

Lois Fager Plans Two-Month Semester Break

"I'm afraid I'll have more time than energy or money to travel all I would like," writes Lois Fager from Germany in telling about her vacation plans for between semesters.

Rather than the few days of vacation between semester that Lois had as a student at Macollege, she now has two months from Feb. 28 to May 5. She is planning to spend some of this time in Greece.

Lois is representing Macollege in Europe as an exchange student in Germany. Before going abroad, she attended Macollege for two years.

She was on the committee to choose the German student who will come to Macollege next year. She commented, "I am sorry that they cannot all go."

Lois is doing some student teaching in English. "I shall use the direct method if possible," she said. "The children will probably be able to understand that as well, or better, than my German."

She expressed appreciation of a tape recording from the students at Macollege.

Her address until the end of February is Lois Fager, Fridtjof-Nansen-Haus, Göttingen, Merkelstrasse 4, Germany.

Lois tells of her college class going on a ski trip. "I thought we would have great fun skiing whenever we wanted. However, I learned that the trip was a course.

"We all were sore after skiing six hours a day for four days. (Perhaps the skiing did not make us as sore as the falling down and struggling to get up.)"

She mentioned that she spent New Year's Eve in the home of Gerth River who was a student at Macollege last year.

MMF Presents Program To Bethel

Thursday evening the Missionary and Ministerial Fellowship presented a short program to the Bethel College M.M.F. at Bethel. The program was an exchange program in return for a program which the Bethel Fellowship presented in Mac last year.

Bob Dell gave a summary of the work done by the Mac Fellowship this year. Gary Stelling led the group in devotions and a duet was sung by Dick Landrum and Emilie Rowland.

The Bethel group was in charge of entertainment and fellowship following the program presented by the Mac Fellowship.

'56 Grad Is In Greece

BVS'er, Arlene Merkey, '56, Portis, is now a member of the Greek Team in Ioannina, Greece. Arlene's work consists mainly of giving demonstrations to the women of the villages on sewing and improved methods of cooking. She has plans for beginning a girls' club in her village to help them with these projects.

"The Greek people are quite curious to see my house, and how everything works," says Arlene. "It is not really fixed up at all according to the standards at home, but to them it is really beautiful. Vegetable grater, egg beater, pots and pans—these are all new to them."

Arlene was a member of the 1956 June unit and worked first with refugee resettlement in Austria. Then she worked for one year as secretary to M. R. Ziegler in Geneva.

Royce Roesch, another former Macollege student, Quinter, is also doing BVS work in Ioannina. He is working with the American School on improved agricultural methods.

McPherson College has been the recipient of a series of grants made available under the terms of "grants to independent colleges," by large firms and companies.

More than 600 colleges and universities receive grants of this type.

The Dictionary of National Biography is a 22 volume set with fifty supplements. The set is printed by the Oxford University Press and contains biographies of noteworthy British people.

76 Awarded Grants
ACRL's Committee on Foundation Grants awarded subgrants to 76 college libraries at a recent meeting in Atlanta.

Applications in the ACRL grants program were received from nearly 300 institutions. Needs expressed in the applications were obviously far greater than could be met by the funds available to the committee.

In money the requests totalled more than $160,000. As indicators of the outside help sorely needed by college and university libraries they are even more impressive.

4th Year
This is the fourth year of ACRL's grants program. In its course so far the committee has distributed more than $165,000 to over 300 college libraries.

Of those awarded grants this year 33 libraries participated in the program for the first time, 34 for the second, and nine for the third.

Other colleges in this region who received grants were Bethel College with a grant of $300 for communications and business periodicals and College of Emporia with a grant of $200 for science materials.

Bittinger Speaks In Lyons

Pres. D. W. Bittinger is speaking today in Lyons in observance of the World Day of Prayer.

Pondering With The President

New Styles In Beards And Thoughts

By Dr. D. W. Bittinger

Some one has said that our modern education, particularly at the pre-college level, aims at producing conformists. Education, they say is like a machine; it makes men to a single pattern.

Conformity can stifle initiative. Education ought to encourage initiative and growth.

At McPherson we now see some "non-conformists" with beards of varying styles and thickness. We also see, and have seen, some "non-conformity" in the manner of feminine dress.

The real test of non-conformity, however, is in thinking. Can you think a thought which is bigger than that which has ever been thought before? Can you comprehend a truth more completely than it has ever been comprehended? Can you shape a life, your own, more beautifully than most lives are lived?

These also are ways of non-conformity.

Some Superstitions Have Historical Beginnings

Ever wish on a falling star? Or bulldoze bad luck with a knock on wood? Ever change course when a black cat crosses your path?

If you do, you're not the only one. Though no one admits it, practically everyone has at least one pet superstition.

Today, Friday the 13th, is probably one that everyone is especially careful about his action. The Bible is full of Friday calamities — the fall of Adam and Eve, the flood, the confusion at Babel, the death of Christ.

And when you add to fateful Friday the fearful number 13 (there were 13 at the Last Supper of Jesus), the result is a combination that awes many a superstitious citizen.

No less a personage than Winston Churchill refuses to travel on Friday the 13th.

Knocking On Wood

Knocking on wood comes from the Druids of ancient England who believed trees were inhabited by gods. When asking a favor, Druid priests would touch the bark of a tree. If the tree-god was in a good mood he'd return the Druid's knock.

If some wooden things are lucky, why are wooden ladders so fearful? This superstition stems from early mystics who saw the triangle as a symbol of the Trinity, and hence, of eternity.

Anyone who barges through the triangle under a ladder is therefore tempting the fates — who may retaliate by pushing the paint bucket over.

But the blunderer can save himself in one of three magic ways:

- 1) By making a wish.
- 2) By crossing his fingers.
- 3) By making the sign of the fig.

Rabbit's Foot

Where did the carrying of rabbit's feet originate? This comes from our cave man ancestors who were awed by the way a rabbit thumped his hind foot, as if signalling other cottontails, while romping around in the moonlight.

Almost all of us have the habit of covering our mouth when we yawn. Surely not a superstition, we say, but just good manners.

THE SEARCHING LIGHT

And yet it all began when our forebears were afraid that yawning would let an evil spirit enter their bodies. They were afraid, very literally, of "losing their breath".

Lucky Charms

An estimated 20 million of us tote lucky charms of one sort or another. President Eisenhower carries a five-guinea gold piece.

Harry Truman can't be separated from a miniature piano. Countless numbers of us wear "lucky" clothes at crucial times.

So instead of burying that rabbit's foot in your pocket, take it out and show it to your friends. They might turn out to be fellow fetishists! But be careful.

A gust of ill-wind might blow your lucky charm under a ladder or across a black cat's path. All the four-leaf clovers in Ireland couldn't help you then!

Religion is worth loyalty.

Two hundred and eight years ago today the first American magazine was published.

The history began with the rivalry in the Philadelphia field of Benjamin Franklin and Andrew Bradford.

Franklin planned the first magazine in the New World, but Bradford learned of his intention and issued the first number of his American Magazine on Feb. 13, 1741, three days before Franklin's General Magazine.

Both of the publications were dated for January and both were monthly miscellanies. Bradford's lasted only three months and Franklin's six.

Tomorrow, St. Valentine's Day, has been dedicated since the fourteenth century to lovers. The day is traditionally observed by the sending of messages and gifts, usually employing the motif of a red heart, between men and women.

One tradition derives the customs of the day from the old Roman February feast called the Lupercalia, at which time young men and maidens drew partners by lot for the coming February feast.

Later, this ancient festival custom was associated with the name of a Christian bishop, Valentine, who was martyred Feb. 14, 271.

Other tradition attributes the observances of the day to the fact that it falls within the mating season for birds and is, therefore, an appropriate season for young people to choose their "Valentines," or lovers.

Boy Scouts of America celebrated their 49th birthday Sunday, Feb. 8. The organization, nonmilitary and undenominational, was incorporated in 1910.

"Be Prepared" is the motto of the boy scouts. The organization is chiefly composed of boys from 11 to 18 years of age, which has for its object the mental, moral, and physical training of its members so that they may become good citizens and live up to their motto.

The boy scout movement originated in England by Sir Robert Baden-Powell. The further authorization of scouts in the United States was done by an act of Congress in June 1916.

The model is a replica of the original Globe Playhouse built under Shakespeare's guidance in 1599 near the Thames River close to London. Destroyed by fire in 1613, the theater was rebuilt in 1614 and a roof was added.

Shakespearean Project Still Used By Professor

The model of the Shakespearean Theater, being used by Peter Coulson, assistant professor of literature and drama, was made in 1952 by a former Maccollege student, Irwin Porter.

It was made in the Industrial Arts Building as a special project in Shakespeare for a better understanding of how plays were presented during the time of Shakespeare.

Irwin made his own plans and reproduced the replica from materials as nearly like the original material as possible.

The theater, located in Room 30 of Sharp Hall, has a round, open-air stage. It is complete with stage curtains, trapdoor, and flag to denote the nights when a play was to be given.

The seating is arranged much as a football stadium. There are three floors. The higher floors were for the richer people, and the lower floors were for the poorer people.

Irwin was under the direction of Prof. Roy McAuley, who was in charge of the English Department in the absence of Miss Della Lehman. Miss Lehman, the regular teacher, was on tour in Europe.

Irwin Porter and the former Betty Ann Murrey, sister of La-Vena Murrey, who is a sophomore here at Maccollege, are now living on a farm near Quinter. They have three children.

Doctors' Pickings Left Bones In Closet

English law prohibited surgeons from practicing dissection. There was only one loophole in the law; a doctor might cut up the body of an executed criminal.

The rise of modern medicine created a great demand for bodies. Professional grave robbers sold them to physicians at high prices.

Many an early doctor dissected only one body in his life. Naturally, he would prize the skeleton highly and be reluctant to dispose of it. But public opinion made it dangerous for him to keep it where it might be found.

So the prudent anatomist usually hung his prize in some dark corner where visitors were not likely to see it.

This practice was so common that people began to take it for granted that a doctor had a skeleton in the closet. From this literal sense, the phrase eventually came to indicate any hidden evidence.

He Started Something

He struck a chord,
And music wafted through the air
On other waves
To lands he knew not where—
He started something.
He cast a stone,
And wavelets on a silent sea
Caressed the shores
Of lands where he would never be—
He started something.
He hid a seed,
And blossoms in the winds

that blow
Have set aflame
The countryside with radiant glow—
He started something.

He dropped a thought,
And in young manhood's pregnant mind
A castle reared,
Through all the future years
enshrined—
He started something.

He lived a life,
