Sports Views

By Vilas Likhite

After a very tight pennant race, the Brooklyn Dodgers came up on top again in the National League and are now battling for World Series honors.

The entire Dodger team came through magnificently in the clutch during the last week of the season to put the Dodgers on top.

No one can disagree that the Dodgers have very good pitching in the clutch. The terrific comeback of the once Bum nemesis, Sal Maglie, after he had a nightmarish season was the main factor.

However, "Big Newk", a 27 game winner this year, and Clem Labine plus the entire Dodger pitching staff were terrific during most of the season.

Sal "The Barber" Maglie led the way to set an example for his teammates. He was truly the spirit of the ball club, and even pitched a no-hitter to prove it.

To pitch such a game at such a moment, when there is much mental pressure, is phenomenal. The Dodgers certainly exhibited their potential as a great team. This makes their fourth pennant in the last five years.

The captains of a football team have a very important job. Besides playing their positions very well, they must provide moral support.

It is their duty to support their boys to such a point as to have the correct victorious attitude. It is their duty to see that everyone is doing their duty and to help them in morale. Besides this, the captains have other technical duties.

McPherson College is privileged to have two great team players serving as its captains. They are Merle Rolfs and Louie Roberts.

Merle, a rugged, powerpacked fullback is a good groundgainer. His teammate, Louie, a devastating, rugged center, is a strong morale leader.

I was informed by them that the entire team did not consider the Kearney and Doane games as defeats, but as educational victories. They certainly proved that such was true in the conference opener against Bethel.

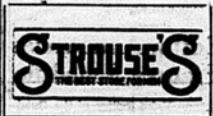

The team seems to be improving as many new things are gained through experience.

Many sports are as rugged as football, and cross country racing cannot be excluded from this category. The wonderful thing about this sport is that it accepts any individual of any size. In fact, many of the stars of this sport have been small men.

This sport gets many a basketball player in shape for a good hard game. Cross country is no "patsy" for one must put in much time and have much confidence to be successful in it.

Canines Out Of Doghouse, Win First Conference Game

McPherson overcame their two-game losing streak last Saturday night when they won their opening conference game against the Bethel Graymaroons with a 20-0 score.

The Bulldogs outplayed Bethel in almost every respect, making 15 first downs to their opponents 5, completing 7 of 14 passes as compared to Bethel's 1 for 15, and gaining 201 net yards rushing as compared to Bethel's 110.

The first tally was made in the first quarter in a long 20 yard pass from quarterback Ed Wolf to Halfback Don Widrig. Widrig then ran the remaining 30 yards for the touchdown. He attempted to kick the extra point but failed.

The second quarter was fairly even with neither of the two teams getting very far on the ground. But in the third period McPherson again showed power.

Coming West . . . BVSer Beginning College

Shirley Stafford, freshman from Lonsaeing, Md., is beginning her college career at McPherson College after a year in Brethren Volunteer Service.

Before this, she was employed as secretary for the Brethren Christian Education Commission at Elgin, Ill., for two years.

Last year she entered BVS and worked in Cleveland, Ohio, as the adult counselor for the Cuyahoga County Christian Youth Council, an inter-denominational group. Through this organization she had contact with the young people and the pastors of some 300 churches.

One of the committees for which Shirley was counselor was composed of 25 or 30 young Christians who planned projects for the youth of the entire county.

The project for October last year was a Halloween Scavenger Hunt, in which approximately 1,000 young people collected new and used clothing for overseas relief, as well as $479 for shipping expenses.

Youth Week was another project in which the Protestant Churches of the area were encouraged to participate. A mass rally of Christian young people was held with an attendance of over 2,000.

Another of the projects which Shirley helped to direct was the clean-up work in an underprivileged area of the city. White, Negro, and Puerto Rican homes were papered and painted.

From her experiences in Cleveland, Shirley says she has learned that the Church of the Brethren is not the only church — that other churches have their good points too.

She plans to major in home economics at McPherson and then go on to Bethany Seminary to study for mission work.

Cultures Vary Among Students

A dozen different cultures are represented in the student body of McPherson College. Twenty-two of the 375 enrolled students originate from backgrounds other than the usual American home.

The majority of the international students on the McPherson College campus are recipients of scholarships granted by the college board of trustees. Twelve tuition-free arrangements are presented each year.

In instances where the students need additional financial help, churches affiliated with the college or individuals are often secured to lend a hand.

James Craig, from Nigeria, West Africa, was MacCollege's pioneer international student, arriving on campus for the 1951 fall term. Since receiving his masters degree from Kansas State last spring, Jim is now working in agriculture in his native country.

Isaac Grillo, "Zeke" was the second student from Nigeria West Africa, to take his education at McPherson College. After heading the college honor roll, being admitted to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," Zeke is now reported to be making a commendable record in medical school at the University of Kansas.

Each year Dr. D. W. Bittinger is forced to write numerous regret letters to students from all over the world who request scholarships to MacCollege. During the past year lack of finances has forced him to refuse aid to 200 prospective students. Approximately that same number have been turned down from West Africa during the last several years.

Lauver Herds Heifers Across Atlantic Ocean

An ocean-sailing dairy-man was welcomed to the Brethren Service Center in New Windsor, Md., last February.

Since he had first been to New Windsor, this ocean dairy man, Charles Lauver, had worked in a mental hospital, sailed the Atlantic, played mid-wife and veterinary to a ship-load of heifers, and toured Germany.

It all started in June of 1953, when Charles went into BVS. After his training period in New Windsor, he was sent to Hastings, Minn., to work in a mental hospital.

The project there included experimenting with the effect of diet on the cholesterol in the blood stream. Blood was tested from the patients every week or two weeks.

Cholesterol is a white, fatty, crystalline alcohol which is sometimes responsible for gall and kidney stones and hardened arteries.

Charles went back to New Windsor in Sept., 1954 where he spent until June 1955 as a general handyman at the Brethren Service Center.

The mental-hospital worker and handyman turned ocean dairyman on Dec. 21, 1955, when he set sail for Germany with a boatload of heifers.

Charles accompanied the relief heifers which were sent from the Northeastern District of Kansas from Topeka to the heifer project farm in Delaware, Ohio.

There he visited former MacCollege students, Louis and Ann McKellip. The cattle were tested there and prepared for shipping.

The "American Importer," with 55 heifers and three workers to take care of them, sailed on Dec. 21.

It arrived in the harbor at Bremerhaven, Germany, on New Years Eve. While there, Charles visited BVS projects in Germany and Austria and also spent a weekend in Holland.

The ocean dairyman arrived back in the States Feb. 6, 1956. Charles visited old friends at New Windsor before returning to his home at Pamona, Kas.

Now a freshman at McPherson College, Charles is majoring in Elementary Education.

Very Few Atheists . . . Church Membership Varies

Nineteen different denominations of churches are represented on McPherson's campus this year, according to statistics from Mrs. S. M. Dell's office.

Two hundred nineteen students claim membership in the Church of the Brethren, and 12 list it as their church preference. Of these 231 Brethren, 66 are freshmen, 56 are sophomores, 54 are juniors, and 52 are seniors.

The Methodist Church has the second largest group on Macampus with 55 members. Next are the Baptists, with a total of 17 students. The Presbyterian and the Mennonite Churches are tied with 16 members each.

Eight McPherson students are Lutheran by membership.

Four students claim the Free Methodist Church as their home church, three the Congregational Church, three the Episcopalian Church, and three the Brethren in Christ.

Two representatives of the Catholic faith and one of the Greek Orthodox Church are in the student body.

Three students of McPherson College attend the Assembly of God Church.

In addition to these many denominations, there are students from the United Brethren Church, the Covenant Mission, Grace Bible, Church of God, and the Church of God in Christ.

Only six students indicated that they had no religious affiliation or preference.

Don't Read It How To Study

By Norris and Carl

Dear Freshmen,
Now that you have been in college for about five weeks, you are probably beginning to think about studying occasionally.

Studying is another of the important spokes in a college education. Without this spoke the wheel will flunk.

Your professors have probably been urging you to go to work and start studying now while it is early in the semester.

DON'T DO IT! If you read your lessons and study them now, how can you possibly remember them till the end of the semester when the exams are given?

By now you have probably read a lesson or two for a couple of your classes, and it has undoubtedly given you a sense of security when you have gone to class and known what the teacher was talking about and have been able to answer some of his questions.

But this is a false sense of security, because you will forget all you have read by the time the exams roll around. However, the professors are likely to lead you on into this trap by praising you for doing well in class discussions.

Don't worry about such things as class discussions, shotguns tests, five-week tests, nine-week tests, etc. They don't count over three-fourths of your grade anyhow.

The thing to worry about is those semester exams. So, every-time a professor assigns you something to read, mark the page number down somewhere where you won't lose it, like on a candy bar wrapper or the paper you use to wrap your dead fish in.

Then when semester exam time comes in January, you can simply sit down and spend the night before the exam reading the 600 to 1000 pages that have been assigned for the semester.

The obvious advantage of this system is that all the material will be fresh in your mind when you go in to take the test the next morning.

Suppose you should have two tests on the same day? Well, that's tough luck, and nobody can win when the breaks go against him anyhow.

The system of "Concentrated Last-Minute Study" is amazing. It's easy, no sweat, no strain, no second semester in college, know nothing.

Read and heed the Spec ads.

Income Sources For Macollege

Here at Macollege, there are three primary sources of income:

1. Tuition from students.
2. Gifts from friends.
3. Endowment income.

The tuition from students does not pay the general costs of faculty salaries and teaching equipment such as laboratory supplies. Consequently, additional gifts must be sought which amount to approximately $200 per student to meet these costs.

Such gifts come from churches, alumni, and friends. Even so, this is cheaper than in state schools where approximately $800 must be secured through taxes to cover these costs.

The intent is that the dormitories shall do no more than to break even financially. This means that when many repairs are needed on dorms or when a dormitory must be replaced, gifts must be found to accomplish this.

Rental costs do not store up any amount for depreciation. If the dormitories are not full, they operate at a loss, but they must be maintained for those who do wish to use them.

The cafeteria, likewise, intends only to break even. If students in large numbers eat elsewhere, the cafeteria operates at a loss, since a certain amount of overhead must be maintained.

Endowment income is that which comes from gifts, such as farms which good friends of the college have given to the college. This income is used mainly to make some improvements and major repairs as improvements are needed.

The college seeks to get approximately $40,000 in gifts each year in order to make its operation possible. If gifts are lessened and farm income is poor, then the college is reduced in income from both endowment and gifts. The operating budget apart from repairs and improvements is about $330,000.

McPherson College tries hard to operate in the black. This can be done only if every student is thoughtful and conservative in guarding the use of property, light, heat, and equipment.

Do Not Misspell

Students of journalism realize it is an unpardonable sin to misspell a person's name in a newspaper. The most personal thing an individual has is his name. No one else is entitled to abuse it or misuse it in any way.

If a name is not spelled correctly it hurts the person's pride as well as perhaps causing embarrassment.

For instance, if a person had the name of Skelly and someone were to substitute a 'm' for the 'k' it would prove to be highly embarrassing.

Take the hypothetical case of a person having the name of Fuane Dike. If the first two letters of this name were transposed, it might lead to confusion and the person making such an error could be sued for defamation of character.

It is the contention of the editor of this paper that he has a careful staff working under him who will do their best to correct any misspelled names they happen to include in their articles.

In fact he has such a firm conviction on this matter that he intends to make a small wager. For those of you who have read this far, here is the pay-off. The editor will buy any student who finds his name misspelled in any forthcoming issue of the Spectator a Coke or a cup of coffee.

This applies only to regularly enrolled students of McPherson College and this offer may be withdrawn at any time.

Well, you've read it, why don't you start looking for your name.

Davis Story In Film

Macollege FTA members who heard Billie Davis speak in Salina last year will be interested in the new 57 minute NEA film, "A Desk for Billie."

Much of the film was taken in Kansas in the Tepeka and Lawrence vicinities. The film portrays the experiences of Billie Davis, the "hobo kid."

The part of Billie is played by Nancy Pinet, granddaughter of the late Frank Pinet, former KSTA secretary.

Several University of Kansas faculty members play roles, including J. W. Twente and Richard L. Schiefelbusch.

KSTA has purchased three prints. They may be booked without charge through the Bureau of Visual Instruction at the University of Kansas.

Ponder With The President Am I On Board?

McPherson College is very much interested in your success as a student — we want to see your mind grow.

We want to see you grow in every way, of course; and your development as a person, your growth in winsomeness and in personality, may be more important than anything else.

But you are here at the college paying out money and attending classes in your mind about your progress, you should go to your instructor and ask how you are doing.

Your instructors are here to help you. If you feel you are not getting off to a good start, do not hesitate at all to go to any teacher and ask for help.

Your instructor will be pleased that you are interested enough to come and he will be eager to help you identify your difficulty.

The sooner you do this the sooner you can be "on board" and be getting the maximum from your class periods and from your investment of time and money in a college education.

classes in order to get a college education.

If you do not make the grade as a student and must drop out on that account, then all your other opportunities for development at the college will likewise cease.

Consequently, we are very eager that you should do well from the start in the number one assignment: academic growth, intellectual progress, grades.

Your parents and friends are also eager that you succeed. This year we are trying a new step to help you gauge yourself and to help us know also how well you are started in the new academic year.

At the end of five weeks we will receive from each of your instructors a grade for that early period. The Personnel Committee will bring these together so that we can see whether you are "On board," or whether you are having a bit of trouble getting started.

These grades, will not be released to students and parents as is done at the regular grading times, but in case you have any

Bethany To Give 'The King And I'

"The King and I" will be presented in the Bethany College Presser Hall Auditorium Oct. 12-13 at Lindsay. This is the first release for college production of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical.

The Broadway show is an adaptation of the book, "Anna and the King of Siam," written by Margaret Landon. Anna, the English governess, went to Bangkok to teach the King's children, and stayed to calm the moody king.

The Bethany College production has a cast of 50 students. Special stage sets, lighting, and costumes have been arranged particularly for this show.

Tom P. Rea is the stage director; Robert Barnes is directing the vocal groups; and Lloyd Spear conducts the Symphony Orchestra.

Syrup For Dandruff?

A Dutzour Hall coed recently decided to give her hair a treatment for dandruff.

Absentmindedly she reached to the shelf for the bottle of dandruff remover and began to massage its contents into her hair.

As the strong odor of cough syrup permeated the air, she realized the formula was intended for the throat and not the hair.
