The four seniors with perfect averages are Marcella Drescher, Barbara Gooden, Galen Stucky, and Ed Wolf. The sophomores are Richard Bittinger, Carl Harris, and Dean Schrock.

Twenty-six more students made the honor roll. They include Fred Koons, 2.95; Don Colberg, 2.94; Joyce Flory, 2.88; Dwight Oltman, 2.88; Joyce Miller, 2.83; Willard Stucky, 2.80; John Lemman, 2.78; Ruth Eshelman, 2.76.

Bulldogs Come From Behind To Beat Friends In Thriller

Coming from behind in the last two minutes, the Bulldogs defeated Friends 58-55 in the Wichita West High gym Friday, Feb. 1, to give the Bulldogs their sixth conference win in basketball.

Ed Delk tallied four points in the last two minutes, and Gaylen Rodgers dropped through two free throws.

Mac had led throughout the game and held a 32-28 edge at halftime, but the lead was given to Friends 52-55 with only 3 minutes and 18 seconds left in the game.

Friends attempted to stall the ball and kept possession of it for 47 seconds until Ed Delk stole it and was fouled under the basket. He made both free shots to pull Mac to within one.

The Quakers again stalled, but a combination of Rodgers and Heidebrecht stole the ball again and fed the fast breaking Delk under the bucket to put Mac ahead by one point.

Rodgers made two more free shots with 1 minute 45 seconds left.

High scoring guard Bernard Whirley netted 20 points for the night although a sprained ankle slowed him down a little.

Delk was high point man for the Bulldogs with 7 fielders and 7 charity tosses for 21 points.

Holmes Stays In Lead In Girls' Intramurals

Fourth-round action in the girls' intramural playoffs on Monday night saw previously unbeaten Elma Holmes team fail to a red hot quintet, headed by Ann Schnaithman, 35-23.

The loss did not drop Holmes from first place, however, as they now have a 3 won and 1 lost record. Schnaithman and Miller are now tied for second.

High scorer for the game was hard driving little Sharon Shrock, with 11 field goals and 4 charity tosses for a total of 26 points. Doris Coppock pushed through 19 counters for the losers.

In the second game of the evening, Mary Alice Smith's team outlasted Joyce Miller's group 32-26. Action was close and hot throughout the battle and the red team did not cinch the game until the last 3 minutes when they took a 7 point lead.

Marlene Hicks kept the nets hot by hitting 29 points for the winners, and Sara Ann Coffman collected 8 field goals and a free toss for 17 counters for the losers.

Standings up to fourth round action are:

Teams	Wog	Lost
Schnaithman	2	2

Peters Returns To OU

Coach "Dick" Peters, who proved a formidable foe to the Bulldogs while he was on the coaching staff at Ottawa University 1946-1953, has returned to Ottawa University as head football coach and director of athletics.

Peters left OU in 1953 to go to SMU, Dallas, to serve as head line coach under Chalmers Woodard, former Mac coach, who also left SMU this year.

In 1950 Peters's Braves took the KCAC championship in football. He was assistant football coach at OU from 1946-1949 and head coach 1949-1953.

His new contract with OU became effective Jan. 30.

It's hard to get ahead in this world without one.

Roses Are Red . . . Thoughts Turn To Love On Saint Valentine's Day

Hearts begin to fly about as calendar pages flip over toward the 14th of February, and with these romantic symbols go thoughts of love.

Red roses fill the majority of boxes delivered to wives, sweethearts, and girl friends on this day. Cupids decorate everything from Valentine pajamas to sentimental cards. And so, Feb. 14 is the day especially set aside for love.

This heart-felt feeling is also carried out in Macollege's Heart Sister Week. Deeds of kindness and thoughtful actions, which are prompted by friendship, make this springtime semi-holiday akin to Christmas.

Back in the history of this romantic day is the Roman martyr, Saint Valentine, whose feast day was Feb. 14.

The term valentine, from which we today get our sentimental greeting for a loved one, dates

Pondering With The President . . . Collegians Set Examples

Several days ago an interesting letter came to me from the Billmore Hotel in North Hollywood, Calif. This was the content of it: "College boys are the heroes of high school and junior high school boys. This is true particularly if the college boys are athletes, but even if they are not, hero worship of college students prevails.

"College girls, likewise, are looked up to with very high respect and idolized by high school and junior high school girls.

"Within five years there has been a 50 per cent rise in delinquency among children eleven to fifteen. It manifests itself in teacher defiance, destructiveness, mob action. The delinquents come chiefly from unsupervised homes or poor backgrounds."

The suggestion made in the letter is that in every town where there are college boys and girls they seek to set a good example for these younger boys and girls who look up to them and idolize them.

For if they worship the wrong kind of heroes, that is, college students who are blustering and loud, this will enhance their delinquency. They will think that bluster and loudness is the way to importance.

The letter suggests that college students may even wish to "adopt" certain youngsters and thus help them.

This letter, I believe, is being sent all across the country and into every college town. It strikes me as an excellent proposition. It can apply even within the college circle itself, for all of us pattern our actions partially after what we think are the approved actions of those whom we look up to and consider to be well adjusted and accepted people.

Proficiency Test Next Thursday

All juniors and seniors who have not passed the English Proficiency Test will take the test Thursday morning, Feb. 14, in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

The passing of the English Proficiency Test is a requirement for graduation. All students eligible for the test are expected to take it at the stated time unless they make other arrangements with Dean James Berkebile or Mrs. Homer Brunk of the English Department.

The test consists of the writing of a prose composition on a subject selected at the time of the exam from a prepared list of topics.

The purpose of this test is to detect and to help correct the deficiencies of those upper classmen who have difficulty in writing.

Papers are rated on content and form by the English Department.

Each paper is read by two members of the English Department. The papers are coded so that the English professors will not know the identity of the writers while they are rating the papers.

Ratings of S for satisfactory, Q for questionable, and U for unsatisfactory are given. A paper which is rated Q or U indicates the student needs further work.

The first English proficiency test was given in September last fall.

Do You Attend Campus Movies?

By Dick Ferris

This week, as I snooped around this campus, I found that we have movies to add to our recreation. I also found that there are people who do not attend these movies because of the free-will offering which is collected at the door.

Some excuses used are: "I'm going to study," "I'm going to play pool, or "I'm going to study, etc."

With this in mind, we ask the question for this week: What do you think of the movies which are presented in the chapel in the evenings?

"I think that they have a good selection, but I think they could improve the production." — Barbara Gooden.

"It's something for the guys to serve as a resource for dates." — Vivian Oliver

"They're too few and far between." — Vernon Reinecker.

"I like the ideas, but I think that they should get newer movies." — Sharon Thompson

"I think they're well worth the money and effort." — Betty Ann Wise.

Reader Opinion May We Borrow Your Car?

In college there are two expensive items that a boy can have. One is a car, and the other is a girl. Of course, the second item is almost a necessity for any normal college boy, and the car goes hand in hand with the girl.

If the boy is fortunate enough to have both, he is probably constantly trying to figure out how in the world he is going to buy gas, take Sally to the show, pay next semester's tuition, and pay off his debts.

If the fellow is kind-hearted and likes girls in general, he will probably be the type to loan his car to the pretty little things to run a five-minute errand that takes thirty minutes and a half tank of gas.

Again there is the time that the fellow is thinking of using his car, but the bell happens to ring for him. "Can we borrow your car for a minute?" He doesn't need the car until 7 when he has a date.

The people take off at 5:45; the car arrives back at 7:15; the gas tank is empty; the fellow has to wear band-aids on his fingers where the fingernails were.

On top of this, his date is so steaming mad that he has to drive with his window down, catches cold, misses next morning classes, and pays 5 dollars for the doctor bill.

It is hard for girls to get around and do things, but there is always one thing a fellow can count on. His gas tank is more empty than the last time he drove the car.

Some are pretty fair about putting gas in once in a while, well, at least once a year.

This is the biggest problem of loaning a car. With gas at 27 cents a gallon, oil 45 cents a quart, and tires at about 20 dollars apiece, it is pretty expensive for the guys to furnish entertainment for the girls.

We think that it would probably be simpler, cheaper, and easier

Your Gallery

Each day you hang up in your mind pictures of memory. Some of them will fade with time, but others will be with you as long as you live. Your experiences of today are your memories of tomorrow.

You are not done with your daily actions when the sun goes down. You will look back on them through all the days and years to come.

What are you contributing now to your future memories? How will the things you are doing at the present time look in retrospect?

—Walter E. Myer

if the boys would take up a collection, buy a car and put it in front of the girls' dorm for the sole purpose of their own use and let them worry about the gas, oil, tires, and, of course, fighting over who is going to use the heap.
