Phantom Strikes Again!

By Duane Fike

A great improvement has been made on campus these past few indeed on campus these past few indiges the something that should have been done long ago, but due to the nature of the matter this had not been undertaken prior to this time. The improvement spoken about is, of course, the painting of the mailbox.

How many times have some of you people hesitated about sending a letter because it would mean dropping it into a khaki-colored mailbox? There is nothing pretty about a drab olive color. A person needs an attractive mailbox so that the mere sight of it will make him glad he is mailing a letter or at least make him wish he was doing so.

One could place his mail in the For Fall Pre-enrollment least make him wish he was doing so.

One could place his mail in the tray in the business office, but this lacks excitement. It has been found there is an undefineable thrill in placing a letter on the tray in the mailbox and then tipping it down, wondering if your letter did not probably get caught somewhere on the way down.

I imagine the government had a hard time deciding the color. No doubt some wanted to paint them and purple. I suppose the final choice came when it was discovered they had some red and blue paint lett over from the redecorating of the White House in 1722.

Most letters are sent in the mail because someone is embarrassed, to the Central Office before May 11.

Are H-Bomb Tests Necessary?

A displaced persons family is scheduled to arrive in McPherson sometime after May 10 to make their home here.

The McPherson Church of the Brethren is the sponsor for the family. Dr. Welsey DcCoursey, Macollege chemistry prof, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

man of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The family is coming to the United States under the 1953 Refugee Relief Acts which allowed a total of 209,000 non-quota visas to be issued to a small percentage of the refugees living throughout the world.

The Brethren Service Committee The Brethren Service Committee is attempting to get more churches to provide assurances for refugees since the act expires at the end of this year.

As of Dec. 31, 1955, a total of only 60,107 refugee families had arrived in the United States.

The Western Region of the Church of the Brethren has set a goal of 150 persons. In March only 15 assurances had been filed and eight persons had arrived.

Bomb testing may be discontinued.

There would seem to be a strong advantage in having the American people make such a proposal first instead of having the disadvantage of always seeming to be pushed into more peaceful directions by other nations who claim that we are war mongers.

Or if we are to continue H-Bomb testing, then it would seem reasonable that we should seek to find a place somewhere within our own boundaries which would not cause apprehension and dread, due to

Students Finish Projects In Industrial Arts Building

Finished furniture of all shapes and sizes is being turned out of the Industrial Arts building rather quickly as the year draws to a close. Sudents have taken as projects everything from making guest books to hi-fi record players. Perhaps the items made most frequently are the guest books the college presents to all married students. A new guest book was made to present to those members of the faculty leaving McPherson this year. Approximately 30 books are made and presented each year.

The student is free to make whatever he desires as a project. Prof. S. M. Dell feels that he has a sleepy group this year because approximately a half dozen beds have been made.

Arlene Merkey, a senior girl, just finished a wrought and pierced iron coffee table. It has a glass top 24 by 40 inches.

For several days the gentle music of orchestra and instrumentalists wafted through the shopes as Glendon Button put the finishing touches on a hi-fi record player cabinet he had made.

Head Waitress Prefers Husband To Pendulum Clock

By Irene Shull

"I did not get a pendulum clock of for not marrying," smiles Mrs. D. W. Bittinger. Kansas Mother of the Year for 1936 from McPherson, Kans., as she relates a bribe offered her by her employer when she was working her way through Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania in the late 20's as they are today.

"I'll give you my pendulum clock," if you will not marry that preacher." The clock hasn't been forgotten during the 28 years that Irene. Bittinger has been married to her preacher, but she's been too bucy and happy to wonder what life would have been like with it. Serving as head waltress and tearoom assistant was not the only job this energetic lady held while financing herself through four years of college.

As a freshman she enrolled in a course in arts and crafts and there learned the skill of basket weaving which became her winter money-making project the next four years, At that time she also helped fill the demand for trays made of milkweed pod and catonine tails.
