

Heart Sister Week Features Gifts, Party

Heart Sister Week began Wednesday, Feb. 6, with the drawing of heart sister names.

All Macollege women and women faculty members remained after chapel, and Margaret Daggett, Women's Council president, presided over the name drawing and explained the reason for Heart Sister Week.

Heart Sister Week, a tradition at Macollege, is a special effort to cultivate good feeling among the women on the campus.

It is sponsored by the Women's Council and will be held from February 6-14.

During this week, each woman does some kind deed for her heart sister or gives her a small gift.

The cost of the gift, which may be given daily, is not over ten cents.

On the evening of Feb. 14, 7:30, a party in the SUR will climax the events of the week.

The party, under the direction of the Women's Council, will consist of various games, a short program, the exchange of gifts, which must not exceed $10, and a lunch.

The wives of the faculty members are being invited.

The committees for the party are as follows: Foods—Pauline Hess, chairman, Anita Rogers, Alice Flory, Ruth Papa, and Kathryn Forsythe.

Program and recreation—Carole Hutfman, chairman, Marilee Groves and Mary Ellen Yoder.

Invitations—Jerry Goering, Betty Jo Baker. Decorations and publicity—Lorene Clark, chairman, Margaret Yost, and Jerry McConkey.

Renown Gromer To Be Speaker

World traveler, lecturer, and photographer, Julian Gromer, will be the guest speaker of the annual Macollege Booster Banquet March 28 in the local Community Building.

Mr. Gromer is nationally known for his beautiful scenic movies. His specialty is pictures of flowers.

Mr. Gromer is well known for his picture-lecture tours have taken him many places. He will show pictures and lecture at the banquet.

"The African Prince," a movie of the African jungles and of the mission program in that region, was photographed by Mr. Gromer. He was associated with William Beahm and Leland Brubaker in the making of the movie.

Mr. Gromer has invented an attachment for his camera that enables him to get better pictures of flowers.

He sets his camera in focus and leaves the camera set up for two weeks. It is set so that it takes a picture every ten minutes. Hence, Mr. Gromer can picture the flower as it opens and closes its petals.

There is a joint committee to plan the Booster Banquet. The members are represented from the city of McPherson and Macollege.

The McPherson Chamber of Commerce appointed Howard Renfro as chairman representing the city on the Joint Committee.

Jack Kough is the chairman of those representing Macollege. These committee heads met Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 4 p.m. at the college to appoint various sub-committees and do more planning.

Beahm Speaks In Chapel

Dr. William Beahm, Dean of Bethany Biblical Seminary in Chicago, spoke in chapel Feb. 4 on the subject, "The Open Door to The Ministry."

Dr. Beahm stated that there is a critical shortage of ministers everywhere. Although the number of student ministers has doubled the colleges are not turning out enough to fill the positions.

"The door to the ministry is wide open because of the varied talents that may be used," he stated. A minister does not need to fit a certain pattern, either intellectually or physically.

The third reason the door is wide open, is the resistance that must be overcome. A minister is beset with many problems and situations.

And last, the door is wide open because of the message to give to the people because of the Christ which is represented.

Bechtel, Kennedy Win Honors

Gene Bechtel and Joe Kennedy came out with a record of four wins and no losses in the Nebraska Wesleyan Debate Tournament at Lincoln Friday and Saturday.

Bechtel received a certificate of superior rating, tying for second and third place, by virtue of his rating of 83. The highest rating in the tournament was 84.

Kennedy was fourth in line with 82 points, but certificates were given only to the three highest.

The other participating Macollege team, David Metzler and Alvin Zunkel, won one debate and lost three.

Bob Mays accompanied the debaters as faculty sponsor. The group stayed in Brethren homes in Lincoln Friday night.

Five states were represented at the tournament: Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Missouri, and Iowa.

Women Present Chapel

Love was the theme of the chapel presented by the Women's Council Feb. 6. Ruth Papa stated that God shows love in all things. "Love is a state of good will, favor, and desire towards a person."

Claudia Jo Stump, Macollege senior, sang, "Entreat Me Not To Leave."

Following the chapel program, Macollege women and women faculty members drew names for heart sister week.

Otello is the opera to be broadcast by the Metropolitan Opera Company Saturday afternoon, Feb. 9, over the network of the American Broadcasting Company.

Ramon Vinay, a tenor from Chile, will play the part of Otello. Leonard Warren, a baritone from New York City, will sing the role of Iago. Eleanor Steber, soprano from Chelling, West Va., will take the part of Desdemona.

The musical score was composed by Verdi.

SAD SAC

Owed to Jerry Goering By Shirley cell-mate Alexander (who flu the coop)

When the word got out they took 'er away.

And put 'er in a cell for several a day.

There she remained to bemoan her appearance.

And mend her name which needed clearance.

No one wished to see this girl. For the night before, she had her twirl.

A twirl which resulted in 14 shots. But left her nursing just one big blot.

Her girl friends shunned her in those hours of need.

While 14 boys were plenty too! What had she done to deserve all this?

The reason was obvious or so it would seem.

Jerry got the measles and exposed the team!!

Has The Bug Got You Yet?

Macollege has been invaded recently by a terrible enemy. This enemy attacks individuals and no one is free. On the battlefield of our daily living, it has already achieved victory over several of our students. Are you the next to be attacked?

It takes several forms. Among the most familiar are the flu bug, and the measles germ. This enemy has plenty of resources and its supply line is unending.

If you are attacked, the best thing to do is "head for cover," under the sheets of your bed.

Would you like to have some hints for combating this enemy? Get plenty of rest and sleep, keep away from those who have been attacked, eat plenty of healthy food, and keep any outbreak of cold under control.

Perhaps with these bits of effective strategy, you can defeat the enemy in battle.

Let Us Visit The Holy Land By Loai Beitair

I was born in Jenin, a lovely town, the inhabitants of which run strictly about 15,000. It is located in the northern part of Palestine or the Holy Land, since it's the birth place of the Christ and several prophets.

The Holy Sepulchre and other sacred places exist in that small part of the world, a fact which causes annual successive visits of tourists and pilgrims from all over the world, especially Americans who are received with great hospitality and held in great honor.

These Holy places are under the authority of the Arab government there, which takes care of them and repairs the damaged or worn parts, as happened when the Jews last year destroyed the roof of the Holy Sepulchre.

My country, or even my town, has a rich soil; verdant meadows, extensive fields, orange fields, that are irrigated by the stupendous springs flowing all over the country. The climate and main products are similar to those in California and Florida, since they are located on the same line of latitude.

Having my family in Jenin, I joined the elementary school there when I was seven or less years old. The elementary course of study is seven years. The second stage of education we have is the secondary study of four years in which the students have the choice to follow either the scientific or literary sections.

monotonous readings of history and other literary subjects, and owing to the fact that I have a scientific inclination, I have preferred the second section. The subjects I took are: Arabic, English, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, and Advanced mathematics.

Accomplishing my secondary study in my town, I have set for two exams: the local Palestine matriculation and the International London University Matriculation at the same year, namely 1951. By the Providence, I have passed the two mentioned exams brilliantly.

I was selected for a scholarship to McPherson College at the same time as I was recommended for a scholarship to Egypt, a neighboring Arab country. My family, which consists of my parents, two brothers and three sisters, whom I excessively love, did not favor the idea of leaving for such a distant country as the U. S. I, being encouraged by most of my friends who desire to resume their high studies in the U. S., insisted on leaving for America.

The trip was on board a Norwegian ship named Elen Horn, where I have farred the worse from being sea-sick for three or more days because of the violent movement of the ship, up and down, left and right. My health was broken, my appetite lost and my home sickness increased. Our journey took three weeks which was a mixture of terror and sickness, due to the fact that the sea was very much

Anneliese Koch Arrives At Mac

The most recent international arrival at Macampus is blond, blue-eyed Anneliese Koch from Germany.

Anneliese appeared on the campus Sunday, having sailed from Germany Jan. 18. She arrived in New York Jan. 28 and traveled by bus to Joplin, Mo.

She was brought to McPherson by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reed and daughter, Mrs. Louise Roche, with whom she did her home last year as an exchange high school student. She was in the United States from July, 1950, to June 1951 as a senior at Galesburg High School, Galesburg, Kansas.

Anneliese will stay with Miss Mae Albright at 1422 E. Euclid.

She decided to return to America because she received a scholarship from Macollege. Although she has not decided her major, she plans to graduate from Macollege and then return to Germany as a teacher.

Hobbies which Anneliese especially enjoys are swimming and reading.

Anneliese remembers many of the students now at Macollege from meeting them at the Kansas CBYF Camp of 1950 and the Regional Youth Retreat at McPherson.

Truman Urges Funds For College Scholarships

A bill providing for federal scholarships for college students is being prepared but has not been introduced into Congress.

The Musings of Sagebrush

By Virginia Royer

Sagebrush was a character. His eyes peered out from big, bushy eyebrows, and his jaw was firmly set. He wandered from place to place, usually carrying a cactus on his shoulder. He didn't know why, but it was the natural thing to do. It reminded him of a gun he once carried when he was preserving democracy.

Somehow, he had survived preserving democracy, though no one else had. He could faintly remember walking into the storm cellar when it happened. The last burst of atomic power, why it had even reached Kansas!

Sagebrush knew the atomic bombs would do the trick. The preparedness that the Congressmen and the propaganda machine—radio and newspapers—all said that was the only way. Compulsory military training had worked for Sagebrush.

Wasn't he still living? He wasn't able to comprehend why he didn't have any neighbors, only himself and his cactus. Sure, they'd scared the other countries. He wasn't, too. Now there was Sagebrush left all alone.

Sometimes he felt like talking to someone, but there wasn't anyone left for him to talk to. What was that date? Was it the day Congress reconvened and brought up the UMT bill for a vote? That bill had been passed. That was what was needed, too.

It was the only way out. Out? Everyone was out. Out cold. Sagebrush was out, too. Out roaming in desolation. Nothing else to do. Now he had the whole world to himself where he could wander and wander and wander. . . . No one to talk to. If he had just talked to the Congressmen in person, or on the telephone. Letters, expressing his opinion, people told him would do some good, but he was too busy. Anyway, might was the only thing that could talk. He was convinced of that.

Freedom of saying what you pleased—discussion. It could have brought out some startling information about University Military Training.

It was so much easier to be passive and uninformed. It wasn't really necessary. Things had turned out all right for democracy. Everyone had had the equal right to be trained, fought, and the consequences—BE KILLED.

Join Youth Argosy

The youth of America once found great adventure—some travel in their favorite book. This is no longer true. Today youth must fit in with the speed of the world. If we are going to settle the problems of the day, we must find what those problems are.

One way in which we can do this is through the Youth Argosy program, which is a non-profit, yet educational organization which provides low cost travel to students who have as their aim the broadening of their cultural and spiritual horizons. It is also their aim to build friendly relationships with peoples of all nations, creeds, and races.

Trips will be taken by steamship or plane, and will go to Europe, Asia, and Latin America. There will also be one round-the-world flight. Another trip will be taken to the olympic games.

The youth argosy program was originally planned for students, but teachers, religious and social workers are urged to go and get an international outlook.

Tours will start just as soon as school is out. Plan to make your summer an educational summer.—G. A. N.

GOD'S Living Letters

By Kirby Page

A deaf man composed the world's noblest music. It has been said of Ludwig von Beethoven that "his colossal genius has never been equalled in the world of music." Yet all his greatest works were produced after his hearing was entirely gone.

His musical talent was inherited. From an early age he was forced by his father to practice long hours daily on the piano and the violin. At fourteen he had achieved renown as a performer and as a composer. By his twenty-fifth year he had composed three hundred works. He was to die at the early age of fifty-six, yet so stupendous was his output that his complete works fill thirty-eight volumes.

Few men have ever concentrated so massively as Beethoven did upon his compositions. He would shut himself off from the outside world for weeks at a time. Much of his best work was done in open forests near Vienna. Sometimes in his room he worked as if in a trance, oblivious of everything except his musical ideas.

Many musical critics consider Beethoven's Ninth the greatest of all symphonies. When it was first performed in Vienna in 1824, its composer had been deaf for more than a quarter of a century. At the conclusion of the final chorus, the whole house rocked with wild applause. Everybody joined in jubilation, that is everybody except the composer. Beethoven was seen with his back to the audience, eyes intent upon his score, too deaf to hear even the prolonged acclaim.

In his ascent to the pinnacle Beethoven climbed over many formidable barriers. His father was a drunkard, his mother died early, his own health was wretched, he was cursed with a terrible temper, he worried constantly about money. But his immortal music will enrich all the generations yet to be born.

Letter To The Editor

In rebuttal to the letter written last week, I would like to share my opinion, along with a few others, on the matter of "folk-gaming."

Just what is the matter with folk-gaming? In your letter last week, you said many of these games come from pagan religious ceremonies. That doesn't mean folk-gaming does. It is a wonderful, good, clean recreation that both the young men and women of this campus appreciate and participate in. I can see no sin in it whatever.

Maybe it is a form of dancing—but do the Brethren scorn roller-skating? Not that I have heard. Just last Friday night the freshmen held a roller-skating party. What is the difference between dancing with eight wheels under you or just your feet?

Don't you consider parking in cars, then a sin too? After all, we all could just sit around and talk about nothing but the intellectual aspects of life, with folded hands "like good boys and girls," but what did God give us the thing called emotions for? No, we aren't supposed to be sad, long-faced students who do nothing more creative than talk.

We need activity and folk-gaming is a good outlet for some of our excess energies; and if the students are repressed too far, so as no social activities of this type are allowed without being put on parole and scorned by the faculty members, they aren't going to just sit back and take it.

"Why is it necessary that we require so much recreation?" How are we supposed to have well-rounded personalities, if we don't have SOME form of social entertainment? Whether we are Christian or non-Christian, I can see no degradation in it. Perhaps folk-gaming doesn't enhance our Christian lives, but it certainly doesn't degrade them in any sense of the term.

I only hope and pray that people of this campus, students and faculty alike, aren't too short-sighted to be aware of the students' need of recreation in wholesome, friendly, clean fellowship with other students.

"In order to be Christians, we have the choice of one road to follow." Yes, we do. And I think basing this sort of social recreation may send us down the other road in search of satisfaction.

Another point which should be mentioned is that we as Brethren would still be wearing all "dark clothes if some Brethren would not have deviated from this custom. Yet how can we say our Brethren doctrine does not accept folk-gaming.

Sincerely,
A. C. and A. P.

Thinking With The President

Colleges And Ivory Towers

I think it was back in Old Testament times that some of the tribal chiefs and leading citizens concentrated their attentions on ivory palaces for themselves rather than upon just government and decent living conditions for their countrymen. Out of this circumstances came the well known saying that those who cut themselves off from the problems and concerns of their day and community dwell in ivory towers.

Dwelling in ivory towers was not confined to Old Testament times alone. It has applied to many men in many ages.

The ivory tower application has been made particularly to college professors. For some reason it seems a "natural" for them. Some of them have dwelt so consistently on the detail of the subject matter of their specialty that the Latin designation of a botanical specimen, or the Greek derivation of a word has seemed more important than the injustices of slavery, or the denial of either state or individual rights.

Students, either emulating their professors or being forced by them into a similar mold, have likewise found themselves in ivory towers. They neither knew much cared what went on in the world round about them.

Ivory towers are cold places. Ivory is hard: its whiteness glazes and eventually kills.

Students have no business in ivory towers. Neither do professors.

Who should be our next president?

Are taxes too high?
Are tax mouses being spent wisely, or wasted?

Is Federal aid to education good or bad?
Is/are Iran, Egypt, the Jews, the Arabs, right or wrong?

Is the day of Foreign Missions over?

These are not ivory tower questions. They belong to students and professors.

More Education Is Needed Now

It takes more education than it once did to teach in a college. Consider the degrees of Macollege professors in the year 1891-92. Of the seventeen faculty members at that time three had A. M. degrees, one had an A. B. degree, and the other thirteen had no degrees.

By 1901 standards had risen somewhat. One professor had a Ph. D. degree, four had A. M. degrees, one had an A. B. degree, two had B. S. D. degrees. Fourteen more professors had no degrees.

These facts are a far cry both in number and degree from the Macollege faculty members today.

Of the approximately thirty faculty members who teach classes, eight have earned the title, doctor. Eleven professors have master's degrees. Eleven others have bachelor's degrees. None of regular teachers lack degrees.

Coyotes Defeat Bulldogs 67 - 56

McPherson dropped to second place in the Kansas Conference Tuesday night. Wesleyan's 67-56 defeat of McPherson coupled with Ottawa's 60-50 victory over Baker puts the Braves in first place.

McPherson started out fast jumping to an early seven to two lead, however Wesleyan soon tied it up eleven all. The Coyotes scored one from the field to put them ahead for the entire game. Mac outscored the Coyotes from the field hitting 23 goals, while Wesleyan could only send 21 through the hoop.

The difference proved to be at the free throw line where McPherson converted 10 of their 18 chances, while Wesleyan hit 25 out of 42.

Three of the Bulldogs were warned from the game because of too many fouls.

The scoring was again well rounded for McPherson with nine boys entering the scoring column. The scores ranged from a low of four to a high of ten, which was scored by freshman Bernard Whirley.

Groves and Cassell were tied for Wesleyan scoring honors with eighteen each. Cassell went on a rampage in the third quarter scoring four field goals and a free throw for nine of his eighteen points.

The next conference game for the Bulldogs will be in McPherson's High School gym tonight against C of E.

Students Think Football Is Overemphasized

(ACP)—Most college students feel that college football is overemphasized. This was indicated by results of the ACP National Poll of Student Opinion.

More than 3,000 students from 63 colleges and universities in all parts of the country were asked: "Do you feel that football at most colleges is overemphasized, underemphasized, or just about right?"

The results were: as follows: overemphasized 53 percent; underemphasized 5 percent; just about right 38 percent; no opinion 4 percent.

The farther along a student was in his college career, the more he tended to feel that football was overemphasized.

Seventy-three percent of the graduate students interviewed said there was too much stress put

Bulldogs Beat Bethel 70-62

Woody's Bulldog team made it three in a row over Bethel here Friday night, Feb. 1. The final score was 70-62. The game was a see-saw battle most of the way, with the lead changing hands eleven times during the battle.

McPherson started out fast, scoring eight points in the first two and one-half minutes. Five of these points were made by Whirley, a freshman, who started his first varsity game.

With three minutes left in the first quarter and Mac ahead 15-10, Woody used the "platoon" system and substituted the whole starting team. Bethel quickly caught up with Mac and went ahead 16-15 on a shot by Loganbill. The quarter ended 13-16 in favor of Bethel.

With two and one-half minutes gone in the second quarter, Woody put the starting team back in the game. Loren Blickenstaff tied the game up 24-24 with five minutes gone. Four more times the score was tied during the second quarter: 26-26, 29-29, 33-33, and just before the half ended, Bill Moore tied the game 35-35.

"Chief" Hanagarne put Mac ahead for good 42-41 on a shot from the side. Mac pulled ahead 49-43, but Loganbill put Bethel back in the game with two quick baskets.

Loganbill ended the scoring in the quarter by making a free throw, and to make the score 52-50 in favor of Mac.

Mac started the last quarter with speed, scoring five points in the first two minutes. They then took it easy for the rest of the quarter, but at the same time, they still increased their lead somewhat. Bill Moore made a lay up with a minute to go to finish the scoring for the evening. Which left the score 70 to 62.

Loganbill was high for both teams with 22 points. The scoring was evenly divided for McPherson with six players scoring between nine and fourteen points. "Red Dog" was high with fourteen.
