

Reflections On My Work In European Refugee Camps

By Clara Zunkel

For two years, I left Mac College and went to Germany as a Brethren Volunteer Service worker.

Being in a different country, living with people of a different culture and who speak a different language, and knowing that one won't be returning home until his 21 months are over can really make changes in a person.

Whether or not I was really mature enough for such a venture, I still do not know, but I learned a lot and I feel sure that my thinking has matured perhaps more than it would have had I remained in college to graduate before entering B.V.S.

We hear quite a bit about Germany today, because, besides England, it is probably our strongest ally in Europe. It has made amazing strides toward recovery since the destruction and defeat of the war, but it is still a "sick" country with many problems.

Probably the largest single problem is that of the refugees who come daily, weekly, and monthly through the Iron Curtain from East to West Germany. They are fleeing a way of life which we can hardly even imagine because of the many infringements it places on the freedom of its people.

Half Of Enrolled Are Brethren

Fifty-seven per cent of the students on Macampus are members of or prefer the Church of the Brethren.

The distribution of the protestant religions on campus is as follows: Church of the Brethren, 211 members and 7 preferences; Methodist, 56 members; 4 preferences; Baptist, 24 members and 1 preference; Presbyterian, 15 members, 1 preference; Mennonite 10 members; Christian Church, 11 members; Lutheran, 12 members; Free Methodist, 4 members.

United Brethren, 3 members; Brethren in Christ, 3 members; Episcopal, 3 members; Congregationalist, 3 members; Four-square Gospel, 2 members; Church of God, 2 members.

There is one member in each of the following churches: Church of Christ, Church of the Nazarene, German Protestant Church, Grace Bible Church, Assembly of God, Covenant Mission, Christian Science Church, Evangelical and Reformed Churches.

Non-protestant religions on campus are Greek Orthodox, 2 members; Roman Catholic, 1 member; Jewish, 1 preference.

Letters have been sent by Dr. D. W. Bittinger to the pastors of these churches in McPherson telling the names of students of their denominations. These letters indicated that all students are welcome at the Church of the Brethren but that pastors can feel free to call on the students.

One thing I am sure I will never regret in spite of its many difficulties and discouragements is the fact that I was privileged to learn to know the German people by working with these refugees.

I was working with the German Y.M.C.A. in the areas of crafts, recreation, and counseling or visiting people within the two camps where I worked at different times. Oftentimes I was just a person on whom they could unload their gripes and discouragements of camp life.

I learned specifically a lot about East Germany, but of course I learned of West Germany as it is today and all of Germany as it once was in the past. I learned about Communism, and Russia and its satellites.

I woke up to a lot of the problems of the world today and realized that I have a lot of responsibility as a Christian world citizen.

Many German people often said to me, "Oh, it's too bad that you came so far and now have to work in such awful places and can't see the beautiful parts of Germany." Of course, Germany being a country with much valuable cultural opportunity, the people were right in a sense, but I did see some interesting and famous things in Germany and several other European countries as well.

My work was centered near Bremen and in Hamburg, so I hadn't much opportunity to see southern Germany, but I did get to travel, both because of conferences and on my own, in Switzerland, Austria, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, and England.

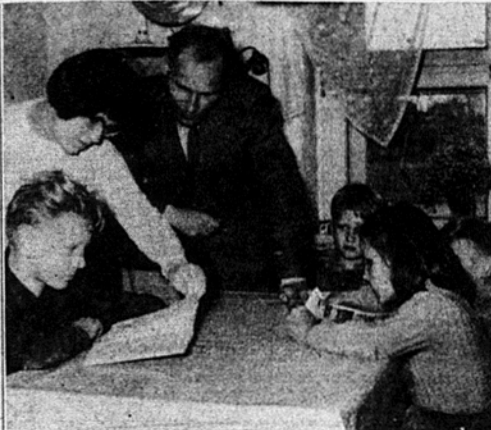

Probably because I was with Germans so much, I learned the language and ways of the people and really felt quite at home for the most part. I found that I was much like the Germans in my way of thinking, so that often times I forgot that I was American and so did the people with whom I worked.

Now I am glad for the opportunity to be in America again, but I hope it isn't too long until I can return to my German friends to learn more of the ways of the world and fulfill as well as possible my duties as a Christian world citizen.

Rudolph Harley Dies Suddenly

Rudolph Harley, a sophomore majoring in mathematics and physics, died suddenly from heart failure last Sunday noon. He and his wife were getting ready to eat dinner in their apartment in Kline Hall when he passed away.

He had transferred to McPherson College this semester from Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind.

The rescue squad of the fire department was called, as well as a doctor, and firemen used the resuscitator for 25 minutes without results.

Samuel Rudolph Harley was born on Nov. 22, 1938, at Harrisburg, Va., son of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel A. Harley. He was married to Barbara Montel on August 25, this year, at her home at Syracuse, Ind., and moved to McPherson College just before the start of the fall term.

He had not been ill prior to his sudden death.

Besides the widow, survivors included his parents, one brother, Gail T. Harley, Detroit; one sister, Dorothy Harley, of the home; and other relatives.

A brief memorial service was held Monday afternoon at the Danielson-Ball Funeral Home with Rev. Harry K. Zeller in charge.

The body has been sent to North Manchester, Ind., for funeral and burial services.

The McPherson Church of the Brethren will hold two Communion services during the day. The first Communion service will be held in Memory Chapel at 8:30 a.m.

This bread and cup communion

The pledge program was introduced to the students last Friday at assembly by Dr. D. W. Bittinger. This week all students have been contacted by student workers who were organized by Mr. Musgrove director of the campaign for new Sharp Hall.

Duane Fike, student council president, was the campus chairman for the Sharp Hall campaign. Under him were four class representatives, Marlo Oltman, senior, Gene Wenger, junior, Kenneth Holderread, sophomore, and Jim Smallwood, freshman.

The class representatives chose class captains, who in turn chose five workers to contact five students each.

Senior class captains were Don Holderread, Dorothy Blough, and Wilbur Smith. Junior class captains were Noel Grove, Norma Watkins, and Carl Harris.

Sophomore captains were Kenton Wrightsman, Valerie Miller, and Sherland Ng. Freshman captains were Gloria Applegate, Sara Harnly, Don Hollenbeck, and Wayne Zuck.

Prof. Guy Hayes has been the chairman of the campaign among the faculty members, and has contacted all of them.

The McPherson College Development Fund campaign was launched last March in McPherson. In May the churches were contacted and asked to pledge one dollar per family per month for the next five years.

On August 28 the city phase of the campaign was kicked off. Over one-half of the city goal has been reached now.

In a game which saw both teams with their ups and downs, the Bulldogs ripped the Bethel Graymorns 18-16 in the opening Kansas Conference game for both teams.

Maccollege's 18 points came as the result of three TD's scored by Widrig, Willits, and Keim.

A total of 220 yards were netted by the Bulldogs' offensive in rushing. Yards gained through the air were 64. The opponents were held to a net total of 122 yards in rushing, but were allowed 126 yards by passes.

The Bulldogs were penalized 45 yards while Bethel's penalties amounted to only 20 yards.

Penner of Bethel was responsible for his team's touchback scored in the opening moments of the game. Mueller and Penner scored the two TD's and Stucky accounted for the two completed conversions.

Pondering With The President . . . Am I Any Bigger?

By Dr. D. W. Bittinger

When I was a lad my parents marked on the frame of the door leading to the kitchen, the height of various members of the family. This reached all the way from dad's height down to the smallest child. We would all line up with our backs to the door frame, while our heights were carefully checked. We could then compare our own heights against where we had been six months ago. It was possible, also, to measure our growth in comparison with our brothers and sisters. If we were growing more rapidly than some, this gave us satisfaction. If we were being out distanced, or if we were not growing at all, we tried to figure out why and to do something differently, or do something differently, so that we could grow.

It is good if a student at McPherson College can measure himself against some kind of door frame to see whether he is growing. If he is not growing at all, he should be concerned about it. If he is not growing as rapidly as others, he, likewise, should be concerned about it.

Are you willing to measure yourself and see whether you are making progress?

If you are, then against what door frame shall you stand in order to measure yourself?

Here are a few suggestions.

1. Are you making better grades as you continue in school? You should be. You should be understanding more clearly what is expected of you. You should be learning how to study better. You should know how to allocate your time more carefully. You should be able to read faster. You should make better grades as you progress.

2. Are you having more friends?

Can you accept an idea which is different from the one previously held? Can you admit that you are wrong on some subjects without becoming angry about it, or having a sense of defeat? Can you place your ideas before the group and have them discussed impartially? Can you give and take as an adult, rather than as an adolescent or a child?

If you can do these things you already will have friends, and you will have still more in the future.

3. Are your ideas about what you should do as your life work clearer than they used to be? Do you know what is needed to be done in the world? Do you know whether your own abilities would help you to work at those tasks successfully? Do you know what brings you satisfaction as you work at it? Are you more committed to real service than you have ever been before? Are you clearer about how your life should be invested?

If you can answer, "Yes," to these questions, you are growing. If you are not certain about them, you may not be growing.

Are you growing at McPherson College?

The Mob Is For Faubus

By Norris and Carl
Fellow Americans, beware! These are the times that try men's souls. Your American heritage is in danger! Our nation lacks staunch leadership.

Ever since the death of the late Senator Joseph McCarthy, our sovereign nation has needed a new Moses to lead us out of the wilderness.

After years of searching, Norris and Carl have finally found the ideal American statesman. These chaotic times have revealed his sterling character, loyalty, courage, stamina, patriotism, individuality, and moral vigor.

This man is none other than the Honorable Governor Orval Faubus (popularly known as Fob) from Arkansas, champion of the people, defender of the truth, and guardian of the fundamental rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Let us demonstrate how the past few hectic weeks have shown the following inherent leadership qualities which he possesses:

Courage. What other man would have the courage to defy the supreme court, the president of the United States, and the U. S. Army. Even George Washington would have withered before such formidable foes.

Free Speech. Only Faubus

In Sympathy

The students and faculty of McPherson College sympathize with Mrs. Rudolph Harley in the loss of her husband. We all share the loss when one of our McPherson College Family is taken from us.

Some of the students and faculty members have contributed to a memorial fund for Rudolph. It has been collected by the Marry Macs, and will be sent to Mrs. Harley.

would have the audacity to speak out freely against decrees from the highest law of the land.

Action. When he saw the peace and quiet of the town of Little Rock, he knew something had to be done. Being a man of immediate action, he called in the national guard and the state police.

Poof, there went the peace and quiet. Things started happening. If Faubus were president, things would be happening all over the country.

Patriotism. He upholds the tried and proven standards of social organization, refusing to bend to the passing fancies of misdirected Yankees. (Not the baseball team.)

Protector of the common man. He has shown that he will lend a sympathetic ear to the masses when they assemble to make their desires known, and he even encourages them to assemble for this purpose. Yes, he will listen in the mobs, not to the aristocratic few who are in high places.

So you see, dear friends, Faubus is our only hope. Only he can preserve our beloved American Way of Life. Only he has the courage, patriotism, love of liberty, action leadership, and concern for the rights of the common white man.

When Faubus is president, hostile planes won't go flying all over our 6th fleet day after day with nothing happening to them. He will call out the campfire girls and cub scouts to chase them away.

One Worthless Western

By Faus and Foley
Return with us now to those thrilling days of the Old West, when men were men, women were scarce, and the only law west of the Mississippi was a U. S. Marshall and the smell of Gunpowder!

One of the unsung heroes of the Old West was Five-Firearm Fred-ruck. Freddy never made the big time because he couldn't ride a horse, and couldn't get a good spot on TV.

Freddy, forerunner of all the two-gun heroes, never rode a horse because with all those guns wrapped around him, he didn't have any place to straddle a saddle.

Like his creators, however, Freddy ran out of material. He was demoted to riding in posess, and never recovered from the blow. When last seen, he was headed for Kansas territory, looking for those two idiots responsible for him:
