Give To WSSF and Help Rebuild The World

Birthday Dinner Is Scheduled Sunday Evening

E. L. Ikenberry Is To Speak On Missions

The Annual Birthday Dinner will be held this Sunday evening, January 28 at 6:30 p. m. in the church basement. Reverend E. L. Ikenberry will be the speaker of the evening. The Business and Professional Women's Club of the church will be in charge of the decorations.

The menu will be creamed chicken and pan rolls, furnished by the college; string beans, mashed potatoes, salad plate, jam and white cake; coffee and ice cream furnished by the social committee. The guests are asked to bring their own table service, except for the college students, and to furnish double serving of everything including cake.

The dinner gets its name from the custom of seating the guests according to the seasons and the giving of an offering in proportion to the age of the guest. The gifts will not be limited to the age of the giver, however, and a contest of the seasons will rage to see which is the most generous. The proceeds will go to the Crumacker fund.

Varsity Quartet Goes To Salem For Social

The Ladies Quartet journeyed to Salem Wednesday to the community church there where they sang some numbers at a box supper. Alice Ruth Baily, accompanist, Rev. and Mrs. Elrod, Dr. and Mrs. Frantz and Byron also took the trip.

The box supper profited $502.00 which will be used for the "Heifer for Relief" project. This amount of money will buy twenty heifers.

Rev. Merlin Frantz, former McPherson student, is pastor of the Salem Community Church.

Official Vacancies Are Filled At Term

At recent class meetings, new officers were elected to fill vacancies created by students leaving school at the end of the first semester.

Willis Unruh, freshman, was elected to the Student Council by the freshmen; he is replacing Bryant Fisher. Juniors elected Geraldine Hedges as a representative to the Student Council and Joyce Mays was elected vice-president. The new secretary of the senior class is Geraldine Tharrington.

In a recent meeting of the Student Council, Eula Wolf was elected secretary.

'How Do I Know I'm Saved?'

Dr. Burton Metzler, professor of philosophy and religion, led the Sunday evening BYPD on January 21 in a group discussion on the subject, "How Do I Know I'm Saved?"

Rebecca Speer, freshman, directed the singing. A short devotion was read by Warren Hoover.

With Sympathy

The student body and the faculty extend their heartfelt sympathies to Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Slifer in their recent bereavement.

Kline Hall Residents Sponsor Hymn Sing

Thursday evening of this week Kline Hall gave a program that provided educational as well as inspirational, with several well-known hymns sung by a soloist, a quartet, and by the entire group of S. C. M.-ers. Along with the hymn singing, the stories and histories of the hymns were given by various members of the Hall.

Jack Dubois played an appropriate prelude for that type of program; Mark Emswiler had charge of the devotional period; and Wilmer Brubaker gave the benediction. The hymns and stories that were used were, 'Day is Dying in the West,' 'O, Master, Let Me Walk With Thee,' 'We've a Story to Tell,' and 'Are Ye Able.' Donald Scofield sang 'O, Master Let Me Walk With Thee,' as a solo, and the Dubois' and the Scofield's made up a quartet for one of the hymns.

The accompanists and readers were varied with the songs sung, giving more of the group a chance to participate.

Church Choirs Participate In Hymn Festival

Festivities Held Feb. 4 In Community Building

The Annual Hymn Singing Festival for McPherson and community will take place in the auditorium of the Community Building on Sunday evening, February 4, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. The Festival is being sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance of the city and church services will be transferred to the large auditorium at that time.

Chief among the features of the program will be hymn singing by the entire congregation. Probably a thousand people will join in this activity. For the purpose, 500 copies of the hymnal, 'Hymns For Creative Living' have been purchased by the local Ministerial Alliance. Congregational hymn leaders for the evening will be Rev. R. R. Kaiser, pastor of the Christian Church, Mr. W. A. Stelling, director of the Baptist Choir, and Professor Nevin W. Fisher, director of the Brethren Choir.

Another feature of the evening will be the massed church choirs of McPherson, which will be seated on the stage of the auditorium. These massed choirs will number between 150 and 200 voices. They will be led by Mrs. Cleo Hill, director of the Methodist Choir, and will not only participate in the hymn singing but will sing several choruses. The rehearsal for all the church choirs will take place in the Community auditorium next Sunday afternoon, January 28, at 3:00 o'clock p. m.

Miss Leora Dobrinski, college student, and organist of the Lutheran Church will be the accompanist for the evening. The program of the hymn Singing Festival was planned by a committee from the Ministerial Alliance together with all of the Choir directors of the city.

President Peters Welcomes Students

Three Problems Emphasized In Opening Chapel Address

Welcoming the old and new students to McPherson College, President W. W. Peters opened the first chapel service of the second semester.

Speaking of the problems of today, President Peters stated that there are three major problems that are of concern to the people. The problem of alcohol is becoming more serious—last year alone seven billion dollars were spent on alcohol. Venereal diseases are on the increase and the facts concerned with it are shocking. Many divorces are a result of the laxity in marriage. The divorce rate will even be higher after the war and things are more settled. These are all human problems and they must be solved within the person himself.

Rodabaugh Speaks On Renewing Life

Speaking on the 'Renewing of Life', Rev. Edwin Rodabaugh addressed the students in the chapel program presented by Student Ministers Friday, January 12.

Rev. Rodabaugh said that it is necessary that we renew our lives. There are three different kinds of lives—people who live in the past, those who live in the present, and those who live in the future. Individuals who live for the future are the most unselfish of the three types; because they are able to benefit others.

God is a merciful and forgiving God. Mistakes are made by all individuals, but every day a chance to renew our lives is offered. Changes must be taken, Rev. Rodabaugh said that people must be willing to put away things that have gone before; look forward to a year of sacrifices and go forward to preach the gospel.

Lives will be renewed if people follow Christ and have the three qualities that he had. Those three qualities are love, faith, and courage.

Preceding the sermonette, an octave composed of David Albright, Kent Naylor, Glenn Swinger, Kenneth Wampler, Kenneth Yingst, Don Scofield, Leslie Andrews, and Charles Dumond sang a number of sacred songs, and Rev. Dan Blikenstaff led the devotionals.

Thespian Banquet In Persian Room Is Entertaining

New Members of Club Are Welcomed by President Ann

Celebrating a successful first semester in dramatics, the Thespian Club of McPherson College met last night for their annual banquet. Members of the Club took dinner in the Persian Room of the McCourt Hotel at 7:00 o'clock.

With Keith Burton as master of ceremonies, the party clicked from beginning to end with sparkling repartee. High-light of the evening were impersonations of campus characters by this year's initiates: Doris Coppock, Phyllis Strickler, Esther Miller, Glenn Swinger, and Blair Helman.

Would-be theatre-performers enjoyed traditional Thespian Bohemian entertainment. New members were welcomed to the festivities by Anne Metzler, President of the Club. Freda Aurell responded to the welcome. An appropriate selection was read by Miss Della Lehman, Club sponsor. Susan and Ernest Ikenberry presented a satirical skit on the Thespian Club. Musical numbers included a piano solo by Leora Dobrinski, and a vocal duet by Anne Metzler and Dave Albright.

The success of the occasion belongs to the managing committee composed of Leora Dobrinski, chairman of decorations and invitations, Wilma Fae Kuns, chairman of menu and location, and Bob Mayes, program chairman.

McPherson Students Enjoy Skating Party

On Monday evening, January 22, McPherson College students enjoyed their first roller skating party of the year. A very good representation of the student body celebrated the brief intermission between semesters in this appropriate way. A great variety of talent was displayed since most of the group were quite proficient in the art of roller skating. Some, however, seemed to be in the learning stage.

The group met in front of Sharp Hall at nine o'clock. Automobiles and a truck furnished the transportation to the rink. At eleven thirty the happy group returned to the campus in high spirits after a very enjoyable evening.

Drive Opens Monday, Ask 100 Percent Cooperation

McPherson College starts the WSSF Drive this coming week. Plans have been in the making for the last three or four weeks and a splendid week long program has been worked out by the co-chairmen of the drive, Ila Verne Lobban and Susan Ikenberry, under the sponsorship of the S.C.M.

The Drive starts off on Monday with a bang . . . for reasons that the students and faculty will find out in due time! The central theme of the Drive is "Give To WSSF And Help To Rebuild the World." The committee in charge is expecting one hundred per cent cooperation from both students and faculty, as all are well aware of the great need of our fellow students of the world, who have so much less than American students have in opportunity and material needs.

Enrollment Up 27

Dean Boitnott reports an increase in enrollment of 27 students over the total reported at the same time last year. The total enrollment at the present is 145; freshmen, 69, sophomores, 29, juniors, 24, seniors, 16, and specials, 7. This is a decrease of 11 of the total reported at the first of the first semester. This is to be expected since there is always a drop in enrollment for the second semester. As yet the pre-college fine arts (Music and Art) students have not been compiled. More regular students may enroll later.

Art Instructor Is In Wichita Hospital

The college is missing a familiar face on the campus. Miss Colline, teacher of art, is absent because of illness. Miss Colline was taken to Wichita to the Southwestern Osteopathic Hospital there Saturday. Her address is Miss Clara Colline, Southwestern Osteopathic Hospital, Corner of Douglas and Rutan, Wichita, Kansas.

Eight New Students Join McPherson Ranks

Several new students are being seen on the campus this semester. The enrollment at the present time is less than last semester, but more students are expected to register soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yingst, who have made their home in McPherson, have returned to the campus after an absence of several years. Kenneth is a student minister and is classified as a senior. Mrs. Yingst is a special student.

Richard Mohler of McPherson is another addition to the senior class. Richard was a student at McPherson before he was called into service.

Mary Vancell of McPherson has returned to the campus and is a sophomore. Elva Paulsen, another McPherson girl, is a special student at Albright.

The freshman class is strengthened by three fellows: Carl Beckwith from Fruitland, Idaho; Ronald Moyer from Hutchinson, Kansas; and Melvin Zerger from McPherson.

The WSSF is a world student relief organization. Sometimes it is regular relief—like food, medical care, clothing, etc.—given in a setting that makes it possible for men and women of student interests to continue their studies despite what the war has done to them. Sometimes it is highly specialized relief—like books and study materials—which is designated to meet the needs of student victims of war as students.

In this country, the WSSF was one of the first organizations to see the importance of meeting not only physical but also intellectual and spiritual needs of students and professors. By enabling students to help their fellow students, this specialized organization helps to build student solidarity around the world.

WSSF is international and interracial. It is today helping students of at least 37 nationalities and many races. It is concerned with helping student victims of war regardless of their political affiliation. All students regardless of their faiths are invited to give. The organization helps students of all faiths—Protestants, Catholics, Jews, Buddhists, Mohammedans, and those without any religious ties.

Monday morning chapel is to be on the theme of the drive, and is in charge of Glenn Swinger, co-chairman of the SCM.

Tuesday commissions will all meet together in the S. A. R. for a lively auction . . . Bob Mays will be the auctioneer . . . and the proceeds will go to WSSF. Come and bring your money.

Wednesday will bring something novel to the students, as there has not been anything like it before on the campus of McPherson. It all centers around the tidy little sum of thirty-five cents . . . so I am told . . . and we will all hear about it later. But be sure that you keep your thirty-five cents handy so that you will not be left out when the time comes.

Thursday evening in the regular S. C. M. weekly meeting, Ila Verne Lobban will conduct a novel Quiz Program . . . dealing with WSSF. Bring your pennies, enlarge your knowledge of the condition of the world you live on, and join in the fun.

The climax of the drive will be on Friday night . . . so keep that date clear. This is going to be a complete surprise, so we can't let out even a hint, but you can know this much . . . it will be a fitting way to wind up the drive, and blast our quota all to pieces! Don't forget . . .

Those who are helping in the drive are as follows: Jerry Mease will be in complete charge of all advertisements and art work. Mary Beth Loshbaugh will be in charge of the thirty-five cent deal of Wednesday. Margaret Peterson and Joyce Riddlebarger will act as ushers. Irene Schraml, Edith Allen, and Mildred Carter will be in charge of the 'Information Table' in the hall, and Ruth Shoemaker will be in charge of the funds as they come in.

So far things are working out in the best manner possible and all that is needed now is the whole hearted response and cooperation of the entire school, student body and faculty.

How To Be A Student Without Books

The ingenuity of the Chinese has demonstrated itself again as China's students keep on with their studies against obstacles that are incredible to Americans. The mere matter of lacking books and paper is apparently no handicap, according to reports received by the World Student Service Fund, the agency for world student relief which is supported by American students. A recent letter tells can students. A recent letter tells of the clever use of a single textbook by an entire class. Pages were carefully cut from the book and pasted on a series of bulletin boards, glued only at the margin so that both sides of the sheet could be read. Students lined up to read the assignment; the line moved slowly along as knowledge was absorbed. The system is similar to the well-known Chinese wall-newspapers which are now a national institution due to the shortage of paper.

Long lines form outside the college libraries, and when the doors are opened every seat is immediately filled. No one may read a book longer than an hour because of the long line that is waiting. Social ostracism is the lot of any student who dares even to whisper in the library where every moment is precious. There is universal sorrow when a book completely disintegrates and becomes unreadable due to countless handlings.

The shortage of paper is severe. One student had to fast for three days in order to save enough money to buy paper for a term paper. The quality of the paper is poor, "just like writing on a paper handkerchief", one person comments. Every scrap of paper is utilized; envelopes are carefully split open and used for next day's mathematics assignment.

The breaking of China's blockade and the influx of goods from the outside will have countless benefits, but side will have rejoice more than student group will rejoice more than students and faculty. To receive books and periodicals from other countries, and particularly from the U. S., will cause great rejoicing. Meanwhile, China's students are grateful for the help that comes from their colleagues in other countries, without which many of them would not be able to continue their studies at all.

Thinking Out Loud

Roller skating is a science. Many of the fundamental laws of the sciences are involved; such as Newton's law of gravitation which explains falling bodies. However, if Newton had been to the roller skating party the other night, he would have been able to draw his conclusions much more rapidly without a great deal of contemplation or the stimulation of a falling apple. Our modern age has made such fundamental laws much more obvious.

The law of inertia is also, made much clearer when one becomes acquainted with this fascinating science. No longer does one wonder about the tendency of bodies in motion to remain in motion when one makes his debut on wheels.

The age old question, 'What would happen if a body that couldn't be stopped would hit a body that couldn't be moved,' also finds a very simple solution... as one unwinds his mangled body from a post. However, at this point we are inclined to be somewhat doubtful of the validity of the law that so boldly states, 'For every action there is an equal and an opposite reaction.' Experience has taught us that the equation is grossly unbalanced.

As one becomes acquainted with this science he can also appreciate the sociologist's contention that rites of passage help to restore the equilibrium of the individual. The only difficulty arises when two individuals have the right of passage and yet find their equilibrium seriously disturbed. However, we have noticed that the sociologist is quite right when he maintains that the disequilibrium of one individual can often times upset the equilibrium of the whole group. We would also like to agree that the importance of a person maintaining his equilibrium cannot be stressed too much.

We live in a mechanized age. Everything is on wheels. The roller-skate is a product of this age of mechanization.

As the technology of a people becomes more complex, dangers usually increase. But people are willing to expose themselves to danger in the interest of greater speed and enjoyment, until finally the goal of perfection will have been reached, and perfect equilibrium will be guaranteed.

S. O. S. In The Library

Do you know who painted the Mona Lisa? Or who painted the pictures that hang on the chapel walls? Can you name several outstanding American artists? Do you know who painted the famous portrait of George Washington that hangs on the walls of almost every school house in America? Can you name several famous illustrators and tell the identifying characteristics of their illustrations?

Your education will be more complete and meaningful if you know something of the great art of the world. "Without the great Arts, that speak to his sense of beauty, man seems to me a poor, naked, shivering creature!" The Arts by Hendrik Willem Van Loon was written to give the general reader a better understanding and appreciation of everything in the realm of art from the beginning of time to the present.

The History of American Painting by Samuel Isham.

As the United States is the youngest of the great nations of the world, the development of art in this country has been short and has not reached completeness. Those contributions which we have made to the world of art have been interestingly written about by Mr. Isham.

Great Works of Art by F. W. Ruckstull.

Mr. Ruckstull, after 50 years of study, experience, and research in the world of art has written this book which shows what art is and what style, beauty, manner, and poetry in art are.

500 Years of Art and Illustration by Howard Simon.

One of the distinguishing marks of a great book are the illustrations. This book gives examples and explanations of illustrators from the time of Albrecht Durer to Rockwell Kent. "A genuine perception of beauty is the highest education."

News of Students

On the Land, On the Sea, In The Air

Bob Burkholder, former student of MacCollege for three years, lettered in basketball and football while in school and was sports editor of the Spectator. From his post in India, Bob, who is now a corporal in the army, writes:

"These past few months have really been interesting and I've been lots of places already that I never dreamed of seeing, but I don't want to make a trip like that again very soon. A couple of us mentally calculated the other day how far we've traveled these past few months and it must be close to 24 or 25 thousand miles.

"I've been assigned to the 115th Liaison Squadron and am now a part of the 10th Air Force. We are located in the Province of Assani, India, alongside the Ledo Road. The country up here is really rough and rugged. It is mountainous and is all jungle. This afternoon I got one of the pilots and we flew out over the jungle a little ways. We could see just how dense it is. The climate up here at this time of year isn't bad at all. The days don't get too hot and the nights are chilly. During the monsoon season I guess the weather is pretty miserable though as this is the sector of India that gets the heaviest rainfall. It's also the worst part of India for Malaria so we have to take a lot of precaution in the evenings. We are given Atabrine at regular intervals. On the other side of the ledge though it really isn't bad at all up here compared to what it might be. We live in tents, we have P.X. facilities,

The President's Corner

"Time marches on." Again, a new semester is under way with opportunities for continued learning and for intellectual, social, moral, and spiritual growth. To do well the worthwhile tasks of the day is the best preparation for tomorrow.

To those of you who are renewed students as well as those of you who are new students this semester, the college extends best wishes for an enviable and profitable educational experience.

To you, Miss Guthals, I wish to say it has been a pleasure to supply material for the President's Corner. You have kept the Spectator on its high level of efficiency which I observe has truly become a tradition of McPherson College.

We have movies three times a week and the show is good. When you take into consideration how long the supply lines are to this theater of the war it is almost amazing how much we do get.

India is really quite a place and I am beginning to see why its political situation is the mess it is (I'm not defending the British and their policy though). It is made up of so many different classes of people and so many of them are very poor. The rural areas look a lot better than the cities though. Calcutta is said to be the dirtiest city in the world and it is by far the dirtiest city I've been in. Bombay has its beggars and very poor people but I liked it much better than Calcutta. There is really lots of interesting things to see in both cities though.

"Since I've just been assigned I don't know exactly what the deal is since this is the first time I've ever been connected to a Liaison Squadron. I think it will be a good deal

The Editor Exists

This issue marks my exist as editor of the Spectator. It is an event over which I could 'wax sentimental' to the nth degree, but as all events in life there is a beginning and an ending. It is just one more mile completed in life's journey.

Needless to say both the editor and staff have had their ups and downs, their good and off moments. There have been many times when we would have been willing to chuck the whole thing, and from the looks of several of the issues it might have been well if we had, but our pride in our work outweighs the regrets and mistakes.

Looking back upon three semesters of journalistic efforts, I can truly say I enjoyed every minute of it, even the 'offset' ones. Forever in my memory will be the picture of the ancient and dilapidated Spec office with its swaying floor, its paper littered desks, its battered typewriters, and its wastebasket—an indispensable article to any newspaper office. No one to date has hit it. Disorder reigns in the office until the flunkie or in other words the campus editor wades into the debris once a month or so, mostly so, to scatter the dust and paper around a bit.

I'll never forget the midnight snacks when dripping with fatigue and drained of all ideas the staff paused for refreshment. Springing spontaneously from the close-knit fellowship of the staff were the intimate conversations, intellectual chats, and heated arguments which added spice. Lasting friendships have been made as the staff faced together the high and low tempo of work on the college paper.

Special thanks go to managing editor Ernest Ikenberry and campus editor Della Mae Poland who have worked diligently and faithfully, and more bouquets to all students and faculty members who have cooperated with the staff by writing news stories. Words cannot express my appreciation.

Best wishes for a successful editorship to Ernest Ikenberry. I have no qualms about putting the reins into his capable hands. May his term be as full of fun, worry, and happiness as mine has been.

Democracy Meets A Test

American democracy is stronger rather than weaker in at least 539 colleges in 46 states, in the opinion of the World Student Service Fund. These are the colleges which have received one or more—the average is four—Nisei students on the campus. A great experiment has succeeded.

In March of 1942, orders were given for the evacuation of all Japanese-Americans from a restricted area on the West Coast. Within the group of 112,000 who were involved were 2,500 college students. They were American citizens brought up in the public school system and suddenly lifted out of college and sent to relocation projects. Their college administrations plus representatives of interested organizations, including the World Student Service Fund, rapidly formed committees to help. Before long, permissions were obtained for these students to leave the projects and enter colleges in other parts of the country. Interested friends waited with bated breath. How would they be received? Would they make good social adjustments? Would they do good academic work after the

The answers have all been positive. American students on the receiving campuses welcomed the new students naturally and at once took them into every phase of campus life. Within two years, five Nisei had become student government presidents. Many are class officers. A number have been chosen for berths on college papers and yearbooks. Many fellows played on athletic teams. A number were invited to join fraternities and sororities. Academically, they have ranked high and many have pulled down top honors.

Nisei students are still coming into the colleges for the good reason that a high school class is graduated each year from each relocation project. These high school youngsters are inspired by the enthusiasm of relocated college students who have returned to the projects for visits, and they too are eager to take their places in the normal stream of American life again.

Other American students have helped the Nisei not only by accepting them naturally as colleagues but by contributing to the World Student Service Fund drive on their campus. The Fund has supported the student relocation program from the first. Its money is used for grants for those who may need a little cash to supplement their scholarships and what they can earn for themselves. One student who received a grant wrote, "When I canvassed for the WSSF drive at my university on the West Coast, little did I think that I would be getting a grant the next year from those same funds!"

SOCIETY

"O that I were where I would be." It is a fitting theme for the week after exams are over and the grades come pouring in. All too well do we students realize that we have not done our best, which only provides us with a faint sense of guilt and a larger incentive to do good as we enter into the new semester of work, study, and play.

This past one has been a full week, full of sudden sorrow as well as the joy of doing things and seeing old friends again. The whole school has been saddened by the sudden death of Wilma Slifer, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Slifer. Both Dr. and Mrs. Slifer have been connected with the college and its activities for many years, and it is indeed with deep sincerity that we extend to them our sympathy.

First on the list are some parties that have been happening. As we all know, our dear little B. Y. President, Ferne Allen, has left us for school teaching. Don't know what we will do without her, but left us, she did. To let her know how much the kids were going to miss her, some of her many friends held a 'fudge party' in her honor over at the Ikenberry apartment. But as it turned out, it was not only a fudge party, but also a taffy and divinity party. (You get three guesses as to who was behind the divinity part, and the first two don't count.) The evening ended with Rook games going strong (even one on the floor) and . . . you guessed it . . . much eating of candy. Those present at this merry gathering were: Mary Beth Loshbaugh, Dorris Murdock, Esther Ikenberry, Betty Ikenberry, Susan Ikenberry, Wilma Slifer, Mildred Cartner, Ferne Allen, the honoree, Leona Dell and Mrs. Ikenberry. The gentlemen were Glenn Swinger, Jerry Mease, Wayne Lucore, Marvin Blough, Ernest Ikenberry, and Warren Sanger.

Joy to the school! exams are done, and we have flunked them all! And so the whole school (well, at least forty-six fiftieths of the kids that were left on the campus) went roller-skating. And what fun they did have too. Most of the group clambered into the back of a very big truck, and merrily singing at the top of their lungs they headed for the rink. They hit main street with 'I've got two Pence' . . . and I do wonder what the sedate townsfolk thought, don't you? At the rink the kids immediately took over, and all tried to help the few brave souls that were trying to leap. Spills were frequent, but spirits were high and it was fun to 'let yourself go.' Around eleven-thirty a mighty tired group again piled into the mighty to rumble homeward. Thanks go to Prof. Dell for providing a mighty nice way to work off extreme exam cramp, even if we will be sore for days. It was worth it.

Saturday night was a play night at the gym. Such things should come more often. A fair group turned out and discovered that besides games to play, there were things to consume . . . the never ending delight of the collegiate gang. Volleyball and basketball soon had every one panting, but they were quickly revived by cokes and yummy potato chips. For those who didn't come, the basketball was played with girls rules and both the fellows and girls played. And from some inside information I gather that Mildred Cartner would be very willing to let somebody else guard Swinger. It must have been quite a job! Just the same, let's have more of these play nights . . . and let the town kids know about them too.

"They Are Wearing"
By Aurell

Who Dood It?

American fashion designers made headlines in 1944 despite wartime restrictions and shortages. Responsible for some of the trends were: Mainbocher and Nettie Rosenstein—high necklines, lowered waistlines.

Hattie Carnegie—wrap around coats.

Valentina—"Decoration" jewelry worn on ambassadors ribbons.

John Rubel—two jeweled pins connected by chains, the "Fourrangers."

Emily Wilkens—brought Teen-age fashions into focus.

Traina-Norell — one shoulder dresses.

All designers—the jumpers.

Brownie-Fancy lapede suits.

All top designers—longer jackets.

Everybody—more hat.

Rosenfeld—started smaller hand-bag trend with "cherubs," new types of back interest.

Fira Benenon—balcony fold.

To Capeland—fantail peplum.

Valentina—contrasting panels.

Adrian—dinosaur drape.

Sophie—directoire silhouette.

Omar Kiam and Balentina—capes.

Samuel Kass—ballet skirt petticoats.

Mainbocher, Adele Simpson, Emmett Joyce, and others—sequined cottons.

Claire McCardell—pedal pushers.

though. Possibly you're wondering just what a Liaison squadron does—well they have many different functions—such as evacuate wounded from forward areas, haul cargo, load on strips too small for larger planes, etc.

"This is New Year's eve, but it certainly doesn't seem like it, Christmas this year also seemed very unreal. I was traveling Christmas day so missed the Christmas parties, etc. I spent Christmas day in a small isolated American Convoy Camp. There was nothing to do and we even had to eat K rations for Christmas dinner.

"Here's wishing the basketball boys a lot of luck."

President Peters has received a letter from Ensign Darwin Culver, former student of McPherson College who is stationed on the Philippine Islands. The letter is as follows:

"I hardly know how to begin this letter, for I have neglected to write for so long. I am now in the Philippine Islands and I really enjoy it quite a lot.

"I am on an LCT (landing craft tanks) and I like it very well. We usually carry cargo, from large cargo vessels, to shore. It is quite exciting as long as there are a few Japanese airplanes trying to bomb or staffe us. When we aren't under fire it is a relatively dead life.

Just imagine carrying between 100 to 150 tons of ammunition which a little spark will set off, or about 700 drums of high octane gasoline, or a few hundred tons of bombs and then you can see how true the old saying of 'sitting on a ton of dynamite,' and I mean literally.

"The Islands are fairly nice and in peace time would be a restful place to spend a vacation. Palm trees swaying in the breeze, sandy beaches, clear running streams, and crystal clear salt water to swim in, and a background of low hills covered with heavy foliage. Of course this is an awful poor description, but to see the full moon come over those palms and reflect off the water is romantic as can be. Only one catch—no women.

"I've been right on the front lines here for a few months, but now I'm way behind. A plane can cover the distance in about 2 hours, but its getting monotonous as heck with no action.

"Manila, I hear, is a wonderful city that is equal to any of our cities in the States. Modern buildings, skyscrapers, motion picture shows, paved streets, lighting, and all the modern conveniences. It will be swell

Chit and Chatter

What this school wouldn't do without freshmen, and in case you hadn't heard, beloved 'Shorty' of Kline Hall (Ruth Engeland, really) has done it again. This time it was sheets on the dining hall tables. No wonder they didn't look quite right, Ruth, or have the right kind of edges. And they did look like sheets because they were sheets. Oh well, live and learn. We all were frosh once . . . and since a certain quip in the Society column, it is not only rumored but true that Miss Dell refers to Ernie as 'Manville' all the time, much to the said gentleman's wrathful ire. Franklin Flory and Jo. B. were seen together at the skating party the other night. But that isn't the end of the story by far, for the next day the same Miss Brooks was seen doing a few shirts for the same Mr. Flory . . . Hmhmhmhm! The Dean of Women is not as dignified as she looks . . . and my proof is she was seen sitting on the floor and playing Rook at the candy affair the other night. And speaking of that party, did you know that Glenn Swinger lets girls sit in his lap . . . or I should say 'a girl.' Ask him who . . . and speaking of Glenn, only this time it's with Mary Beth, too (another one of these room-mate deals, I bet) ask him why it is necessary to go out to the Ikenberry back porch (which is very dark at night) to pull taffy by candle light. To continue this refreshing little column, let us turn to some of the steadies. Irene Schraml has moved to see something that resembles home, because the places I've been for the last eight months are nothing but mud, thatched huts, and water. The cities I've been in are rather nice. Tacloban, the capital of Leyte, has a pretty nice main street, stores, and a picture show (not running now), warehouses with concrete floors and sides, also there are big ship docks and a swell airfield. That's enough of this place. You probably are getting tired already. Oh, one other thing, the people in every one of these places are all being taught English and can attend church on Sunday. They are probably more sincere than in the States. I could tell many stories and such but time draws close to where I have to go to work.

"I've been getting the Spectator and I really appreciate getting it, thanks a lot to the swell bunch who puts it out. (New address is LCT 958)."

Yours sincerely,
Darwin Culver

down to Elrod's Basement Sorority to take the place of Ferne Allen as Mildred Cartner's room-mate. Maybe Dale had something to do with it, or all?

Poor Keith must be feeling the Spring that has been in the air these last few days. Now he has to holler all the way across the campus to Blanche during the few times in the day that they aren't together. He must have it bad!

And did you notice the blissful gleam in Dave's eye as he trotted down to Metzler's for supper last Monday night? She is now all 20 twenty years old, is little Annie, and from the way Blanche has been letting on, one can't help but think that there was something more than just a birthday celebration going on. As to what . . . your guess is as good as mine . . .

Is this a retake of proceedings we observed about a year and a half ago, or are we off to an entirely new start? For the infor. of all good and curious little underclassmen, we are merely commenting on the latest developments of the Swinger-Hedges duo.

Together again were little Rosie and Pony Krehbiel. This time it was the skating party. And speaking of that affair, did you notice the way Evelyn Metzger and Jimmy Johnson were hitting it off? Thus it is that we refer to the old and slightly worn saying and wonder how it is that Evelyn seems to be perfectly able to see the moat (the moat refers to Jimmy; no offense meant) even with the 'Beam' that's in here eye . . . or is it? The latest (strictly by grapevine) says that he (Private Win) has returned the pages of time and gone back to Bonita Anderson . . . his former lady love . . . we will speculate no further.

Did you notice the shirt Pat Kennedy was wearing the other evening. Methinks that it flavored of the Hawaiian Islands . . . and who does that remind you of . . . or have you forgotten the little fellow with the uke who used to sing us Hawaiian War chants last year . . . too bad you new ones don't remember him . . . hub Blair? . . . but I'm sure that he would approve of your taste in finding pleasant companions with whom to pass the time, go to shows, skate, etc . . . in other words, we mean Pat.

By the way, Blair is also the fellow who said that writing Chit and Chatter would be a good way to earn ones way through school.

We were just wondering . . . how many of the unattached girls of the campus went down to see 'None but the Lonely Heart'. Of course a lonely heart was not a required part of the admission, but it would be interesting to know who went. Did you? If you did, why?

Canine Cagers Outscore Emporia State

Bulldogs Will Contest Doubleheader Next Week

The McPherson College Bulldogs made it four in a row last Wednesday night as they downed the Emporia State Teachers College Hornets by a 43-35 count.

Getting off to a slow start, the Bulldogs were behind in the first minute of the game but soon started hitting the hoop and went through the Hornets' zone to take a 14-4 lead. The losers then changed to the man-to-man style of defense but failed to do much better and the Bulldogs held a 22-10 half time lead. The Emporia came back strong at the beginning of the second half and the Canines lead dwindled to five points but then the Mac men started to click and held a seven or eight point lead most of the remainder of the contest.

Scoring for the evening was pretty evenly divided with Notson, Hornet forward, taking top honors with 14 points. Swinger, Bulldog captain, was not far behind with 13 points and Markham and Krehbiel, each of the winners, scored 10 points apiece.

The box score:

McPherson (43)	FG	FT	F
Hutchison	2	3	1
Krehbiel	5	0	1
Swinger	4	5	1
Markham	4	2	1
Lowe	1	0	1
Zerger	0	1	0

Totals	16	11	5
Emporia (35)	FG	FT	F
Notson	6	2	1
Spatz	0	0	1
McCandless	3	0	1
Rees	0	2	2
Edmonds	2	0	2
Jones	0	0	3
Litchfield	0	0	1
Heinze	3	3	1

The Bulldogs will be out to get revenge of a 40-33 defeat handed to them earlier in the season when they journey to Wichita next Tuesday night where they have another chance to down the Shockers. The Wichita quintet have not been faring very well since their defeat of the Bulldogs, losing two games to a strong Washburn team. The Bulldogs, on the other hand, have won four games out of as many starts since that time.

The second game of the week for the Bulldogs will be Thursday, February 1, at 8:00 in Convention Hall when they are hosts to Baker University. For comparison, the Canines have a 43-35 win over Emporia as well as a Baker 30-26 victory over the Hornets. Baker beat Ottawa 41-39 and the Canines hold a 52-39 victory in their encounter with the Braves. A third game with Herington Air Base previously scheduled for Saturday night at Herington has been canceled. This makes a 17 game schedule for the Canines, 8 of which have already been played.

Women's Athletics

Let's Play Volleyball

"Play position! Someone shouts, 'lets kill this one!'" It isn't war, but volleyball we are playing. Every Tuesday evening from 6:45 until 9:00 about 15 girls came out to knock the ball around in a "hot" game of volleyball.

We hope to choose sides and have little competition in this game. And we want to have as many girls as possible join us next Tuesday at 6:45 the evening.

Make A Tumble Or Two

A peppy group of eight girls met at the gym Wednesday to prove to themselves once again that they could tap across two girls and end up in a forward roll. They turned forward and backward rolls and did the stomach and back balances.

The tumbling group will meet every Wednesday from 4:30 to 5:30. All the girls are welcome to come and in the group. The head of this group is Jane Bell.

About twenty energetic girls went to the gym Wednesday afternoon for an exciting game of basketball. The teams of Tex Lobban and Ruth Engelland battled for the championship. We hope that your teams will keep up the pep and vitality so that the WAA basketball season will be successful. We can always use more players so why don't you come join us next time. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 30, at 4:45.

All Out For Outing

Starting the season out with a hike, the Outing club met Thursday afternoon to plan many interesting activities for the remainder of the season. Some of the activities that the Outing Club will probably sponsor are skating parties, bicycle hikes, moonlight hikes, scavenger hunts.

For lots of fun and plenty of activity join the Outing Club which is under the direction of Millie Jones.

TODAY'S EVENTS

By
Marcel L. Weinreich

The antiquated, calcified and mummified principle and institution of the monarchy has suffered its first defeat in Europe since the outbreak of the present war. The pro-dictatorial and pro-totalitarian king of Greece had to submit to the indignant will and pressure of the Greek people, had to step down from his usurped throne, despite the frantic, convulsive and bloodshedding efforts of his Britanic Majesty's Prime Minister to salvage the tottering reign and prestige of an incompetent and unwanted, but anointed head. This is another reason to rejoice for the American people, just as the true democrats in this country felt elated in 1789 and 1848, witnessing two triumphs of liberty over tyranny in the form of a Republic.

The most childish and dangerous suggestion as to 'What to Do with Germany' has been advanced in the recent Christmas issue of the New Republic magazine by an appallingly naive ex-German socialist who, clinging to the threadbare coattails of Karl Marx's dubious authority, pontificates about a 'Diagnosis of Germany.' The author prescribes one teaspoonful of revolution, another one of democratization, and one tablespoon of socialism. We need not dwell upon the foolish and deadly lie of the latent forces of a 'democratic Germany.' Democracy and the German tribes are as incompatible as 'cat' and 'water.'

The credulous author does not have to wait until after the war to socialize German economy; this has already been done by the leaders of the Third Reich under the only form possible for a strong government: that of nationalization. By nationalizing the economic life of Germany, Hitler has been able to enforce his brutal power and to wage his war of extermination. Thus, the socialization of German resources and means of production the German States, the merciless Moloch—as the omniscient authors wills it—would not prevent a World War Number Three, but, quite to the contrary, would supply

Many things of interest happened on the Sterling trip. It was the first trip for the Bulldogs and eight students also made the journey to give the Bulldogs a little support. These eight students actually out-yelled a weak-lunged Warrior cheerleader section. This may sound absurd until I tell you that the mouths of Kennedy and Ronk were well open most of the time. Nothing unusual, but something mighty handy at times.

I imagine most of us would have liked to have gone to sleep on the way over so that we could rest up for the game. As far as I know Johnson was the only one that accomplished the task. He didn't care if he did miss out on anything, because of those soft shoulders!

The Bulldogs have decided that two games in one week is enough. Thus the Herington trip has been canceled. We still have a tough week ahead though, with Wichita U. next Tuesday and Baker U. here next Thursday.

The Emporia trip was a lot different than the Sterling trip. At Sterling we played in a not so hot gymnasium with poor lighting. At Emporia we played in the city auditorium, an enormous place with excellent lighting and one of the slickest floors that I hope we ever have to play on. Both teams were on the floor most of the time. But all kidding aside, if it hadn't been for their dancing on the floor and making it so slick, it is probably the best gym we will play on this season.

A few notes on the "behavior" of other teams. Coach Binford of Wichita U. suited up only seven men as the Shockers lost a 55-31 decision to a strong Washburn quintet. Baker U. beat Emporia State 30-26. Sterling lost to Herington Air Base 106-27. Herington beat a much improved Bethany team by a twenty-three point margin.

and cherished independence.

The separatist movements are smoldering all over Germany, but they need encouraging sparks from outside to break out in the open and to break loose from the despotism of Berlin. The German provinces will be overjoyed to have dissolved the Reich and to be able to lead on existence as autonomous states. And they simply won't be able to start a war, those separate little tribes, so jealous of their separatedness, even if they wanted to. And this is the only thing that counts in our endeavor of the democracies, to safeguard a durable peace for all mankind.

Bulldogs Win Second Game From Sterling

First Out Of Town Encounter For Mac

Playing without the services of their captain and regular center, Glenn Swinger, the Bulldogs handed Sterling College another defeat last week as they downed a weak Warrior quintet 63-31.

Coach Hayden played eight men in the game which was the first out of town encounter for the Canines, and all of these eight scored at least four points. Sterling's scoring was also pretty evenly divided with Dill, Warrior forward, leading his team with five field goals and three charity tosses for a total of 13 points.

The contest was somewhat different from the Canines last game, as one point victory over Central, as the Bulldogs took an early lead that was never seriously threatened.
