

Macollege Will Present Three Act Murder Mystery

The three act melodrama, "Witness for the Prosecution," has been chosen for the spring production by the dramatics department of McPherson College. The play is written by Agatha Christie, the master of the modern murder story.

The play will be presented at the McPherson Community Auditorium March 27, under the direction of Prof. Dayton Rothrock.

"Witness of the Prosecution" was given both the New York Critics Circle Award and the Antoinette Perry Award as the best foreign play of the year. The play had a long successful run on Broadway and has just recently been released for amateur production.

The story centers around the trial of a young man who is accused of the murder of a rich old woman. The play features a triple-twist ending that will keep the audience guessing to the last minute.

Tryouts will be held next week and rehearsals will begin as soon as the books arrive.

Students To Hear Man From Notre Dame

Chapel speaker Tuesday will be Mr. Killey from Notre Dame University. Mr. Killey works in the interest of student councils across the nation. His appearance at Macollege is sponsored by the student council.

Carrie and Minnie Mugler of McPherson will lecture and show colored slides of their travel in southern and southeastern Asia during Friday's assembly period.

Mac Family Acquires Three New International Students

Three new international students have joined the Macollege family. Constantine Papanandopoulos comes from Volos, Greece; Masaya Murante from Kanagaura-ken, Japan; and Monsuru Ola Disu from Lagos, Nigeria.

The U. S. is not new to Constantine as he studied one year in Wilmington, Del., previous to attending Macollege. The English language does not present a problem to Constantine. He speaks it quite fluently along with Spanish and Italian.

"Gus," as his friends call him, likes the friendliness which exists between teachers and students. Hunting and swimming are his favorite sports, and fried chicken is among his favorite foods.

Japan is the homeland of Masaya Murata. While at Macollege, Masaya will major in business. He studied political science four years before coming to the U. S.

Choosing Macollege because of its friendly atmosphere, Masaya hopes to improve his speaking English. Sports in which he is active are skating, skiing, and swimming. He likes to travel as a hobby.

Graduating from the Cosmopolitan Institute, Lagos, Nigeria, Monsuru Disu, was second in a class of thirty-five. Ola transferred to Macollege from Pierce Jr. College, Woodland Hills, Calif. His major is agriculture. Tennis is his hobby.

Six To Participate In Tournament At Emporia

Four Macollege debaters and two orators will participate in the two-day tournament at Emporia, Kas., today and tomorrow.

Ken Tompkins, Fred Koons, Joan Walters, and Shirley Groth are the four debaters who will take part in six rounds of debate.

Eileen Oltman and Maida Tinsley will enter in the oratory division. Eileen will speak on "The Problems of the Changing Family," and Maida's subject will be, "The Farmer Is Important."

Prof. Guy Hayes will accompany the group and act as a judge.

Enrollment Has Slight Drop

Student enrollment is down nine from the first semester. The total student enrollment for the second semester is 432 compared with 441 enrolled last fall.

The enrollment as it now stands is: 134 freshmen, 89 sophomores, 68 juniors, 83 seniors, and 58 special students.

The freshman, junior, and senior classes show a combined drop of 14 while the sophomore class and the special students show a combined gain of five.

A slight drop in enrollment for the second semester is normal according to the records, and it should be noted that present enrollment exceeds that of September 1956 which was 425 students.

Reinke Named Snack Assistant

Dick Reinke, freshman from Ashland, Ohio, is the new assistant manager of the Dog House. This semester he is getting acquainted with the Dog House and next year he will be the manager.

The provision of in-service training for the manager was approved by the Student Council last year. Dick is the first one under the new program.

Dick served as an assistant manager of a dairy store before coming to Macollege.

His other college activities include A Cappella Choir and International Relations Club. He is an understudy in the opera and is in the chorus.

Dr. Metzler To Speak At CBYF Meeting

"How Do Brethren Decide" will be the theme of the CBYF meeting Sunday at 6:30 p.m. in the church basement.

Dr. Burton Metzler, professor of philosophy and religion, will trace the path of an issue as it goes from the local church to the entire Brotherhood, showing how the Church of the Brethren is organized.

Everyone interested in the Church of the Brethren Fellowship is invited to attend.

School Officials Seek Teachers At Macollege

Prof. Merlin Frantz, head of the Education Department and director of Placement Bureau, reports visits from a number of superintendents, school board members and personnel officers from city school systems.

Recent visitors include: Fred Colvin, Wichita; Mose J. Whitson, Topeka; and Fletcher Miller of Jefferson County, suburban area of Denver, Colo.

Mr. T. C. Potter representing the Milwaukee, Wisc., School system will visit Macollege Monday, Feb. 17, and will interview prospective teachers.

Rev. Bob Richards, known as the "pole-vaulting parson," will be the main speaker for the Western Region Youth Conference this year. The conference will be held on March 6-9 on Macampus.

"Come and See" is the theme for the conference. It is taken from the first chapter of John in the Bible. They are the words of Philip and Andrew used as they spoke to others about Jesus.

Clyde Fry, pastor of the Waka, Texas, Church of the Brethren, will head the Bible Hour while Rev. Harry K. Zeller will lead the Sunday morning services.

Many college students will remember having heard Rev. Richards at the National Youth Conference in Anderson, Ind., in 1954. Bob also gave a pole-vaulting exhibition at Anderson.

The "Vaulting Parson" is the second man in history to vault 15 feet or more.

In January, 1957, Bob was one of the ten men between the ages of 21-35 to receive an award from the Junior Chamber of Commerce for outstanding contributions to their professions and dedication to the general welfare.

All during the time which he spent in sports, Rev. Richards gave much of his energy to evangelistic meetings.

He is a deeply consecrated Christian who believes that Christianity can work on the field of sports as well as on the playing field of life.

Macollege is fortunate in having secured Rev. Richards as a 1958 speaker on campus.

President Bittering Resumes His Normal Load At Mac

For the past several weeks Dr. D. W. Bittering, Macollege president has been operating his normal work as fully as possible from his home and office.

A week or more ago, he began his work in the office and teaching his classes. Last week he spoke in chapel concerning some of the humorous and interesting experiences that grow out of the hospital life.

This week he has resumed his normal duties and is busy during the day and with meetings in the evenings.

He says that since there are many requests for him to engage in civic and other activities, it is difficult to regulate his speed to what he thinks best for his health, but he is undertaking to do this.

Yesterday he flew to Bristol, Tenn., where for the weekend he will be engaged with six or eight other men in a rotating service for the Appalachian Preaching Mission.

Dr. Bittering plans to return Monday after preaching in various city theaters and to large audiences.

Fire Damages Home In Mac's College Courts

A fire broke out about 10 a.m. Feb. 12, in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson located in the College Courts.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. No estimate of damage had been made on Wednesday. However, the fire destroyed an easy chair and a table lamp, as well as completely smoking up the apartment.

No one was at home at the time of the start of the fire. Bob Nelson, a next door neighbor, reported the fire to the McPherson Fire Department, which quickly extinguished the blaze.

Student Will Give Collection Of Insects To Sister

Mrs. Thelma Clouse, junior rural life major at Macollege, is giving her collection of over 300 mounted insects to her sister, Miss Ardis Thomas, to use as illustrative material in teaching some of her courses at Jefferson Elementary School, Wichita. Jefferson is one of the schools in the new T. V. set up.

Mrs. Clouse began her collection in June, 1957, as a requirement for the entomology course.

To Mrs. Clouse, her project is more than just a "bug collection." Behind each insect is a story. To the people in her community, Mrs. Clouse's home became known as the "bug club," for the whole neighborhood would collect bugs and bring them to her home.

"Here's some bugs fer ya," three and four-year-old children would say handing her a fistful.

Many neighbors spent their summer evenings hunting under bushes and shrubs for the creeping, crawling, flying specimens. One lady came to Mrs. Clouse as late as midnight with a fascinating new insect. Men even brought insects home from work.

Some of the mounted insects were hatched and raised by Mrs. Clouse in her own home. Al-

Students Find Seminar Trip Very Educational, Enjoyable

"It was educational as well as enjoyable," was the general comment among the McPhersonites who returned from the Brethren Youth Political Seminar on Monday, Feb. 10.

Political Youth Seminar is a chance for high school and college students to see our government in action.

Washington, D. C., and New York City were the main places visited.

General comments on the trip are:

"I recommend that everyone take advantage of attending a political seminar. This remains true whether you have studied U. S. History and Government or plan to study it.

"The Political seminar is a valuable opportunity for studying the necessity of Christian action in our government and our responsibility to this need."—Sid Smith, Jr.

"From my trip to Washington, D. C. I gained a better understanding of how our government is run. The meetings we attended were thought provoking and very educational. I wish everyone could attend youth seminar and see our government at work."—Melvin Roberts.

"It gave us some insight on how the national government was run through the eyes of a Christian. To me, the seminar is a trip that every person who can, should attend."—Marvin Weddle.

"We studied the workings of our national government from the standpoint of the Christian Church and also saw many interesting things while sightseeing.

"To the interest of some, we saw and talked with some Mac Alumni. Among them were Max Royer, '57; Gordon Fishburn, '53; Bob and Anita Wise, '56 and '57 respectively. We also saw Don Jones and Wilber Wills."—Joyce Berry.

"The activities which we took part in while in Washington, D. C., and New York gave me a better understanding of the operations of our government and of how the United Nations operates in an effort to bring world peace.

"Interest was added to the seminar meetings by having the speeches set up in panel discussions."—LeRoy Hayes.

"Whether you already know much or little about our federal government and the United Nations, you will find it well worth while to attend the youth seminar. It is one of the most interesting and thought-provoking experiences available to us."—Ellen Kutz.

"The political seminar had its sound objectives to bring the Brethren youth closer to the understanding of their issues of today and to provide opportunities to get first-hand knowledge of the national and international political institutions.

"Besides these, I had a chance to see the eastern part of the United States no matter how brief and limited it was."—Young Kim.

Student Works In Radio Station

"I'm just an errand boy," modestly replied Bill Sherman, MacCollege junior, when asked what he did at the local radio station where he works.

Bill, who is from Kansas City, Mo., is more than errand boy, however. He mainly composes and types advertisements. He also reads "spot ads" and gives three newscasts each week day.

He commented that when he was not busy otherwise he empties wastebins and washes coffee cups.

Bill said he took this job because he felt that he would be making a real contribution this way and he felt the work would be interesting.

This is the first time Bill has done anything of this kind. He said he has found working in a radio station very helpful and he has learned a lot about speech by this practical experience.

Bill has taken some college work at Kansas City Junior Col-though she raised insects all summer, some still are in the pupa stage and will not hatch until spring.

Mrs. Clouse has among her collection a grasshopper maggot fly, which in its larva stage lives on the body of the grasshopper. Grasshoppers infested with these larvae were nourished by Mrs. Clouse until they finally died and the flies hatched.

To show how nature keeps things in balance, Mrs. Clouse has a pupa which would have become a beautiful monarch butterfly had it not been infested by a parasite. This chrysalis along with the worm which infested it is carefully preserved in Mrs. Clouse's collection.

Two scorpions, one of which is deadly poisonous, were given to her by a sister, who has a souvenir rock shop in Arizona. "I took great precaution in mounting that deadly one," Mrs. Clouse commented.

Since the Rural Life Department was organized at McPherson College in 1949 Mrs. Clouse is the first woman major. When asked why a woman would want to major in rural life, Mrs. Clouse explained, "I'm a nature lover from way back."

As a girl, she started at Central College in McPherson where lege, Kansas City, and at Union College, Barberville, Ky. He also had a year at Bethany Training School, Chicago, Ill.

He is majoring in Education and Psychology. After graduation, he plans to teach in Kentucky in—mission work.

Home Ec Club Seeks Exchange Student

To raise money toward bringing to MacCollege a foreign student who is a home economics major, the Home Economics Club is asking for odd jobs which its members may do.

Each member is asked to turn in $1.00, or the equivalent of three hours of work at 60 cents an hour.

Sarah Harnly, Dotzbur Hall, phone 1070, is taking the calls for work which will be done by members of the club.

she planned to major in biology and become a doctor. Her plans changed, however, when she met Mr. Clouse, who is an ordained minister.

Mrs. Clouse and their only child, Jane, a sociology major at MacCollege, plan to graduate together in June, 1959. The Clouse's plans for the future are to work in a small rural church using the knowledge they are now acquiring.

Mrs. Clouse was on the first semester honor roll at McPherson College with a straight A average.

Besides being a student, mother, and housewife, Mrs. Clouse is also an author. She has had material published by the Light and Life Press and the David C. Cook Publishing Company. She plans to continue religious writing in the future.

Fancher Serves As Pastor At Local Baptist Church

Ken Fancher, McPherson College senior from Rocky Ford, Colo., is serving as interim pastor at the Baptist Church in McPherson.

Ken is majoring in philosophy and religion. He sang in a Cappella choir for three years. He was in concert band two years, marching band one year, and in orchestra two years.

In 1956 he was the local winner of the temperance oratory contest and took 3rd place in the state.

Ken's wife, Carol, also a senior at MacCollege, is majoring in music education. She is from Ottawa, Kas. The Fancher's have an 18-month-old daughter, Kathy.

During the spring of 1956, Carol Fancher became organist at the Baptist Church. When the choir director took a leave of absence, Ken took his place.

The following fall, the church called him as youth director. Working under Rev. Roy E. Pasley, he directed 50 active senior-high youth and 25 active junior-high youth.

Rev. Pasley resigned to accept a state position, Jan. 1. The church then called Ken as interim pastor.

The church has an active membership of 723. Ken is living in the parsonage.

He carries the preaching load both morning and evening, except when a sermon is given by a pastoral candidate. In addition to his pastoral work, Ken is carrying 14 hours at MacCollege.

Mr. Fancher plans to enter the Central Baptist Theological Seminary in Kansas City in September.

Pondering With The President

What Is A "Square"?

By Dr. D. W. BITTINGER
"Jane, did you see the articles in the new Horizons about dating and squares?"
"No, I didn't, Mary. What did it say?"
"Well, Jane, the question posed was that in a certain class last year, 11 people dropped out of school and got married 'for obvious reasons.' This girl was asking how you could keep from doing that and yet not be considered a square."

or be showing off. That's my idea of a square."

"Then you don't think that the person who stands for principles firmly and calmly is a square?"
"No, I don't think so."

"Do you think we have any squares around McPherson of the kind you and I are talking about?"

"Yes, I guess there are some fellows like that — and some girls. But most of our fellows and girls don't fit into that category at all."

"I think you are right."

Feb. 12 Marks Lincoln's Birth

Only 30 of the 48 states now celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday on Feb. 12. A Southern city, Little Rock, Ark., was among the first to declare his birthday a legal holiday.

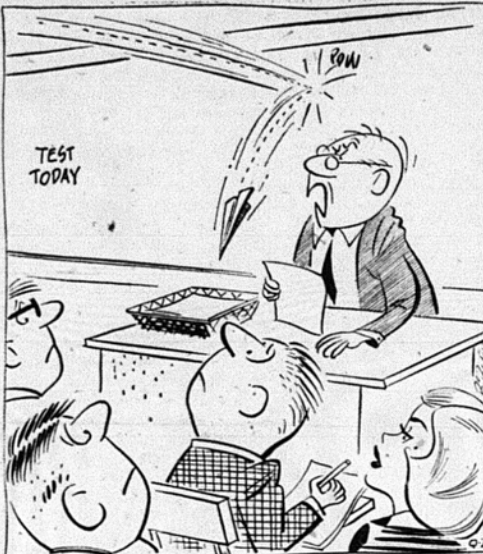

In 1866, President Andrew Johnson and the members of his cabinet were the first to celebrate Lincoln's birthday. In 1887, the first public celebration was held in Delmonico's Restaurant in New York City. In 1892, Illinois made it a legal holiday.

Vice-president, Hannibal Hamlin suggested Lincoln's birthday be made a national holiday. Starting in 1896, New Jersey, New York, Minnesota, Washington, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, all Northern states, declared his birth a semi-legal holiday.

It was not until 1909 that three Southern cities observed Lincoln's birth. Birmingham, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; and Texas proclaimed it to be a semi-holiday.

Lincoln's birthday is celebrated today because he was the emancipator of slaves and a preserver of the Union. He came from a Kentucky farm to the White House by his honesty and firm convictions "that all men are created equal."

Mind Doesn't Matter

By Faus and Foley
Latest statistics prove that one out of every twenty people will eventually need mental treatment. In hopes of reducing this figure, F&F this week have come up with a simple test to tell if you are mentally stable. If you feel like reverting, you might give it a try.

Question No. 1: Do you hate your mother-in-law? The correct answer to this question is yes, of course unless you are single. If you are single, and still answered yes, you need help.

If you answered no, you are too easy-going, and are probably suffering from mother-in-law phobia.

Question No. 2: Do you read F&F? This question should be answered by No. If you read this column, you probably are eccentric to a dangerous degree.

On the other hand, if you answered no, you are rigid, old-fashioned, and a menace to progress. You should definitely see the Spec editor, perhaps to get a better column in next semester.

Question No. 3: Can you understand 'women'? If your answer is yes, then you either are a woman or you are thinking of becoming one. If your answer is no, don't feel bad. You're perfectly normal.

Question No. 4: Do you hear strange noises in your sleep? If you answered yes . . . aw, go back to sleep. You're late for class anyway. A no answer indicates that you are a very deep sleeper and will probably flunk.

Question No. 5: Can you and your roommate get along? If the answer is yes, be sure to unchain him once in a while. He needs the exercise. If the answer is no, learn to play Rook, or try tucking yourself in.

Question No. 6: Do you find maintaining attention in a boring class difficult? A yes answer means you should wake up the professor and tell him about it. If you have no such troubles, how did you get your schedule past your advisor?

Question No. 7: Do you feel you are being followed? If you answered yes, better pay your tuition. If no, you're not very observant. See that little blue man? Oh, you're too late. You missed him.

Well, dear readers, we hope this article will help you to join (Faus, how did that elephant get up here in the Spec Office?) the ranks of we who are mentally stable . . . (Let me alone, Faus. The phone isn't ringing . . . no, we don't have any door-bell!)

As we were saying, now you too are ready to face the rigors and strains of life. (Boy, a flock of 'em went over that time!)

Middle age is that period in life when one's stomach goes out for a career of its own.

Be My Valentine

Have you ever wondered why the 14th of February, Valentine's Day, has something about it that expresses love?

Long before Christ, the Romans held a romantic holiday on Feb. 14 called the Lupercalia.

On this day the young people would meet, and each young man would draw the name of a girl from an urn. She would then become his sweetheart for the year.

This custom did not fit later Christian ideas, and the church fathers soon discouraged it. They thought a saint's name would help impress upon their youth the divine nature of love.

As they looked back in church history, they found the record of a Christian named Valentine, who had been martyred on Feb. 14, 270. Since the date fit perfectly, why not name the feast for him?

No history of St. Valentine's life is recorded. But we do know that in order to be a Christian in third century Rome, Valentine must have had a strong, selfless love.
