Girls May Revise Dorm Constitution

At the dorm meeting Oct. 23, Arnold Hall girls dug out the dorm constitution and checked the articles to see whether or not the provisions are meeting their needs.

Several suggestions for improvement were made, especially concerning the practice of obtaining out-of-town permits, "off study" permits, late leaves, and the penalties for failing to do so.

Members of the house council, Margaret Daggett, Betty Jo Baker, June Blough, Delma Cline, Dr. Mary Fee, and the housemother, Edna Neher met to discuss the suggestions. A letter of inquiry was sent to Manchester Inquiry, North Manchester, Ind., concerning the organization and administration of the honor system on their campus.

There was no enthusiasm. The boys didn't enter in too well. The party was real swell.—Florence Hale

I thought it was so good. I like to chase!—Betty Bramwell.

I just went through my third season without being chased!—Howard Mehlinger.

The party was really super, but the girls didn't spend enough time trickling the boys. The chase should have been longer.—Claudia Jo Stump.

Lots of fun!—Dwight McSpadden.

Just as well have it all year round.—Calvin Hoch

All right!—Bob Kerr

I just thought it was wonderful cause I got caught!—Vernon Petefish

I thought it was wonderful, never had so much fun in my life. I could go into detail, but I won't.—Shirley Wine

Pretty good, pretty good indeed. My only regret is that the women are too fast.—Tommy O'Dell

The women appear bigger than in the days when I was in school.—Roy McAuley

I feel it should be eliminated and some more appropriate active activity for college age students be substituted. I heartily approve of girls being given the privilege of approaching men of their choice for dates.—James Berkble

Things were kinda' dead this year. There should be a longer WPA week. Let the girls play football next year.—Al Zunkel

Real super, good fun, a whole party full of fun!—Don Fancher

Ha! Ha! Ha!—Keith Rickner

Kinda' nice—Kinda' like that!—Eddie Ball

Do you want me for the track team, Woody?—Shirley Alexander

Miller, Opera To Be In Chapel

Thanks, Pep Club

The Pep Club is to be congratulated on their backing the buying of the electric time clock that we have for the football games.

Last year this club sponsored a campaign for money. Other campus organizations, one namely WAA, and McPherson business men and firms aided in raising the needed down-payment. This year the Pep Club is shooting for the balance of the payment which is $300.

We all have been enjoying the clock at the football games, and we admit it is a big improvement over the antiquated method used in past years.

The college is in need of a good and dependable whistle, one that can be heard in classrooms. If your organization would like a project, suppose you tackle this one.

The Story Of "Mackey"

A donkey (let's call him "Mackey") one time found a football uniform and a football. "Mackey" donned the uniform and went around over the state of Kansas amusing himself by scaring the daylights out of great and honorable footballers such as Graymaroons, Bulldogs, (Concordia, that is) Wildcats, and Coyotes.

"Mackey" was scared a little himself when he encountered the Presleys and Cardinals; however, little of "Mackey" controlled his emotions and went on his journey attempting to scare others.

Then, "Mackey" saw a great Brave in his path. But since "Mackey" was so sure of himself, he was not scared of the threat of the Brave. However, because "Mackey" was so sure he didn't eat his soft energizing hay and therefore he wasn't much of a threat afterward.

"Mackey" and the Brave met in battle and the Brave won—because (moral) he counted his chickens before they hatched.

Japanese Celebrate Okunichi With Colorful Pageantry

To non-Japanese, Shinto may mean just a few torii (shrine entrances), a shrine, or some festival which bring out centuries old customs. But to the Japanese, it is their way of life and their philosophy.

According to the popular belief, Suwa Jinja (shrine) is dedicated to a White Serpent, which swam all the way from Shima-bara and landed in Oura (in Nagasaki City). The place where this serpent landed had been marked for reverence, but at the present time no one seems to know the exact place.

Suwa Shrine today is dedicated to the worship of Izanagi-no-mikoto, who descended from "the high plains of heaven" and created the island of Japan.

According to the legend, Izanagi-no-mikoto and Izanami-no-mikoto stirred a pool of molten earth with a three-pronged fork, and the drippings from the fork created the chain of islands known as the Japanese Islands.

Okunichi, the Suwa festival, falls on Sept. 9. It is one of the most colorful festivals of Nagasaki, and the citizens look forward to its celebration.

In the early days of the 17th century, when the Tokugawa Shogunate held the nation under his power, the feast was concealed to pull the people away from Christianity, for Tokugawa was bitterly against the Christian religion.

One month before the actual day of the celebration, those who are to take Ousawasan (the Suwa god) down town in his Omikoshi (sacred palanquin) are required to live a monastic life at the shrine, in which they are protected from the sinful world, and they go through a series of purifying rites.

On the morning of Sept. 9, the Omikoshi is carried down the steep flight of mossy stone steps at a run, accompanied by flutes and drums. From the shrine, the Omikoshi is carried to town, where the miniature shrine is left for two days, so that the believers may come to bring gifts and to worship.

Throughout the three days, the city is dressed up; and at night the whole city is lighted with beautiful lanterns, which are made especially for this occasion.

During the celebration, people dress in quaint old clothes, and geisha girls perform traditional dances in the streets. They are accompanied by the flute, the shamisen (sort of three-stringed guitar), and drums.

Each section of the city will have its float going around the streets. This float is followed by a leader all dressed in montsuki (a garment with the family crest) and hakama (pleated skirt).

These people dance from dawn till dusk and some of the dancing parties can be seen until late in the night.

To the citizens of Nagasaki, Ousawasan is more than a mere shrine. To them it is their native religion and is cherished with reverence.

Every family, after a child is born, makes a pilgrimage to the shrine when the child is one month old. They go to receive the blessing of the gods so that the child may live a good life blessed with good fortune.

Museum Open On Sunday Afternoons

Maccollege museum on fourth floor of Harnly will be open for visitors on Sundays from 2 to 4 p.m., Dr. R. E. Mohler, curator, stated. Visitors have said that the museum has a very fine collection.

Dr. Mohler pointed out that few students on Macampus realize that the world's largest synthetic diamond lies in a case in the museum. Dr. J. Willard Herahey, once head of the chemistry department at McPherson College, gave his first report on making synthetic diamonds in 1922 to the Kansas Academy of Science.

The most successful early work on synthetic diamonds was done by Moissan, a French chemist working in the nineties of the last century.

The Hershey diamond is a true diamond although synthetically made. Tests for diamonds include x-ray, insolubility in hydrofluoric acid, and the burning of diamonds in an atmosphere of pure oxygen.

Recently, a Metate or Indian grinding stone was donated to the museum by W. O. Beckner, public relations man at Maccollege when Harnly Hall was built. Mr. Becker is also donor of several turtle shells and the Bear Claw Clam from the Philippines which are in the museum.

Sadie Always Gets Her Man At Mac

"Ready! Set! Go!" The Sadie Hawkins of Maccollege were out to get their men. For 12 hours the girls forgot their aching muscles and proceeded to catch the men of their choice.

They must have succeeded for "Marry 'Sam'" reported that he issued 62 licenses and several other poor souls were cornered and caught in the gym.

During the hour's free-for-all DeLores Sigle caught Jack Harter by chasing up after him into the heating plant roof where he had taken refuge. They were the first to get "married" up.

Poor Bob Slifrit turned monkey and climbed up a tree but to no avail, for "there is no rest for the wicked." He was followed up the tree by La Faughn Hubbard who managed to grab him in the nether regions and claim him.

Esther Ilkenberry lacking in bravado had to use brains. She locked Bob Powell's door (by some strange means) and waited inside the front door of the boys' dorm for his return. Being pursued by Kathy McLeod, Bob headed for his room. Finding the door locked, he tried the stairs and landed in the trap Esther had set.

Rowena Merkey showed herself worthy of the football team by bringing Wayne Blackenstaff down with a flying tackle. Then Elsie Kindley sat on him. Joan Roberts was partially over a fence to claim him when Elsie said, "Never mind, I've decided to claim him myself!" Joan was later able to capture the freshman class president, Don Cole.

Betty Ann Murray had quite a time with Irwin Porter when he situated himself on a chimney top of the gym. She finally had to get a ladder to go up and claim him as he wouldn't listen to her pleas to come down.

Later in the day, D. A. Crist caught his leg in the door at Harnley and Doris Coppock held him in the doorway until Carole Huffman could reach him and drag him away to the license bureau.

Claudia Jo Stump and Anne Krebbel pursued Max McAuley down Main Street and finally caught their cringing victim when

At the party Velva Wagner gave directions for the indoor race and then calmly grabbed Don Goodfellow, who replied in shock, "I thought you had somebody!"

Alberta Ebbert finally managed to catch "Chief" Hanagarne. When he climbed up on the basketball backboard, she scrambled up after him with the assistance of a few willing helpers.

Kenny Evans nearly had his clothes torn off him when several eager females tried to capture him for Ruth Peckover, but just before the whistle blew to stop the race, Ruth finally caught up with him.

Later in the day, D. A. Crist caught his leg in the door at Harnley and Doris Coppock held him in the doorway until Carole Huffman could reach him and drag him away to the license bureau.

Al Capp Comic Comes To Life

Dogpatch came to life in the gym Saturday night at 7:45 when the annual Sadie Hawkins' party was held. Approximately 150 people were present.

The chase for remaining bachelors was the first event of the evening.

In the contest for the best dressed couple Bob Peel in a fur coat and Donna Phelon, clothed in a gunny sack dress and carrying a live skunk, won the prize.

Winners of the Daisy Mae and L'il Abner contests were Phyllis Howman and Curtis Leicht, the gentlewoman with the best heard was Bob Slifrit who received as his prize a package of razor blades.

The couples were then divided into groups for relay games. The group winning the most relays received the prize of candy suckers.

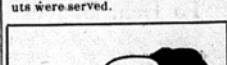

After playing folk games, the group watched the program.

First were the "Mountain Boys," LaVon Widegren, Kathy McLeod, and Ruth Peckover, singing "Good Ole Mountain Dew."

The folk game class under the direction of Doris Coppock did a number of European games for the second number.

Concluding the program was Velva Wagner with her accordion playing "Twelfth Street Rag" and "Tico Tico" with "Five Feet Two" for an encore.

Refreshments of cider and donuts were served.

Bulldogs Will Meet Braves Tonight

Tonight, Friday, Nov. 2, is "the" game for Coach "Woody" Woodard's Bulldogs. The Canines meet head on with the Ottawa Braves in a clash that could shake up the whole Kansas Conference. Game time is 8 o'clock on the Bulldogs' home gridiron.

The ball club of Coach Woodard has to hang up a win tonight if they expect a chance to tie for the Kansas Conference championship.

The Ottawa Braves, champs of the 1950 campaign, have not been defeated in conference play this season. The Braves are currently in second place with three wins right behind the high flying Cinderella team from Emporia which has blazed through four league games without suffering a blemish.

In the third slot are the Bulldogs, who have played some great ball this year but at a couple of crucial games developed a severe case of fumbleitis that was very costly.

If the Bulldogs win tonight and Ottawa knocks down the Emporia ball club later in the season, the Canines will have a chance to tie for the 1951 championship.

This week Coach Woodard has been working his defensive team against the Braves' offensive plays. Coach Woodard has also been polishing up his offensive plays and throwing in some new trick plays for the Ottawa game, because the Bulldogs will be shooting the works tonight to put the Ottawa vs. McPherson classic in the bag.

Coach Woodard will most likely start the same offensive and defensive teams that he has been starting for the last couple of games except for one or two changes.

Jim Kerns, the grinning bruiser from Wichita, will be playing a great deal of defense in the tackle spot. Jim really looked good in practice this week, throwing the offensive team for a loss a great deal of the time. Jim was hindered in the beginning of the season by an ankle injury and has not been able to start rolling till lately.

Jack Richardson, the blonde from Little River, will be back on the lineup after a week lay-off from an injury received in the Kansas Wesleyan game. Jack has been playing much defense for "Woody" in the linebacker spot.

Another player about whom not much has been said is Don Cole. Don is a broad-shouldered, quiet spoken lad, who graduated from McPherson High last year. He is filling the center spot left vacant when Coach Woodard shuffled Don Stevens to offensive tackle.

The center in "Woody's" precision offensive must have his timing down perfect or he fouls up the entire play. Don Cole has played the spot like a veteran.

The Ottawa Braves will breeze into McPherson under the leadership of Dick Peters, whose 1950 team won the Kansas Conference championship with six victories and no defeats.

Coach Peters' star backfield for 1950, which raised so much havoc over gridirons of the conference last year, was wrecked by graduation. The way the Braves have been moving this season Coach Peters has found a combination that clicks from the 18 lettermen and a dozen squad men that returned to school this fall.

The Braves dumped the William Jewell team 14-0 two weeks ago. Last week the Cardinals from Missouri beat the Bulldogs 6-0 even though they were out-played in every department but the score.

The Braves will probably employ the different variations of the single and double wing formations against the Bulldogs tonight.

Ross Correll will be the boy to watch in the Ottawa backfield tonight, for he was the top ground gainer last year for the Braves. Correll is very good on the spinner play.

Bulldogs Battle To Beat Braves

Since 1929 Macollage Bulldogs have defeated the Ottawa Braves only six times in football. The last victory for the Bulldogs was in 1940 when the final score was 6-0.

Mac "Bulldogs" Bow To William Jewell 6-0

Playing one of their best games of the season, the Macollage Bulldogs bowed to the William Jewell Cardinals of Liberty, Mo., 6-0, Friday night, Oct. 26, before a small and very cold home crowd.

The Canines, playing in a cold drizzle, fumbled the game away to the Cardinals, who capitalized on almost every Bulldog mistake. The Bulldogs fumbled ten times, and the Cardinals recovered seven of these.

McPherson's defensive team play was excellent and held William Jewell to only one touchdown.

The two defensive ends on Coach "Woody" Woodard's ball club, Eddie Frantz and Bob Peel, played one on their better games of the season. They turned in many of the Cardinals' end sweeps so that the Nebrascakers could meet the play.

Another boy that looked good on defense was Roland Delay, who also played linebacker. Roland had not been playing linebacker much this year, for he has been used more in the defensive guard spot. Delay stopped a couple of Cardinal plays that threatened to score.

Loren Bliekenstaff is becoming a polished football player, for he played a great game last Friday night against the Cardinals in the tackle spot on both defense and offense.

Led by Co-Captain Bob Kerr, Eddie Ball, Gene Smith, and field general, Wayne Bliekenstaff, the ground attack of the Canines was outstanding as the Bulldogs rolled up 324 yards from rushing on 20 first downs, while William Jewell stacked up only 170 yards on seven first downs.

The Bulldogs started the mud battle with a sharp ground attack that netted them two first downs in a row and placed the pigskin on their own 33-yard mark.

Here the Bulldogs flunked away the oval and also the game as the final score revealed, for the Canines offensive plays did not click and they fumbled the ball.

the pigskin stopping the McPherson drive dead in its tracks and killing the chance for the Bulldogs to tie the game up.

Later in the same period the Bulldogs recovered a Cardinal fumble on the McPherson 35. In a series of long gains behind some good down field blocking by the line and the backs, the Canine backs started another avalanche that did not end until they were knocking at the door of the Cardinal goal line.

Ball, Kerr, and Smith again figured in this sweep down the field, the next muddy gridiron and they were not stopped until they fumbled on the Cardinal 11 yard line.

Early in the fourth period both teams had difficulty in getting their offensive teams in gear. Gene Smith punted the pigskin out of bounds on the Cardinal 4-yard line. On the first play the Redbirds were penalized for the 1-yard line for being off sides.

The Redbirds got off a bad punt that went out of bounds on the Cardinal 21-yard line. The Bulldogs determined to the last man to capitalize on the bad kick.

They started another drive which happened to be their last real threat of the ball game. The same thing happened again that had already broken so many hearts that evening.

The Bulldogs gave a good account of themselves against a very strong Cardinal team; and had the weather man and the hands of fate not played many tricks on them the score might have been different. Coach Woodard's split-T offensive requires a great deal of ball handling, and William Jewell was not hampered by the wet weather to the extent that the Bulldogs were, for the Cardinals ran their plays off the different variations of the single wing which are more often power plays.

Upsets At Monday's Games

Two upsets were registered into the books Monday night in the intramural volleyball games. In the first round Schmitt (1-5) edged Metzker (6-1) to the tune of two games to one.

In that same round Powell (2-6) blanked Button (5-3) two games to zero. Also in Monday evening's clashes Neher and Baker, who had the same record (5-3) played, and Neher came out the victor 2-1.

Top teams in the brackets still include almost the same top six that have shared this spot since the games started.

They include Sharpe (8-1), W. Bliekenstaff (8-1), Sheaffer (7-2), Petefish (7-2), and Metzker (6-2). The only change is Daggert (6-3), who has replaced the Faculty team (5-3).
