Kent Gives First Columbian Concert

Arthur Kent, a Metropolitan Opera baritone, was featured in a concert given by the McPherson Concert Association last Wednesday night.

Kent had the leading role in the Broadway production, "The Song of Norway" when the show first opened in New York and was with the company for a year.

He appeared on the Metropolitan Audition of the Air in 1939, and since that time has appeared in several concerts and has toured Canada extensively. He also served as a major in the United States Army during World War II.

Arnold Hall Receives
New Fire Alarm System

There is a new addition to Arnold Hall. Last Friday, a new fire alarm system was installed. It is connected by electricity; and all that is required to make it blow is to hit the glass of the little red box and break it.

The City Fire Chief requested that this type of alarm be installed because he said, if fire should break out, it would probably be at night, and the little bells would not awaken the girls.

Quartettes Have Very Busy Time

If everyone wonders what our college quartettes spend their leisure time doing, here is a summary of some of the performances they have made thus far in the school year.

The College Ladies' Quartette made its first appearance in the college chapel October 6, 1948. Its members are Naomi Mankey, Wilma Smith, Marilyn Miller, and Ruth Holsopple, who are first soprano, second soprano, first alto, and second alto respectively.

October 9 the Ladies' Quartette sang at the district meeting held at the Salem Church of the Brethren in Nickerson, Kansas. They provided special music for Religious Emphasis Week on the evening of October 17, at the College Church.

The most recent performance of this quartette was October 20, when they sang at the Lutheran Church in downtown McPherson. Ruth Holsopple, their student leader, says that the quartette has several future engagements but the exact dates are not yet known.

The other college women's quartette is inactive at the present because of the resignation of its student leader, Pat Albright. Other members of the quartette are Florence Messick, Nelda Baldwin, and Rowena Neher. Meolaires.

With Bob Keim as their student leader, Dale Eshelman, Kenneth Graham, and Vernon Nicholson compose the male quartette known as the "Meolaires." This quartette was together last year, consequently they have made more trips than the newly organized ones.

During last year's school year they traveled a total of 1300 miles. In the fall they went to Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania with the Brethren Student Christian Movement Club.

Their next trip was in the spring, when they spent a week traveling through Eastern Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, and back into Central Kansas.

This quartette's major trip was made last summer. From the 25th of May to the last of June they traveled 6,000 miles, singing in twenty-five churches, singing on three radio broadcasts, and singing at two weddings.

This year the "Meolaires" sang at the district meeting at Nebraska. They are planning to be at the B. S. C. M. meeting in Chicago during Thanksgiving. This spring they will take another Spring Tour. They are known as the "coast-to-coast and border-to-border" quartette.

Male Quartette

Albert Rogers from Wilmot, Minnesota, is the student leader of the other male quartette. They are newly organized this year, and have not found a suitable name yet.

The other members are Frank Lutz from Carrington, North Dakota; Don Guitah from Abilene, Kansas; and Gifford Ikenberry from Stillwater, Oklahoma.

This quartette's first appearance was at the district meeting

Off-Campus Girls Will Slumber At Arnold Hall

A slumber party will be held tonight at Arnold Hall for all off-campus girls. Girls attending the party will meet at Arnold after the football game at 10:30.

Mattresses are being borrowed so that everyone will have a bed.

A scavenger hunt has been planned for entertainment, and cakes and popcorn will be served as refreshments.

The girls at Arnold extend a cordial invitation and welcome to all off-campus girls.

Shelton Relates Events As Exchange Teacher

Next Monday morning in Chapel, Miss Lena Shelton, grade teacher from Hutchinson, will tell her experiences in England.

Miss Shelton taught last year in a grade school in England. She is interested in the economic, social, and educational aspects of English life.

Frederick Publishes Own Arrangement of Spiritual

Professor Donald R. Frederick, voice teacher and chorus director here at the college, has had his arrangement of "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," published. It is just off the press of Hall & McCreary Company, Chicago.

The a cappella choir sang his arrangement of this song last year on their tour through the various states along with the routine of other numbers.

Women's Council Holds Steak Fry At Fireplace

The Women's Council held a steak fry Tuesday evening on the college campus.

The fry was held for the purpose of dedicating the new picnic equipment, which is located north of the chemistry building. The council sponsored the construction of this project.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Dell were the honored guests. Mr. Dell's industrial arts class made the table and open fireplace with funds provided by the W. C.

Plans are being made to erect outside lighting for the picnic grounds.

Missionary Group Stresses Foreign Mission Program

For three days, beginning Sunday, November 7, three missionaries Ivan Ikenberry, Dick Berger, and D. J. Lichty were at McPherson College to emphasize the foreign mission program of the church of the Brethren.

Students first heard Ivan Ikenberry at the CBYF meeting, Sunday, November 7. His topic was, "What Do You Want to Do?" Mr. Lichty delivered the message on the Brethren as a peacemaker at Sunday evening church services.

A story of an African boy was told by Mr. Ikenberry during Monday's meal service. Tuesday morning, Mr. Lichty told the SCA Desert Volunteer group about evangelism in India, while Mr. Ikenberry addressed the World Relations Commission on the political aspect of Africa.

Because the films, scheduled to be shown Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. did not arrive, the Tuesday meeting was cancelled. However, Reverend Ikenberry took charge of the program Monday evening and told the group about missions in Africa.

The final address was given during Chapel, Wednesday morning, by Mr. Berger, who spoke on the subject of foreign missions.

Besides speaking to various groups on the campus, the members of the delegation team had personal interviews and conferences with the students.

Men Run For Their Lives

"Chase" Ends Today at 4:00; Party Is Tomorrow Night

Run fer yer lives fellers! The women are on the loose! The McPherson College co-eds are running wild today, determined to land a man before the 4 o'clock deadline.

The official Sadie Hawkins chase began yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. Since then, all the eager females have had a chance to exercise their running limbs by chasing a date for Saturday night's Dog Patch party.

The party, sponsored by the S. C. A., will be held tomorrow night in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock. The rules require everyone, including faculty members, to be costumed in accordance with the theme.

The fellow who has "sacrificed" his daily shave for Sadie Hawkins' Week will be rewarded as a prize will be given for the best beard present at the party. Prizes will also be given to the best dressed couple, the best facsimile of Daisy Mae and the most eligible bachelor, Little Abner. Everyone, captured or not captured, is urgently invited to attend the party. The committee believes that stage brighten the atmosphere.

Those on the social committee for the Dog Patch party are Dean Neher, Margaret Daggett, Miriam Klein, Don Ford, and Leroy Doty. The decoration committee is La Vona Thralls, Jean Evans, Pat Ford, Gerald Neher, and Irwin Porter. Dorothy Breon, Pat Patterson, Louise Reed, and Wilda Minian are in charge of refreshments. Kenneth Kinzie is publicity manager.

The "You catchum if you can" rules follow:

In honor of Dog Patch all chasers and chases are asked to contribute to the festivities by wearing clothing appropriate to the occasion, the oldest and worsted.

A good growth on the chid of the potential little Abners would add interest.

All the girls have to do catch a man is to get both hands on him, provided he is caught within the limits of McPherson County, but outside of any building.

The gal must take the fellow she catches to the party (that doesn't mean you can't round up a little help, gals.)

If caught, the man must go to the party with the lucky gal who caught him.

Theodore Geisert Reverend Miller Speaks After Two-Week Absence

"Is It Worth What It Costs?" will be the title of Rev. DeWitt Miller's sermon this coming Sunday morning. Rev. Miller will be in the pulpit of the Church of the Brethren after a two-Sunday absence, during which time he has been back East during Religious Emphasis Week at Elizabeth Town College.

The program for Sunday is as follows:

9:30 Organ Melodies. Mrs. C. H. Dresher, organist.

9:45 The Church at Study. Dr. Kenneth C. Bechtel, Superintendent.

10:45 The Church at Worship. Sermon Subject: "Is It Worth What It Costs?"

6:30 Junior and Senior High CBYF. Mr. and Mrs. Winston Geering, Sponsors.

6:45 College CBYF. Ruth Holsopple, president.

7:30 Men and Missions Sunday observance. Ira Brammel in charge.

A Lament On Sadie Hawkins' Day

To flee, or not to flee; that is the question. Whether 'tis better in the chase to suffer The glares and torments of outrageous females, Or to give in amidst a horde of chasers, But by submitting end all? To trip; to fall; Just once; and by a fall to say we end. The back-ache and the thousand painful shocks The chased is heir to, tis a situation Devoutly to be wished. To trip, to fall; To fall; perchance by fate; ay, there's the rub; For in that fall of fate what hags may pounce When we have lost all hope of liberty. Must give us chills; there's the respect That makes Sadie Hawkins' of so great dread!

Reciprocal Criticism

I would like to suggest to the student body and to the faculty an idea which I have been considering for several months. I would suggest reciprocal criticism between the members of the student body and the members of the faculty.

The grade cards which all of us have received or will receive today are, in a sense, a criticism of the students by the teachers and instructors. In other words, they suggest to the individual the courses in which he needs to change. If we receive them in the proper manner, we will try to improve our knowledge in those courses in which the card says we are weak.

The grade cards seem to play the part of a constructive criticism between those persons doing the teaching and those persons who do the learning. The suggestion I have in mind would provide a means by which the students can reciprocate with some form of criticism of the teachers.

Last summer in a discussion with a student who had attended the University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho, I learned of a plan used by the students and faculty in that institution. In each class at a certain time during the year students were asked to complete questionnaires concerning their teachers. The questionnaires were returned unsigned and the material contained was worded in such a manner that questions could be answered by merely putting check or an "X" in the proper spot. In that way the possibility of identifying any of the students from their handwriting was eliminated.

The questions used on the sheet were helpful, open minded, and tactful. Students were urged to complete them in a like manner; i.e., helpful, open-minded, and tactful.

To me it seems that such a plan would be of immense aid to the teacher who is always trying to become better.

None of us possess the gift of which the romanticist Burns spoke when he said,

"O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us

To see oursels as others see us!"

By giving constructive suggestions to the faculty members in such an open-minded manner, we students would be helping them to see themselves from the students' standpoint.

I think such a system would work out, because it HAS worked out before here at McPherson College. Last year one of the teachers in the Science Department asked the students in his classes to fill out similar questionnaires. I was present in one of those classes. The students all seemed to answer the questions conscientiously and open minded, and I am sure he received considerable aid from them.

I suggest an extension of this plan to include all faculty members. Surely that would be more constructive than the gripes and remarks that are voiced in "bull sessions."

Let us hear your reactions to this proposition.

Respect the Property of Others!

All of us have been told over and over again that we, as citizens of a democracy, have certain freedoms. These freedoms which our citizenship provides us have been enumerated at various times by various persons.

However, at the same time we all were reminded about the limitations of our privileges. One would think that after a group of people had been told the same thing repeatedly for 20 or 21 years, that those persons would be able to use fair judgment in the treatment of property of others.

It has been called to my attention that the dog has been removed from the miniature dog house, which is situated in the college snack bar. And at the same time, the sign was removed from the outside of the small dog house. These two articles have been missing for approximately a week now.

Other college newspapers would probably label such acts as vandalistic acts, and we will say in addition that the removal of the Dog House's properties was uncalled for, and was not appreciated.

The manager of the Dog House would be very pleased if the seemingly irresponsible person or persons who took the two articles would summon enough respect for property to return them to their proper place.

Student Directory

McPherson College is a relatively small school, but it is not so diminutive that each student knows every other person. Moreover, students cannot remember the addresses of everyone else in the student body.

For these reasons, the Spectator will publish, for your convenience, a McPherson College student directory. This data will be printed in several successive issues of the paper. If students and subscribers will save these issues, they will have accumulated for their own use a complete student directory.

For the student directory this week the names of about half of the freshman class are published.

Woodhatch Weds Gart

Mr. LeRoy Gart, of Cordell, Oklahoma, and Miss Emogene Woodhatch, formerly of Rosepine, Louisiana, were married on Sunday, October 24, at Rosepine. They are now living on a farm near Cordell, Oklahoma.

Both Emogene and LeRoy were students here last year.

'48 Graduates Visit McPherson

Four 1948 graduates of our college visited here last week. They were Wayne and Esther Bowman, and Marvin and Dorris Blough.

Wayne and Esther were married this August and are now teaching school in Noretar, Kansas. Marvin and Dorris were married in July and are both teaching in the high school at Shallow Water, Kansas.

Nelda Baldwin and Lois Yoder were visited by their fathers over the weekend. Nelda's father, Mr. Laurence Baldwin, is from Dallas, Center, Iowa; and Mr. H. A. Yoder is from Pampa, Texas.

Miss Neher entertained a friend, Miss Alma Morrison, here Saturday and Sunday. Miss Morrison is a teacher at Beloit, Kansas.

Mrs. Jean Evans had as dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bindell and daughter, Jane. Mrs. Esther Enberg and Bobbie, and her grandmother, Mrs. R. W. Brown. They are all of McPherson.

Miss Ethel Dalke, Miss Jerry McConkey, and Miss Joyce Harden attended the Ice Capades at Wichita over the weekend.

Four girls from Kline Hall—attended the Ice Capades last Marjorie Pike, and Phyllis Smut Betty Hanagaran, Mildred Dell, Saturday night in Wichita.

Wilma Kuns was seen on the campus last Tuesday. She was contemplating the possibility of returning to Mac second semester. She will be remembered along with Mike Ruthrauff as the "Iben" language majors.

Kathleen Baerg, Bonnie Alexander, Harry Heckethorn, and Elvin Wolfe attended the Paul Whiteman concert last Wednesday night in Hutchinson.

Marilyn Miller, Letha Miller, and Ruth Merkey went with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Reusser to Lawrence last Friday afternoon to attend the Shakespearean play "Hamlet." This play was produced by the Kansas University Players. Tom Rea, a former McPherson College student, had a principal part in the play.

have been cases of stutters since biblical times or before. It is usually so distracting and disheartening to the persons affected that 25 percent have contemplated or actually committed suicide. There are two types—the repeater type that repeats a word or sound several times before going on, and the blocked type when the individual cannot make a sound at crucial moments. Stuttering usually shows up in children around three years old, and the younger they are discovered the better.

Aphasic Case

The aphasic case occurs when the connection between thought and actual speech is broken. Usually children affected in this way are behavior problems, very shy or bashful. These children have to think out every phrase of sentence before talking.

Cerebral Palsy

Cerebral palsy is a type of speech defect that is caused at birth usually, or by an accident after birth, or by severe sickness that damages the coordination part of the brain.

Speech difficulties caused by deafness are corrected in children through all available means.

The institute has been recognized for the wonderful work it is doing and the hope of larger facilities is about to be realized in the form of new buildings and better equipment.

Dr. Palmer, president of the American Speech Association and founder of the institute, is making a great effort to raise the teacher standards. The main drawback to the expansion of this work over the nation is the lack of adequate funds.

Cleft Palate Case

Another type is the cleft palate case. There is an opening or cleft that allows sounds to escape through the sinuses and nose. An operation is necessary before corrective teaching can begin.

Stuttering

Among the most interesting types is that of the stammerer. There

Big Man On Campus

Born and reared in State College, New Mexico, Stan thinks Mac is pretty good compared to state schools.

In high school Stan was active in sports, journalism, Honor Society; he was president of the Junior class.

At Mac besides being sophomore class president, Stan is on the S. C. A. Cabinet and Men's Council, and is an active band member.

Working as a chem lab assistant this year, Stan plans to make chemistry his major, but his main interest is sports.

After college, Stan would like to do graduate work with a Master's in science as his goal.

For his spare time, Stan prefers sports, or recreation of any kind.

His favorite subject is chemistry, and his favorite teacher is Flory.

His ambition is to teach or do research work.

We Want Ch'a To Meet

John Lohrenz

A laugh a minute when your with him, we want ch'a to meet eighteen-year old John Lohrenz.

Officially named Joelle Edgar, this freshman from Buhler, Kansas, explains he has always been known as John.

In high school John was vice-president of the student body, president of the junior class, sports editor of his high school paper, editor of the yearbook, and an active member in Hi-Y.

His male activity at Mac is playing in the band, which is one of his favorite pastimes. He has been playing for about seven years, and his baritone solo in the band chapel points out his ability.

His favorite subject is chemistry, and along with this his favorite teacher is Hesley.

He used to collect literature on cars and trucks, but finds the collection student has little time for any obby.

After college John plans to go to graduate school, his goal being a Chemical Engineer.

When asked his likes and dislikes about Mac, John said: "I like all my courses except English.
I tolerate English." He also said that he goes home each weekend to date, so maybe he thinks the selection of girls might be more varied.

His secret ambition is to go into politics, and his pet peeve is Bill
Moore, no connection!

Louise Reed

We want ch'a to meet tall, slender, and witty, Louise Reed, more commonly known as Lou or Mabel.
Lou hails from Galesburg, Kansas, where she graduated from high school last year; she was senior class president.

At Mac Lou finds her favorite class Algebra, explaining that she is always liked math. Her algebra class is so pleasing, since she is the only girl in the class.

Her reason for choosing Mac are that her sister came here and got married, so her folks thought they would try it again.

Her pet peeves are Deans, and she accredits her muscles to the set of barrels she and Marty keep in their room.

She was born on September 24, 1929, and thinks this is one of the main reasons her ambition is to revolutionize fan dancing by using electric fans.

ny . . . mischievous . . . Lou Reed.

Late Headlines

Washington, D. C., November 9. It was announced today that the ceiling of the Senate chamber, which has been propped with steel girders since 1940, will be repaired today.

It is expected that the entire chamber will be remodeled the following year.

Shanghai, November 10. A strike by 12,000 Chinese rail workers was called off after a few hours today, ending a serious threat to Shanghai's critical food situation. The workers returned to their jobs after the government railway administration agreed to meet demands for more rice per worker.

SPORT SHORTS

There is a legend that says that it was a rusty old cannon of Revolutionary War vintage that was really the start of intercollegiate football in America. It goes like this:

Near the campus of Rutgers University stood historic and rusty old cannon which had once been fought for by Lord Howe and General George Washington during the American Revolution. The students of Rutgers considered the ancient weapon as a prized campus possession, and it became a sort of rendezvous for romantic undergraduates and their girls.

Near Rutgers was that other famous old institution, Princeton University. And the Princeton lads used to get quite jealous of the two universities over the cannon. Victory meant not only temporary possession of the cannon, but also the exclusive right for the victors to use the cannon as a rendezvous for their dates.

One fine day, Princeton ended the traditional battle for the cannon by the simple expedient of swiping it and dumping it into a bed of solid concrete prepared in advance on the Nassau campus. Unable to continue the rivalry, but still thirsting for battle, the two factions decided to substitute a game of football for that annual battle. And on November 13, 1869, at New Brunswick, the first inter-collegiate football game in America was played. With twenty-five men on a side and playing under ancient and now-forgotten rules, Rutgers emerged the winner. In a return game, a week later, Princeton was victorious.

In the seventy-nine years that followed, football has grown to be the great American college game. And it bids fair to supplant baseball in the affections of the fans. The madness that descends on American campuses in September and does not lift until December frost and snow owes everything to that bitterly-fought contest between Rutgers and Princeton in the dim distant past. The next time you go to see a football game, remember—that it was a rusty old cannon of Revolutionary War vintage that really started college football in America!

21 Clean Records Stand In College Pigskin Ranks

It was getting almost as hard to find perfect record football teams as Mexican war veterans today as the list of hardy survivors was reduced to 21 after a very rough week end.

Gone were the North Carolina Tarheels and the Georgia Tech Yellow-Jackets, who used to brighten up the Dixie section every Monday morning. Gone also was Pennsylvania, overpowered by Penn State. And where was that Nevada Wolfpack that was supposed to be sweetening up its victory string for a January 1 appearance in the Sugar Bowl? Beaten by the little old Santa Clara Broncos, that's where they were.

Those were the big shot teams that tumbled from the perfect record ranks, leaving only Michigan and Notre Dame from the Midwest, California from the Pacific Coast, Army from the East, and Clemson from the South, not necessarily in that order.

Hornets Top CIC

The honors will be split this coming week end between conference and intersectional games in the Kansas Central Intercollegiate conference.

Emporia State, the current undefeated, untied league leader, will entertain cellar-dwelling St. Benedict's, while the Pittsburg Teachers play Arkansas State Teachers on the Kansas grid Thursday.

Washburn draws Southwestern to the Kansas Capital Friday, while Fort Hays State journeys to Las Cruces, New Mexico, for a contest with New Mexico, A. and M.

Emporia State retained the lead in the Central conference last weekend, and with only two CIC games left to play, appeared a virtual 1948 winner.

CIC Conference Standings

Emporia State	3	0	0
Fort Hays	3	1	1
Washburn	2	1	1
Southwestern	2	2	0
Pittsburg	1	3	0

Swedes Take Bulldogs

The conference schedule for '48 wound itself up last Friday night as the Bulldogs were defeated 31-0 by the Bethany Swedes in ankle-deep mud.

Vernon Fisher, Don Batson, and Gene Arnold were the offensive main springs for the Bulldogs as they made 82 yards from scrimmage on running plays.

The Swedes scored twice in the first period, and in the second quarter the Swedes were outplayed. The score at the half was 12-0.

The Bulldogs attempted to pass eleven times with no completions while the Swedes completed two out of nine for forty-two yards. The first pass resulted in a touch-down.

Bill Carlson, brother of McPherson High School football

Carl "Butch" Carlson, was the main spring in the Bethany team and scored two touchdowns.
