Changes Made In Testing

At 7:45 a.m., Thursday, Feb. 12, all juniors and seniors who have not passed the English Proficiency Test are to meet in the chemistry lecture room in Harnly Hall.

The students are to bring their own dictionaries for use during the test. Those taking the test will be allowed two hours to finish the test. Any who have 8:40 classes will be excused from them.

As has been the practice, the test will be on prose composition from a selected list of topics. Prof. Harley Stump, chairman of the English Department, will be administering the test.

The changes in giving the test, longer time and use of the dictionary, were made to give a more realistic situation. The English Department hopes that with the use of the dictionary there will be better papers written.

The grading is done by members of the English Department without their knowing the identity of the student. The papers are ranked by at least two professors of the English Department by satisfactory, questionable, and unsatisfactory.

A student must receive two rankings of satisfactory to pass the test. If there is disagreement between two professors, a third one ranks it. The papers are graded for both form and content.

Since Dick is continuing in the position next year, there is no assistant manager this semester.

The Prayer Vigil

By Dr. D. W. Bittinger

"Peter was in prison but prayer was made for him." And Peter was miraculously delivered from prison. The key word in the situation above is "but." "But" prayer changed the whole future.

The church and college will join together in a 24 hour prayer vigil for the good of ourselves and of our world.

A chart is posted on which we can list ourselves for 15 or 30 minutes of prayer. To enter into this vigil will benefit the one praying and beyond that the good may be world wide.

Fifteen minutes with God may be the "but" that changes things for you. Let us pray.

Feel Overprotected?
Write The Editor

Have colleges become too paternal, too concerned over student welfare? Two Big Ten dailies raised the question this month.

University of Minnesota administrators are being criticized by citizens and students for their strict enforcement of the school's student housing policy.

In essence, this is that students who live away from home must live in university inspected and approved housing.

MINNESOTA DAILY editorializes: "It is necessary to insure adequate housing . . . to pacify parents. The students themselves clamor for adequate housing . . . We need adequate housing, and we agree the university could help provide information as to what is and what is not for our own best interests."

"But this is where the paternalism should stop."
"After students have received information, the decision should be left up to them. To revoke this type of decision making is a violation of individual rights, as well as an incentive for students to shirk responsibility."

The controversy arose when some students, many of them married and with families, had been ordered to move by the university from non-approved housing. Their dwelling did comply with city ordinances.

They took their problem to a lawyer-state legislator, who requested the regents ask the dean of students to "stop harassing married students."

Believing the policy to be "contrary to the civil and constitutional liberties" of the students, the lawyer considered asking the legislature to investigate legality of the practice. But university officials are now reconsidering the policy, and legislative action has not been requested.

University of Michigan DAILY editor Richard Taub tells of "paternalism" in academics. Some professors take attendance and give frequent quizzes to make sure everyone keeps up.

He cites the elaborate counseling system, the close supervision of class schedules, of fraternities, sororities and dorms.

Parents of freshmen girls get letters telling how their daughters are doing. Adjustment, personality and general behaviour of residents is recorded.

"We submit that all of this should not be; that students come here because they wish a college education (or perhaps a spouse), and that they should be responsible for getting it.

"That the only way students are going to grow or mature is to learn how to go it alone; that if students flunk out because they fail to attend classes or read assignments it is their own fault; that if an

Written Agreement Provides Direct Exchange

McPherson College's exchange student for next year will participate in a direct institution exchange program between McPherson College and Goettingen, Germany.

This exchange program came into effect when Dr. D. W. Bittinger and the Goettingen school made a written agreement in Germany this summer.

The German government will pay for the American student's tuition, room, and board while Macollege will support the German exchange student who will come to McPherson from Goettingen.

The only expense the exchange student will have is his transportation to and from Goettingen. But he may save enough from the government grant to travel while in Europe.

While abroad, Mac's exchange will live in the school's dormitory. He may go to Germany anytime in the summer. It is hoped that he will do some Breth-

CConnell's Corner

The forthcoming week is an important one for Christians throughout the world. The Lententide begins on Feb. 11, Ash Wednesday.

Ash Wednesday was named from the ceremonial use of ashes in the service for the day. The ceremony is of great antiquity, being confined at first to those performing a public penance. It was later extended to the entire congregation.

During these days prior to Easter, it is the practice of Christians to sacrifice something in remembrance of a poor man who gave his life by being nailed to a tree in order that we may be saved.

What the Lord denied to Abraham Lincoln in good looks, He made up for by providing him with a remarkable sense of humor. In good times and dark, Lincoln's abundant comic spirit was ever at hand.

Stories told by Lincoln now fill many books. They are almost as numerous as the stories about him. The following anecdote is related by Captain Gilbert J. Greene.

"One night Lincoln said to me, then a boy of 19: 'Gilbert, you have to stand at your printer's case all day, and I have to sit all day. Let us take a walk.'

"As we walked on the country road out of Springfield, he turned his eyes to the heavens full of stars, and told me their names and their distance from us and the swiftness of their motion.

"I never behold them,' he said, 'that I do not feel that I am looking in the face of God. I can see how it might be possible for a man to look down upon the earth and be an atheist, but I cannot conceive how he could look up into the heavens and say there is no God.'"

In 1846 Lincoln ran for Congress against Peter Cartwright, a famous Methodist evangelist. There is a story that during the campaign Lincoln walked into a religious meeting conducted by Cartwright, who, after a hell-raising sermon, called out,

"All who desire to lead a new life, to give their hearts to God and to go to heaven will stand." A few in the congregation got to their feet.

Now Cartwright thundered, "All who do not wish to go to hell will stand." The rest of the men and women rose—all but Lincoln. At this Cartwright became wrathful.

"May I inquire of you, Mr. Lincoln, where you are going?" Cooly, Lincoln answered, "If it is all the same to you—I am going to Congress."

Lincoln did go to Congress winning the election by a decisive majority.

ren volunteer work before his school starts in October if possible.

The American student will become a member of the German exchange's family while abroad.

It is expected that the German student will become a part of the Macollege exchange's family.

Mac's Ed Delk Featured In Local Paper's Article

Ed Delk, outstanding McPherson College cager, was recognized by L. E. Lindell in the McPherson Daily Republican "Nerts" column.

He gave these statistics about Delk; top conference scorer with a 23.7 per game average; fourth in nation in the NCIA in field goal shooting percentage; scored 20 or more points in 15 of 20 games; and fouled out of only one game this season.

Delk scored 14 points in his poorest game — against Baker. He has played three games without committing a foul.

Ed averages six free throws per game besides his 8.8 field goal average. On Feb. 1, Delk had scored 90 points in his last three games. In 20 games this season, he has surpassed his point output for last year by 99 points. He played 24 games last season.

Lindell says in his column that Delk's wife helps keep Ed in shape and keeps statistics at all the games to help him. He concluded his column by saying that Delk was one of the finest athletes that has attended McPherson College, and his graduation will be felt.

Earn And Serve Planned For Summer Workers

Six projects have been set up by the Western Regional Youth Office for Earn and Serve for this summer. These are in churches in three different states of the region — Iowa, Kansas, and North Dakota.

Two of the six are in Iowa, located at Council Bluffs and Cedar Rapids. In Kansas, there are three sites — Topeka, Kansas City, and Newton. Minot and Surrey, North Dak., have a joint program worked out which makes up the sixth of the projects.

Both boys and girls are eligible to participate. Some of the duties that are available in the "Serve" portion of the program are helping in Bible school, assisting in the music program of the church, teaching in Church School Classes, visitation and surveys of communities, providing recreation leadership to all age groups in the church, and general programing assistance.

All of the participants have an opportunity to work in some type of job during the summer to earn some money. This is the "Earn" part of the program.

Work can be found in many areas, such as recreational plans, construction work, and factory work for the fellows and for the girls clerking in the stores, recreational work, and working in an old folks home.

All interested people may see Kenneth Holderread, director of the CBYF Regional youth, or Richard Landrum, chairman of the Outreach Commission of the Regional CBYF youth cabinet. Ken's office is in the basement of Sharp Hall and Richard lives in Arnold Hall.

Others on the Outreach Commission are: LaVena Murrey, Conway; Bonnie Lewis, Orlando, Fla.; Vena Catherine Wray, McPherson; and Melvin Roberts, Quinter.

Brethren Make News In Europe

The following excerpts concerning former Macollege students have been taken from the latest issue of News Briefs from EUROPE.

McPherson College exchange, Lois Fager, Clovis, N. Mex., came to Kassel Brethren House on Friday, Dec. 19, and traveled on to Herford on Sunday. After spending the Christmas holidays with her German family she will continue her studies at the Teacher's College in Goettingen.

Brethren Service Commission student exchange representative, Ruth Davidson, McCune, Kas., accompanied Herr Zitzmann, chairman of the German ICYE Committee, and his two secretaries to a meeting of all evangelical returnees of Kurbessen-Waldeck.

Problems and suggestions for the on-going of the student exchange program were discussed.

Vera Mohler, '58, McCune, left for Fredland on Dec. 16 to help, temporarily, at the children's home, Arbeiterwohlfahrt, Refugee Camp Friedland near Goettingen.

At the beginning of January 1959, Vera will be assigned to the church sponsored kindergarten at Uschlage, east of Kassel, where in 1957 BSC had a work camp in cooperation with Pastor Liebermann.

A German locksmith named Henlein is credited by some historians with inventing in the 16th Century the first clock which used a coiled spring as motive power.
