torio Chorus, BYPD and SCA are her chief interests. At the present time she is serving the state BYPD cabinet as secretary. A home economics major, she lists science subjects among her favorites.

Lois plans to spend the summer at home on the farm, and next fall will begin her career of teaching.

Lois has made her mark on our campus by her quiet unassuming ways and devotions to the task before her.

Alvina Dirks

The efficient home economic major can be found in Alvina Dirks. She has proved her ability in the culinary art by acting as Miss Siek's assistant during the past year. She has put her talent to practical use by heading many food committees.

Alvina, who hails from Buhler, Kansas, was active in SCA, WAA, and Women's Council. Next year she can be found teaching home economics and Science in Assaria, Kansas. Her plan for the no-to-distant future is preparation in Cook County Hospital, Chicago to be a dietician.

Ruth Shoemaker

Coming all the way from Wenatchee, Washington to gain her higher education, Ruth Shoemaker has made for herself a place at Macollege. She has come to be known through the four years she has been here for her cheerful assistance in the business office as well as her activity in many of the student organizations.

She started her freshman year by being chosen for the women's council, a position she held for three years, being vice president for one year.

She joined the oratorio chorus her freshman year and has participated in its activities all four years. Her talent and interest has further manifested itself in that she has been in the a cappella choir for three years, and last fall was chosen for the second alto on the college women's quartet.

Ruth has had an active interest in S. C. A. She was chosen co-chairman of the program committee her sophomore year, co-social chairman her junior year, and crowned her S. C. A. activities by being elected co-chairman of the organization her senior year.

Rec Council, BYPD, and the student council have also had their share of Ruth's enthusiasm and interest.

Arnold Hall girls have shown their confidence in her by electing her to the house council for two years in the capacity of vice-president her junior year, and president the first semester of her senior year.

Ruth plans to spend the summer at home and visiting around her home state. "I'm going to see more of Washington," she said with a far away look in her eye. Perhaps the fact that she has not been home for the last two years accounts for that. Majoring in home economics, she has secured a position in the Otis, Kansas high school. She will teach home ec., for sure, but it not certain what else.

Ruth will long be remembered for her friendly spirit, her ability to lead out and assume responsibility, her pep, and that hearty chuckle, that echoes through the halls of McPherson College.

Wilma Fae Kuns

If you want to know about the classification of a flower, the formation of a rock, or the life cycle of an amoeba, just ask Wilma Fae Kuns, biology major.

Short, brunet, blue-eyed Wilma Fae calls Garden City her home, and has spent her four years of college at McPherson.

Biology is by no means Wilma Fae's sole interest (academic). She has been in Oratorio Chorus four years and was a chemistry assistant for two years and a member of the science club for three years. Wilma Fae has hopes of attending Medical Technologist School at Chicago next year.

Writing and dramatics are also of interest to Wilma Fae. She has done some work on the Spectator and was Assistant Quadrangle editor in her sophomore year. She is a three year Thespian member and was especially outstanding as one of the crazy sisters in this year's production, "Ladies in Retirement."

Wilma Fae has also been active in athletics. As a four year member of WAA she has earned both a letter and gold pin. She has served as head of Do-Si-Do and Tumbling clubs. Incidentally, her favorite recreation includes either tumbling or swimming and she is proficient in both. Her hobbies consist of collecting poetry, pictures of cats, and perfume bottles.

To make her college life truly

SOCIETY

And the rains came . . . not in torrents, but just enough of a drizzle to make going rather wet and uncomfortable. Still time goes by, and this ends the last week of school days. Exams loom ahead . . . foreboding and unknown, but soon they, too, will be over.

The beginning of this week, Sunday to be exact, found a familiar figure on the campus—once more. He left us as a green frosh, and came back in Army kaki. Private Winston Beam of McPherson was home for Mother's Day and also saw his friends again. Visiting with him was his buddy, Private Morgan.

All School's Day, known to some as May Day, has been looked forward to for some time. But thanks to the weather spirits were dampened somewhat. The college was represented on the program by a dance group of gym girls under the direction of Mrs. Annette Ronk, Women's Athletic Instructor. The dance entitled 'Blue Champagne' was given in blue formals and consisted of modern interpretive dancing.

Sunday afternoon a group of students spent their time up on Coronado Heights. The wind and sun were both very much in evidence, but from all reports they all had a good time and even wind burns could not dampen their spirits. They went by way of Frank Flory's car. The rest of the group included Jo B. Brooks, Doris Coppock, Loreen Ruthrauff, Bill Shepherd, Dave Eiler, and the owner of the car.

FAIR FASHIONS

It's Cool: It's Cotton
Casual cotton for all purpose wear. Slim, dark skirt—slimming striped blouse. From a group of summer blacks.

The Tuesday night All School Picnic turned out to be one of the nicest informal parties of the year in the gym. The kids caught the sportive spirit, and all joined in with a will. Laughter and prizes together turned out a grand time for all. We gathered, cheered, sang and ate today. An excellent way to let down your hair (even the faculty's) with plenty of exercise and fun. Cheers go to the Rec. committee, and the food committee that fed us after the games.

Thursday evening Mrs. E. L. Ikenberry and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Dell entertained the rest of the college faculty at an informal lap supper at the Dell home. There were thirty-nine faculty members present as guests. Mrs. Dell and Mrs. Ikenberry were assisted by their daughters, and Ernest Ikenberry, Jr.

Busy Beavers Apply Now

All students interested in work next semester should hand in their applications before the end of school announced Professor S. Milton Dell. Students who have worked this past nine week period should get their work report cards from his office to hand in at the business office for credit as soon as possible.

Play In Short-Alls

Slick with or without a skirt! Bareback suspender shorts in fresh white, cotton gabardine or blue denim, and others. Slacks of the same pattern serve more hard play, gardening, and hiking or when you want to protect those neatly tanned legs.

Whatever you choose for summer-wear, make it cool, comfortable, practical, and with just enough of the right kind of style to make others look your way with a look that spells admiration.

It isn't the clothes alone. It isn't you alone. It is you in the clothes.

From The Deans

Dean of Women
Mrs. Olivia D. Ikenberry

To the Seniors, sincere congratulations and another thing to set a goal. The Seniors now may look back on this end, but four years ago seemed very long, and feel a glow of satisfaction for something accomplished. They have become a definite part of the spirit and memories that is anyone can leave is the memory he reached Commencement of 1945. Life is like climbing mountains. You reach one peak only to see a higher in the distance, a new goal toward which to strive. To the Seniors as they commence the trail toward their new goal, genuine good wishes for their success.

Dean of Men
Professor S. Milton Dell

It is always with mingled feelings that the Dean of Men wishes success to the seniors. The pleasant classroom experiences, the extra-curricular committee meetings, the glimpses into the real man, the problems we face graduation with some sadness not duplicated. The lingering memories of the many happy classes and to go on and to await with assurance reports of successes in the years ahead.

almost forgot, they didn't go alone! Brooks, Coppock, and Ruthrauff were along too. (Minor detail, Ha!) Which also brings to mind that fact that you are always griping about no new names occurring in the gossip. Well what about Eiler and Coppock, that's news, isn't it?

There are those who like scary shows and those who like sad shows. Unruh and Bailey tried the scary one Friday night, and Bowman and Rolf saw the sad one. One wonders which is the best—to have a shoulder to cry on or to have someone to

Up On The Hill

At times it gets a little boring to hear about Idaho all the time, but we have to hand it to those Idaho people, they surely have the pep. At any rate the boys get around! In case you can't guess what I'm driving at, (and no doubt you can't) I'm referring to those Idaho fellows—Flory, Eiler, and Shepherd who had the smart idea of going on a picnic Sunday afternoon. (no doubt they went to Coronado Heights in order to see more of our beautiful and delightful Kansas!) Oh! I protect one when the monsters are after one. And as if the show wasn't scary enough, Unruh even tried to frighten Bailey. New technique, Unruh?

Flash! Daring Mae College girls just discovered how to get waited on during rush hours. Method: Write a note on a napkin and give it to a waiter. It worked for Metzger, Erb, Ruthrauff and Reed. Try it sometime.

One of those Idaho partisans again remarked on the great imagination of the natives around these parts. On viewing Coronado Heights for the first time, Bill Shepherd's verdict was, that in Kansas they made mountains out of molehills.
