Association Renews

Bridgewater's Membership

Bridgewater College's membership in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, the official educational accrediting agency in the South, has been renewed for another ten-year period. President Warren D. Bowman has been informed.

Bridgewater has been a member of the Southern Association since December, 1925.

Complete Self-study

Before Bridgewater's membership was renewed, the college had to satisfactorily complete an institutional self-study and an examination by a visiting committee of educators appointed by the Association.

Institutional self-study, which covered a period of two years, was directed by Dr. John W. Boitnott, the academic dean.

Letter From Sweet

President Bowman received in December a letter from Gordon W. Sweet, executive secretary of the Southern Association, congratulating Bridgewater on having satisfactorily completed the institutional self-study and periodic visitation program.

Every member has to satisfactorily complete such a self-study and visitation program once every ten years in order to retain its membership.

Ranks In Upper Third

Bridgewater's self-study revealed that the college directed 35 per cent of her graduates into graduate and professional schools, that it ranked among the upper third of all colleges in the nation in the number of graduates who obtained the doctorate in the arts, humanities, and social sciences between 1936-39.

Bridgewater ranked 60th among all colleges of the nation in the proportion of male graduates who received the M.D. degree during the ten-year period from 1959-59.

It also ranked in the upper third of all colleges in the nation in the number of graduates who held positions on the faculties of 284 colleges studied in 1955.

Miller Describes Life As Exchange Student

Judy Miller, Macollege's exchange student to Germany, sent a Christmas letter to "friends the world over" relating experiences of living and studying in Göttingen, Germany.

For two months, Judy studied the culture — eating, sleeping, music, history, geography, and bathing — at Goethe Institute in Iserlohn.

Trip Down Rhine

Upon finishing the course in German culture, Judy took a trip down the Rhine from Cologne to Wiesbaden and the Mosel from Koblenz to Cochem by motor scooter.

A German-American Conference for young people was held at the Internation Haus Sonneberg in the Harz Mountains. Some of the Germans who had fled East Germany were at the conference.

'Part Of It'

After adjusting to a different school system, Judy says, "I feel as if I'm a part of it. Here I find that music can be and is the best 'international language.' as I'm having quite a few opportunities for musical experience."

Judy spends time in such activities as the Evangelical Church youth group, a Bible study group in the dorm and also takes time to exchange ideas with interested persons and fellowships with the Brethren Service Volunteers at Kassel House.

Good Luck, Bev!

Editor Concludes Semester By Saying 'Thank You'

By Carolyn Trapp

As this semester draws to a close, many students are relieved to finish courses and finals. The prospect of a new semester with different classes is appealing to most of us, even the professors.

This is my last issue, and I am relieved to a certain extent also. Although I have greatly enjoyed being editor-in-chief of the SPECTATOR, there has been a lot of work and worry involved.

In a way I will not miss struggling to meet deadlines. However, I know already that I will miss the work and the fun involved in being editor.

I feel confident that I leave the paper in good hands when Beverly Judge becomes next semester's editor. She has been a diligent and dependable assistant who has been invaluable to me.

Also, I want to thank the faculty for being cooperative and helpful in supplying information for the Spec. A special "thank you" goes to Mrs. Brunk who, in the capacity of advisor, has been a great help to me and to the entire staff.

As I conclude my last editorial, I want to thank everyone who has helped with this semester's Spec and to the campus who has taken an interest in the paper.

Best wishes to you, Bev, for a successful and rewarding semester as editor-in-chief of the SPECTATOR.

'Out Of Order' Becomes New Macampus Sign

By Magoo

Modern America is a nation of signs. Signs like: "Eat at Joe's," "Speed Limit 25," and "Whites Only" are frequently seen in various places. Macollege has not escaped.

The sign most frequently seen around Macampus — specifically in the SU—is one reading "Out of Order." What connotations arise from these three words.

Save Money

Vending machines were installed in our gleaming new SU to save money. To save who money? Why, the SU, of course. A poor, down-trodden student can find little sympathy when he inserts his coin in any one of eight modern devices and gets nothing. The machine is "Out of Order;" the student is the first to discover it.

The owner of these eight slot machines is concerned about students "cheating" him with some of the creations. What does he do to rectify the injustice done when a student pays a dime for two or three ounces of pop, or a papery cup of coffee, or a nickel candy bar?

Long Road

The students at Macollege are being taken down a long road. They pay $40 a semester for the SU in tuition, then wing up giving someone—does anyone know who?—an additional vast sum through those machines. The major difference between these machines and those in Reno and Las Vegas is that in Nevada, you stand a chance of winning.

There is a solution. If enough students will urge that the SU Committee throw out these coin-operated cretins and install a living human being, it just might be done.

Dilemma Arises Over Practices Of Barber Shops

Dear Editor,

Recently a student friend of mine mentioned to me that it is impossible for Negroes to have their hair cut in local barber shops. Having received only the warmest of welcomes upon moving here, I found this difficult to comprehend.

Since then I have been to different McPherson barbers and have had this unfortunate situation confirmed.

Union Regulations

The difficulties as explained by the barbers center around local union regulations, pressures by clientele and city groups and a lack of training for such barbering in the barber colleges of the area.

In conversation the men agreed with me that we bear the responsibility of exhibiting the basic tenets of democracy.

When practiced, however, one local shop experienced a loss of trade as well as union and civic pressures.

Problem Not Easy

The problem is not an easy one and the answer certainly does not lie entirely within a small group of local barbers.

But I am faced with the choice between a nagging conscience, a bi-weekly trip out of town, or a very shaggy coiffure.

Pondering With The President

Who Will Take The Walls Down?

It is interesting to watch the bettering conditions between Russia and the U.S.A. As of this moment at least two editorial writers have ventured to suggest that within a few years we may be allies again.

This will come about, they suggest, because we face common problems or perils. One is the continuing rise of China both as a world power and eventually as a competitor in world trade. If China begins to industrialize on a large scale and to sell in a world market they may so badly undersell other countries that economic, rather than military problems will dominate world headlines.

The common market in Europe likewise causes new thinking. Our Congress, in agonizing pain, will seriously readjust some tariffs.

Problems of economics, unemployment, and hunger are not held back by walls and curtains. In fact, walls and curtains must come down if we would solve them. But who has the courage to start taking down walls?

Former Student Relates News Of BVS In Europe

Jerry Tietjens, BVS'er working in Germany, wrote the following letter Dec. 28. It is reprinted through the courtesy of his twin, Terry. Jerry is a former Macollege student, and Terry is a sophomore here.

Dear Friends,

"I am just going to be Kassel until Jan. 2. I will go by train to Italy then by boat to Sardinia. On the road I will be going through the Swiss Alps. This should be a very beautiful scene at this time of year.

Today I was talking to Mac Coffman, Germany BVS director. He said there was a good chance I would stop off somewhere in Italy and study Italian for a month. This is the language most commonly spoken in Sardinia.

I will be going by myself. There are two other Americans at the project, the director and his family and a fellow from Pennsylvania.

do not visit other families on this day.

Visit Friends
On the second day some visiting is done among friends in the neighborhood. Our Christmas dinner was not large, but nice.

Tomorrow is New Year's Eve. We will go to church early in the evening, then play games until midnight. A neighboring family is invited over for the evening.

I have seen a little of Kassel by now. We may go to a museum tomorrow afternoon (Sunday).

Yesterday our group visited the Friedland refugee camp and the east German border which are not too far from here. At this camp there are only about 50 refugees coming a day. Only those which are officially released by the communist government in the Eastern zone are coming through.

Barbed Wire Fence
The border is merely a heavy barbed wire fence with a plowed strip along the side. At the place where we were, there were soldiers patrolling both sides. I think the West German soldiers were mainly to keep mobs of people from tearing down the fence and possibly getting hurt or killed. (I am taking a few pictures of things as I go).

It is very cold in Germany this time of year. It is always below freezing, but since our arrival here we have had very little snow. In spite of a great deal of walking in the cold, I have been quite well. Naturally, I do dress as warmly as I can. Tomorrow, we are having my favorite dinner, the good old German dish "Kartoffel pfann-kuchen," (potato pancakes). This will be for the noon meal. The other meals here are generally very light. Team Records Four Victories

Kenneth Ullom and Weyland Beeghly, debating in their fifth tournament of the year, chalked up a 4-1 record at the annual William Jewell "Blizzard Tournament" in Liberty, Mo.

Ullom and Beeghly defeated N. E. Missouri State, Nebraska Wesleyan, Graceland, and the University of Kansas City. Their sole defeat was at the hands of the University of Missouri, a team which was undefeated.

Only five of the eighty two teams participating in the tournament won all of their debates.

Next Friday the McCollege debate squad will journey to Pittsburg, for a two-day tournament consisting of six rounds of debate. The Pittsburg tournament also includes contests in oratory, television speaking, and extempore speaking.

Visit Tractor Factory
Sunday morning, yesterday four of us had a very pleasant day in Eschwege. Brigitte, another German girl, Ruth, Wayne Bert, from Abilene, and I went by train to spend the day there. In Germany the train is the cheapest form of transportation.

The main reason Wayne and I went was to visit a tractor factory.

Of the 11 of us here, six will be going to Austria, and will leave Tuesday morning. Four will be staying in Germany, and I will leave for Italy Tuesday evening or sometime Wednesday. Three of those going to Austria will be going to Poland in about a month when their visas come through.
