

TRUSTEES OF MACOLLEGE met in a called session Tuesday in Beeghly Library to consider the employment of professional help in raising funds for Sharp Hall. Seated at the head table are Paul Sherry, secretary of the Board of Trustees; Paul Sargent, president of the Board; F. C. McClung and R. C. Yadon, representatives of National Fund Raising Services.

Trustees Meet To Consider Completing Expansion Program

To bring a new Sharp Hall to Macampus sooner, the trustees voted Tuesday afternoon to employ professional consultants in the raising of funds for the College development program.

Macollege trustees met in a called session Tuesday, Oct. 30, 2:30 p.m. with about 16 members present.

How to speed up the development program and whether to buy stock for the new College Farm were the two items of business.

The trustees present voted unanimously to employ the help of the National Fund Raising Services. Two representatives of the Services met with the trustees to explain their procedures and purposes.

F. C. McClung and R. C. Yadon were the two representatives. Raising money for the construction of a new Sharp Hall is the immediate objective in the 10-Year Development Program, which was approved in 1952.

An Advisory Committee for the College Farm was authorized to go ahead with Prof. John Ward to purchase the type and number of livestock necessary for the Rural Life Department's objectives.

The annual meeting of the trustees is in February, but this session was called extra because of the pressing need to begin more intensive solicitation for funds for new Sharp.

Dr. D. W. Bittinger stated that further details of the trustees' action will be released later.

What Does Faith Mean to Me Personally?

Faith is to be the central theme of the conference.

Cost per person will be $17. BSCM, the Brethren Student Christian Movement, is an organization of students in the six Brethren Colleges and Brethren students in other schools.

Ed Switzer, Macollege junior from Haxton, Colo., is chairman of the BSCM Cabinet this year. Other cabinet members are Helen Herr, Juniata College; Lenore Wilkinson, LaVerne College; Ken Miller, Elizabethtown; Dwayne Yost, Manchester College; and Kerman Thomason, Bridgewater.

Some of this year's BSCM projects have been sponsoring a student luncheon at Annual Conference, held at Eugene, Ore., and publishing a special issue of Horizons, encouraging students to think about Christian service careers.

Approximately 450 guests attended the annual Western Region Conference which ended at noon yesterday.

Pre-enroll Now Registrar Urges

Second semester pre-enrollments will begin Monday, Nov. 5. Mrs. Alice B. Martin, registrar, has announced.

During the next month each student will set a conference professor and his counselor or major professor and plan his course of study for the second semester.

By planning his course when advisors are not rushed with final exams and plans for a new semester, the students will probably be able to use more care in setting up their schedules. Mrs. Martin has pointed out.

Mac Bulldogs Will Face Ottawa Braves Tonight

A balanced line and a single wing offensive will be some of the changes which McPherson will find in this year's Ottawa Braves as the two teams meet at Ottawa tonight at 8 p. m.

The Braves are forced to rebuild their team this year because of excessive graduation of last year's team. This season Coach Grover P. Nutt has changed from the "T" formation offense to the single wing.

Nutt is beginning his first year as director of athletics and head football coach at Ottawa this year. He was formerly the coach for three years at Hays High School. Before that he coached at Phillipsburg.

Coach Nutt is assisted by Bill Boeck and Bill Frazier. Boeck came to Ottawa two years ago as track coach and assistant football coach. Frazier is basketball coach and assistant football coach and has also been there for two years.

Experienced men for the team will be scarce with Keith Brooks, David Phillippi, and Bob Cramer heading the list of veteran ball carriers.

In the line, Mike Ireland, Bill Ackerman, Ben Moor and La-

Verne Barnes will be the line veterans.
Last year the Bulldogs defeated the Braves 27-12 in a game here at the College Stadium.
However, the past record of the two teams shows a deficit for Mac with a total of 10 wins as compared to 14 for Ottawa.

These deadlines are set in order that there may be a May shipment of yearbooks.

KWU Topples Leading C Of E

College of Emporia was finally toppled from its lofty perch last weekend by Kansas Wesleyan. The Coyotes ended the Presbie 31-game winning streak with a score of 21-7.

Larry Houdek, U. S. small college rushing leader, was the outstanding figure in the game as he made two touchdowns in the first half. Houdek carried up 234 yards from 27 carries, the longest of which was a 45-yard touchdown sprint.

This victory now boosts Kansas Wesleyan to first place in the KCAC standings, a position which G. of E. has held for three consecutive years. KWU has a 5-0 conference record so far this year.

The Coyotes held C. of E. scoreless until the third period when Joe Ortiz plugged over from the 6-yard line after a 61-yard drive for the single Presbie touchdown.

Harold Culley scored KWU's third touchdown, and all three conversions were kicked by Dale Emig.

Dell Heads Meet

On important feature of the meeting was a panel discussion in which a minister, a school superintendent, a store manager, and an army major participated.

They discussed the qualities that they like to get in college graduates. Qualities which they stressed were adaptability, initiative, and ability to get along with other people.

Ken Schaeffer, who works on the George Moors farm, and B. I. Gripe, who is employed part time at the Akison farm-estate of town.

Joyce Flory has a tutoring job which helps balance her budget. She tutors three students — a fourth grader, a seventh grade student, and a high school sophomore.

Pond Stocked On College Farm

Mac college now has a three and one-half acre fish pond.

The pond on the college farm was stocked with fish supplied by the State Fish and Game Association Tuesday, Oct. 23.

The fish, including bass, catfish, and blue gills, are of fingerling size, just a few inches in length.

Prof. John Ward, director of rural life, states that it will be approximately two years before the fish will be legal or eating size.

The Conservation Class of the Intermediate School under the direction of their teacher, John Colyn, seized fish from the pond earlier this fall; and the pond was cleaned before it was stocked.

Museum Contains Relics Of Past

The first and largest synthetic diamond in the world is on display in McPherson College Museum. This synthetic diamond was made in the McPherson College Chemistry laboratory by the late Dr. J. Willard Hershey, a former McPherson College Chemistry professor.

Displays of prehistoric animal skeletons and items from China, India, Korea, and Africa are included in the museum. A medical display, a large geological collection, and items of Brethren historical significance, including pioneer items and old Bibles are also in the museum.

Some of the articles displayed were excavated from caves inhabited by men long before the birth of Christ.

One of the fossils on display in the prehistoric animal division is the only one of its kind in the state.

The African display includes articles Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Bitinger brought back from Africa.

The Chinese display includes pottery and art works Rev. Ernest Ikenberry brought back from China, when he returned from serving as a missionary.

he intercepted a pass and ran it back 39 yards for the score. Tom Ragland kicked the extra point and the game ended 39-0. Fumbles were dangerous for the Quakers all through the game as they fumbled nine times and lost the ball on six of them.

McPherson Bulldogs took a big bite out of the Friends Quakers last Saturday night as they racked up a score of 39-0. The game was held on the Quakers' home ground in Wichita.

Merle Rolfs was the power for the Bulldogs as he made four of the six touchdowns. The other two were made by Ed Wolf and Ed Delk. Don Widrig kicked two extra points and Tom Ragland kicked the other one.

Gained 377 Yards
McPherson showed a great deal of ground gaining ability as they made a total of 377 net yards on offense. Of this number, 347 yards were made on the ground and 23 yards in the air.

McPherson's first touchdown was made in the first quarter by Wolf on a 12 yard plunge off tackle to go over the goal line. In the same period, the Bulldogs drove 44 yards downfield and Rolfs made his first TD from the one yard line. Widrig kicked the extra point.

Early in the second period, a bad Friends punt put the Bulldogs in scoring position, and Rolfs again kicked the extra point.

26-0 At The Half
The last score in the second quarter was made on a 74 yard run by Rolfs right down the middle of the Quaker defense. This extra point attempt was blocked and the half ended with McPherson ahead 26-0.

Quaker defense tightened in the third quarter and the Bulldogs were held scoreless. However, a Quaker fumble in their own end zone early in the fourth quarter proved fatal to Friends as McPherson's Ed Delk fell on the ball for a McPherson touchdown.

Rolf's fourth and final TD was made in the fourth period when

Orientation Over For All Freshmen

Orientation soon ends. After Nov. 7 there will be no more hours of freshmen descending on the lunch line at 12:15 p.m. each Wednesday and Friday.

Dean James M. Berkebile says that the purpose of orientation is to provide the opportunity for the new students to learn of their environment. It helps to lift ideals and the principles of living together in a highly congested group.

No test will be given in Orientation. Each student receives the grade of B at the first of the year. Through the nine weeks he either adds to or subtracts from this B leaving his grade in the course.

Fellows Visit Farms

Fellows in the Animal Nutrition class under the direction of Prof. John Ward visited livestock farms Tuesday, Oct. 23.

They visited the farm of Dale Galle, near Moundridge, to see the experiments being conducted with dry feeding.

The class also stopped at the farm of Art Krehbiel to observe his feeding set-up.

Three From Seoul . . .

Korean Students Give Oriental Flavor To Mac

Three students from Seoul, Korea — Gwan Sik Jo; his wife, Chae Young Jo; and Min Yung Park — represent the Korean culture at McPherson College, during the present school year.

Gwan Jo is a senior majoring in economics and business administration. Mrs. Chae Jo, daughter of Eui Joon Kern, Korean representative to the United Nations last year, will graduate this spring with a bachelor's degree in sociology.

While the Jos complete their education here in the States, their one-year-old son, Richard Choon Jo, is being reared in Korea by his grandparents. Eui Joon Kern took his first grandson back to Korea after attending a United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York last fall.

The honorable judge and diplomat and the infant, whose American nickname is Dickie, made the 9,000-mile train and plane trip laden with formula, diapers, bottles, and sheets of instructions.

Min Yung Park is entering his junior year at McPherson College. His plans include a degree in economics and business administration and also graduate work at the University of Chicago.

These three Koreans are among 22 international students attending McPherson College. The majority of these received international scholarships from McPherson College.

A dozen different cultures are present among the 425 students enrolled at this midwestern college which is under auspices of the Church of the Brethren.

Students in attendance at McPherson College bring international backgrounds of Mexican, Hawaiian, Puerto Rican, American Negro, Navajo, Greek, Indian, German, and West African cultures.

The largest single group from outside continental United States includes six Puerto Ricans.

International scholarships were first granted at McPherson College in 1951. Since that time, students from over the world have studied at McPherson College in an effort to create world understanding of cultural differences and to overcome technical knowledge deficiencies.

Financial funds for international scholarships are insufficient to meet prospective students' requests. Last year alone, Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of McPherson College, was forced to write letters of regret to 200 international students who had requested financial assistance to further their education in the United States.

Dr. Bittinger is an active force in promoting the international Church of the Brethren College. He and his wife, Irene, 1956 Kansas Mother of the Year, fill the role of American Mother and Dad to all 22 international students on Macampus.

Historical People Featured In New Library Biographies

Biographies of many interesting people are some of the recent arrivals at the library. Most of these books picture historical people.

General Gage in America by John Richard Alden is a study of the man who was commander-in-chief of the British army in North America and governor of Massachusetts. This book deals mainly with his part in the American Revolution.

General Charles Lee by John Richard Alden tells the story of the best military tactician in the colonial army during the American Revolution. Although Lee has often been called a traitor, the author shows how much he really worked toward independence.

Francisco L. Madero by Stanley R. Ross relates the life story of the man who has been called "Apostle of Mexican Democracy." It tells about the background and early years of the Mexican revolution in vivid detail and shows how his death by treachery united the democratic movement. Zachary Taylor by Brainerd Dyer tells about Taylor's military service and his presidency. The author's analysis of the issues facing President Taylor is especially significant.

Black Hawk edited by Donald Jackson is the autobiography of a Sauk Indian chief. In the early nineteenth century, this tribe of Indians was facing extinction because of the Americans. Black Hawk led a part of his tribe which resisted this by force, but he was defeated and captured.

Lloyd George by Thomas Jones traces the life of the Prime Minister of Great Britain who led his country to victory in the first world war.

Helen Keller; Sketch for a Portrait by Van Wyck Brooks is not so much a biography as a characterization of the woman who triumphed so remarkably over the double handicap of blindness and deafness.

As It Happened is the autobiography of Clement R. Atlee, the leader of Britain's Labour Party and his country's Prime Minister for six years.

My Name Is Tom Connally, by Senator Tom Connally as told to Alfred Steinberg, gives the author's interpretation of national and international events that took place during his career.

Straka Surprised — Frances Straka, freshman from McPherson, was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party Saturday evening, Nov. 27, in the recreation room of the Bittinger home.

Guests included Shirley Groth, Sharon Thompson, Ila Gauby, Judy Brummell, Beverly Blackwill, Glenn Morland, Ed Butler, Don Colberg, Johnny Likhite, and Bob Brisman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eller, Mrs. Chester Thompson, and Mrs. Francis Sprout, all of Independence, Mo., also attended.

The evening was spent singing and playing games, and refreshments of cake and ice cream were served.

Students Orientated To Teacher Activities

Three weeks out of eight have come to a close for Mac college student teachers who are participating in the student block system of education.

Individual experiences resulting from this newly organized part of the McPherson College teacher-education program are numerous and varied. General opinion seems to prevail in the affirmative as to the program's effectiveness.

Many of the students are spending the first part of their block period observing under their supervising instructors. Others are actually doing considerable teaching.

Conferences, deaths, and other situations arose the first week and brought some of the student teachers from their observing chair at the back of the classroom to the "spot" at the front of the class.

Although each practice teacher is confronted with a "problem" now and then, some more

BVSeer Knows Marilyn Monroe

Don Murray, male lead in the movie, "Bus Stop" which was shown at the Manor Theater this week, is a member of the Church of the Brethren and a former volunteer in Brethren Volunteer Service.

Murray co-starred with Marilyn Monroe in the film.

In a letter to Marlo Oltman, Mac college junior, who is a friend of Murray, Murray commented, "Marilyn is very sweet and quite clever, but she is terribly nervous and anxious about her work. Personally, I like her and enjoyed making the film with her."

Marlo met Don while in Europe in BVS. It was in Broadway that Don, a former Brother of the Church of the Brethren.

"All I can tell you is that you must not pay any attention to the advertising in order to determine the content of a film. I am determined never to appear in a picture that I do not feel is worthwhile, but the ads and exploitation might very well make it look like trash."

Rev. Harper S. Will, Brethren minister who spoke to the Western Region Conference Monday evening, used a quotation from Don Murray in his sermon.

Don had expressed the happiness he had found in the church and in his BVS work.

President Solicits Funds In New York

Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of McPherson College, spent three days last week in New York City soliciting funds for the small non-tax supported colleges of the nation.

Dr. Bittinger flew to New York Sunday evening and returned to McPherson early Thursday morning.

He was one of twelve college presidents working on the project.

Dr. Bittinger was the only Kansas college president, and Kansas and Nebraska were the two states farthest west included in the group.

Each day they divided into teams of three to do their soliciting. One day Dr. Bittinger was with a Kentucky and a New York college president. Later he was with two presidents from Illinois and Indiana.

These teams called on the top corporations of the United States. They interviewed some of the large corporations on Wall Street. Among those interviewed were the National Broadcasting Company, Prudential Life Insurance, and Socony Oil Company, which donated $750,000.

During three days the college presidents were entertained at six dinners by the top businessmen of different companies.

"At most of them," Dr. Bittinger commented, "the businessmen talked about millions of dollars as we talk about hundreds of dollars."

In all they visited 42 different industries. These different companies have branch offices all over the United States and foreign countries.

In all they raised millions of dollars for the small colleges of the nation. This money will be released to the many small colleges through the state organizations, such as the Kansas Foundation of Private Colleges and Universities of which McPherson is a member.

"States like New York which have many industries will receive more money accordingly."

than states like Kansas which has fewer industries," Dr. Bittinger explained.

"For example: one big lumber company promised a gift of $500,000, but will release it in states like Washington and Oregon where they cut lumber, and Kansas will receive a very small share. However, Kansas will benefit more from the oil industries.

The first week of November Dr. Bittinger plans to go to Topeka with a group of Kansas college presidents to solicit for money for Kansas Colleges only.

International Relations Study Mohammedanism

During the evening, Barbara Gooden, representing the steering committee, spoke of plans for future meetings and field trips. Joyce Flory and Delbert Hayes are the other members of the steering committee.

Three members of the club presented studies of Mohammedanism to the rest of the group.

Don Cotton and Jane Clouse both gave research studies. Leon Neher showed slides of his Muslim friends from India.

Those who attended this supper meeting were Mary Alice Smith, Barbara Gooden, Irene Shull, Nancy Keim, Jane Clouse, Joyce Flory, Adele Bernstorff, Don Cotton, Leon Neher, Delbert Hayes, Dick Bittinger, Bill Kaitsoomis, Manfred Grote, Marlo Oltman, and the host and hostess, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Flory.

Little Man on Campus by Dick Bibler

REMEMBER - I SAID THE TEST WOULD BE OVER CLASS DISCUSSIONS!

Pondering With The President . . .
Do You Have Termites?

Recently, as we were doing some climbing on Long's Peak in Colorado, we made the acquaintance of a very old tree. It had drawn its life and sustenance from the soils of Long's Peak for five hundred years.

Five hundred years does not seem so long until one begins to look backward. It was only 180 years ago that George Washington was in his prime and power. It was less than 350 years ago when the Pilgrims landed in New England. It was less than 500 years ago when Columbus discovered the New World.

This tree was older than all of that, and from the heights of Long's Peak it had looked down upon the developing world.

It had seen the covered wagons go west; it had seen the Indians replaced by white men. It had seen cities creep up around the base of the mountains, replacing the buffalo.

Fourteen times this tree had been struck by lightning. Fire had climbed up its limbs again and again. Storms and whirlwinds had beaten round about it. Snow had pressed it down.

But the great giant had stood on, living and growing, through all of that period and turmoil. But now it was dead.

What had killed this giant? Tiny beetles; termites, so small that it was possible to crush them between your fingers.

These had been more powerful than storm, lightning, and fire. They had destroyed a giant.

In our own personal lives it is usually not the great catastrophes which destroy us.

Rather it is the little things, the termites, that gnaw at our inner lives.

In college it is not the big things which make our college years unproductive, it is the little things which creep in almost without our knowing it.

We may forget to go to Sunday School.

We may be irregular in our church attendance.

We may fail to follow a schedule in which we try to balance study, recreation, socialization.

We may choose a wrong diet. We may fail to get our sleep. We may pick a wrong friend.

or several wrong friends, even for just a little while. We may start a poor habit. We may fail to grow.

Dr. D. W. Bittinger

These are the termites that get in and destroy us.

Let us look at our own lives. Are we growing, or do little things begin to cripple us?

Galloping Poll

By Dick Ferris

This November brings the national elections around once more and of course this means another mess-up in the TV schedule. This means that the Lone Ranger will not be on this week because of campaign speeches.

Each year the two major parties, (Democrats and Republicans — the Whigs aren't running this year) promise three things: tax reform, economy, and a balanced budget.

A question that may arise in your mind at this time is: What if they reform the tax or economize the economy or break the scales so that they can't balance the budget? How should I know? I just do the writing.

With this in mind we asked our question for the week: Who is your favorite candidate in the national elections? Ike, 60 per cent; Adlai 40 per cent.

Here are the comments which we received:

- "I'm a Democrat, but I'm for Ike." — Wanda Soden
- "I'm for George Washington." — Old and Decrepit.
- "I'm for Jefferson Davis." — A Southern Rebel.
- "I'm for Joe Smith." — Joe Smith.
- "I will gladly vote for Adlai as I.K.E. (I Know Estes)." — An Ignorant Sophomore.
- "Adlai and Estes, they're the bestes." (A Paid political announcement).
- "I'll stick with Ike and Dick." — Ajax Glue Co.

Since we knew the elections were coming, we asked and were lucky enough to be granted an interview with the two famous columnists Norris and Carl.

This was their statement:

"In our opinion there are two candidates, Ike and Stevenson. One is a Republican and the other is a Democrat. Of course we must consider all aspects of the problem of choosing between these two candidates.

First we must consider which is the baldest.

Other important items included which looks better on TV, which has the biggest holes in his shoes, which has the strongest liver, and which can think up the strongest names for the other.

Finally we must consider which has the best over all plan for increasing foreign aid, increasing farm benefits, balancing the budget, and cutting taxes.

After carefully weighing these issues in our minds, we have come to the conclusion that WE GO POGO! — Norris and Carl.

Graciousness

By Elijah Odokara

To be gracious is divine and the highest title that mortal being can have on. It is a mark of divine kingship which is encased in fulfillment of a good course.

It is neither acquired by might nor destroyed by death. It is an infinite gift which is received by walking completely according to the ordered life of the Good, the Beautiful, and the Love.

It is composed therefore of goodness, beauty, and love. Still, these three are its fruits and manifestations.

We see it in the healing smile of a healthy child who relaxes on its mother's bosom, displaying a sense of love and contentment for and in all things.

We see it in nature as specifically shown and illustrated by singing birds when spring is near — such a joy and welcome to a season that favors all living and actions.

We see it in flowers when they are in their bloom; for they make all life wholesome and pleasant.

We see it on the horizon as the setting sun displays beauty in hues for the entertainment of the eyes, pouring out all goodness as it checks out like a working man from its daily role of performance — the leaving of the life it has lived.

We see it in all LIFE when lived to the full intention of the Giver of Life.

Behold! the reward for life well-lived is Grace, and its graciousness is its own reward, since the destiny of living is Grace.

Don't Read It . . . Various Voting Views

By Norris and Carl

As election time approaches, you voters are faced with a confusing situation. The air is filled with cries such as "I Like Ike!" and "I'm Madly for Adlai!" Many of you are wondering who to vote for.

We have considered this problem of choosing between the two major candidates very carefully. Now we present to you the results of our thorough research.

First, let's consider the Republican candidate, Dwight David Eisenhower. He is a good candidate, and for a while we considered voting for him, but further investigation revealed that he is too partial to big business.

This is indicated by the fact that he did not take bids for his golf ball supply in order to get them from the lowest bidder, but went right ahead and bought them from the largest monopolistic sporting goods firm in the city.

Another very good candidate is Adlai Stevenson, and we planned to vote for him. We discovered, however, that his fourth cousin's brother - in - law once had a friend who attended a meeting which was also attended by a card-bearing member of the Communist party. Of course we realized at once that such definite Communist leanings should disqualify Stevenson from becoming president.

We mentioned this fact to Joe McCarthy. Latest information from McCarthy indicates that he is starting a campaign to deport Stevenson to Egypt. As usual, Nasser rejected the plan.

After eliminating these two candidates, we decided that WE GO POGO. In a press release issued early this week to Free-For-All Ferris we stated that WE GO POGO.

Since then, however, our Okefenokee Swamp correspondent has age of the total income that is to be spent on each item.

Defense	21.73 per cent
Education	3.73 per cent
Highways	1.73 per cent
W. P. A.	2.73 per cent
Paper clips	.73 per cent
Miscellaneous	69.35 per cent

Total 100.00 per cent
Therefore his balance sheet will look like this:

Total income	100.00 per cent
Total expenses (minus)	100.00 per cent
	000.00 per cent

Therefore, this would be the first perfectly balanced budget in the history of the United States.

After studying this excellent platform, we are convinced that Bigbely is way out in front. The Bigbely Bandwagon is gaining backers. Everyone is singing his official campaign song, which is "Be Boppa Bigbely." It should be sung rapidly with a mouthful of mush.

The official Bigbely campaign slogan is "Me Yellee for Bigbely!"

The irony of this situation is that if we decided to vote for Bigbely, we did some cool, precise, mathematical calculating and found that we are not yet 21 and therefore cannot vote.

Dell Entertains Brother Prof. and Mrs. S. M. Dell were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dell of Mt. Sidney, Va., a few days last week.

The most important plank in Bigbely's platform is his plan to balance the Federal Budget. In the left column is the description of the items that the Federal money is to be spent on; in the right column is the percent-

The Missionary and Ministerial Fellowship will meet on Monday evening, November 5, at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Bittinger home.

The meeting will be centered on the reading of the Scriptures by each member of the group. Professors Della Lehman and Guy Hayes have been invited to come and offer constructive criticisms and suggestions after each passage is read.

This is being done in an effort to improve and revive the reading of the Holy Bible with expression. A general discussion session will follow.
