partially your fault. We now draw into our shells and wait.

Swing Seat Basketball Comes To Town

Kansas Wesleyan Has Highly Regarded Team, Plays Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow night Kansas Wesleyan invades McPherson to encounter the Bulldogs in one of the feature basketball games of the season. At present the Coyotes are in second place with two wins and one loss in conference competition. The Bulldogs have lost two conference tilts.

Gene Johnson, the leading exponent of fire department basketball, will bring a team composed largely of veterans. Beach and Bennett are the freshmen starters on the team. Beach hails from Glendale, and Bennett is a former Maryville flash. Hunt, Johnson, and Elough are the veterans in the Coyotes' starting lineup. Hunt, an elongated 6' 6 1/2" center, comes from Oklahoma and is invaluable on rebound shots. He is a junior this year.

Harold Johnson is playing his second year of basketball for the Coyotes this year. He is one of the best floor men and ball handlers on the Wesleyan team. The spearhead of the Wesleyan team is Vic Ebaugh, sophomore from McPherson. He is on the beginning of almost every play and is also one of the high scorers on the team.

Gene Johnson also has very capable reserves in Van Pelt, and Ellis.

Although the starting lineup for the Bulldogs has not been announced it will probably consist of Brust and Meyer at guards, McDaniels at center, and French and Schubert at forwards. Much will depend on whether Schubert is over the flu. The Bulldogs will be gunning for the second conference win of the week and have an excellent chance of defeating the "swing seat" boys from the North, with many of the boys finding their stride.

The game will be played in the community building. There will be a preliminary game at 7:30 p. m. between the reserves of both teams.

Bulldogs Bow To Quakers 38-29

Second Half Rally Falls To Overcome Large Half-Time Advantage

Friends university Quakers won their second game this season over the McPherson college Bulldogs, 38 to 29. The game was a non-conference game.

Wichita piled up a 18 to 8 advantage during the first half on the consistent scoring of Ellis, Cronwell, Taylor, Carter and Waford. In the last half McPherson played somewhat better ball and outscored Friends. McPherson accounted for 21 points the last half while Friends piled up 19. The first half lead was too much for the Bulldogs to overcome.

Junior French led the McPherson offensive with five field goals and two free throws for a total of 12 points. He was the high scorer of the game. French went out of the game late in the contest on personal fouls. Taylor, guard, led Friends scoring with 10 points.

Swedes Swipe Win In Last Half-Minute

Badly-Crippled Canines Lose Wednesday Affair 39-37 At Lindsborg

A badly crippled Bulldog quintet fought the strong Bethany Swedes on even terms Wednesday night for 40 minutes only to go down to defeat in a thrilling whirl-wind finish. With but about 30 seconds to go in the final period, the score was tied 37-37. French's free toss tying it up, when the Swedes made their final basket and won the game, 39-37.

Beginning the game with their crack forward, Art Schubert, back home because of illness, it was not long before the ill-fated Bulldogs soon lost another regular. Raymond "Squeak" Meyer injured his knee while driving in for a basket, which was McPherson's first score, and with but a few minutes of play gone by, he had to retire from the game. The injury put "Squeak" on crutches.

Junior French, Bulldog forward, was injured twice during the evening, and was "banged up" considerably. In fact, it might well have been Friday the thirteenth for the Bulldogs, because their ace center, Thornton McDaniels, fell and was injured in a struggle for rebounds and was forced out of the game.

The lead changed several times during the first half, and at the end of the period the Bulldogs led, 22-20. Few field goals were missed and each team played cautiously. Coach Hayden's "Dutch Mill" style was especially effective.

The battle was nip and tuck during the last half again, but as the end of the game drew near, Bethany led 36-31. The Bulldogs turned on the heat. A field goal by Bobby Brust, and four free throws in a row by Reinecker, Jones, and French tied it up 37-all. Then came the fatal Swede tally.

The box score:

To Whom It May Concern—

By Glen Funk

Quakers Surprise Bulldogs

Friends put up a surprise attack on McPherson college's basketball team—grabbed a lead of nine points and used it as a means of defeating the home team. Friends showed an entirely different brand of basketball than had been used before by them. They used the fast break and a very tight defense that with Mike Taylor getting the rebounds kept McPherson from taking any close shots.

Mike, who towers six feet seven inches knocked several shots down the throats of the McPherson fellows. He also gathered in his share of the points. French seemed like the only McPhersonite knowing where the basket was, the rest of the lot seeming to be very cold.

Will Regulars Quit?

What about the rumors that Red McDaniels is quitting basketball? It seems as if several were going to quit by request. We, and emphasis upon the we, are keeping our fingers crossed.

Looks good to see Jake Cramer back again. Here's hoping he can handle the many, obstacles in order to be eligible for competition next semester. Duke and he would be a welcomed addition.

By comparing the table and considering the games played so far this year, McPherson will have to battle Kansas Wesleyan and Baker for top honors.

True Test Tomorrow Night

McPherson's true test for supremacy in the Kansas Conference will come this Saturday night when they encounter Gene Johnson's "Coyotes" here at the community building. The three players, who seem to be the ones to hold down on their scoring sprees are Bob Hunt, Vic Ebaugh, and Harold Johnson. In the meantime the "Coyotes" better keep their eyes on Junior French, Red McDaniels, Art Schubert, and Bob Brust.

Many Excuses For Loss

Bethany, with the aid of "Red" Olson, slipped out a victory over McPherson Wednesday night in the last few seconds. Of course, following a defeat always come the excuses. L. Art Schubert, regular guard, was not even in a suit because of the flu. 2.

McDaniels	2	3	3
Meyer	1	0	2
Brust	3	1	2
E. Unruh	2	2	1
Reinecker	1	3	4
Total	11	15	16
Bethany (39)	FG	FT	F
Olson	5	0	3
Tilberg	3	2	1
Peterson	3	2	3
Nelson	1	1	3
Carlson	3	2	2
Boeve	0	2	3
Total	15	9	15

"Squeak" Meyer was out of the game after two or three minutes of play with a football knee reinjured. 3.—Junior French injured a knee twice that was hurt before in the Bethany-McPherson football game. Seems like the Swedes go for knees. Add all these together and they spell victory for those terrible Swedes.

McPherson Plays Great Ball

McPherson played the best ball they have played this year. Ball handling was good—some plays clicked almost to perfection—the basket seemed to be a vulnerable spot, with the Bulldogs making a good percentage of their shots and making 15 out of 18 attempts at the free-throw line—that ought to go down in the records.

"Benny" Unruh Stars

Credit in the game goes to all players—on both teams. Honorable mention goes to "Benny" Unruh, who really looked like a college basketball player, both on defense and offense.

As a parting shot, it seems as if Coach Hayden is doing all right with his type of offense and section of players, also. The best idea for us as students then would be to back him and let him do the coaching and we hope to have the full cooperation of the downtown group in this subject.
