

Mac Features Conference, Opera, Play

Welcome Given By James Elrod

This week the McPherson Church of the Brethren, the faculty, and the students of Macollege will be entertaining the guests of the Regional Conference.

For those students and faculty members who have been present during former years this is a look-forward-to privilege.

To the students who will experience their first conference, we would like to say, your appreciation will largely be measured by your willingness to participate.

In the past years we have enjoyed excellent cooperation from the church, the faculty, and the students. We anticipate no less cooperation and courtesy from these same persons this year.

There will be some inconveniences with the large number of guests on the campus. We are asking the guests to give students preference during the noon hour in the cafeteria so they will not be kept from classes. I am sure I speak the feeling of each and everyone when I say to our conference guests, "WE WELCOME YOU to Macollege, and WE will do all we can to make your stay here and the conference a great success." James H. Elrod.

James H. Elrod

"Bohemian Girl" To Be Highlight

"The Bohemian Girl," an opera in three acts by Michael William Balfe, is the story of royalty and gypsies. It was first produced in London, Nov. 27, 1842; but it has been translated into various European languages, and was one of the few English operas to be accepted in Germany.

The scene of the opera is laid in Austria. The story opens in the court of Count Arnhelm, Governor of Presburg, when his daughter, Arline, is very small. Arline is kidnapped by a band of gypsies under the leadership of the Gypsy Queen and Devilshoof.

Thaddeus, a Polish exile, who had found refuge with the gypsies, falls in love with Arline in the second act, which occurs twelve years after the first act. Complications arise because of the jealousy of the Gypsy Queen, who also loves Thaddeus.

Intrigue, love, and hate are part of the picture as the Gypsy Queen tries to get rid of Arline so that she may have Thaddeus.

Arline's restoration to her position as the daughter of Count Arnhelm is accompanied by both joy and sadness as she rejoices at finding her father but declares her love for Thaddeus, who reveals his noble lineage.

Count Arnhelm gives his daughter to Thaddeus. The enraged Gypsy Queen vows revenge and has one of the trites fire at him.

Devilshoof intervenes at the critical moment and the shot intended for Thaddeus pierces the breast of the Queen.

will be given in the college chapel Saturday 8 p.m. The performance will be repeated Monday at 7:30 p.m. for the Regional Conference guests.

Prof. Roy E. McAuley, dramatic coach, is director of the play. The cast of characters is: a peasant woman, Donna Pheton; an army captain, Marlin Walters; and a soldier, Glenn Bellah. The time is: a wind swept hill.

Most of the play takes place in total darkness. This play, which is considered one of the more famous one-act religious plays, is a powerful message for world peace.

This play was chosen especially for Regional Conference and Church presentation. Besides carrying a great message it shows the various changes what can be done, with limited facilities in the realm of religious dramas.

THE TERRIBLE MEERK is a play that can be put on in almost any church, using almost any available talent.

Dear Editor:
I am concerned about an item which appeared in last week's Spec. and it isn't the same matter about which everyone else is aroused.

I am rather disgusted with the following statement which appeared on page 3: "Marilee Grove, Donna Waggoner, and Anita Rogers, who were on the Ladies' Trio trip Monday morning."

This is not the first statement of this nature which has appeared in the Spec.

I have the unique position as accompanied for the Ladies' Trio. A week ago I completed a 3100-mile trip to Nebr., S. D., N. D., Mont., Canada, Minn., and Iowa, with this group.

Driver and "daddy" for the trip was Bob Mays, public relations director for the college.

It is my opinion that the fact that Mays and I were able to come back from such a trip with some group in sound body and sane mind would have made a good story for any paper. At least, we could have been included in the simple sentence which you printed.

Let me continue with a testimonial. My grandmother died my first 19 years ago when she

Bittinger, Mohler Attend Church Board Meeting

Dr. D. W. Bittinger and Dr. R. E. Mohler are in Elgin, Ill., this week, Nov. 5-9.

They are attending the General Brotherhood Board Meeting, which is the central organization of the Church of the Brethren.

Carpenter Heads Student Court

The student court, with Dale Carpenter as chairman, is a comparatively new organization on Macampus. It was voted in by the student body in the spring of 1950.

It consists of thirteen members: five seniors, four juniors, three sophomores, and one faculty representative. All court members must have at least a 1.5 grade point average.

The functions of the court are: to enforce the student body constitution, to determine the policy of the student discipline, to be in charge of all freshman initiation activities and see that they are enforced.

At the general election in the spring of 1951, the following students were elected to the court:

Seniors: Delma Cline, Jake Shaeffer, Glen Nicholson, Loren Blickeattier, Dale Carpenter.

Juniors: Peggy Sargent, Marlene Grove, Frank Hanagarne, Bob Bechtel.

Sophomores: Mary Ellen Yoder, Curtis Leicht, Gene Bechtel.

Macollege To Present "The Bohemian Girl"

Macollege will present "The Bohemian Girl," an opera by William Balfe, next Thursday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p. m. in the Community Building. The production is being sponsored by the Music and Dramatics Departments of the college.

Chapel Programs To Be In Church

Students See Their First Snow

"Halloween, Halloween, Oh What Funny Things Are Seen—Walking in a Winter Wonderland"

Old Man Winter got mixed up with the Halloween spoons on October 31 and sent his first snow storm.

Students from the tropical lands of Africa, Honduras, Samoa, Hawaii, California, and Nevada witnessed snowfall for the first time.

At the sight of the snow Isabelle Barahona, from Honduras, Central America, ran outside screaming with delight, scooped up the snow in her hands, and rubbed it on her face just to feel what it was like. She could not imagine that the fluffy substance was so cold.

Jim Craig, Nigeria, Africa, had never seen snow. He said he liked it "Okay." Maa Sinirup from Samoa says he is surviving the snow and cold all right.

"It's beautiful. I like it. It's like I expected it to be from seeing it in the movies," says Christine Harada, Hawaiian student.

Wendell Lentz, Los Angeles, had seen snow before, but he had never seen snow fall.

Adalu Carpenter from Las Vegas could scarcely remember ever seeing snow. The first glance at the crystal flakes brought forth ejaculations of ecstasy from "Lu," much like the rapture the first snow brought forth from other Macollege "Las Vegians" in past years.

Sincerely,
Berynn Ottman

Determined Or Confident?

Dear Editor:
Your editorial, "The Story of Mackey," was received with mixed feelings, I can assure you. I sincerely hope you were wrong because I would hate to think of our team as depicted in your column. I will admit it would be a sorry state of affairs.

As for scaring all the opponents we have faced this year, I am sure you have the wrong impression. The line-men and backs do not get those cut lips, bloody noses, and the many other bruises from cringing opponents. Try it some time and see how afraid they are.

First we played Bethel and beat them by a 47-6, not look where they are in the conference—last. We are not the only team which has been trouncing them. Next came Concordia, who was whipped by a 47-6 score. This was an easier game than everyone anticipated. Ask Woody if he thought that would be the final score. Baker was beaten on a very muddy field 20-6. The game conditions were anything but ideal, but Baker never quit.

Homecoming brought the vaunted C. of E. team to Mac to play a game that proved fatal to the Bulldogs. We knew they were good, but we felt we could beat them if we played a good game. If you think you cannot win, do you suppose you will win? We knew it would not be easy, and it was our mistakes that beat us, not over confidence. Wesleyan proved a rough opponent in a game which ended 19-14 in our favor. I just hope they do not get too much closer than that one. William Jewell was the same way. Although we outplayed them, we did not win—which is what counts. Our fumbles killed us.

Then came Ottawa, undefeated in conference play and always a tough competitor. According to your editorial, the players thought it was a cinch, and must have loafed all week during practice. Consequently they were defeated because they counted their chickens before they were hatched.

Now I would like to ask you. What kind of attitude are the players supposed to have—a defeatist attitude? Should you have no confidence in your ability? Sure, an over confidence can and often times does develop, but for what reason have we to be cocky and over confident? As previously pointed out, we have won 5 and lost 2, not too bad a record; but only two of these games were won by large margins, the others were won by a team that was determined to do so.

This determination also won the Ottawa game, and it started on a Monday night in practice. I hope you do not think that because of your editorial we forgot our supposed overconfidence, and went out and played good football. I did not hear anyone at the start of the fourth quarter say "Let's win this game just to show 'him.'" We won it because we wanted it for ourselves and the school. We do not spend two to three hours every day, whether it is rain, wind or shine, acquiring fatigue, aches and pains just so people can watch us throw out our mighty chests on Friday night and say "We're McPherson. We're good, and you are supposed to be afraid of us because you can't win," and then get beat because of this attitude.

As for myself, I will take confidence in our ability. If we do not, what kind of athletes are we, and what kind of a performance will we produce? I'm sure the team acted more like a determined Bulldog than your easy going, over confident donkey, Mackey, last Friday evening.
—W. E. B.

Symmetricaly Developed?

President Bittinger says, of the Macollege student, in the Growl, "While you are here we want you to pursue your vocational objective, broaden your education, deepen your spiritual life, make a lot of life-time friends, and enjoy yourself." That is, a student ought to grow strong physically, socially and spiritually—to well-rounded personalities.

The first nine weeks grades have come out. Several faculty members say, "The grades, on the average, are the lowest ever." Why is this true? It is probably a result of the overload the student has. The schedules are so filled that the student has no free time in which to relax; hence, many are buckling under the weight.

The student takes an average load of 13 to 22 hours; and quite naturally, he will be in from two to four extra-curricular activities. Too, almost all students have some sort of part-time work from four to 35 hours weekly.

The student is loaded down with themes, outside reading, problems, extra activities and work. Is this the way to grow to symmetrical personalities? We all agree that all these are necessary for a well-rounded education, but does it not do the student more harm than good? What is wrong? Too many studies? Too many activities? Or too much work?—D. T. F.

African Student Discovers Kansas Is Not Wild West

James Craig, recently arrived student from Nigeria, Africa, studied at a Church of England mission school until the age of seventeen when he transferred to a Church of the Brethren mission home. It was here that the suggestion to come to McPherson College was presented to him.

James states that the Middle West is somewhat different than what he had pictured it. When he arrived in Kansas, he failed to see the cowboys and hill billies he had expected.

Although having heard much slang, he prefers not to use it because of complications involved.

Nigerian games include soccer, rugby, lawn hockey, and cricket.

He was much impressed by his first football game, but was disappointed because that happened to be a game McPherson lost.

The cold weather is very trying to him because of the fact that the temperature in Nigeria never falls below 40 degrees. However there is always a high humidity.

He has observed that the price of food is very high here and that everything seems to be taxed. There are no taxes in Nigeria. Seven political parties exist in Nigeria with a sprinkling also of Communists. Recently a new constitution was adopted which gives the native Nigerians more independence.

The population of Nigeria is 30 million. There are nearly 100,000 cars licensed with about 95 percent being of British make.

Bicycles are very prevalent with around one-half million in use. Crops raised include cocoa, rubber, cola, corn, cotton, ginger and beniseed. Six gold mines and three diamond mines are also in operation.

Two seasons exist consisting of the rainy season from April to October and the dry season from November to March. The average rainfall during the rainy season is 42 inches.

James says he is enjoying college but would like to get caught up on his lessons.

Anyone is welcome to visit the college cafeteria at any time. However, it would help the kitchen force if they knew beforehand that there were to be guests for a meal.

The cafeteria staff is able to estimate the number of students, but they have no way of telling how many guests there will be.

If you plan to eat at the cafeteria as a guest would you please contact Mrs. Silfer sometime before the meal?

Singer West Turns Plumber

Recently Don West found the necessity to turn his talents from singing to plumbing.

The occasion arose late one night when he stood brushing his teeth trying to improve his girl-friending smile.

He was working so hard at the job that a forty-dollar false tooth dislodged itself from his molar system and proceeded down the sink drain.

Having no available tools at midnight, he draped an "Out of Order" sign on the sink and proceeded to bed, resolved to awake early and retrieve the tooth.

Arising at ten o'clock the next morning he located a Ford wrench and proceeded to dismantle the Fahnstock plumbing.

He found the valuable tooth and so this story has a happy ending.

SPORTS GROWLS

Just as the McPherson-Ottawa game ended Friday night, Orva Blikenstaff, the wife of Loren Blikenstaff, who had played a terrific game in the line, rushed up to hubby and gave him a very loving hug.

Not to be out done, Loren picked up his wife, set her on his shoulder, and carried her off the field.

Who sent Coach Woodard and his Macollege Bulldogs a football with handles attached? The psychology of the gift must have worked, for the Canines fumbled a great deal less in spite of the cold weather than they have in some games previously.

Bulldogs Meet Swedes Tonight

McPherson Finishes Conference Competition

Tonight the McPherson Bulldogs will storm into the Bethany Camp at Lindsborg and attempt to hang the "Terrible Swede" up to dry. Kick-off time for the traditional game of many thrills is 8 p. m.

Although the Swedes have not had a very good season, Coach "Woody" Woodard is not taking the game tonight lightly. The rivalry between the Bethany Swedes and the McPherson Bulldogs has for years been very strong. Past records and statistics might as well be thrown out the window when these rivals meet.

Tonight's game will spell the end for a large group of the Bethany squad who will be out playing their best before the home folks.

Coach of the Swedes is Ray Hahn, a senior grid mester in the Kansas Conference. Hahn has a friendliness about him that makes him popular with players and fans. He has turned out powerhouse teams consistently at Bethany.

In seven years at Bethany Hahn has had a KCAC championship, several seconds and thirds, a host of all-conference players, and a well-coached team every season.

The Bethany ball club is very shallow in reserves, and this has had a great deal to do with the unimpressive season that the Swedes have had.

Coach Hahn holds an ace in Bill Carlson, an all-conference selection the last two years. Carlson is a great all-around back who can block, run, punt, and pass. His passing is so deadly that he is feared very much by his opponents.

Charlie Lander, a Swede player for four years, was honorable mention for conference center last year. Charlie is one of the top Bethany linemen, and Coach Hahn will depend heavily on him Friday night.

Coach Woodard has been working his defense this week against Bethany's offensive plays. The Bulldogs are attempting to set up a defensive line up that will stop all-conference Bill Carlson, the big wheel in the Swedes' offensive machine.

The starting line up for the Bulldogs will probably be about the same as the one Coach Woodard started against Ottawa.

The fighting Presbites, with five league victories, are one of the few remaining undefeated and untied teams in the nation. If Ottawa emerges the victor, C of E will get no worse than a tie for the crown. However, the tie could be a three-way affair.

McPherson has only one defeat so far, and that was from C of E 30-19, Oct. 13. Tonight the Bulldogs finish their conference play at Bethany, Ottawa, which also has only one defeat, has Baker yet to play after this week.

Kansas Wesleyan and Bethel both get through Saturday. The game will be at Newton.

Bulldogs Defeat Braves By Third-Quarter Scores

McPherson College Bulldogs and Ottawa Braves threw everything but the Little Brown Jug at each other in a hard-fought game last Friday night that saw the Bulldogs come from behind in the fourth quarter to pull the game out of the fire and give the Bulldogs their first win over the Braves since 1940.

The home crowd fairly went wild with joy at the end of the game when the scoreboard read 21-19 in favor of the Bulldogs.

It was a night for explosive runs and long yard-gaining passes for both teams. The victory put McPherson in second place and Ottawa in third place in the Kansas Conference while College of Emporia fairly slaughtered the Bethel ball club 41-6 to stay in the driver's seat in the Kansas Conference race.

The Braves scored first in the opening period, and then the Bulldogs came back in the second period to smash the pigskin across and to take the lead away from the Braves, 7-6.

Near the end of the first half the Braves again tallied 12-7 at the end of the first half 12-7.

The Braves added another TD while the offensive machine of Coach Woodard's ball club could not gather enough steam to punch one across.

In the beginning of the final quarter the game seemed a bit gloomy for the Bulldogs, and then it happened—the offensive machine of the Bulldogs under the field generalship of Wayne Blickenstaff fairly exploded with runs in the surprised faces of the Ottawa Braves.

Wheeling and dealing behind very good blocking, the Canine backs led by Co-Captain Bob Kerr ran two touchdowns across to give the Bulldogs a long-looked-for win over the Braves.

The footballers of Coach Woodard played their best game of the season, and there were many outstanding plays made by the different members of the team. One of the most exciting moments came when Eddie Frantz recovered an Ottawa fumble on the Ottawa 32-yard line in the third period.

The goal line stand the Bulldogs made in the fourth quarter when Charles Petefish batted down an Ottawa pass in the end zone on a fourth down was another highlight.

Kenny Pritchett, small but tough defensive lineman, played a great game and was a thorn in the Braves' side a greater part of the evening. Bob Peel, who has been improving with each game, was great on offensive and was a wicked man for the Ottawa ends to deal with on defense.

When Roland Delay intercepted more times than any other Bulldog player. He carried the ball for 27 times for 135 yards, or an average of 4.6 yards per carry. Eddie Ball, another outstanding back of the evening, carried 19 times for 92 yards.

In the fourth period the chips were down, and the Bulldogs trailed the Braves by two touchdowns. Wayne Blickenstaff then loosened up his throwing arm and unleashed two passes to Bob Kerr for long gains.
