Macollege Will Participate In TV College Credit Series

"Physics for the Atomic Age" will be the theme for a new nationally televised college credit course in which McPherson College will participate.

New in the history of McPherson College and the history of education is the nation-wide TV classroom course which is jointly sponsored by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, the National Broadcasting Company, local television stations, and the educational institutions participating in the program.

George Arnold, assistant professor of mathematics and physics, will coordinate the course for those who enroll through McPherson College.

Prof. Harvey E. White, vice chairman, Department of Physics, University of California, will be the instructor who appears on the telecast.

The course will be televised five days each week, excepting holidays, from 6:30 to 7 a.m. by KARD, Channel 3, Wichita, and KCKT, Channel 2 in Great Bend beginning October 6 and ending February 6. The second semester will begin February 11.

Viewers may enroll in the course for three hours of college credit, or they may enroll in the course for non-credit audit privileges which will include receiving all materials necessary for identifying assignments and problems.

Credit enrollments as well as non-credit enrollment, will allow the enrollee to attend workshop sessions on the McPherson campus, and to counsel with Professor Arnold concerning the subject matter of the course.

Those who enroll in the course at McPherson College will come to the campus three or four times during the semester for workshop and exam sessions that will be held on Saturdays.

The television course is intended to help all teachers and adult viewers as well as teachers of science. The course is an effort to bring up-to-date the understanding of physics held by science teachers and by the general public.

Other participating colleges in this area are Wichita University and Bethany College.

Further information may be received by contacting Mrs. Alice Martin, McPherson College Registrar, or Professor George Arnold.

Coulson Has Natural Hobby; Drama, Collecting Old Plays

"Antepodes, an old play published in 1640, is the oldest collector's item in my collection of old plays and books," says Peter Coulson, assistant professor of literature and drama at McPherson College.

"Theater, drama is my natural interest, began as a hobby in London, England, while on leave from the army," Mr. Coulson said.

"The basement of an old book store on Bond Street (The Myers Co. Ltd.) revealed many old items ridiculously cheap" remarked Mr. Coulson, "and since then I have received a number of items from them by mail."

Mr. Coulson indicated dealers in Los Angeles and Hollywood also handle out of print items.

"Another item, a first edition of Jeremy Collier's book "A Short View of the Immorality and Profanities of the English Stage," published in 1698, is famous in theater history because of its controversial issues," said Mr. Coulson.

John Dryden wrote a public apology for his participation in creating a need for such a book and started a reform movement in morals of the stage.

Mr. Coulson also has an old 1791 share in the "Theatre Royal Drury Lane" which mentions former playwright Richard Sheridan. The theater burned and has been rebuilt since the share was issued.

"The share is strictly a collector's item and of no other value," Mr. Coulson said.

"Plays are much cheaper in England than in the United States because their theater history is much older than ours and consequently, their abundance of material is greater making the price lower," stated Mr. Coulson.

Mr. Coulson also has several other plays published in the sixteen and seventeen hundreds.

Tucson, Arizona, has been Mr. Coulson's home since 1942 and was the source of a scholarship at the University of Arizona where he mastered and received his BFA in 1955.

Pondering With The President

Give Thought To This

Recently I ran across a statistical listing which indicated that there are actual financial benefits to making up your mind early in your college career concerning what you would like to do in life.

This study indicated that the students who, as freshmen, knew what they wanted to do and began to prepare in that direction, later in life earned an average of more than $100 per month more than a student who made up his mind as an underclassman. The ones who made up their minds as seniors averaged least of all.

This indicates that if you can decide what you want to do and start working seriously toward that end early in your college career it will pay off, not only in peace of mind and greater enjoyment of your studies while you are in college, but it will pay off also in many thousands of dollars during your earning years.

Financial rewards are not the only rewards of working, however. In fact, in my judgment, they are among the lesser rewards. But to have a purpose for being in college, to be preparing for a worthwhile goal, to be making a worthwhile contribution when you are through college, all of these add to one's continual day by day joy of living.

Do you have a goal? If not, why not talk to other students and to one of your college teachers or administrators about it? There are a lot of things waiting to be done that are worthwhile.

You are needed.

Praise Is Urged Instead Of Criticism At Macollege

Dear Mom,

Well, here I am back at Mac. I can tell that it is Mac by the complaining about the cafeteria. I do not say that I have not done my share either because I have complained along with everyone else.

But I, for one, intend to stop. I have complained enough. We all have to beef about something I guess, but most of us carry it too far and really, it is not as bad as we make it sound.

Even if a situation is bad complaining about it will not help. A little constructive criticism is much better than complaining. Complaining only builds resentment and conflicts that need not be.

I wonder what would happen if everyone would say a word of praise for a good point when they feel about ready to beef about a bad one? A little praise has been known to do wonders.

These people down here are all college age and as such you think that they would realize what the score is and remedy the situation. They ought to realize what it sounds like to an outsider.

But, maybe that is too much to ask of college age people. Maybe we just are not mature enough to realize what the score is. I wonder what we would do if we were on the receiving end of the beefing.

I believe we would feel resentment and not really care how we did our job if something about it was always being attacked. But if we were praised a little, I think we would feel like doing a little better.

But I guess that is not for me to say. I am just another student who is caught in the web of social pressure and who is finding it hard to keep from following the crowd.

TV Station Information

By Faus, Foley, and Harris

As we all know, television is an important leak in the dike of education. But as we see it, television fails to measure up to the mental standards of the average college student.

Television experts say that most programs are beamed at the thirteen year - old level. So to meet the desperate need, CHAFF brings you television for the college mind, written on a six-year-old level.

These programs can be seen on McPherson's first television station, WARP-TV, Channel XIV, operating on 475 motorcycles, 13 1/2 tricycles, and a wildly fluctuating business cycle.

WARP's studios are located in room 410 Dotzour, with transmitters behind the Iron Curtain.

WARP's daily schedule will be set up as follows: 6 a.m. to 12 midnight — Weather and commercials. 12 midnight to 3 a.m. — Programs. 3 a.m. to 6 a.m. — Test pattern (coffeebreak, sleep, dorm raid, etc. (Have you ever et cetera?).

Here now are some of the fall spectacles we plan to present to you, the viewing public. Here's what you see on WARP-TV, when you care enough to watch the very best.

For you Western fans, we recommend "Have Sores, Can't Travel," the story of a tenderfoot, starring Lance Boils. And coming up next is Wyatt Earp.

In the realm of personalities, we continue Edward R. Murro's well-known series, "Parson to Parson." This week Oral Roberts, noted theologian, interviews Rev. Harry K. Zeller on the topic, "How to Take Better Color Slides with Your Brownie Hawkeye Camera."

Those of you who prefer quiz shows will enjoy 22. The categories tonight will include mummy wrapping, why pygmies smell bad, chicken plucking, the feeding habits of the man-eating lion, and hair styles of Egyptian mummies. Peemore Bosdick will reveal tonight whether he will keep his lollipop and go home, or go on to the next plateau.

Due to circumstances beyond our control, we will present the weekly "Lawrence Welt Social Functioning Party."

Kiddies will appreciate "The Children's Hour," which comes on from 2 to 2:30 a.m. Special guests this week are James Hoffa and his boys, Boris Karloff, and his monsters, and Raymond Floty and his trained stool.

If you need exercises, you'll benefit from the body-building routines on our daily show, "The Shape Shop." This week we have a series on "How to Pull Yourself Together," by Dr. Frank N. Stein, expert on body-building.

So in closing we say: Jack be nimbler, look and see What's in store on WARP-TV.

Baker Wildcats To Challenge Bulldogs In Tonight's Game

Baker University Wildcats will invade the McPherson College Stadium tonight at 7:30. The undefeated Bulldogs will be facing the Wildcats, who have one of the finest lines in the league.

The Baker squad has a fine attack lead by speedster Bill White and sophomore sensation Jim Paramore. Both are good passers.

Coach Sid Smith, who scouted the Baker-C. of E. game last week, regards the Wildcats highly in view of the fact that they are undefeated and hold a lopsided victory over a fine C. of E. team.

The visitors are expected to run from a short-punt and single-wing formation.

In the series with Baker which began in 1921, the Bulldogs have been victorious only nine times while suffering 20 losses. Three ties have prevailed.

The Bulldogs were blanketed 19-0 in last year's contest held at Baldwin. The Wildcats dominated nearly all the way in the game.

The Bulldogs will be out for blood in tonight's game attempting to seek revenge for last year's defeat and also to maintain their undefeated status. The Bulldogs will enter tonight's game with a 3-0 win-loss record.

Hula-de-Hoops Invade Campus

Brightly colored plastic rings approximately three feet in diameter, called "Hula - Hoops," "Spin - a - hoops" or "Hoop - de - dos" have invaded Macampus.

These are also being found orbiting around four million torsos in backyards, at barbecues, playgrounds and beaches all over the United States.

These hoops, the new fad in America, can be skipped through, manipulated around the human body, tossed in the air and made to climb stairs.

Instructions accompanying Spin-a-hoops say, "Hug the hoop to the back side - Push hard with the right hand - Now rock, man, rock! - Don't twist - Swing it - Sway it - You've got it!"

The task of the modern educator is not to cut down the jungles but to irrigate the deserts.

Bulldogs Romp Over Bethel In 34-0 Conference Opener

The MacCollege Bulldogs defeated the Bethel Greymaroons 34-0 Saturday night, in Newton, to win their opening Kansas Conference football game of the season.

McPherson showed a strong defense against the much heavier Bethel team, holding the Greymaroons to 125 yards rushing while piling up 268 yards for themselves.

The Bulldogs drew first blood in the opening quarter on a 23-yard end run by Mac's veteran quarterback, Ken Stucky.

This was followed up in the second quarter by Rich Heidebrecht as he plunged over from the one-yard-line after a 45-yard drive by the Bulldogs.

Dennis Brubaker scored the first of his two touchdowns in the third quarter following another Mac drive. In the same period, Jerry McPherson, 190-pound tackle, picked up a Bethel fumble and raced 25 yards to score.

Gordon Lewis, Mac's freshman kicker, converted on four out of five extra point attempts.

The Bulldogs scored once again in the fourth when Bethel fumbled the ball in the end zone and Brubaker fell on it to score for Mac.

Bethel's one threat came in the fourth period of play when they had the ball on the McPherson one-yard line, but the Mac defense, made up mostly of reserves at that time, held them there.

Annual Tug-Of-War Held Yesterday At Lagoon

A tug of war between the sophomores and freshman at Lakeside Park Thursday afternoon settled the question of whether or not the freshmen would wear their little red beanies for another week.

The sophomores were the victors so the little red beanies will be seen on campus for another week.

Mac Grads Continue Writing Letters For Twenty Years

What will the friends you make at Maccollege be doing 20 years from now? Seven Maccollege girls decided before they graduated in 1938 to start a round robin letter which would keep them in touch with each other.

These girls were Theresa Storm, Gladys Shank, Lucile Ulery, Glee Coughnour, Estelle Baile, Eugenia Hogan and Ellen Divine. After the girls were married each of their husbands added his bit to the letter since all but one of the husbands were also Maccollege graduates.

The seven families have kept this letter going for the past 20 years, holding reunions and get-togethers whenever possible.

This summer the children of these families met on their own at Lake Junaluska. They were not strangers to each other since their pictures and activities had been included in the round robin letters which the families had shared with their children. They had also met at reunions and visits of the families.

Those attending the conference were Jon Brubaker, son of Lowell '39 and Eugenia Hogan Brubaker '38, Hawthorne, Calif., Judy Miller, daughter of Paul '37 and Ellen Davine Miller '38, Adel, Iowa; Beth Hoover, daughter of Ira Milton '39 and Lucille Ulery Hoover '38, Plattsburg, Mo.

Marcia Yoder, daughter of Gordon '39 and Glee Coughnour Yoder '38, McPherson; and Steve Mohler, son of Harold '38 and Estelle Mohler '38, Warrensburg, Mo.

The only family not represented was that of Russell and Theresa Herpich.

Active In Church, Community Each of these seven families have been active in community affairs and taken an active part in activities in the Church of the Brethren these past 20 years.

Warrensburg, Missouri, is the home of the Mohlers.

ren's work and Administrative Secretary.

In Los Angeles, Calif., Lowell Brubaker is the principal of a new high school, Mr. and Mrs. Brubaker are also busy in church work.

Paul Miller and Kurtis Naylor are prominent ministers in the Western Region. Paul has served on the General Brotherhood Board for several years and made a journey to Russia.

Kurtis and Gladys Naylor have served the church in Germany, Ecuador and are now serving in the Prince of Peace Church in Denver.

Do We Chatter?

By Dick Ferris

Webster defines gossip as: A gossip's tattle; groundless rumor; also, chatter.

Almost everyone is, and has been in the past, capable of chatter or, to use a better term, idle gossip. On small campuses this type of talk takes place almost more than any other.

The other evening, there was a group of boys sitting in my room and we were talking about different people. Many of the things we said amounted to groundless rumor or idle gossip.

But this is not true only of the boys' dorm. In the girls' dorm, the favorite topic of conversation may well be the boy who has taken them out on a date that same evening.

I think that those who listen to malicious gossip are just as guilty as those who spread it around.

Gossip, idle chatter, is a very dangerous thing. The same point was made in the old story about the Quaker and his dog Tray. "Go to," said the Quaker to poor Tray, "I will not kill thee, but I will give thee a bad name."

"And so he turned poor Tray into the streets with the cry of 'Mad Dog!'" and then someone else did kill poor Tray. Do you chatter?

133 Students Listed In Church Program

The McPherson Church of the Brethren student membership program is in effect again this year with 133 students signifying their desire to become members for the school term.

This does not indicate a break with the home church but merely an effort to make the students feel more a part of the church during the school year.

Rev. Harry K. Zeller invites those who wish to become student members and have not yet signed a card to do so. Cards may be obtained at the church office.
