Campus Elections Held On Tuesday

By Mr. Lengel

Tall, dark, slow-spoken but versatile in his talents and his accomplishments: a brilliant musician, a first-class athlete, and the person whom anyone would be happy to have as a friend.

These are the qualities which distinguish Dwight Ottman well-known sophomore majoring in Music Education, who is one of the candidates for next year's position as treasurer of the Student Council.

Dwight's activities in high school in High School at the Chase County High School in Imperial, Neb., have served to show the extent of his talent in his many and varied activities.

such diverse fields as music and athletics at the high school level he was able to gain honors such as an All Conference rating in basketball, the second place in the State of Nebraska in the half-mile run, and the Avion award as the outstanding music student in his class.

Since his entrance into MacCollie, Dwight has continued his work in all fields, and his honors in this institution have not been lacking. As President of the McPherson College Band, Treasurer of the A Cappella Choir, and a member of the Student Court, he has shown himself to be worthy of that office to which he now aspires.

Aside from his fine record both past and present, those on campus who know Dwight Ottman (and nearly everyone does) know that he is a hard taskmaster on himself and on those with whom he works, but only hard because he requires the need for work to gain accomplishment.

They know, too, that he is a fine Christian gentleman, and certainly fitted, through experience, training, personality, and inherent leadership, to serve his fellow students in his office as Treasurer of the Student Council.

By Mr. Famberg

Norris Harms — the candidate of the Progressives "With Norris Harms for a better school!"

Running for treasurer of the student council for next year is Norris Harms. He hails from Huxton, Colo., and is now a sophomore. His leadership ability and his trustworthy personality are esteemed by all of his friends.

The student council and the board of publications placed supreme trust in him by choosing him as editor-in-chief for next year's Quarterly. An even larger number of students demonstrated their confidence in his administrative ability by electing him as president of the Future Teachers of America.

His unceasing interest in church affairs earned him the well-deserved position of president of the Church Youth Fellowship in his hometown.

Norris Harms possesses all the necessary prerequisites for his future position, since he is majoring in just those fields which are indispensable for a successful tenure in the office of treasurer on the student council.

He stands for the improvement of the living and eating establishments on campus, and making them as inexpensive as possible. He also favors the promotion of modern recreation and amusements on campus.

By Mr. Famberg

Gene Myers — the ideal man for President!

Every person on this campus knows the likable and friendly fellow with the Southern drawl who in his three years at college has earned for himself the universal respect and popularity of all college students.

His fellow students in high school demonstrated their confidence in him by electing him Vice president and President in two successive years, in F.F.A. He also served the young people of Missouri as President of the district and state youth cabinets.

In college he has held an impressive number of different offices. He is on the steering committee of the CBPF, and president of the executive cabinet of the Regional Youth Cabinet.

But he has also distinguished himself in purely college affairs, such as being the present business manager of the Spec, and shows an interest in sports by his work as freshman and varsity cheerleader.

At the end of this year he will terminate these activities to devote his time and energies to the office of President of the Student council.

He will be working toward more opportunities for students both on and off campus through more inclusive extra-curricular activities, and will have a concern for all student needs regardless of the size of the group.

Everybody who has seen Gene working on the college grounds with El Toro knows his tremendous capacity for hard work, a quality which will pay off when he is elected to be President of the Student Council.

By Mr. Famberg

Don Colberg — "Friend of the workers and the rest of the MacCollie students."

On the ballot for Student council president for next year is Don Colberg, capable of leading the student body through a year of prosperity and pleasure for all students.

Don Colberg has participated in the various activities on campus. He is treasurer of the SCA, has lettered in track for two years, sings in the A Cappella choir, and is a member of Rec Council.

Last year he received the support of the student body, who felt like they could trust him and rightly so, and he was elected treasurer of the student council. He is therefore aware of the work and responsibilities of the council.

He is a man of high principles and is for clean honest government. He will be free from other obligations during his senior year thus making him able to donate his time to the functions of the student council for the benefit of all the students.

NEHER FOR PRESIDENT:

Out of the wiles of deepest, darkest India . . . from the rugged mountains of Korea . . . comes the shanty of Hong Kong . . . comes NEHER FOR PRESIDENT!

What about this man? What are his qualifications? Can he do the job? These are the questions circulating in the minds of Mac Collie now. For indeed, a grave decision lies in their hands.

We can make but one choice. Who else can do the job? Who else has the experience and ability? NEHER is our man.

As a freshman on the campus, Leon participated in many and varied activities. He was a member of the Freshman male octette and was active in intermural sports. Then the next year he became a member of the Regional Youth Cabinet and took up debating. He was also active in SCA and Ag Club, not to mention A Capella Choir.

Then came his trip to India to study for one year as an Exchange Student. Around the world he went,

Pondering With The President The Man Who Stopped

All of us have been thrilled with John Landy's track record. John has run the mile in less time than any other human being ever run it. Three times he has broken the four minute barrier.

Recently John was running in a race and had a very good chance of breaking his own 3:58 record; or he might have broken his own world record if he had not stopped.

He was acclaimed in every newspaper for this excellent manifestation of good sportsmanship. One coach said: "It was the most gallant action I have seen in a lifetime of athletics."

Along side of this I have seen other pictures quite dissimilar. Recently a group of soldiers were photographed as they marched before Queen Elizabeth. It was a hot day and one of them fainted and fell; the others stepped over him without looking in his direction until the falling line had passed.

Once again saw a picture of a girl in uniform being reviewed by royalty: one of them fainted and fell. Neither royalty nor the others in line dared to look in the direction of the fallen girl in uniform.

It is good that athletics still can place high value on human personality.

The other pictures point out that in a highly militarized situation the individual does not count for much and the individual and human personality is lost in the mass.

We can be glad that athletics still prevail in our society. We should be pleased that at least in track stress is placed on the individual. It can be alarming that militarism seems to creep up as strongly as it does from all the edges of our society.

These two sets of pictures point out the difference between them.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served in the SUR with Vera Mohler in charge.

Tomorrow, five members are going to Kansas State College in Manhattan to attend the State Convention of the FTA chapters. Norris Harms, newly elected president of the Maurice A. Hess Chapter, is driving the car and those going with him are Richard Caron, Joyce Miller, Shirley Rhoades, and Nancy Keim.

Campus Whirl

As time flies by in the academic years, students begin about this early to calculate the days left until the last activities will be finished. According to the calendar, there are only 30 school days left including test week.

Fleeting time is speeded along for Maccollege students as thoughts and hours are put in on semester projects which the professors urge to completion. Deadlines are creeping up on not only students but teachers likewise.

In the near future there will be student recitals which require much practice for perfection. As the unpredictable weather warms up, the mood will be set for the retreats and picnics annually taken.

Students in New York

The members of the American Politics Class, who have spent the week in Washington, D. C., observing governmental proceedings are spending today in New York City before returning to Maccollege Campus on Sunday night.

Monday, the Growth of Culture class will take a field trip to the ancient burial grounds at Salina. The class will also view some of Sandzen's art work.

Traveling to Wichita Wednesday morning to visit the city jail and other penal institutions will be the Criminology class. In the afternoon the group will visit the reformatory in Hutchinson.

Home Ec Club Presents Fashions

An interesting note was added to the spring atmosphere on Tuesday evening, April 10, as girls on campus modeled wedding gowns from both the past, present, and future.

This grew from an idea of the Home Economics Club Council as it began its plan for the year last fall. Besides wedding gowns, students from the three clothing classes, Fundamentals of Clothing, Applied Dress Design, and Tailoring, modeled the garments which they had made.

Featured in this Wedding Gown Style Review were gowns from as far back as 1909. From that date were gowns from every decade.

The oldest garment shown was the jacket worn by Arlene Watts Rolfs' great-grandmother in her wedding in 1889. It was shown with
