Have Any Snaps?

Do you have any snap courses this semester?

In a survey of college officials and student leaders, the MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE found varying opinions of just how frequently such courses were found.

The survey showed that snap courses are sought by students to keep from flunking out of school and to compete for honors.

A Minnesota dean commented "Often parents are interested only that their son goes to college, not in what type of education he gets." He went on "And there's the search for security today — the attitude that one doesn't want to be challenged. He just wants a degree."

Students in the survey seemed more convinced than college deans that snap courses were undesirable. Not one of the interested students called snap courses desirable and over half of the students said they should be abolished or stiffened.

What is your opinion of a snap course?

I think that many courses could be snaps if we as students would give them just a little more time and attention.

The Eyes Of The Nation

The eyes of the nation and even the world will be on television sets Monday night, as the presidential hopefuls, Vice President Richard Nixon, and Senator Jack Kennedy engage in their first of a series of political debates on television.

The hour long debate from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. will deal with domestic policy and will be carried by all television networks.

Three more programs dealing with political issues will be televised on Oct. 7, 13, and 21.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NONSENSE, WE'RE ALL A LITTLE NERVOUS TH FIRST TIME WE GET OUT THERE TO PLAY."

Clip And Save For Quick Letter Home

Dear Mervin,

Well, I am here at college, and it has been rough. They treat dogs like freshmen here, and before tests, we all have to bone.

It's almost like home, though; they won't let us wear shoes, or even change clothes until we get them dirty on both sides. But I'm learnin'. Here's some of the stuff I've got down so far.

1. The Dean of Women is also Professor of Criminology.

2. It does not pay to mix women and crime.

3. Apple cider will ferment in 2 or 3 days when a cake of yeast is added to it.

4. Fifty per cent of the married people on campus are women, the other sixty per cent being men.

5. Aerated shaving cream may sometimes spray as far as 15 feet.

6. It takes a minimum of two weeks to grow a respectable Van Dyke beard.

7. At least three fourths of the girls on campus hate beards.

8. Pants may be kept pressed by placing them between the mattress and the springs of a bed.

9. In typing an English theme, triple spacing gives the illusion of more words than there actually are.

10. If you have a tough English prof, it helps to frustrate them if you type in red.

11. NoDoze pills are cheaper

by the biggest box.

12. It is better to pick a roommate your own height and weight.

And that's about all, Mervin. I've made lots of friends, and a few enemies. The friends all have cars, and the enemies all have degrees, so, degree by degree, I'm getting into hotter and hotter water.

So, if they find out who dropped the paper bag of soot on the president's head in Assembly last Friday, I may be coming to see you soon. Just in case, give my regards to the warden.

Sincerely,
Elmer

Pondering With The President

Take Time

By D. W. Bittinger

Once, as we hurried over the gravel roads of one of the desert areas of our Southwest, we were brought to an unwelcome halt by an injured tire. Since the road was very bad we had spoiled another tire earlier in the day. Consequently, there was nothing to do now but to engage in an effort of tire patching and pumping.

As we did this the sun settled into the western sky. We wondered how we would now find our way out of the desert. But presently, in beautiful silhouette, the magnificent outlines of a sailing ship stood out between the colorful western sky and ourselves. This was the giant upreaching mountain, called "Shiprock". We learned later that this mountain had never been scaled up to that time, and that it was an internationally known natural phenomenon.

We quit patching the tire and took pictures of Shiprock, which we still treasure. We are glad, now, that a blowout stopped us. Our apprehensions of the moment have long since been forgotten, the beautiful picture remains.

Sometimes it takes a bit of pain, disaster, or worry to make us stop long enough to see the beauty around us. This year in college let us not fail to take time out to meet friends, to fulfill opportunities, to meet God.

Bulldogs Tangle Coyotes Tomorrow At Salina

The McPherson College Bulldogs will battle with the Kansas Wesleyan University Coyotes tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the College stadium, in Salina.

Both the Bulldogs and Coyotes will enter the game with a won-lost conference record of 0-1. Last Saturday night, the Bulldogs bowed to the might of the C. of E. Presbies with a score of 0-13; while the Coyotes were thrown for a loss of 28-7 by Southwestern.

Last year the Bulldogs failed to spoil Kansas Wesleyan's homecoming when they were nosed out by a 7-6 score.

Rivalry Began In 1921
Since McPherson's and Kansas Wesleyan's rivalry began in 1921, Mac has won 13 games and KWU 19 games. Three games ended in ties.

In 1949 the Coyotes trounced the Bulldogs 51-7 but in 1953 Mac gained revenge for that high scoring spree when they whipped KWU by a score of 61-6.

Hoffman Sparks Coyotes
Even though Coach Gene Bissell of K. W. U. has lost the majority of his lettermen and experienced players through graduation, he will still have John Hoffman, a speedy ball carrier who sparked the Coyotes to fourth-place conference status last year.

Coaches Sid Smith and Donald Widrig have the Bulldogs groomed and ready to meet the challenge of the Coyotes. Bulldogs to be used in assaulting the Coyotes are: Ivan Prochaska and Garth Werner, tackles; Melvin Rolfs and Larry McPherson, guards; Garth Wood, center; David Priddy and Gary Metsker, ends; Bryon Hayes and Larry Crumrine, alternating at the quarter back position; Tom Richards and Cal Unruh, Halfbacks; and Tim Wesselowski, at fullback.

On the agenda for Friday, Oct. 21, are two concerts in Brown Auditorium by the Don Cossacks Choir—one in the afternoon for the McPherson County high school students and another concert in the evening.

Sunday afternoon, Oct. 23, will be open house for Mohler Hall and Brown Auditorium with Dr. V. F. Schwalm, former Macollege president, speaking at the dedication of the buildings that same evening.

Leaders for the conference will speak at various times on the theme of "My Calling to Fulfill—In the Church and in the World." The speakers will be William Hordern, Evanston, Ill.; Norman Baugher and Joseph Long, Elgin, Ill.; Wilbur R. Hoover, Rocky Ford, Colo.; Leland Wilson, Overland Park; and Rev. Harold Z. Bomberger, pastor of the College Church.

Preparation Underway For New Mac Catalog

A new college catalog for 1961-1962 is in the process of being prepared. Academic departments are requested to have corrected course descriptions in the hands of the Dean by Friday, Sept. 30. Favorites Win Last Week In KCAC

In conference football games last week all four of the pre-season favorites won their opening games.

Ottawa's Herb Sutton scored four touchdowns and made three extra points as Ottawa trounced Friends University of Wichita 53-0. The Ottawa line smothered Friends' passer Larry Richardson in the Braves and Quakers battle. Southwestern showed its power as it turned loose a light but fast team as they raced by Kansas Wesleyan University 28-7 in a game at Winfield. Although a bit shaky at times, Southwestern appeared to have a potential equal to that of last year when they lost only one game.

Baker University of Baldwin scored two touchdowns in the first quarter and went on to beat Bethel College of Newton 20-6.

Despite the loss Bethel displayed a fine running game and appeared much stronger than last year.

College of Emporia, 1959 KCAC champs, scored two touchdowns in the first half and held out to beat Macollege 13-0.

After trailing Sterling College 6-7 at halftime Bethany scored two touchdowns in the last half to down Sterling 20-7.

All ten of the conference teams will be playing conference opponents again this weekend.

A look at the schedule shows: Tonight — Bethany at College of Emporia, Sterling at Baker.

Tomorrow night — Bethel at Ottawa, McPherson at Kansas Wesleyan, Friends at Southwestern.

Conference standings of Sept. 22 are:

Ottawa	1	0
Southwestern	1	0
College of Emporia	1	0
Baker	1	0
McPherson	0	1
Sterling	0	1
Kansas Wesleyan	0	1

Mac Bows To 1959 Champs In 13-0 Conference Opener

In their first game of the season, the McPherson College Bulldogs were defeated Saturday night at the college stadium by the College of Emporia Presbies with a score of 13 - 0.

Freshmen Learn How To Use College Library

During the next four weeks the freshmen will become acquainted with the library through both their orientation and English classes. Last Friday Miss Virginia Harris, the Macollege librarian, spoke to the orientation class on the general use of the library.

Beginning this week she will visit each written communications class once a week for four weeks. During these visits she will go into more detail about the use of the library and its materials.

Miss Harris has been here at the library at McPherson College for sixteen years. Before coming here she taught in a rural consolidated high school near Jennings, Louisiana. There she taught history and English for three years.

Miss Harris graduated from McPherson College in 1939 with an AB degree. She took summer school work during four summers and in 1945, acquired her Bachelor of Library Science degree. After four more summers of schooling a MLS degree was granted to her in 1955.

This year's student assistants in the library are: Lillian Aotaki, Margaret Cook, Barbara Dilley, Lyle Dobson, Eleanor Draper, Velma Harris, Kay Hartenstein, Kathryn Krehmeyer, and James Weaver.

Using a single-wing attack featuring the running of Nickols and Ware, the Presbies dominated the evening's play.

C. of E. favored to repeat as conference champs, started the scoring early in the game with a touchdown in the first quarter. An intercepted pass by Nickols near mid-field started the Presbie touchdown drive. The running of Ware off the single-wing spinner series produced the touchdown.

Presbies Take Two T.D.'s
The only other scoring of the game came in the second quarter. After taking a quick kick at mid-field, C. of E. marched to their second touchdown. A kick by Baker added the extra point making the score 13-0.

McPherson's big opportunity to score came late in the fourth quarter when Werner intercepted a deflected pass on the 14 yard-line. The drive was halted on the 4 yard-line when a fourth-down play fell short by inches.

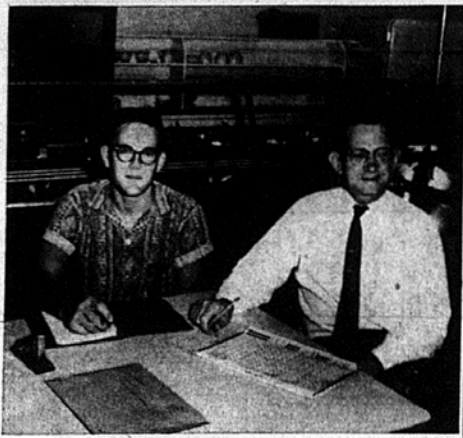

Mac Uses Quick Kick
One of the bright spots in the Bulldog camp was the kicking of Elmore and Hoch. The quick kick was used to good advantage by the Bulldogs and got them out of trouble on several occasions. One of Hoch's kicks fell dead on the one-foot line.

Coach Smith will probably be concerned about sharpening the team's offense, since the Bulldogs gained only 107 yards total offense against the Presbies.

Charles Herman Heads Campus Food Service

Mr. Charles Herman, head manager of the Slater Food Service located on Macollege campus, is no newcomer to the food field.

Mr. Herman has had 30 years of restaurant experience with 15 years of work as a chef. He has been with the Slater Food Service for the past eight years. Before coming to McPherson, Mr. Herman was manager at the Ford Auto Transmission Plant in Detroit, Mich., where 1200 people were fed every meal.

Headquarters

The Slater Food Service has its headquarters in Philadelphia, Pa., and has 400 nation wide operations.

These operations are found in 138 colleges, and also hospitals and industrial plants.

The food service served the 55,000 boys at the Boy Scout Jamboree in Colorado Springs, Colo., this past summer.

Menus

The menus for McPherson's food service are all planned three weeks in advance by a staff dietitian in Chicago, Ill. The menu gives a recipe number and then the recipe is found in the recipe file and all the food is prepared for Macollege students in this manner.

Mr. Herman is married and is the father of two children. The Hermans moved here prior to the opening of school from Detroit and are now living in a trailer court at 707 W. Kansas.

Food Staff

The food service staff on the campus includes Mrs. Ethel Sliker, assistant manager; Mrs. Clara

Hein, salads; Mrs. Thelma Yingling, head of salads, Miss Marie Boese, Baker; Mrs. Ann Bateman, evening salads, Mrs. Bonnie Stinehart, evening cook, Mrs. Tillie Williams, relief cook, Mrs. Violet Hanson, cook, and Miss Connie Yingling, general helper.

Contest

Mr. Herman is planning to run a pumpkin decoration contest for Halloween. Details for the contest will be placed on bulletin boards the first part of October.

Mr. Herman will try and make some pumpkins available to students for the contest and the judging for cash prizes will not deal with the most expensive decoration.

First Russian Class Taught By Czaplinski

"Eh-to Car-ren-dahsh ee eh-to po-to-lok" were some of the sounds coming from Mohler 218 as the first Russian class of Macollege started Wednesday, Sept. 14.

Eighteen students are enrolled in the class taught by Mr. Czaplinski, a native born Russian. It meets every Monday and Wednesday night at 7:25.

Sunday Services Offer Student Membership

McPherson's Church of the Brethren is offering student membership to all students of McPherson College, Sunday, September 25.

Student membership does not mean giving up home churches, but it ties students more fully to the College Church during school year. As a benefit, student members receive the McPherson Church of the Brethren news letter.

Membership cards to be filled out will be given at the beginning of the service to each student. Signing of a membership card is an annual event. Last year's membership is not effective for this year.

The student membership ceremony will come at the close of the worship service. Rev. Harold Bomberger, pastor, will preach the morning sermon, centering on the theme of student membership.

Sharp's Offices Will Gain New Tenants

Completion of Mohler Hall has brought some changes in Sharp Hall, the former Administration building. Although Sharp is not in the center of the limelight this year, a large amount of activity still presides within its walls.

Changes were made in offices to provide more space and better locations for professors and organizations who are not placed in Mohler Hall. Many of them are scheduled for future location in the new Student Union building upon its completion.

Prof. John Wadd has moved into Dean Geiser's old office and Irvin Wagner is located in the former Office of Admissions.

Student council and student court will hold their meetings in President Bittinger's old office. The Spectator will be located in the Registrar's office, and the Quadrangle will set up in Gordon Yoder's old office.

Dr. Frantz's old office will be the new headquarters for the MCA, and the Alumni office will be turned into a T.V. and record room. A game room will be located in the Regional Office.

Miss Siek's European Tour Provides Eventful Summer

Miss Mildred Siek, professor of home economics at McPherson College, toured Europe this summer with the Fashion and Textile Study Tour sponsored by Syracuse University of New York.

Miss Siek left McPherson on June 20 and stopped in Buffalo, New York, to visit her sister. At the end of her flight to New York City, the plane had to circle the city for two and a half hours because of foggy weather.

Finally landing at LaGuardia Airport, it was twenty minutes after her plane for Europe was supposed to leave Idlewild. However, this plane was also held back because of the weather.

Due to the lay-over, the airlines had reserved rooms in a hotel, and Miss Siek did not leave New York for Europe until 7 p.m. the next day. To make up for lost time, she was flown in a jet and landed at Paris in six hours.

Visits Berlin Relatives

Miss Siek was still late getting to Paris and as a result, missed her plane to Berlin, where she planned to visit relatives. None of them spoke English, and when she was finally united with them, it was Eva Maria Bellardi's older brother, Christian, who acted as interpreter.

After visiting with her relatives for a week, Miss Siek flew back to Paris and joined the Tour. While in Paris, the group visited the Textile Institute, Christian Dior's Boutique, an exclusive hat factory, a factory making hand-made flowers and Gobelins Tapestries.

Tour To Italy

In Leon, France, they toured a textile weaving school. The tour continued to Italy, Genoa, Rapola (Riviera of the Mediterranean), and Rome, where they saw "Aida." They stayed at the Caesar Augustus Hotel near where the Olympics were held.

While in Rome, they also saw the Pope. Tours were taken through a leather factory and a mosaic factory in Florence Italy.

In Venice, they visited a glass factory and a school where girls from five years of age on up make needlepoint lace. They also enjoyed a gondola serenade on the Grand Canal.

See "Passion Play"

Next, they traveled to Inspurg, Austria, and on to Oberammergau, Germany, to see the "Passion Play". In St Gallance, Switzerland, they toured an embroidery school and in Zurich, they took a river-boat ride up the Rhine River to the Rhine Falls.

While in Bonn, Miss Siek stayed in the same room that the Queen of Thailand had stayed in the night before.

Visit England

After visiting a bobbin-lace factory in Brussels, the group flew to London. Miss Siek was sick in bed for two days while in London, but she did see "My Fair Lady" and visited the wax factory where statues of the presidents are molded.

The tour then went to Stratford-on-the-Avon. They admired Windsor Castle, home of Queen Elizabeth, and toured a cashmere sweater factory in Edinburgh.

The group flew from Glasgow to Dublin where they saw the Irish Sweepstakes and visited the Irish designer, Sybil Connelly.

From Dublin, the Tour flew back to New York City, and Miss Siek arrived in McPherson on August 12.

Faculty Must Submit Syllabi
