Pondering With The President . . .

Now That You Are Educated

By Dr. D. W. Bittinger

Within a few more days some of you will leave the college with diplomas and degrees. Others of you will leave to return at the end of the summer; some of you may be concluding your higher education venture now.

Regardless of which category is yours, you will henceforth be numbered among those who have received some higher education.

With this significant opportunity and achievement comes responsibility. There are many in our own country and vast multitudes around the world who will never have the privilege of higher education.

If our world is to move in the right direction, and if our nation is to live into the future, a lot of the responsibility rests with the educated. That includes you.

If the educated are to lead, the following things are implied:

1. It is more important what we are than what we say. We must lead by being, and doing, rather than by exhortation and advice only. The teacher teaches more by what he is than by what he says.

2. We must think. Though there have been great thinkers of the past and though many of their thoughts have been written down, the circumstances of life change so rapidly that even our own thoughts of yesterday no longer apply adequately to today. Our brains must be kept awake, our vision must be forward, we must think.

But being upright and exemplary and thinking clearly does still not offer sufficient leadership.

3. We must venture. We must stick our necks out. We must be willing to be wrong from time to time in order to achieve successfully during the times when we are right. Being beaten down once should not keep us from rising again. We must courageously and persistently venture.

In this manner we who have now achieved some education can help lead into and build a better future.

Geisert Turns Lumberjack; Damages Flory Property

By Faus, Foley, and Harris

A rift recently developed in the relationship between two members of the McPherson College Faculty.

The hostilities involve an incident in which damage was done to the property of Dr. Raymond L. Flory, head of the History department, by Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, Dean of the college and instructor of Elementary Economics.

The damages occurred when Dr. Geisert was clearing trees from the lot just south of the Flory estate at 421 N. Carrie.

Dr. Geisert, being a prudent woodsman, had taken the precaution to top the trees before he felled them. The action of topping trees involves cutting enough of the tops out of them beforehand so that the trunk is shortened and therefore will not hit any nearby objects when it falls.

These precautions having been taken, the Dean chopped the tree down. Unfortunately, his calculations were in error, his simple arithmetic failed him in the moment of need, and the tree fell shattering three of the four sections of the wooden Flory fence.

The Dean immediately apologized to Dr. Flory, saying he would make good the damages. And Dr. Flory was satisfied with this.

The Dean, however, had one more tree which he wanted to cut down. This time he was especially careful in his measurements and topping. Having double checked everything, he felled the final tree.

When it fell, there was a horrid splintering sound, a thunderous roar, and the fourth section of the Flory fence was no more.

Reporters state that Dr. Flory's comment was, "Well, it took you two shots, but you got the whole fence. I'm going to demand a new fence and $100 out of this."

Dr. Geisert was not available for comment.

Ragland, Huffman Set New Records For Mac

Tom Ragland, McPherson College senior from Lawrence, won the broad jump at the 1959 Doane Relays with a leap covering 22' 11 1/2".

Ragland's jump, in addition to winning the event, carried him over the previous Maccollege record. Tom out jumped the previous record of 22' 9 1/2" set by Dale Carpenter in 1952 by 2 1/4". Tom also ran on the record-breaking mile relay team.

Galen Huffman, a Mac freshman from St. Joseph, Mo., vaulted to another McPherson College track record at the same meet.

Huffman cleared the bar at 13' 2 1/2" to win the event and to break his own school record of 13' 1" set previously this season. This vault also broke the Doane Relay's pole vault record held by Coppock of Ottawa University, 13' 13 1/4".

The Bulldog's mile relay team sped to a new Maccollege record in the mile relay.

Tom Ragland, Dick Keefer, freshman from McPherson; Bryce Heinz, junior from Dighton; and Don Elliott, freshman from Greeley, Colo., teamed up to run the distance in 3:28.4, erasing the old record, 3:29, set in 1956 by the team of Ragland, Galen Stucky, Don Widrig, and Richard Heidebrecht.

Three hours of college credit are offered for the course.

Macollege Girl Seeks Help For Overcoming Temptation

By Watson
The other day, I found in my mail box a note from a girl on campus who wrote:

"I have tried several times to become a better Christian, but every time I try, I'm confronted with a new temptation. If God wants people to become Christian, why does He let them be tempted when they try to do the right thing?"

Overcome Temptations
My answer is that we can only become better Christians by overcoming temptations. Every time we face a temptation, and still do the right and moral thing, our faith is just that much stronger.

Although we realize that it is our Christian duty to do things as we think Christ would have done them, this becomes very difficult when we are confronted with repeated temptations.

Temptations could also be called "testings," for it is through our temptations that our faith is tested.

I think that we should be glad we have temptations. They give us a chance to show just how strong our faith is. The actions of Christians are watched very closely, and many times the way that they act in the face of a great temptation has an enormous effect on others.

Varied Temptations
Such things as wars, floods, and tornadoes are also temptations, for many times it is through these we have an opportunity to show our faith, and of little faith can add on to our faith.

All I can say to the girl who wrote to me is every time you are tempted, just say to yourself, "Here is a chance to show that I have faith that God will see me through."

I'm sure that if you do this, you will soon find that for every temptation you overcome, you will be able to overcome the next one just that much easier.
