Congratulations

The Bulldogs of McPherson College have lived up to the best traditions of the college. Our basketball team has just finished a very successful season. After losing their first conference game, the boys went on to win the conference championship. Several of the games were very close, and the team showed its ability to play well when the chips were down. We owe a lot to the fellows who returned from service; they noticeably strengthened our team. We also owe a debt of gratitude to the fellows who kept the team in the running until more fellows came to school. Above all, we owe an expression of thanks to Coach Hayden. Under his expert direction a championship team was formed. Many times his strategy has made the difference between victory and defeat. Accordingly, to our team and our coach we say, "Congratulations, on a job well done."

School Spirit

We hear a lot about school spirit. There is considerable disagreement as to what it is. Some folks define it one way; others define it in another manner. But I'm sure all of us would agree that we saw a fine exhibition of good Bulldog spirit last Friday, when the faculty displayed their hidden talents. A very excellent program was given; the spirit of cooperation was fine. We conclude that our faculty set a fine example of true school spirit.

American Education for a Favored Few?

Hats off to Dr. Frank Rosecrance of the School of Education for his speech, "Federal aid for education" before a student group recently. His speech represents the kind of sound thinking by educational leaders which will make American democracy what it should be and not what it is now.

Are colleges serving the society of which they are a part when they serve only "the aristocracy of money and the aristocracy of brains?" We think not. Throughout American history there has been a clamor for more education for the masses. In years to come, a college education may be as available as a high school education is today for those in the low income groups. Quoting Dr. Rosecrance, "Education should be a right of citizenship."

Each of you readers probably remember deserving boys and girls in your high school class, who, if they had had the money, would have done well in college. Instead, they were forced to go work to help boost the family income.

If the government should subsidize students, ambitious and intelligent students in the low income group would be given the equality of opportunity which they rightly deserve. It may take time, but federal aid to education will come. Through its army and navy college training programs, the government has trained men in a comparatively short time for tasks which before the war took much more time. Under the GI bill of rights, the government is giving aid to worthy men who lost time from college while in service and who risked their lives also.

Realizing that democracy works best with educated citizens, the federal government will most likely expand its student subsidization to give American youth its rightful chance to be equally educated.—The Daily Northwestern, Northwestern University. Donald Scofield

Donald Scofield is another student minister, but he is majoring in Philosophy and Religion. He has spent all four years here at McPherson. He is quite musical and has been active in Band and A Cappella for all four years. For three years he was the photographer for the Quadrangle and has taken many pictures of campus life. He is just another Jayhawker boy, coming from Independence, Kansas.

For two years he sang on the second men's quartet, and it was in this way that he met Dorothy Neighbors, now his wife. While on a deputation trip to western Missouri he met her and in 1945 they were married here at McPherson. Now they are just another of those young married couples living at Kline, and we'll miss them when they're gone.

Mark Emswiler

Mark Emswiler has been many things in his lifetime, including the driver of a sight-seeing bus in several national parks, the owner of a cleaning establishment in Poplar, Montana, a free minister for two churches, and a student for two years at the State Teachers' College at Minot, North Dakota, not in the order named. But all this activity succeeded in leading him to one place, McPherson College.

Though he plans to be a minister, Mark is majoring in Industrial Arts. Most any afternoon you can find him over in the Industrial Arts Building working away at a woodworking project or blinding any spectators' eyes with his welding torch. He is a member of the Student Ministers and is a cabinet member of the SCA. Two years ago, when he came to Macampus, he moved into Kline Hall and became head resident, a job he has held ever since that time. His has the stern duty of keeping the Kline Klub girls in hand. But perhaps Mark's outstanding achievement here has been in the field for forensics. He has been on the varsity debate team both years and last year made up one-half of the team that took first place in the men's division in the provincial tournament. He has only been here two years but he has accomplished much.

Carrying The Torch

The SCA commission met in a joint meeting Tuesday morning for a hilarious Truth or Consequences program. With Dave Albright as master of ceremonies, assisted by his able helpers, Susie Ikenberry and Doris Coppock and "Miss Know It All," Pat Kennedy, who gave the correct answers, the program was off to a grand start when Jane Bell preferred to pay a dollar to WSSF instead of depositing her 25c and taking the consequences. The contestants were often lacking in knowledge pertaining to WSSF, and hence the consequences were frequent (or the dollar bills in their stead). Interesting demonstrations were Naylor's tale of his proposal, Pop Zigler's music talent displayed and last but not least Brownie's vocal ability. All proceeds from the program were placed in the WSSF drive.

Student Volunteers

The deputation commission, which is a portion of the Student Volunteers, sent out two teams last Sunday. The morning group went to the Monitor Church with Mark Emswiler as chairman. Music was directed by John Sheets with Mildred Cartner as pianist. Carl Zigler gave the sermon. A quartet composed of Wayne Bowman, June Landes, Bernice Lindstrom, and Robert Keim, sang several numbers.

The group leaving in the evening went to the Morning Star school house where they presented a program to an inter-denominational group. Bill Mease and Marianna Stinnette were chairmen. Following a singspiration led by David Albright, Avis and Phyllis Erb gave an accordian duet. Other numbers on the program were a solo by David Albright; scripture by Bill Mease; a story, "The Whittler of Cremona," read by Susan Ikenberry; a solo by June Landes; and a number by the above mentioned quartette.

than that even if we faced the piano.

Next in line of the musical part of the program was Dr. Peters playing his trusty harmonica. This is the instrument which he learned to play many years ago under most adverse conditions. His folks did not want him to be wasting his time on such things so he was forced to practice in solitude out in the barn, with only the cows and horses to listen. We were all pleasantly surprised by his rendition of "Darling Nellie Gray" and another little jazz number.

Professor Hess next presented a poem, in which some of the lines failed to rhyme, but nevertheless, it gave us some new slants on the seniors. The entire poem was made up using names of the members of the senior class.

Professor Fisher stepped out of the realm of music into the realm of speech and read a number of short poems written by a friend of his giving us just a little insight as to what others thought of him as an author and poet when Nevin was a much younger fellow than he is now.

The closing number was a poem about Noah and the Ark, written in negro dialect. Dr. Boitnott was called upon to read this poem, not because he has a southern accent but because he has lived in

The President's Corner

During these days of high emotional tension and in too many cases low moral and ethical concepts and principles of behavior, the following are essential helps in getting along together and in being constructively helpful one to the other:

1. Before one passes judgment upon the behavior of another, he should wait until he has enough documented facts upon which to base his judgment.
2. Whenever one passes judgment upon the sayings or acts of another, one should do so only with the motive of honestly trying to be constructively helpful.
3. It is most unfortunate that so many people get so much satisfaction out of hearing and reporting the irregular acts and the weaknesses in human behavior.
4. Each of us should earnestly strive to develop the ability to suspend judgment when to the neutral good of all concerned.
5. Respect for personality and sympathetic understanding are basic to wholesome human relationships.
6. To refuse to pass snap judgment and to exercise sympathetic understanding does not mean that one condones that which is immoral or unethical. To be tolerant does not mean weakness.
7. The old adage, "Think twice before you speak," could be strengthened to advantage by adding, "and be careful how and when you say it."

the south and really knows how the southerner talks.

No, the last one was not the closing number, for we next heard the entire faculty sing in a marvelous way our own school song. Professor Fisher was the accompanist and Dr. Peters was the director. He gracefully led them through the song and with sweeping gestures drew in the entire student body on the last few bars of the music. Curtains on a program and deserving of applause.

Highlights and Shadows

Miss Elsie Schnorr entertained at a waffle dinner in her home Saturday evening. After the meal the guests played rook with Miss Murdock scoring high and Miss Schnorr a close second. Guests were Miss Ruth Litchy and Mr. Warren Hoover, Miss Dorris Murdock and Mr. Marvin Blough, and Mr. John Kidwell and the hostess, Miss Elsie Schnorr.

Reverend Chester VanDyke and family were hosts to the deputation group which gave a program in the Monitor Church Sunday morning. After the morning service presented by a deputation team from the Student Volunteers Commission, the guests were entertained in the VanDyke home with Mr. and Mrs. Royal Yoder as assistant hosts. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Sheets and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Emswiler and Janis, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ziegler, Wayne Bowman, Bob Keim, June Landes, Mildred Carter and Bernice Lindstrom. Edith Allen and John Dittmars enjoyed a waffle supper in the Kilne Hall Kitchen Sunday evening.

Doris Crumpacker and Donnis Wampler celebrated their birth-anniversaries Thursday evening. Forming a line party to the Manor theater, the girls say "The Harvey Girls" after which they returned to Doris' home for refreshments of birthday cake, ice cream and cokes. The honorees were presented with linked friendship bracelets with their names engraved. Those composing the party were Misses Joan Finrock, Leona Dell, Roberta Mohler, Elsie Schnorr, Ruth Engelland, Della Mae Poland, Ann Oberst, Mary Metzler, and Mrs. Annette Ronk.

Home made ice cream and cake were served to the Agee's on Monday night in honor of their first wedding anniversary. They were married one year ago on March 4. Those present at the celebration and Dorothy Scofield, Margaret Bechtold and Milly Jones.

Reviews and Previews

By Joyce

The redecorated Spec office was made open for the public. New lights, fresh paint and a new window were the renovations much in evidence.

Blair Helman, with his oration entitled "Nationalism", won the local peace oratorical contest.

A little black, shaggy puppy dog, christened "Mo-Hee" by the inimitable Swinger, began following one and all about the campus. This charming little bit of dog, whose name is reputed to mean "black-legged", soon wagged his way into the hearts of the entire student body. He was sorely missed when one day he wandered away from the campus as mysteriously as he came, and returned no more.

There were many visitors to be seen roaming over Macampus. Among these was Dr. Rufus D. Bowman, President of Bethany Biblical Seminary, who spoke to the chapel audience while he was here. Gernelda Sprengle was visited by her sister, Esther who was on her way to California, and Milly Jones beamed all over as she showed off cousin Ronnie Brubaker of the United States Army Air Force.

Dorm life was going on much as usual, with the usual number (only more so) of feeds to liven the monotonous days and nights of classes, study, more classes and more study. Burning the midnight oil was even then a popular pastime with the more studious students, while others, content with giving their studying a lick and a promise, continued to live up to the time-worn motto "Never let your studies interfere with your education".

Campus Interviews

By Chuck

Dear Public:
Rumors have been coming to my ears, and I am wondering what the beloved public thinks about them, therefore I think that it would be good for us to view a few of their answers to the question: "Should we have a Red Cross Chapter on our campus?"

Of course, there could be various and opposite views on this subject. It is a well known fact that there are those who would like to start one here, who have residence in the city of McPherson. This question has nothing to do with the dollar bills that we will drive here on our campus, for we will all want to give to that. For we know, in spite of its errors, blunders and in many theaters of war, the Red Cross is the largest social group in America.

Approaching Miss Wickham, a senior and a nurse from the city hospital, we discovered her too busily engaged in study. To our question she answered "Yes, I think a chapter should be organized. For I think that the contact it would have with the town chapter would unite the college more with the town."

Miss Harris, our capable and able librarian stated that she was in no position to say since she was a member of the faculty, and since she already belonged to the Red Cross.

"Sure, I think they should start a chapter," said Donna Mohler.

"I don't think we particularly need one. There is enough opportunity to carry on activities on our campus similar to those of the Red Cross without forming a chapter," was another answer received.

"No," was the only answer of Gayland Coughenour who voiced the opinion of many of his friends.

There you see, dear public, we have the three different types of thinking. One that we should have it because it would make us more united with the town; another that we have no need for it, due to the activities which we have on the campus; and the view that it would and it wouldn't be nice to have for personal reasons. Now we are going to have to sign off, but we beg you to draw your own conclusions on this subject.

Sincerely,
Chuck.

Women's Athletics

Basketball

Another winter season of WAA basketball has come to the close. We are proud of our record of twenty-four active girls. They are Jane Bell, Doris Coppock, Ruth Engelland, Phyllis Erb, Theda Flory, Dorothy Frantz, Doris Hamer, Rosella Haley, Betty Lou Jamison, Milly Jones, Nina Kagarice, June Landes, Ila Verne Lobban, Evelyn Metzger, Masaka Nakamura, Della Mae Poland, Joyce Riddlebarger, Arlene Rolfs.

Outing

Combine twenty-four active outing girls with a couple of hikes, one scavenger hunt, one trip to the movies, and one stop for cookies and coffee at "Tex's" house. To this add a few make-up meetings. The result is a successful outing season! Those participating in outing this season are: Jane Bell, Eulalia Crist, Donna Bowman, Betty Lou Jamison, Theda Flory, Marianna Stinnette, Nina Kagarice, Roberta Mohler, Mary Metzler, Carol Trowbridge, Ann Oberst, Doris Coppock, Arlene Rolfs, Doris Hamer, Masako Nakamura, Elsie Schnorr, Eula Wolf, Ruth Davis, Leona Dell, Joyce Riddlebarger, Rosella Haley, Jhonette Spengler, Gernelda Sprengle, Dorothy Frantz, and the club manager, Ila Verne Lobban.

Square Dancing

It's time for a new season to begin in WAA, so square dancing will be set aside to make way for the new spring activities. We leave this season feeling that having been active in this form of activity, is quite an accomplishment—what with semester examinations, regional conference, etc., to struggle through.

Those girls who found time to lend themselves to this gala sport, are none other than the very bright lights of our campus. For it is the girls who take themselves away from the textbooks and seek refreshment and relaxation that are up and ready to go at all times. These girls are: Jane Bell, Leona Dell, Dorothy Frantz, Nina Kagarice, Roberta Mohler, Rosella Haley, Jhonette Spengler, Gernelda Sprengle, Marianna Stinnette, and Donnis Wampler. The girls were under the leadership of a fellow beginner in square dancing, Evelyn Metzger.

Party Line

After receiving numerous barbed glances and nasty threats as kids were reading last week's Spec we resolved to clean the whole column up this week—make it the model for a gossip column. In fact we almost resolved to mitigate it completely from the paper but after taking one hasty look at the small stack of news this week we decided that this was not the week to start cutting down.

We also resolved not to use personal names this week and be so catty about the whole thing. We also resolved not to use the same old couples that appear every week. That's fine—you say, we think so too. But that leaves us without a thing to write about and we might as well write "finis."

Is it our fault that all the really good scandals are censored and we don't dare print them? Is it our fault that only a certain red-headed girl is the only one to make gossip around here? (I didn't mention any names.) We could continue beating around the bush but we know you like to see your names in this column and you are only griping because yours doesn't appear often enough, so here goes—all bars are down.

Wolf wanted to see the game at Emporia very badly Friday night but he wasn't quite secure of his position so he stayed at home and had a date. We were happy to hear that Eulid is going to be paroled. So is Don Keim and three girls. Prentice says, "It's fun to have a boy to walk home from town with, but it would be better if you knew who he is." But that is the first time we ever knew a trio of girls to turn down a ride. But this story of Donald's sounds very fishy. In fact we are rather suspicious that he doesn't recognize Ann's father when he is traveling at high speed. We suggest that you give him no cause for irritation next time.

Billy goes away and Jack will play—so goes the slogan on third floor of Fanny. We will bet that Bill thinks twice before he goes home this week-end.

Volumes could be written about Etta Mae but the least said the better she says, and we value her friendship.

Bernadine Schafer has been holding out on us. Who is that good looking man of yours, Bernadine? We hear he is a local boy and that you have been going together for several years. We understand now why you have that happy and satisfied look.

Blair isn't so dumb. When he found out that he was going to be auctioned off during the WSSF Drive he purposely made a date with Pat for Friday night (twelve o'clock night). Pat didn't have enough ready cash to risk bidding, unless she could have started it at a dime.

The girls on second floor in Arnold have been complaining about the strange sounds that float down to their ears every night between ten and eleven. Don't be alarmed, it is just the girls doing those gruesome exercises. In fact those exercises are becoming quite popular for even the gals from the other two floors are joining in this muscle breaking activity.

Shoes: The last few years when women wanted shoes and shoes were rationed manufacturers came out with fabric playshoes. How these gay little shoes made such a hit that everyone still wants them. This year they are more elaborate, gayer, and more original than ever.

Colorful shoes bring out the spring! You don't have to look far to find any kind that just fits you, your personality, and your wardrobe. You can wear little barefoot sandals that hug the ground, or sandals with a light hearted soaring sedge. Step out in the popular ballet slipper with its many different versions. Get a pair of thong sandals. No matter what your taste in sandals, you can find some with the straps twisted or turned just the way you want.

The style of the shoes is just half the story. Next comes the glamorous array of colors. This year you can find them with gay, fun loving names and in just the shade you want. Get a pair in cherry cokes red or neon yellow, stop light red, carnival green, or boogie woogie blue, and subway black.

They come in technicolor. You'll love them all and live in them all spring and all summer long.

Coach Tom Hayden's McPherson College Bulldogs, champions of the Kansas Conference, ran down the curtain on the 1946 season by dropping the season's final to the Ottawa Braves 38 to 49 at Ottawa Tuesday night.

The Bulldogs capped the 1946 championship first since 1942 when league schedules were cancelled for the duration of the war, by winning eight consecutive league starts, sandwiched between an opening loss to the Baker Wildcats at Baldwin City and last night's defeat at the hands of the Ottawa Braves. The Bulldogs defeated each team at least once and leads Ottawa in the final standings by two full games.

The Ottawa Braves grabbed undisputed second place in the final standings with six wins and four defeats as they tripped the Bulldogs last night at Ottawa. Early season favorites, the Braves led the league until the Bulldogs topped them from the top rung by defeating the Braves 37 to 36 early in February.

After losing to the Bulldogs, the Braves lost three of their next four games, eliminating them from any chance at the title.

Five wins and five losses was good enough to give Coach Emil Linton's Baker Wildcats third place in the final standings. The Bethany Swedes and College of Emporia tied for fourth and fifth place with four wins and six losses. Sixth spot went to the Bethel Graymaroons who dropped seven conference tilts while winning three.

Bulldogs Are Handed 48-39 Loss in Last Game

In the final game of the season for both teams the Ottawa Braves upset the McPherson Bulldogs Tuesday night on the Ottawa timbers 48-39. In a rough game in which 48 fouls were called on both teams Ottawa held the lead throughout. At halftime the score was 26-16 in favor of the Braves.

During the game Fisher, Zenger, and Unruh all retired on fouls and Nordling on an injured hand.

Scoring honors for the night went to Moore of the Braves who got 11 points. Bobby Barr got 10 for Mac.

Mac Bulldogs Defeat College Of Emporia

Krehbiel, Fisher Pace Canines in 44-41 Win

The McPherson Bulldogs proved conclusively that they are the best team in the Kansas Conference by setting back C. of E., a team considered by many as the best in the conference, 44-41, Friday night in the Emporia Civic Auditorium.

The C. of E. team is definitely the most improved team in the conference. It started by losing 5 conference games in a row but, with the addition of several veterans at the beginning of the second semester, they began to look more like worthy competition. Boasting the tallest team in the conference they were riding on the crest of an 8 game winning streak before being knocked off by the "Haydenmen."

The game followed almost identically the form of the Bethany game. Mac started slow. Jack Smith, C. of E.'s ace, had dumped in 2 field goals before Krehbiel hit a one-hander to start the scoring for Mac. It was a free scoring game the first half with the Presbys pulling into a 17-9 lead. Then the Canines got in gear and with 6 minutes left in the first half the score was knotted at 19 all. With 2 minutes to play it was 25 all and at the intermission it was 28-27 with the 'dogs on the short end.

When play was resumed Captain Markham sank a charity toss that tied it up. Then the Bulldog offensive eased up and the Presbys pulled into a 35-28 lead. Krehbiel scored two fielders that made it 35-32. From here the score went to 39-32 and then 39-38 and there it seemed to stay. Neither team could effectively control the ball or hit the hoop. Finally Barr put one in from under the basket to make it 40-39 and this was C. of E.'s downfall. The score stayed this way for some time. Finally Fisher put in a bucket from beyond the free throw line to give us a three point lead.

Sample counted a 2 pointer for C. of E. which reduced our lead to 1 point but Fisher came through with another one to give us the final victory margin, 44-41.

Formal Banquet Date Set by WAA

The highlight of the year of WAA activities will occur Saturday night, May 4, when this club will hold its annual formal banquet. The affair will be held in the banquet room of one of the downtown hotels.

Eula Wolf, vice-president and social chairman of the club, is in charge of all the arrangements. The WAA cabinet has appointed the following committee chairmen: food, Dorothy Frantz; program, Evelyn Metzger; and decorations, Eulalia Crist. The committees to assist these chairmen will be appointed sometime this week.

The theme will remain a secret until WAA members and their guests arrive at the banquet. Only those girls who have been active in one or more clubs each of the three seasons are eligible to attend the banquet.

Shots and Dribbles

By Bob

One of a sports writers favorite past season pastimes is usually picking an all conference team. This year we are going to forgo picking a team and instead nominate a couple of Bulldogs who we think deserve mention on any all-conference team.

On a team that lacked individual stars, Capt. Paul Markham, nevertheless, was a standout at guard. Paul is playing his third year of basketball for the Bulldogs and captained the Bulldogs during the present season. In spite of being handicapped by an injured arm Paul was one of the outstanding defensive guards in the conference and a 40 minute man most of the season. On offense Paul picked up 76 points from his guard spot with his snappy one handed set shot. Lacking in height, Paul nevertheless gathered in more than his share of rebounds and was also just about the classiest dribbler in the conference.

nominate the Bulldogs high scoring forward, Marvin Krehbiel, "Weazel", a sophomore at McPherson this year, has punched through 154 points in the first 17 games to lead the Bulldogs in total points scored. This also places him among the top scorers in the Kansas Conference. Krehbiel also played a sterling defensive game and was one of the conference's cleverest ball handlers and dribblers.
