

Freshman Initiation Begins Rules Stated By Committee

Here is what all freshmen have looked forward to in their college life, freshman initiation. Walking around campus, downtown, at football games, and wherever freshmen go, the little red beanie will be seen bobbing up and down, back and forth, behind trees and houses and corners of buildings.

Here are the regulations set up by the freshman Initiation Committee of the Student Court.

Freshmen will be required to wear their beanies in compliance with the following regulations:

I. Beanies must be worn from Friday, Sept. 19 until Thursday, Oct. 2.

II. On the day of Oct. 2, a tug-of-war will be held between the freshmen and sophomores.

A. The teams will comprise of 15 members from each respective class.

B. The event will be held at the park lagoon at 12:30 p.m.

C. If the sophomores win, it will be mandatory for the freshmen to wear their hats an extra week, which will extend the initiation period to Friday, Oct. 10.

III. Beanies will be worn in light of the following considerations:

A. Hats must be worn on freshmen heads, not carried, anywhere that it is appropriate to wear them according to these regulations.

B. The hats shall be worn at all times except:

1. When professors will not allow it in class.
2. On Sunday.
3. On very formal occasions.
4. When in bed.

C. Sophomores shall be eligible to report all freshmen not wearing their hats to the Initiation Committee.

D. The Initiation Committee will be in charge of further initiation and penalties.

The Initiation Committee, a branch of the Student Court, is composed of Lynda Igel, Dick Bittinger, Jim Freed, and Dick Landrum.

The exterior of the new walk through dairy parlor of the College farm is pictured. The Macollege Dairy is classed as a grade A dairy.

New Milking Parlor Installed At McPherson College Farm

"Efficiency and sanitation are the two important features incorporated in the new milking parlor at the McPherson College farm," says John Ward, head of the Rural Life Department.

Feed storage is located over the two-aisle, six-stall, walk-through barn and can be measured in desired quantities for each cow.

The measured feed is deposited in hinged, free-swinging self-feeders that are attached to the stalls.

The milking machine operator stands in a shallow pit with three stalls on each side enabling him to stand up for the entire operation.

The operator milks three cows at a time and prepares three more while the milkers are working.

Milk is taken from the cows and transported to the 500 gallon self-contained bulk tank in a transparent glass pipe without being touched or handled.

Sanitation is apparent since the milk bacteria count registers below 3,000, the lowest point of registry by the milk tester.

At the west end of the milking parlor is the office where records of the animals, milk production, and breeding data are kept.

This latest farm improvement meets all the state requirements and will serve the college and the community as a model milking center.

Construction on the new building began last February and terminated in June. John Ward and Lyle Neher, the dairy farm manager, drew the plans for the building.

The college farm is located three miles west of the college on First Street.

Milk cows on the farm are registered with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association and have consistently taken top place for butterfat content in McPherson County since becoming a member last February.

The herd has led in six out of the last seven months competing with 40 herds.

gram planned for the all-school picnic.

Trustees To Meet Tomorrow Start Of New Sharp Is Issue

Tomorrow the Board of Trustees will convene on McPherson College campus to discuss the plans for new Sharp Hall and the Development Fund progress.

BVF May Form On Macampus

Brethren Volunteer Fellowship may soon be a new Macollege campus organization according to Kenneth Holderread, Western Region Youth Director.

The tentative BVF organization is being considered as a means to aid former Brethren Volunteer Service workers on a spiritual basis.

Holderread said, "three significant reasons for organizing former BVSers would be to promote BVS, to provide fellowship, and to help the former service workers to remember the things they had wanted to do while they were in BVS."

Coulson Reveals Title Of Comedy To Be Given

"See How They Run", by Philip King is the title of the first play to be given at Macollege this year," announced Mr. Peter Coulson, assistant professor of English and Drama.

The play is a fast-paced, light-hearted farce comedy in a modern setting. The date for the play has not been announced.

The evening's program will begin at 6:45.

The MCA will also introduce its organization to the students. All are invited to attend.

Article By Miss Coppock Appears In Publication

Miss Doris Coppock, Director of Physical Education for Women, has had an article published in the current May issue of the Research Quarterly.

In the article, Miss Coppock reports on round shoulders in women, its causes, and other tabulations.

In the special session the trustees will have the final plans and specifications from the architects to consider and to make any changes in the floor plans or furnishings they feel necessary.

Another point the trustees will consider is that of finance. By August 20 the Development Campaign had a total of $594,698 in pledges of the goal of $725,000.

The Board of Trustees consists of 23 members, 15 of whom represent each of the college districts. The remaining eight are from McPherson and the region at large.

Members of the Board of Trustees are Harold Beahm, McPherson; Milford Beeghly, Pierson, Iowa; Louis Bowman, Quinter, Kas.; Jacob Davidson, McCune, Kas.; Ray Emmert, Des Moines, Iowa; Mark Emswiler, Froid, Mont.; Homer Ferguson, McPherson, Kas.; George Grove, South English, Iowa; Glenn Harris, Jennings, La.; Leslie Holderread, Cushing, Okla.; Ray Blickenstaff, Nampa, Ida.

Dr. D. W. Bittinger and R. Gordon Yoder are ex officio members of the Board.

Head Residents Begin New Year In Dorms

Head residents for all campus living quarters have been greeting students back to college this past week.

Prof. and Mrs. George Arnold are head residents of Fahnestock Hall for the second year. Also for the second year Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ruhser are head residents of Arnold Hall.

Miss Edna Neher has returned as housemother for the girls' dorm Dotzour Hall. Clara Zunkel Macollege student will be counselor to the girls living in Kline Hall this year.

Wardrobe Trunk In Use By Second Generation

One generation later Esther Bollinger, freshman from Sebring, Fla., is attending Macollege, using the same large wardrobe trunk which her mother used at Elizabethtown College.

Esther's mother, Mrs. Elsie Lininger Bollinger, and Mrs. D. W. Bittinger, were roommates at Elizabethtown College when they were freshmen.

Dr. Mohler Gives Advice; Relates Past Experiences

"What would you do differently if you had your life to live over?" This bit of advice for college students was asked of Dr. Robert Mohler, former member of the Macollege faculty.

"I'd take a lot of English and do more writing during my life time." Another bit of advice is "After you have definitely decided on a career don't hurry into that profession but get a good education first."

Teaching Profession

Dr. Mohler chose teaching as a profession because he likes people, especially young people. "And," he states, "there is something creative in teaching."

"I think he has taught everything except home economics and music," his wife commented.

One of Dr. Mohler's greatest joys in teaching is to see his pupils make good in the world. Some of his former students are leading physicians in Kansas.

Dr. Mohler came to Mac as a professor in the agriculture department in 1913. He also coached athletics for 18 years at Mac. He coached 400 basketball games in 10 years.

Dr. Mohler was Academic Dean at Mac six years and secretary of the State Dean's Association four years. He was active in Kansas Academy of Science and in 1953-54 was president of this organization which consists of many Kansas University and Kansas State professors.

He has been active in Rotary 36 years and was president of the local club as well as the district governor at one time.

Prince of Peace Church Pastor

In spite of his many honors Dr. Mohler states that one of his biggest thrills was being interim pastor at the Prince of Peace Church in Denver for one year.

Dr. Mohler took over the pastorate when one of his biology majors, Kurtis Naylor, who was at that time pastor of the church, was offered an outstanding one year scholarship to Union Theological Seminary.

A total of 66 new members joined the church while Dr. Mohler was pastor. On Easter morning 33 new members joined the church.

Youth and Childhood

Dr. Mohler was raised in Nebraska, attended his freshman year at McPherson College, and graduated from Mt. Morris, now a part of Manchester College, Ind.

He recalls some of his many interesting childhood experiences such as hunting and fishing with his father and catching skunks for spending money.

One of Dr. Mohler's hobbies is keeping a record of his speeches and where they were given. He has delivered over 225 lectures, commencement or baccalaureate addresses in many different states and towns.

After 39 years of teaching at McPherson College Dr. Mohler retired in 1952. At present he resides with his wife and children in McPherson.

Dr. Robert Mohler

Prof. Joseph Bowman received a Certificate of Merit at the Brethren Annual Conference in Des Moines in recognition of his teaching career at Macollege.

Greek Appeals To Students

(Editorial note: Anna Vassiloff is a Macollege international student from Salonica, Greece. She is a second semester senior majoring in Psychology and Education.)

By Anna Vassiloff

I was looking at the breaking of day one morning! It was so peaceful and my happiness was growing because of the calmness. But my mind turned back to the old days when the war was destroying everything, and became sad only remembering the war and the endless fighting in my country.

You that belong here in peace, you that wake up in the morning with a happy feeling, to you I make this cry! Appreciate the beauty of the campus, community and country where you live and don't take for granted all the beautiful blessings that God offers you everyday.

While we complain about the food, just stop and think — thousands of naked children in other countries run around the streets of a neighborhood searching for a piece of bread. That's what the war had done a long time ago!

Macollege Students, Alumni Build The World Of Today

Will I wake up tomorrow? Have you ever had this thought in the back of your mind as you went to bed at night?

But this thought was not so remote to some of the international students we have on Macampus who have had parents, friends, and loved ones killed or nearly killed in the war, and in some cases came within a hairs breadth of being killed themselves.

Why talk about the past? Because it is our duty as students of a Christian college to mend the war-torn world and to build a better world today.

Coach Sid Smith, trainers Earl Guiot and Don Widrig, and assistant coach George Keim have been busy shaping up the 1958 Bulldog football team for their first home game tonight.

Bulldogs To Face St. Mary's In Home Opener Tonight

Coach Sid Smith's Bulldogs will encounter St. Mary's of the Plains in Mac's first home game of the season, Friday evening at 7:30 on the college field.

St. Mary's was decisively defeated by a powerful Silver, N. Mex., team in its first game. However, the visitors can be expected to present a formidable attack including a pair of 235 pound tackles in a line which will average 210 pounds per man. This is the first season in which St. Mary's has fielded a grid machine and so the team is expected to compensate for its inexperience with enthusiasm and hustle.

Coach Smith anticipates a strong pass game on the part of the visitors because of two rangy, glue-fingered ends and a pair of talented quarterbacks who also engineer a powerful ground attack.

Bulldogs Trounce Sterling In Season Opener 33-7

The McPherson Bulldogs opened their 1958 football season last Saturday night by soundly trouncing the Sterling Warriors to the tune of 33-7.

Marvin Keck, Tom Ragland, and Tom Richards each scored touchdowns from five yards out on ground plays. Ragland also scored on a 50 yard run in the final quarter.

Ken Stucky accounted for the final TD on a pass interception from 26 yards out. Gordon Lewis made good three of his five attempted conversions.

The Warriors entered into the scoring picture in the third quarter, using an aerial attack. Junior Nachigal received a 27 yard pass to score six points. Wilkey kicked the conversion, bringing the total of Sterling's score to seven.

Coach Sid Smith was able to vary his lineup considerably with the free substitution rule in effect. Many freshmen got a chance to enter into the action. Several of them showed promising possibilities, lacking mainly experience.

The backing behind both teams was strong and a large number of McPherson College students made the trip to Sterling.

The Bulldogs scored touchdowns in each of the first three quarters and twice in the remaining one. The Bulldogs rushed the Warriors hard throughout the contest gaining 350 yards by rushing.

Chaff Returns . . .

Do Not Read This

By Faus, Foley, and Harris
Dear Freshman girls,

You may think that you have successfully struggled through your first two hectic weeks of college, but beware — you still have before you the staggering task of reading this column; which is brought to you every week as a public service of CHAFF incorporated.

Now you may not have had the opportunity of reading this CHAFF column before, so let us introduce CHAFF to you.

Eight moons and ten days ago our newspaper brought forth upon this campus a new corporation, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all students are created confused; that they are endowed by the college trustees with certain inalienable rights, and that among these are life, liberty, and the happiness of pursuit.

The name of this corporation is CHAFF, which means Corporation of Harris And Faus & Foley.

Let us be misled by certain subversive forces on campus about CHAFF's purpose, we again publish our statement of purpose, our declaration of intent, our grand and glorious CHAFF oath:

"We, the CHAFF of McPherson College do hereby on our stack of Mad magazines and discarded history books solemnly and eloquently swear."

So this, freshmen girls, is CHAFF, a public service column written by three typically maladjusted upperclassmen.

In its short life, CHAFF has produced many amazing accomplishments, most of which are recorded in the Student Court minutes of the college. Here are a few of our more important accomplishments:

1. Ruined 6 typewriters.
2. Ruined 3 reputations (ours).
3. Wrote 10 columns that were more boring than Flory's history classes.
4. Wasted 678½ inches of printed material.
5. Stole copy from 26 leading newspapers and the Kinzie report.
6. Established a marriage counseling service that has already resulted in 5 divorces and has caused a shocking reduction in the engagement rate.

7. Slept through 398 classes.
8. Flunked 22 courses.
9. Became the first three men in history to record all negative scores on the freshmen entrance exams.
10. Got blamed for 298 pranks we had nothing to do with.
11. Pulled 376 pranks and never got caught.
12. Spent three nights in jail.
13. Got acquainted when we picked up each other's shoes at the freshman shoe scramble last year, which was quite a coincidence since we had all come to the party barefooted.

And so, girls, you can now see that these amazing accomplishments of the past have been of no benefit whatsoever to you.

But this year we are planning to broaden our efforts into more areas of doing nothing worthwhile, hoping that this may be of some small benefit to you.

And now, until next week, remember, McPherson College will little note nor long remember what CHAFF did here, but it can never live down what it printed here.

Home Ec Club Has Symbol Of American Homemaker

Girls of the McPherson College Home Economics Club are proud to be keepers of the Betty Lamp, official emblem of the American Home Economics Association.

Adopted in 1926, the Betty Lamp was chosen by the AHEA to symbolize the idea for which AHEA stands; the application of learning in the sciences and the arts to improve the well being of the individual and of families, the improvement of homes and the preservation of values significant in home life.

Betty lamps are open wick iron lamps which the first New England pioneers brought with them to this country. They were in 1620 called Plymouth lamps.

It was in America that this oil lamp became known as the Betty lamp. It is thought that the name "Betty" comes from the corruption of the German word "besser," which means better. At that time some of the lamps users placed a cover over the oil pan to make it produce light more efficiently.

Many of the Betty lamps used by pioneer housewives had attached to their handles a short linked chain with iron spindle. Purpose of the spindle was to provide a means for hanging the lamp from the top of a chair to give light for reading or sewing and a means for fastening the lamp in a position at the fireplace to give light for cooking.

The first Home Economics Club on Macampus was organized in 1953 when 21 girls pledged themselves to the task of improving the American home.

The signature of charter members is framed and hanging in the office of Miss Mildred Siek, Home Ec Club sponsor.

Not only so the light of the Betty lamp — the symbol of American Home Economics Association — will ever shine more brightly in their own homes, but Macollege home economics girls have dedicated their lives to kindle other lamps to shine as well, so that all homes in the world may radiate health, beauty, happiness, and peace.
