

Youth Retreat Attracts Large Crowd

The annual Youth Retreat of the Bretton young people of the Western Region began on Friday, Feb. 20, at 1 p. m. with the registration of the attending persons.

The Youth Conference, according to the customary procedure, was held simultaneously with the beginning of Regional Conference.

That afternoon some of the youth were conducted over the campus to show to them the remarkable features and latent possibilities of the college.

Friday night, Dr. W. W. Peters welcomed the assemblage as guests. Don Snider, National Youth Director, spoke to the group on present world conditions, emphasizing the contrast between the economic conditions in America and those in other countries. Recreation in the form of folk games followed in the gymnasium under the direction of Marianna Stinnette.

Saturday morning in the regular business meeting a budget of $1400 was adopted, $1,000 of which will go to the support of a regional field worker. Officers for the ensuing year were chosen.

Three seminars were conducted Saturday. They included a discussion on Russian and International Relations led by Prof. Raymond Flory, Milton Early conducted a discussion on Peace. The third seminar, under Ed Crill, discussed Race Relations.

Saturday night the youth met in the basement of the church for the annual youth banquet, with Max McAuley acting as Master of Ceremonies. The meal was served by student waiters and waitresses, while Esther Miller led the attending people in group singing. The program consisted of a marimba solo by Rowena Neher, and a few numbers rendered by a quartet composed of Helen Stover, Mary Metzler, Eloise Brooks, and Ruth Rogers. The Peace Caravanners then presented a short program. Paul Waggoner, Regional Youth President, presented to the group the newly-elected officers of the Regional Cabinet. They include:

Keith Howard, Secretary-Treasurer.
John Burkholder, Peace Secretary.

M. Stinnette, Beryl McCann, Editors of News and Vamp.
Ivan Rogers, Work Camp Advisor.

Ed Crill, Adult Advisor.

The youth group then joined the adults in the sanctuary of the church for an address by Raymond Rustin. Mr. Rustin, speaking about racial intolerance pointed out that discrimination is both morally wrong and economically unsound. Following Mr. Rustin's talk, a consecration service for the new region at youth officers was conducted by Russell West, Sr.

On Sunday came the conclusion of the Youth Retreat and the beginning of Regional Conference. All during the day the visitors left the campus, not to return until another conference or the beginning of school.

Bulldogs Win Game

Last night in a hard-fought game the McPherson Bulldogs defeated Bethany's Swedes in the Dogs' last game of the season. The final score was 55 - 54.

Faculty Present

Pep Chapel Friday

Indiana cats and mice, pep yells, and axes were all in order last Friday morning, when the faculty conducted the pep assembly. This proved to be one of the most successful pep rallies of the year.

Dr. Helsey played a well-known violin solo. Miss Howe gave her rendition of the piano novelty "Cat and Mouse". Prof. Berkebile, Big Chief Slingum Bull alias Big Chief Hamburger, drew many laughs from the student body when he gave a speech about the Ottawa Braves and the McPherson Bulldogs.

Intermittently, Prof. Crabb and the band played numbers, including "Tiger Rag" and "E Pluribus Unum". The cheer leaders, Doty, Nies, Beam, and McSpadden also added to the program by leading several cheers.

Practices For Play

Practices for the spring production, to be given by the College Players, will begin on March 8. The play is to be given on April 27, 28, 29 and 30.

"The Night of January 26," recently chosen by the Players, is the ninety-fourth of a woman who is being tried for the murder of a man who is her former employer. The woman claims that the man committed suicide, and many complications arise. The entire story takes place in a court room. The jury, composed of members of the audience, will decide the verdict, and the outcome of the play will be decided by the audience jury.

Work on the scenery for the play has been begun and the cast will be selected soon.

Large Number Enjoy

Vesper Musicale

Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m. the McPherson College Music Department presented a vesper musicale in the Church of the Brethren. The program was given under the capable direction of Professor Donald Frederick.

The program consisted of music sung by three groups: the Ladies Glee Club, the Men's Glee Club, and the College Women's Quartette.

Terminating the program, the combined Ladies' and Men's Glee Clubs rendered several numbers with the accompaniment of Helen Stover.

Quite a large number of people enjoyed the musicale, since the audience included conference guests, residents of McPherson, and college students.

Meteor Explodes

In West Kansas

Last week a terrific explosion rocked western Kansas. Authorities believe this blast was caused by a meteor which blew up when it entered the earth's atmosphere.

The concussion was felt in parts of Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma. Evidently no one saw the actual explosion and there was no flash. The meteor was felt as far as 230 miles away.

It was the most exciting thing that happened in the vicinity of Norton, Kansas, for a long time. It is believed that the meteor disintegrated, as so many of them do.

"I'm the instructor... and no crock!"

Faculty Host To

Ninety-four Guests

Ninety-four were served at the annual trustee dinner, that was held Friday night at the Church. Miss Della Lehman, Madame Toastmaster for the evening, introduced the program, whose theme was the expansion project for the college.

Dr. W. W. Peters "Cleared the Ground" with his welcome to the trustees. Response to the welcome was presented by the president of the trustees, Mr. W. H. Yoder. Harold Beam favored the group with a tenor solo.

Professor M. A. Hess "Layed the Bricks," as he introduced the faculty personnel. Eugene Crabb then played a trumpet solo.

The finishing touches of the evening were applied by Professor Don Frederick, as he led the group in the singing of several selections.

Exhibition Debate

Here Monday

Ottawa University will send two undefeated teams here Monday, March 1, to compete in an exhibition debate with Theodore Gelsert and Leroy Doty, and also Russell Shnitz and Max McAuley.

Their teams will include Mr. Carlier and Mr. Palmer, veteran debaters, who have not yet been defeated.

The first debate will begin at 9:30 and will be held in the Chapel. The regular chapel period will be extended and all students are invited to attend this debate. At 1 p. m. there will be another debate in the S.A.R.

Bethel College Announces

Last of Musical Series

Bethel College has announced the dates for the terminal items of the Bethel College Memorial Hall Series. The last two numbers on the series are the Chicago Little Philharmonic Orchestra, and the Westminster Choir. The orchestra will perform on March 1, according to present plans; March 20 has been set as the date for the appearance of the choir.

Tickets for both performances can be secured at the Business Office of Bethel College, North Newton, Kansas.

A Reminder

- February 29—Local peace contest.

- March 5-6-7—Recreational Workshop.

Workshop To

Be March 5-7

The Recreation Council of McPherson College has this week announced March 5, 6 and 7 as the dates for its first recreational workshop, which will be held in the church of the Brethren.

Along with the members of the recreational council, 15 students from the college, as well as six from Bethel College will participate in the week end which has as its chief purpose the training of people to be leaders in recreation and crafts of all kinds.

Registration fee, which will also include meals, will be five dollars. Materials for crafts will be extra.

Mr. Don Frederick, Professor of Music at McPherson College, will be head of the music for the workshop. Besides his experience at the college, Mr. Frederick has worked in several summer camps as music director.

Mr. Bob Tully, athletic coach at Bethel, will be in charge of the games for the week-end. Mr. Tully is well known throughout the Church of the Brethren for his work in summer camps, as well as his various books on recreation.

Other leaders include Jess Holloway, who will teach leather craft; Beryl Miller, teaching wood carving; S. M. Dell, teaching Art, Metal, weaving and braiding; and Mrs. Helsey, teaching Textile Paints.

Kitchen-Dining

Hall Promised By

Board Of Trustees

Out of the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of McPherson College have come several significant decisions and announcements which should be of tremendous interest to the student body.

Perhaps the most important item was the unanimous decision of the Board to erect a new dining hall-kitchen as a separate and unique building on the campus. Present plans provide for a $100,000 structure. According to Rev. W. H. Yoder, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, construction on this badly-needed addition will begin as soon as 80 percent of the cost is enlited in cash. The new eating-place will be constructed according to the drawings and blueprints devised by Mann and Company, Hutchinson, Kansas. As yet, the location of the building is indefinite, but it will probably come to rest in the southwest corner of the campus.

A second item from the agenda of business is the fact that by a majority vote of the Board, the personnel of the campaign for financing the $500,000 expansion program approved at last year's meeting is to be increased.

An additional person must and will be secured to lead the campaign.

These items should be of great importance to students, since it means the fulfillment of many dreams.

Planning For Summer Camps

Hold Meeting

June 21 to July 4 are the dates for this summer's regional institute, which follows the closing of the annual conference at Colorado Springs. The peace institute will be held at Mt. Hermon Camp at Tonganoxie, Kansas, which is a few miles from Lawrence. The leaders will be Dr. Blittinger, Dr. Gladys Muir of LaVerne College, Dan West, and Dr. R. H. Miller of Manchester College. All campers are encouraged to attend the entire period or the greater part if they wish to enter into the deeper fellowship.

Plans for at least two regional work camps have been completed for this summer. One of the camps will be held at Wichita, Kansas, under the direction of Roscoe and Emma Grace Switzer. The Switzers are full time workers in an under-privileged area of Wichita. The workers will be engaged in several types of activities ranging from religious to recreation, to "Big muscle" projects. About four men and four women will be accepted for this work camp opportunity.

The other camp is in a Negro community in Kansas City. The center affords many opportunities for youth to work in an inter-racial area and to foster goodwill and understanding between the colored and the Brethren of our Region. This work camp will be limited to a group of fellows and girls of about twenty campers.

The budget presented for 1948-1949 by Gordon Yoder was considered and approved. The faculty with their salaries was approved. The total for salaries for next year is increased better than 10 percent over the salaries for 1947-1948.

The faculty next year will have the equivalent of one and one half teaching positions more than the present year. Six new people are needed to complete the faculty for 1948-1949.

Professor J. M. Berkebile has been granted a leave of absence to complete his graduate work for his Ph. D. at Ohio State University. While he is on leave Dr. Lowell V. Helsey will be Acting Head of the Department of Chemistry.

In addition to some one for Professor Berkebile's place an additional teacher is needed in the Natural Sciences. A Modern Language teacher and some one on full time in Home Economics to serve as Dietitian are to be employed.

Miss Jessie Brown has been granted a one year leave and next year Miss Anne Krehbiel will be Acting Head of Piano. Professor Donald Frederick will be Acting Head of the Department of Music.

On Pie A La Mode

It's Gotta Be This Or That

Through the ages men have endeavored to set up some type of an international court or tribunal where the nations could bring their disputes to have them settled without war. Every organization of this type thus far attempted has ended in utter failure. At this very moment the UN, which is the present attempt at this age-old problem, is standing on unstable legs. It is because the people of the world cannot decide: "When eating pie a la mode should the ice cream be on the top of the pie, or to the side of the pie."

When this was first brought before the council, the Russian delegates ran to the telephones to see which Stalin preferred; the British immediately wired the King; and the Americans rushed to the White House. With the replies on this world-shaking problem, the UN began to split into two factions, the on-toppers, and the on-the-siders.

There are very good arguments on each side, and we feel you, the reader, should be acquainted with a few of these arguments.

First let's look at the problem from the point of view of the on-toppers. Their main point is that when the ice cream begins to melt, if it is on top of the pie, it will seep into the pie and will not be wasted, as it would if it were on the side.

Another strong point on their side is that it is easier to eat if the ice cream is on top so the fork can easily slide through the ice cream and on down through the pie in one operation, whereas the other way takes two operations.

However, the on-the-siders have several very good points also. Their main argument is that when the ice cream is on the side, it comes soggy and the crust is just so much mush, and it has no body. Also they argue that it is much more dignified to take first a bite of pie, then a bite of ice cream.

Post would frown on eating pie and ice cream at the same bite. Another substantial point brought out was that if the ice cream is frozen solidly, you would have trouble sinking a fork into it, therefore it would be better to have something like a plate under it, rather than a soft piece of pie. These are the simple facts of the case. Now it is up to you, the citizens of the world to make the final decision. Write your UN representative. Write your congressman! Let us decide once and for all! When eating pie a la mode, should the ice cream be on top of the pie, or on the side? Van Dumbho

Have Your Say

As was pointed out in our first issue, we would appreciate it immensely if you would let your criticisms of our paper be known. Do not ridicule us, but tell us what we can do to improve this publication.

Recently, one of our reporters was asked to write a story about Lent. He did, and caused quite a few controversies on the subject to arise. Two letters have been written to the editor concerning the above mentioned feature. We are quite happy to know that there are some who feel free to convey their opinions in black and white.

Others have come to various members of the staff and complained. Please—we ask you once again—let your criticisms be known. Have your say.
Not only has the particular story of Lent been picked upon, but other articles, as well—both news and features. Instead of wasting gross words disputing our integrity and rights, why not sit down and write a letter to the editor? This way the student body will have the opportunity to know your viewpoint and if anyone is in favor or against your beliefs, we shall also welcome his letters. This goes for faculty, as well as students.

Letters that you may write to us concerning the Spectator, we shall be only too happy to print. But, please do not come to us with your sob stories. We want others to know how you feel. So, have your say!

It's Too Bad, Baby

A father of today says to his bouncing baby boy: "You're cute now, baby—lovable, kissable, sweet. Not a soul in the world has a thing against you now. But just wait until you grow up. You'll be amazed to discover how many people will shun you, how many will dislike you—and even how many who will actually hate you."

These may be the words of a Negro, Jew, or Japanese father. His son merely smiles up at him from the cradle, not knowing the meaning of his words. Will it be too late when the child reaches the stage of reasoning? Don't forget the seeds of hatred are planted early in life. And they grow and grow and may even become an obsession!

The child may be a Catholic, or Jew, or Protestant. And some people just don't like Catholics—or Jews—or Protestants—depending on their own personal beliefs.

And the strangest thing is that this baby too may become one of the haters. It may grow to hate some other babies who are just as cute, sweet, and lovable as it is today.

What is to be done? This baby must be reared not to hate anyone, ever. That is the surest way to keep anyone from hating it.

A person's religious belief is his own private property—even more so than the color of his hair and eyes and skin. So, the baby must learn to respect the other fellow's faith. Learn to judge people by what they say and do, instead of by their color or creed, or by the place from which they come.

If this baby, along with all the other babies, will abide by those basic principles as they grow up, we'll never have to worry about the "haters" anymore.

What Shall It Profit?

by Glen Hillen

What shall it profit a man if he gains knowledge without wisdom? What shall it do for him if he attends a conference and fails to act on the things he hears and learns? Joaquin Miller said of Columbus, "He gained a world." We too have worlds to gain but one wonders whether the price is not sometimes too high when we gain the world. Have you given more than "value received" for the things you have gained? If we are gaining the things of the world then we must decide whether or not we are paying for them with our own souls. If we are striving for spiritual things we must have faith that they are worth striving for. We may learn to speak well but our style is of little value if we have nothing important to say. Of what use is it to learn to make a living if we do not learn how to live?

The truly consecrated individual is one who has found the highest spiritual values and is willing to put his whole life on the counter to buy them. We must be careful at this point not to think in selfish terms. Gaining spiritual things does not mean taking advantage of those around us. Not only that but in order to gain the things of the spirit we must sacrifice our lives and our physical comfort to help others.

Let us go forward in our lives but let us consider the price before we attempt to gain anything. Let us realize that the Christian way of life is hard, and that perfection is dearly bought, but it is worth a life to attain it.

Dear Reader:

A few days ago the editors of this scandal sheet told me to write a feature on the Berkebile House. I immediately screamed, "OVER MY DEAD BODY!!!" So now over my dead body I am writing a feature on the Berkebile House. Berkebile House is located at 304 N. Lehmer, and the phone number is 3523. (Ah, come on Bob, don't cut that out. After all it's leap year, and besides the number is wrong in the directory!!)

The first person we meet as we enter the house is a person that needs no introduction. (That is undoubtedly the most over used expression, since Paul Reverer made with the toneless tenor voice to yell "THE BRITISH ARE COMING." According to the world's journalist there has never been a person written about who

The President Speaks

By the time this edition of the Spectator is distributed, the Annual Regional Conference of 1948 will be concluded. It was the largest in attendance both on the part of young people and on the part of adults. The programs were exceptionally good and the guest speaker, Dr. Roy L. Smith made lasting contributions to both personal and institutional betterment and growth.

Already we are planning the Conference for 1949 and hope that even more may be able to attend.

While in attendance at the Youth Conference a number of young people signed up to attend McPherson next year and many more are planning to enroll when they have finished high school.

Our best wishes are extended to the many who were in attendance at the Regional Conference and may all have a good year ahead.

Campus Activities

Chapel

Dr. Peters opened chapel Monday by welcoming the conference guests. Margaret Keim, accompanied by Alice Ruth Bailey, sang "At the Cry of the First Bird." The National Director of Youth, Mr. Don Snider, brought the message of the morning. His topic was "Why do We Love America?" Before Mr. Snider ended abroad, he was instructed in an orientation class concerning the many false ideas which Europeans have of us. Europeans gained most of their opinions of Americans through movies, tourists, and troops. We are often regarded by them as rude because of our informality. European children were found by Mr. Snider to be extremely polite and retiring. In the Scandinavian countries, the Sabbath is recognized very strictly. There is, however, a comforting thought about America. This is the one expressed by the inscription on the Statue of Liberty which welcomes all oppressed who love freedom.

After announcements and the scripture on Tuesday, the congregation united in the Lord's Prayer. Miss Bonnie Burk entertained with a solo, accompanied by Mrs. San Roman.

Raymond Peters, speaker of the morning, talked about the growing conception that every vocation should be considered as a Christian vocation; that all vocations are as sacred and important as those of the minister or missionary. He also spoke about the salary which the ministers receive, saying "I would put a ceiling on the layman's salary and I would put a floor on the minister's salary."

Chapel was opened Wednesday when Dr. Peters read a prayer scripture, Psalms 67. Eula Wilmore and the Chapel Choir sang "Beside Still Waters." The guest speaker for the morning was Dr. Roy L. Smith, whose subject was the inevitable "Examination Days." Dr. Smith admonished that one must learn as much as possible about God so that he will be ready for the greatest of all examinations.

Ottawa Debate

Tomorrow the debate teams of McPherson College will journey to Ottawa University at Ottawa, Kansas. This debate will be the last of the practice debates before the decision debates at Sterling and Fort Collins.

The Seniors

Elaine Brammell—She will receive her AB degree on May 31, with a major in sociology and a teaching field in commerce. Her first two years of education were obtained at Washburn University at Topeka. There she was reporter for the school paper, the Washburn Review.

During her sophomore year, she came to the Regional Conference at McPherson College and decided to come here and finish her college career. Miss Brammell has participated in WAA and has worked on the Spectator staff. She was formerly employed at the business office. Elaine is one of the engaged students on the campus, the lucky fellow is Bill Albright.

Marie Delaplaine—Marie is majoring in education, and plans to teach in elementary schools. Her campus life has been filled with various interests. She has been an active member of the SCA on the campus for four years, and for two years, she has worked as art editor for the Quadrangle. Sixteen hours of her academic work was obtained at Bethany Seminary. She is greatly interested in the field of art and has been Professor Herberber's assistant. Miss Delaplaine also has an interest in church work and has had experience as a Sunday School teacher in the McPherson Brethren Church.

One of Marie's hobbies is writing. Several of her stories have been published in the Brethren paper, "Our Young People," and she has written intermittently for the Spectator.

Leona Henberry—Formerly Leona Dell, this senior is majoring in sociology. She has been an active student in many fields. A member of the Student Council for three years, she was secretary of this organization when she was a sophomore and junior. Other activities she has participated in include two years of WAA, choral club work, and reporter for the Spectator.

In regard to the future: "After graduation, I plan to keep house and go wherever my husband does."

Arlene Goodfellow Wed

Miss Arlene Goodfellow, former student at McPherson College, and M. Bernard Hendricks were united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony on February 15, at 8 p. m. The wedding, limited to a small group, was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Goodfellow, at Lyons, Kansas. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. J. Yoder.

The attendants for the wedding were Miss Lois Yoder, freshman at McPherson College, who served as maid-of-honor, and Dick Hentzel of Bethany College, best man. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks are making their home in Colorado Springs, where he is employed by the Alexander Film Company.

Thanks

I wish sincerely to thank all of my friends and classmates for their kindness and thoughtfulness during my recent illness.

The Roving Eye

We were just wondering if Dale Snider is as much a casanova with "roving eyes" as his younger brother:

Don, you are rather lucky! Jean is lucky too . . . she does not have late hours like most of the girls do! Is that why you have been coming in late, lately?

Girls: the best way to get rid of a hothead is to give him the cold shoulder.

Said the scarf: "Go on ahead, I wanna neck."

Said one eye to the other: "Just between us, there's something that smells."

Said one ear to the other: "Fancy meeting you on this block."

Said the big rose to the little rose: "Hi ya, bud."

Said the dentist to the patient: "The Yanks are coming."

Said one stocking to the other: "So long, I gotta run."

Said the salmon as he took the hook: "I'll get canned for this."

Said the cub to the north wind: "Don't blow so hard, I'm a little bear."

Everywhere we go, almost, we see the new couple: Prof. Crabb and Ruby McSpadden.

More people talk about Geisert going to church. Just think, condemning a guy for doing a thing like that. Besides, he can't help it his leg got hurt, can he?

Two students recently borrowed Rev. West's automobile to go on a trip. The car got stuck approximately two and one half miles south on Cemetery Road. It took all the next day to pry it from the mud. Mighty smooth! Eh, Bobbie and Leroy?

A Leap Year Proposal

McPherson, Kansas
February 23, 1948

Dearest Friend:

It is of utmost importance that I write this letter to you, dear. Your piercing eyes have inspired me write these lines. I read the other day, my dear (forgive me—that is always what I call you in my inmost thoughts) that matrimonial bureaus have the same objective as I . . . a hurried friendship, courtship, and marriage. Love, of course, is not the initial necessity. Well, this is Leap Year, and due to certain circumstances, I can no longer remain as I have . . . the conventional "old maid." I feel you will sympathize with me and know my desires—that is why I am forced to write this amazing note smelling of rose and lilacs!

Through the lovely acquaintance which we have had together, we have gained a certain feeling of fellowship. We are really meant for each other: we are both jolly, take teasing well, enjoy the same trying places, and have had a lot of fun together!

I wish to ask you a very personal question, before we take a fatal step, however. Now, feel perfectly free to answer this question truthfully. For although this is Leap Year, you will not be fined for a wrong answer, my dear. So answer this: Do you know how to make a pumpkin pie that does not run???

Sincerely,
Rita Broshee
(Ed. Note: We don't know how, do you?)

The Antique Table

by Niel Hamilton

Carey looked from the table to Harriet and then back to the table.

"Well, if you think so . . ." "How much do you want for it?"

"Seventy-five."

"Seventy-five?" Harriet thought for a moment. "O. K. It's sold." Carey could hardly believe that he heard right. He scratched his ear.

"Won't your folks want to see it?"

"No. Mother said to buy it if it had a history. So, I'm buying it."

"O. K. then."

"I'll give you a check for it." Harriet opened her purse and dug deep until she came up with a blank check. She put it down on the table and began writing.

"What's your father's initials?" "M. V. Foster."

She wrote some more and then picked the check up and shook it to dry the ink.

"I didn't know I was such a good salesman." Carey said.

"You're not." Harriet smiled. "Your mother did all the sales talking to my mother on the phone this morning."

"Oh." Carey took the check she offered and put it in his pocket.

Harriet Haskitt suddenly found herself studying Carey Foster's features intently. "How nice!" she said to herself. "How very nice."

"Want me to put it in your car for you?" Carey's interrogation interrupted her thoughts.

"Yes, if you will."

Although Carey tried his best to be careful with the large Victorian masterpiece, he broke a leg by trying to thrust it into the back seat of the car right side up, instead of side-ways.

"Oh!" Harriet exclaimed when she heard the cracking of wood.

"Gee su." Carey moaned when he viewed the split leg.

"Now what will we do?" Carey thought and then beamed.

"Maybe we can glue it together or something."

"Maybe," she was rather doubtful.

"I've got some cement glue. That ought to do it. Just a minute and I'll get it."

While he was gone, Harriet began thinking where she had left off before she had been so rudely interrupted. I'd sure like to go with him, she thought, he seems so different. I like his name, too, Carey Foster.

"Here it be." Carey had returned with a bottle of glue in one hand and two apples in the other. He poked an apple at Harriet. She didn't have a chance to refuse it.

Soon, the leg was glued back to place and Carey polished it diligently with furniture wax. It looked as if it had never been broken . . . almost.

They ate their apples in silence, and when they were through, Harriet got into the car.

"Thanks a lot, Carey."

"Thank you." He was smiling radiantly.

"What pleases you so much?"

"Nothing."

"Then why such an expression of jubilation?"

"I'll be frank with you," Carey said. "I'm happy to see that crummy thing go." He pointed to the table.

"You are?"

"Yes," he said very definitely. "I despise it. For two long, dreadful years every time I went to get anything from the store—with that furniture wax. It became sickening."

"What a lousy attitude," Harriet said, starting the motor. "Don't be so bitter, little potato chip, your day will come!"

With this, she was gone, leaving a thin streak of exhaust smoke curling around Carey's nostrils.

Feb. 20 Game At Ottawa History Mc 39 Braves 55

Not that we like to write bad news, but you see the headline. Ottawa has a good ball team. In fact, the best in the conference and McPherson was not up to beating them on the night of February 20.

The first half ended with McPherson 29-26. That was not so bad and we were giving them a fight, which is what they expected and we went to give Hill, Reinecker, and their understudies were scoring and causing the Braves the most trouble.

Coch Wally What-ever-his-name is had a nice long talk with his boys at the half and they came back with blood in their eyes. They soon got rid of the blood and Rush, Turner, and Musgrave broke loose on a long scoring spree.

The Bulldogs were basket-hungry by the time they finished and started a drive of their own in the last ten minutes. This resulted in 11 points for them while holding Ottawa to 1. The effort did not upset the tremendous lead the Braves had built up and the gun went off with McPherson trailing 39-55.

Ottawa took both games from McPherson this season, the first being a 32-30 victory at McPherson on January 23.

Baker Feb. 21 Dogs 40 Baker 51 That's Night Life

The second game of the Bulldog's road trip proved no better than their first as they lost to Baker Saturday night 51-40.

The McPherson players could not find the basket with any great degree of success at any time of the night. Their prolonged trip with their game the night before combined in tiring the players so that they were not up to their usual standards.

Buck Reinecker and Clint Hill were the only consistent shots all evening as they got 29 points between. Lyle Goering was held to no points as Irick, star Baker forward picked up 22.

Baker won over McPherson in their previous game 42-37.

All Opponent Team Selected By Staff

After a bit of cussing, discussing, questioning, and observation, we have come up with the Bulldogs all opponent team for the Kansas Conference. Two teams have been selected. They are both potential powerhouses. The players were in games against McPherson this past season and gave them their toughest competition, both in scoring against them and in their defensive play.

First team:
Loganbill—Bethel.
Turner—Ottawa.
Piffe—Kansas Wesleyan.
Irick—Baker.
Jack Smith—College of Emporia.

Second team:
Anderson—Bethany.
Weims—Bethel.
Harrold—Baker.
Tiegreen—Ottawa.
Musgrave—Ottawa.

The players have not been placed by position. Three men on the first team and one on the second played center for their respective teams.

Loganbill of Bethel was the only guard in the conference who was worth anything against us. He scored 19 points in each of the two games played.

Irick was Baker's star forward and he scored 28 points in two games. Turner, Piffe, and Smith were the pivot men for their teams and centers seemed to be the most effective players against us all season. Piffe gets rattled and up-ended very easily, but under a good coach he could be made to settle down and become a conscientious ballplayer.

Bethany had a rather bad season, but Anderson was their best guard in the conference who was Harrold wasn't a high scorer against the Bulldogs, but his defensive work all but made up for it. Tiegreen is just a freshman this year, but he looked good in some games and should be about the hottest thing in the league next year.

You may have your own ideas about who should be on this team, but these are ten of the best to play against McPherson this year.

Intramural

The Wildcats and Deforch locked horns last Wednesday night and the final whistle saw the Wildcats on a long end of a 36 to 22 score.

The game was rather close most of the way with Deforch holding the edge until the final quarter. However, in the final quarter Eshelman, Wildcat forward, gave Deforch no small amount of trouble as he was very much instrumental in giving his team the margin of victory.

Eshelman led the scoring with 16 points, while Burkholder of Deforch was scoring 13 points. Petersville had little trouble with Quinter, winning 52 to 25. Petersville took an early lead on successive goals by Stull and Rogers, and led at half time 23 to 12. The last half Petersville hit from all angles and won the old ball game. Stull led Petersville with 21 points while Ebbert basked 13 for Quinter.

Thursday night Petersville and the Ramblers made 94 points between them, but Petersville had six point edge and won 56 to 44. At halftime Petersville had a slim margin of a 3 point lead. The last half was fast and furious with both continuing to match bucket for bucket. Petersville led by Patencil's 15 points, while Stull led the Ramblers with 13 points.

The Wildcats kept in the unbeaten column by dumping Frantz 29 to 25. At halftime the score stood 13 to 16 with the Wildcats leading. The last half was rather slow with neither team being able to hit consistently. Lowrey led the Wildcats with 13 points while Oltman led Frantz with eight points.

It Happened In The Girls' Gym

Their last game of basketball under their belt for this season, girls of the physical education classes will start their next sports unit with a clean slate (two hopes) and put away some of their little habits and doings that have shown up this season. Remember how Rowena Neher, after struggling to get the ball, made a basket for her team, only to come to find that she put it in the side goal? Or... how Millie Snowberger was continually falling down, only to get up, so she could start all over again? Or... How Donnie Alexander would wait until the very last minute to come to roll call before she could tell her tall he-male so-long for ONE WHOLE hour... or... how the "pardon Me's" and the "So sorry's" came from Emogene Woodhatch and Arlene Mohler as they stepped all over each other... or... maybe you're remembering how the "Spectators" in the persons of Robert Funk and Lynn Myers usually had some advice to give either to the players or referee. Regardless of what each remembered about their basketball, the game itself won't be forgotten.
