Kravig, Professor Of Art, Enjoys Writing, Travel

"An artist must be interested in humanity. I've always felt the artist should know many things," states Eleanor Kravig, assistant professor of art.

Interested in writing, art, and travel, Miss Kravig follows her own advice. Several short stories, written and illustrated by her, have been published. A novel, still in manuscript form, is a current enterprise.

Sinclair Lewis, author of "Main Street," was on a symposium when she studied on a scholarship in short story writing at the University of Minnesota.

Fulbright Scholar
A Fulbright scholar, Miss Kravig did graduate work at the University of Oslo in 1949-51. During this time she traveled, visiting museums and art galleries. "One must expose himself to all types of art."

Miss Kravig received her M. A. in Art Criticism and Art History from Hunter College, New York City, in 1959.

At the Art Students' League in New York City, she studied sculpture under William Zorach and Alexander Archipenko, the first cubist sculptor. The League teaches all aspects of art.

Chosen From Competition
At Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., she was one of 100 students chosen from competition. Fifty of these students are from the Detroit area, the other 50 from the entire country.

When asked about special art interests, she replied, "I like so many things, it's hard to say." As one who has always liked art, she gives this advice to prospective artists. "You must be willing to take criticism. It's the only way you grow."

Mac Student Body Elections To Be Held Friday, April 14

Student body elections will be held Friday, April 14. Booths will be set up in Friendship Hall for students to cast their ballots. Voting hours will be from 10:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Besides the election of the Student Council president and treasurer, the MCA cabinet, Student Court members, and cheerleaders will be selected.

Qualifications for the Student Council president are a next year's senior and a student carrying at least 12 semester hours at McPherson College.

Treasurer Candidates
Treasurer candidates must be a next year's junior and a full-time student.

Student court candidates must have a 1.5 grade point average. Two girls and two boys will be elected next year's varsity cheerleaders.

MCA candidates will be nominated by the present cabinet members.

Student Court
Student Court members will be nominated by the respective classes in class meetings after assembly today, Friday, March 24. The number of class representatives allowed to the court are five seniors, four juniors, and three sophomores.

Candidates for Student Council president and treasurer must file their names with Garth Werner, election committee chairman, or James Freed, present Student Council president, during the period from Tuesday noon, April 4 to Friday noon, April 7.

After Friday noon, April 7, petitions for student Council president and treasurer may be secured from Garth Werner or James Freed. Fifty names of full-time students and not more than 60 on a petition must be submitted by Tuesday noon, April 11.

Students may sign only one petition for each of the offices of president and treasurer. Any name appearing more than once will be invalid on all petitions that it appears.

If a student wishes to be a student court candidate and is not nominated in a class meeting, a petition may be secured from Garth Werner or James Freed. Fifty regularly enrolled students' names will be needed on the petition.

Petitions
Petitions for cheerleaders and Student Court members may be secured Tuesday noon, April 4, and will be due Tuesday noon, April 11. No student can sign more than four petitions for cheerleaders.

In assembly, Friday, April 11, MCA cabinet candidates and Student Court candidates will be introduced. Cheerleaders will try out.

Candidates for president will speak no longer than three minutes. The representatives may speak for no longer than three minutes.

Candidates or representatives for treasurer will be allowed no more than three minutes for campaign speeches.

Campaign posters will not be allowed in Friendship Hall or Brown Auditorium. Students are urged by the election committee to use discretion in placing campaign posters on campus property.

Ward To Be In Charge Of Television Program

Prof. John Ward, head of the Rural Life Department, will be in charge of the April 14 television program on KTVH television, Hutchinson, channel 12 at 7:15 a. m.

Every month on the Second Friday, MacCollege is featured on the daily morning television program, "Community Window."

Last month on March 10, Dr. R. E. Mohler spoke on water supply in central Kansas and the geological aspect of the equus beds, the underground water table situated in central Kansas.

Senior Acquire Teaching Positions

Two more McPherson College seniors have acquired teaching positions for next year.

Nick Dolloff, McPherson, who is majoring in industrial arts, will teach industrial arts and will coach at Hamlin.

Karen York, Hope, will teach English at Dorrance.

Instead of teaching the elementary grades at the Navajo Indian Reservation, as indicated in last week's Spectator, Jean Geyer, Elizabethtown, Pa., has a teacher guidance position which includes playground activities.

Students, Faculty Travel During Easter Vacation

MacCollege students and faculty members will be traveling during Easter vacation to participate in a variety of activities.

Three faculty members will lead pre-Easter services at local churches, and several others will visit other communities.

Floyd Bantz, Paul Wagoner and Dean Wayne Geisert will speak for the Union Holy Week Services being held at the McPherson Congregational Church.

Bittingers

Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Bittinger will travel to Palmyra, Pa., where he will be the guest speaker at pre-Easter services from Palm Sunday to Easter Sunday. The Bittingers will return to McPherson April 3.

Prof. Dale Brown will participate in the Holy Week Services at the Church of the Brethren in Quinter.

Dr. Burton Metzler will be guest minister at a series of pre-Easter meetings March 26-April 2 at the Church of the Brethren in Nampa, Idaho.

Among the faculty traveling to visit friends and relatives are Mr. and Mrs. R. Gordon Yoder who will visit the Earl Gough-

Pi Kappa Delta To Sponsor Semi-Formal Dance, April 7

Pi Kappa Delta, a forensic fraternity, is presenting a semi-formal dance April 7 at 8 p. m. in the Blue Room of the Warren Hotel.

Tickets for the "Evening in Rome," sell for one dollar for couples and 75 cents for singles. Tickets are being sold in the cafeteria at supertime, in Friendship Hall before and after chapel on Tuesday and Friday, and other times from Lester Zook, Gary Ross, Dick Sitts, Charlotte Erritt, and Billie Mitchel. A limited amount of tickets will be sold.

Playing for the affair will be the McPherson College combo. Masters of Ceremonies for the evening will be Lester Zook and Gary Ross.

Program
On the program among others will be Sharon Keith singing three numbers; Kenneth Smucker giving a reading "Midsummer Night's Dream," and the Junior Ladies Trio singing. Head of the entertainment committee is Lester Zook.

Tables will surround the dance floor to help set the atmosphere of the "Evening in Rome." Gary Ross is heading the decoration committee. The art work for the dance is by Donavan Koehn.

Charlotte Erritt is chairman on the refreshment committee, and Dick Sitts is head of the publicity committee.

Sponsor, Officers
Sponsor for Pi Kappa Delta is Prof. Guy Hayes. Officers of the club are Lester Zook president; Eddie Longmire, vice-president; Gary Ross, secretary; and Billie Mitchel, recorder.

28, where he will report on his doctoral dissertation. Following the meeting, Dr. Rothrock and his family will vacation in the Denver area for several days.

Floyd Bantz plans to attend the Kansas Ministerial Retreat at Wichita, April 3-4.

Hull Wins First Place

Raymond Hull, senior from McPherson, won first place in the State Peace Oratorical Contest for men at Kansas State University last Friday and Saturday, March 17-18. His topic was "The Most Powerful Force."

Raymond, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Hull, is majoring in English and Speech. He also won first at the local contest, Wednesday, March 15. Donald Smith, sophomore from McPherson, won second.

Judges for the local contest were Paul Wagoner, alumni secretary; Wilbur Mullen, director of admission; and Dale Brown, assistant professor of philosophy and religion.

Raymond received a state prize of $7.50, and his manuscript and a taped recording was sent to the national contest.

Twenty-five teams represented eleven schools in the debate tournament which was also held last weekend at Manhattan. Southwestern beat Emporia State to win the trophy.

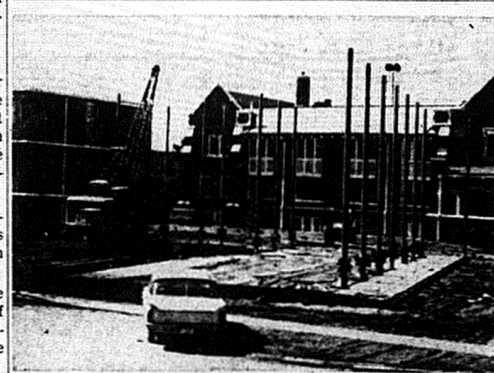

Although McPherson was not in the finals, they outranked seven of the 25 teams. Representing McPherson were John Harrison, freshman from Beloit, and Dick Sitts, sophomore from Conway.

Guy Hayes, professor of speech and debate, will continue as secretary for the Peace Oratory and Extemporaneous Contest which will be held in conjunction with the debate tournament each year.

In Chapel Next Week

Tuesday — Marvin Blickenstaff will present a piano concert. He will be assistant professor of piano at McPherson College next year.

Friday — The McPherson College Stage Band will present the program.

Column supports are shown as they were being placed in the construction of the addition to Dotsour Hall, women's dormitory. The second floor of the new wing has been poured and will be raised in the slab-lift method.

Don't Be A Hog!

Pack With Consideration For Vacation Traveling

By Marilyn Rhinehart

Vacation time is here again for McPherson College students and many of us will be traveling to various locations in the United States to spend the Easter holidays.

Did you do a good job of packing for your journey or were you a luggage-space hog? A little forethought and planning can make packing less difficult and burdensome for yourself and those traveling with you.

Lack of consideration for others is particularly true of the coed who appears to be moving out when she leaves for a vacation. Many times half of the paraphernalia she insists on taking is unnecessary and merely excess baggage.

Traveling students should plan their vacations in advance so they know what clothes and articles are necessary to take along. A basic wardrobe with accessories to vary the costume is best for economy of luggage space and weight.

Students who are riding with others should make it a point to find out what space will be available for luggage and be considerate of the wishes of the driver. It is less troublesome if small items such as shoes and hats are not packed individually in boxes of various sizes and shapes.

The Golden Rule is the best standard to follow in planning a trip with fellow students. With consideration and intelligent planning, traveling can be enjoyable for all.

Have a safe and sane vacation, everyone!

Incident Brings Debate On Smoking Rules

Dear Editor,

It was such a small incident; its significance didn't hit me until later that afternoon. At first I blamed one person, but I later began to find the fault in the attitudes and actions of a considerable per cent of our Maccollege society.

It concerned the representative from the Arab Information Center. He was eating dinner in our cafeteria. About halfway through his meal he began to smoke, probably without giving it a thought. Quite unfortunately, several did give it a thought. Our Student Council president went to Mr. Fawzi Abu Diab and asked him to put out his cigarette.

Oh students what a feeling of satisfaction! One less filthy sin on that Friday morning! Imagine how joyous our Arab friend must have felt to meet people so near physical, mental, and spiritual perfection. If only his people back home, with whom tobacco is such a tradition, could have the same opportunity.

My cry goes far beyond what happened Friday morning. When are we going to wake up? Of all the human imperfections, why are we bogged down on smoking?

And, what is worse, why do we have to apply our toy measuring stick to others, to an outsider and guest to whom we should put forth our very best?

Joe Funderburk

Editor's Note — To allow him a prompt rebuttal, I have given James Freed, Student Council president, the opportunity to defend his action.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I WISH THERE WERE SOME OTHER WAY PROF SNAPP COULD AFFORD TO HAVE HIS HOUSE PAINTED."

Dear Editor,

I would offer a reply to Mr. Funderburk's sharp criticism of "a considerable per cent of our Maccollege society."

Mr. Fawzi Abu Diab had been politely told previously by a college staff member that smoking was not permitted in campus buildings.

When a fellow student mentioned to me that our guest was smoking in the cafeteria and suggested that I, as student body president, mention to our guest our policy of no smoking, I politely told Mr. Diab that we have a rule against smoking in buildings, whereupon he immediately extinguished his cigarette.

No other guests on the campus are permitted to smoke in the buildings, so why should our Arab friend be granted this privilege?

Feeling of satisfaction? Not in the least! It was not a pleasant responsibility which I felt I had to perform. I told him about the rule not because I personally may or may not feel smoking is morally wrong, but because we do have a rule which extends to guests while in campus buildings.

One reason for this regulation is that our fire insurance policies make no allowance for students or guests who smoke in buildings. If he were outside the buildings and decided to smoke, I would not, and I don't think anyone else would have stopped him. This occurrence points up the need for "No Smoking" signs in buildings.

My reply also goes beyond last Friday's incident. It is time for us as a college to stop being "two-faced" about rules; e.g., of having rules of no smoking on campus and then smiling condescendingly as some students break the rules at every chance they have.

The trustees and the college administration have allowed those students who smoke, the privilege of smoking in the parking areas. Yet this privilege has been much abused with smoking on almost all areas of the campus including the buildings.

This has prompted a Student Court decision concerning the consequences of infraction of rules.

Yes, this is something bigger than this "human imperfection," of smoking: It is the question of whether or not students should be permitted to disregard regulations that have been set down at a college to which they themselves have chosen to attend.

Your elected representatives to the Student Council and Student Court apparently do not think so, and I believe that a large percentage of McPherson College students and faculty agree.

Pondering With The President

What Is Easter?

By D. W. Bittinger

"Easter" in some form or other is observed by almost all known cultures. It is associated with springtime, with renewal and resurgence of life. Its calendar time, therefore, varies in different parts of the world but the nature of the Easter or springtime celebration has many similarities.

In our culture, we have tied several cultural inheritances together: Easter eggs, new Easter outfits with particular emphasis on hats, a Good Friday, a cross, an open tomb, Easter bunnies, great musical festivals, pilgrimages.

It is interesting to trace this accumulation, but space here allows only one question: Out of all of this, what does Easter mean to me?

It means that Christ, and Christ's teachings do not belong in tombs. Both Christ and his teachings should live explosively within us.

It means that I should renew myself. Springtime, renewal of life, the sloughing off of the old to be replaced by the new, should happen to me.

It means this life is not all. We do not live only to die. We live now to live even more fully, forever.

Students Object To Dating Habits

Dear Editor,

There is yet room for some change in the dating habits of students of this college. That is not to say that the conditions can become much more deplorable or that the present participants can become more lewd and exhibitionistic. Perhaps an analogy cited in a previous letter to the editor was more accurate than we dared to admit. (Spectator, November 4, 1960.)

Eager participants justify this flagrant display of emotion in and around the dormitories on the grounds that "This is my home." Yet, how many of these enamored students would act in the same manner when relatives are visiting the campus, or when they actually go home?

And these same students would be the first to maintain that they adhere to a "strict moral code."

Let us look at this code as it has been upheld this year.

Case I. Can it be that the strain of this "marriage mill" has exerted such an influence that a girl feels compelled to wait anxiously on the curbing for her gentleman caller? Is it likewise true that the fellow, so calloused to common courtesy, feels it unnecessary to call for the girl in the lobby?

Case II. Is going steady security or anxiety? How often is the steady girl not asked for a date, rather told at the last moment, "By the way, we are going."

Case III. Must the Dormitories be Central Intelligence Agencies? Some insist that their affairs are personal and then proceed to broadcast the details. Those not wishing to divulge details are thoroughly interrogated.

Case IV. Do students date for companionship, convenience, or competition? Too often one hears, "There's nothing better to do." "But I can use his car." "Circulation is important."

Why must students incessantly drape themselves around the lobby disfiguring other students, faculty, and innocent visitors?

Girls Attend Volleyball Clinic At Larned

Five McPherson College coeds and Miss Doris Coppock, associate professor and director of physical education for women, attended a volleyball clinic at Larned, Saturday, March 10.

During the clinic, various high school volleyball teams played in a tournament, and the Western Region Board Committee rated officials for women's volleyball.

To obtain the rating, girls were required to participate in written examinations and a practical test, which was officiating the regular tournament games.

Judging Team Represents Mac In Contest

McPherson College is being represented today in an intercollegiate dairy judging contest being held at Abilene, Texas. This represents the first livestock judging team from McPherson College to be entered in competition with other colleges.

This contest is being held in connection with the annual convention of the National Association of College Teachers of Agriculture. The team will judge six classes of dairy animals and give reasons on four of the classes.

Preparation for the trip has been going on for the past several weeks with the team visiting several outstanding dairy herds in the Hutchinson, Hillsboro, and McPherson areas as well as working with the dairy herd at the college farm.

High man for placing during these workouts was Roy Jones from Cabool, Mo. High man for reasons classes was Wayne Bert from Detroit. The team is made up of Roy Jones, Wayne Bert, Lloyd Albin, and Dave Hughes.

Fillmore and Miss Coppock received a women's national rating; Browning received an intramural rating; and Thoren received an associate rating.

Carol Kesler, freshman from Quinter, was the sixth member of McPherson's team which played instructors from various schools in a demonstration game. McPherson was defeated two games of the three-game match.

Next Spectator Is To Be Practice Issue

This is the last issue of the Spectator until April 14 which will be the practice issue for next semester's editor-in-chief, Carolyn Trapp.

Each managing editor of the Spectator is allowed to be in charge of one practice issue before assuming the full responsibilities of editor-in-chief.

This fall, Carolyn will begin her duties which include making out the dummy, deciding what goes into the Spec, writing editorials, deciding the policies of the paper and the size heads for each article.

Each Thursday afternoon the editor-in-chief and Spec advisor, Mrs. Homer Brunk, visit the McPherson Sentinel office where they set up the paper and proofread it.

As managing editor of the next issue, Beverly Judge will write headlines, copyread stories, and type up the slug sheet. She will also continue her regular duties as campus editor of assigning stories to reporters for the practice issue.

Carolyn is a sophomore English major from Wichita, and Beverly is a freshman philosophy and religion major from Marshalltown, Iowa.

A new campus editor will be chosen soon by the Board of Publications from applications received from Maccollege students.

Wichita Hosts Conference

Interested students are invited to attend the 4th annual College Conference on Intergroup Relations at the University of Wichita on April 8-9.

The conference is a meeting for students, planned by students, on three of the most important problems in America. It is sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews in cooperation with the University of Wichita and Sacred Heart College.

Some of the questions to be discussed include: "What is an 'Ugly American' and an 'Ugly Foreigner'?" "What is wrong with the moral and spiritual values of college students today?" "With so many religious and cultural backgrounds in America how can we achieve unity and still preserve the right to diversity?"

Registration fee for the conference is $2.25 and $1.25 for housing. For further information students may contact Dr. Kenneth Bechtel, professor of sociology and language, or Edward Khaw, and Jerald Edwards, who attended the conference last year.

Hawaiian Luau Is Held In College Gym

Mac college students and members of the faculty were guests at a Hawaiian luau held in the college gym, Monday evening, March 20. The luau, sponsored by the Slater Food Service of Mac college, was under the direction of Charles Herman, local manager.

Traditional Hawaiian dishes, served buffet style, were prepared for the occasion. Hawaiian guitar music was provided by Larry King, freshman from Mount Airy, Md.

Sue Warrick, sophomore from Limon, Colo., was the chairman of the decoration committee. Decorations for the affair included constructed palm trees, artificial grass, and pineapples. Center pieces of ti leaves, orchids, and candles decorated the tables.

Mr. Herman was assisted in the planning by Mac college Hawaiian students, Lillian Aotaki, and Robert Ishii.

Each guest was given a lei, and orchids were presented to the ladies.
