She will be in charge of scheduling events such as receptions, teas, discussion groups, coffee groups, games, tournaments, and formals.

Committees of the college are working with Donelda on plans for the use of the Student Union so that it may be more than a student gathering place or a student recreational center.

Donelda hopes that the Student Union will become a center of the student life of McPherson College. She is working on details of plans for stimulating the use of the building.

Donelda was editor of the Quodrigle this year, and her other activities have included band, Pep Club, Rec Council, SNEA, and International Relations Club.

State Of Kansas Observes Home Economics Week

"Kansas Home Economics Week" is being observed throughout the state, April 24-28. Emphasis will be to interpret home economics to the public and to increase the interest of youth and encourage them to make home economics their profession.

Home economics is concerned with improving individual and family well-being. It includes finding knowledge and applying it in nutrition, foods, clothing, housing, household equipment, child development, family relationships, family management, house furnishings, and other aspects of living.

Professional Field
Home economics is a professional field which takes in a number of specialized careers all concerned with improving individual and family well-being. The number and types of jobs available in the field of home economics is varied and thus provides opportunities for people with many different interests and talents.

In Kansas there are many home economists working in each of the specialized careers such as extension, teaching, business, nutrition, administration, research, and dietetics.

Membership Growth
Kansas Home Economics As-

Melvin Ritter, Jane Allen, and Olga Zilboorg compose the St. Louis Trio which will perform tonight in Brown Auditorium as the last program of the McPherson College Community Cultural Series.

St. Louis Trio To Present Cultural Series Program

St. Louis Trio, composed of members of the St. Louis Symphony, will present the final program of the McPherson College Cultural series tonight at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Jane Allen, pianist, won the distinguished Artist Presentation Award in St. Louis in 1958. She received her musical training at Southern Methodist University School of Music and studied in St. Louis with William Schatzkammer. Miss Allen has made numerous recital and orchestral appearances in St. Louis and Dallas.

Concertmaster
Melvin Ritter, the assistant concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony, played 400 concerts in 18 months for the European troops during World War II. He won the National Music League Award in 1946 and was concertmaster for the Little Orchestra Society. He has recorded for Decca records.

association was organized Nov. 18, 1922, with 19 members. It has grown to a membership of 726; 103 are college senior home economics majors.

Six of the seven Macollege senior home ec majors were initiated into the American Home Economics Association and the Kansas Home Economics Association in Kansas City, April 8, while attending a joint state home economics meeting with Kansas and Missouri.

These names were presented along with 52 other Kansas college senior home ec majors and 25 Missouri seniors.

Miss Mildred M. Siek, professor of Home Economics at Macollege and chairman of the advisory committee of Kansas college home ec clubs, presented the Kansas names to Dr. Dorothy Lyle, president of the American Home Economics Association, who was in charge of the initiation.

McPherson initiates were Carol Duncan, Elizabeth Gramm, Norma Hintz, Veneta Howell, Mary Owen, and Ellen Strycker.

Olga Zilboorg, cellist, attended the University of Kansas, although she is a native of Mexico City. She also studied with Bernard Greenhouse in New York and graduated at the Manhattan school of Music with a Master of Music. Along with solo and chamber music appearances, she appeared in a recital at the Palace of Fine Arts, Mexico City, in 1957.

Program
Tonight's program will include the works of Beethoven, Bach, Paganini, Haydn, and Chopin.

Buildings Change Functions Next Year

Next year the Art Department will be located in the basement of Arnold Hall, which is the present cafeteria. Vaniman Hall, currently a women's dormitory, will be used to house men next year.

In its location next year, the Art Department will consist of a ceramics course to be held in what is now the kitchen, and a painting and drawing section in the eating area of the cafeteria. This will be a classroom which can be darkened in order to show slides.

Since all women will be housed in Dotzour Hall and the new addition which is to be completed by next fall, Vaniman will be used by men next year. Mrs. Opal Miller, housemother for Arnold Hall this year, will become housemother in Vaniman.

The method of assigning men to Vaniman has not been decided, but those desiring to live there next year may contact Dr. D. W. Bittinger.

Those staying in Vaniman will have lower room fees, but they will still be expected to be on the food plan.

Senior women who have recently joined the American Home Economics Association are: FRONT ROW — Veneta Howell, St. John; Norma Hintz, Canton; Ellen Strycker, Thayer; Carol Duncan, Denver Colo. BACK ROW — Mary Owens, Hardy, Neb.; Mrs. Elizabeth Gramm, McPherson; and Mrs. Marjorie Brammell, McPherson. All seven of them are home economics majors. Three plan to teach next year and two will be employed as county home economics agents.

Billions Of Books

Don't Try To Read It All; You'll Never Make It!

By Marilyn Rhinehart

Tens of thousands of magazines and newspapers and billions of books are available to the world's readers today. This seems like an insurmountable quantity of literature especially to college students who often find it a struggle to get through half a dozen books a semester and occasionally read a daily paper (plus, of course, The Spectator!).

It is obviously impossible to read everything that has been printed or published, and some of it doubtlessly is not worth reading. Therefore, it is necessary to be discriminating and selective about what one does read.

A selective reader is actually in a stronger position, for writers, publishers, newspapers and magazine editors depend upon the reader for survival. The quality of literature can be just as good as the reading public demands. This is one means of riding the newstands and book stores of pornographic and inferior literature.

We should recognize all literary channels of communication as great powers for good or for evil. Newspapers keep us informed on current events and the happenings in our world. It is important to read the papers that do the most unbiased and truthful job of reporting the news.

Books and magazines serve to educate and entertain us. They, along with newspapers, influence opinion to a great degree. Therefore we must be critical in our selection of reading material.

One way to select what to read is to browse around by oneself. This is often time-consuming and much significant literature can be overlooked. For this reason we employ critics to give us advice and opinions on the most important and best of the literature being produced.

To help busy college students and others to find worthwhile reading material, the Spectator has started, a column, "Bits For Browsers." This week Dale Brown has proposed some noteworthy magazine articles which may be of interest to readers.

It is hoped that anyone who discovers a significant article or book feels free to contribute to this column for the purpose of sharing the meanings of good literature with others.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NICE DAY FOR FLYING, PROFESSOR, I NOTICED TH' SUNDECKS AROUND TH' CAMPUS ARE JUST COVERED WITH GIRLS."

Eichmann Must Die Says Student

Dear Editor:

For the past several days I have been watching with great interest the drama of a trial taking place in a converted community center in Jerusalem. The accused is a much maligned, frail appearing individual by the name of Adolf Eichmann. The crime charged is the wanton slaughter of six million Jews, give or take a few hundred thousand.

Of course, in the strictest sense of the word, this cannot be called a trial for the verdict has apparently already been decided upon: Eichmann must die!

My first reaction was that this verdict would be just. Does it not seem appropriate that this odious perpetrator of unspeakable atrocities should meet the same fate as his victims?

Should not unborn generations of the civilized world be spared exposure to the insidious germs of racial and religious hatred this man personifies? Would it not further the cause of international justice to spell out once and for all the penalty for calculated crimes against humanity?

Fortunately before I became committed to this position, I paused to reflect for a moment on how a good Brethren (this term is synonymous to Christian since we on Mac campus know the Brethren are the only true Christians) would handle Eichmann.

It immediately became evident that execution was out. Imprisonment also hints of a lack of brotherly love. What then? The light dawned! Eichmann should be rehabilitated. Provision could be made to send him to a BVS project in Puerto Rico.

But what type of work could he do? Another inspiration! Eichmann could work in a hospital. What kind of hospital work? Why naturally as an anesthetist. After all, the bodies in uncounted, unmarked graves attest to his efficiency in administering gas.

What then remains? We must all shoulder our placards and join in a fight to save Eichmann. Let us demonstrate for all to see what kind of nuts we are. We shall not surrender one human being to the cause of justice even though thousands may subsequently be sacrificed as an indirect result of our unrealistic approach to what is just.

Sincerely,
Gene Elrod

Faculty Vs. Buildings

By D. W. Blittinger

Sometimes I hear a question raised as to whether McPherson has emphasized a building program probably at the expense of strengthening her faculty.

In my judgment this has not happened. In the first place, the money which has gone into buildings was not available for uses at the college other than buildings.

Furthermore, to move forward in buildings, preparing for a hopeful future, has served to help secure stronger new faculty and, we hope, to increase the sense of confidence of existing faculty as we plan our future. In addition to this, a progressive building program has attracted some money for general college operation which would not otherwise have been available.

Because it is easier to see buildings than to witness other improvements at the college, these have sometimes been overlooked. Following are some other areas of strengthening.

An immense amount of study, and study and work, has gone into continually improving our curriculum.

Present faculty have extended themselves at considerable effort and financial investment, to improve their degree preparation and their teaching ability. The college has backed this and has tried to adjust programs to make this possible.

Additional faculty members have been secured, and additional teaching and study equipment have been added.

Faculty, buildings, curriculum—the endeavor is that all of this shall move forward together. It is my conviction that there is a good future for our college.

Thoughts Of

A Former Student

The following poem was written by Fred L. Huesman, Jr., as he awaited the return trip to his home after the first semester exams. What would the title be if Fred had named the poem? No one can say.

Fred is remembered by his teachers and classmates as the student who showed strong faith and courage as he surmounted the obstacles of education which were placed before him.

Oh what still the ev'ning brings us

As the darkness covers all
The time of rest will soon be here
As now on you we call.

We give you thanks for all we have

Though little we may hold,
The things we have when counted up

Are richer than pure gold

We thank thee for the morn to come

Though hard may be the night,
As we arise afresh to tell
Of you that sent this light.

Thou spoke to Moses on the Mount

Now may we hear thy voice?
Speak to us now that we may know

That we must make a choice
To live in sin our few short days

And be without thy light
Or follow in your holy ways
And have a light e'er bright.

Peace Corps Distributes Questionnaires

Peace Corps headquarters has mailed Volunteer Questionnaires to the presidents of 2,000 colleges and universities for campus distribution.

The questionnaire is four pages long and consists of 28 questions. It also asks the potential Volunteer to list references.

Potential Volunteers are asked for the following kinds of information: education, job experience, proficiency in languages, technical skills, availability for Peace Corps service, special foreign area knowledge, health, military service, avocations, hobbies and athletic participation, organizational activity and leadership, and geographical preference for assignment.

The questionnaire was prepared by the Peace Corps staff with the advice of recruiting and questionnaire specialists from government, business, labor private educational exchange agencies and universities.

Students at Howard University, Washington, D. C., and Wakefield High School, Arlington, Va., were asked to fill it out as a test of its effectiveness before the final form was approved.

Students who have written to the Peace Corps or the President to Volunteer will automatically receive questionnaires directly from Washington. Questionnaires can also be obtained by writing to Congressmen or Senators or to the Peace Corps, Washington 25, D. C.

Toughest Driver in Town!
Careful Percy McFidget—who would believe that he's harder on his car than anybody in town? Why, he never goes over 35 or takes a trip over 10 miles! Actually this kind of driving is very hard on a car engine because the engine seldom gets "warmed up" sufficiently. The oil tends to be sluggish. Sludge forms in the crankcase. The way is open for dangerous wear and corrosion.
But there's something you can do about this, to protect your motor. If you have to do a lot of start-and-stop driving at low speeds, as most of us do, use Trop-Artic® Motor Oil. It flows fast... resists sludge formation... helps your car run better, longer. Get Trop-Artic Motor Oil at any station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.
