

Student Council Approves Petitions, Recommendations

Student Council of Macollege met last week to discuss petitions and recommendations presented to them by students and the Board of Publications.

A petition was signed by 210 students to have a concession stand in the Student Union to be operated by the students. The Council voted and passed a recommendation to fulfill these hopes and sent it to the Administrative Committee for action.

Kay Weber and Muriel Gibson were chosen by the Board of Publications to attend a workshop for newspaper editing and year-book publication during June 10-16 at Kansas State University. The Student Council also passed this recommendation.

Editors Next Year
Kay, a junior from McPherson, will be editor of the QUADRANGLE next year, and Muriel, sophomore from Keota, Iowa, will be editor-in-chief of the SPECTATOR next semester.

Library
The Board of Publications also recommended a library of 10 or 12 books to be placed in the offices of the Quad and Spec as reference material. The cost would be approximately $50 and would be paid for by the Board of Publications reserve. The student council approved of this purchase.

The Council also passed a recommendation that library hours be extended on Friday and Saturday evenings and open on Sunday afternoon, especially near final exams.

Let It Die?

United Nations Needs Support, Not Condemnation

By Beverly Judge

A college student, apparently one who had given the matter considerable thought, flatly stated that the United Nations should be allowed to die.

His basic premise was that through its many weaknesses, the United Nations does more harm than good.

Among those weaknesses cited were the veto power of Russia over the Security Council, the giving of American foreign aid to Communist Cuba, and the failure of Communist countries to pay membership dues in full.

The truth of these weaknesses is not to be overlooked, but it is a dangerous and a cowardly policy to recommend the disintegration of a world-wide organization which was formed for the purpose of creating peace through the cooperation of the governments of the world.

If the United Nations is to be an effective world instrument in shaping man's mind, then man himself needs to give careful consideration of the organization.

Suggesting the death of the United Nations is like telling the man who is overwhelmed with his own shortcomings that his best bet is to commit suicide.

Instead of condemnation, this man needs support, forgiveness, and trust in his own worth and capacity to do the right and moral thing.

Is this not applicable to the United Nations? Could this not work in remedying the weakness of the United Nations?

OAS Loses Effectiveness In Vote To Oust Cuba

By Wes Albin

The OAS is the Organization of American States, and included in the membership of this organization are Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, United States, Uruguay, Venezuela, and formerly Cuba.

Within the past two weeks, thirteen American countries plus the United States as the main promoter voted to oust Cuba from this organization. This move was opposed by six other OAS members.

Policy

Up to this time it had been the policy of the organization to maintain friendly relationships among the American nations and to form a unified block in dealings with the rest of the world.

It may be questionable as to how effective the OAS was in this latter objective, but it is a fact that when it was unified on an international issue the OAS was respected.

It did enjoy considerable success in maintaining friendly relations among the American countries.

Conflict Involved

What is the conflict involved?

Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador, and Mexico, under the leadership of Brazil, wanted to use a softer policy towards Cuba but the United States was too set in its ways in its fight against Communism to save the unity of the OAS.

We wanted "to deprive the present government of Cuba of all participation in organs and organizations of the American system."

Looking at it from the Communist point of view, what influence it lost by losing its membership in the OAS, it has regained in the hard feelings created between the countries involved.

Weakened

In my opinion, the fourteen nations have only weakened the effectiveness of the inter-American organization.

As it was stated in the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL recently, "The rift put some of the biggest and most powerful nations in the American family in public opposition to the United States."

Not only has one of the organization's members been kicked out, but hard feelings have arisen between the two opposing sides.

Student Asks Men To Support Integrated Shops

Dear Editor,

I very much appreciated the letter of Professor Blickenstaff in the SPECTATOR concerning the attitude of McPherson barbers toward cutting hair growing from a dark colored skin, also some remarks of Professor Porter in class dealing with the same basic problem.

I wonder if the men students of McPherson College would support a barber, if one can be found, that would cut hair regardless of race, religion or national background.

Weaken Argument

If they would, it would greatly weaken the argument of the barbers that they would lose business.

If no such barber can be found in McPherson then I would be glad to fill my car periodically as I go to a neighboring town to an integrated shop.

Hawthorne Exposes Struggles In "Young Goodman Brown"

By Harley Stump
Assistant Professor Of English

Among the short stories of Nathaniel Hawthorne, "Young Goodman Brown" remains one of the most baffling to students of literature and of philosophy.

For in this story of approximately 5000 words, Hawthorne apparently rips the thin veneer from the soul of man and exposes the inner struggles to all the world.

The author's intent remains somewhat obscure, but a careful reading will reveal that he was dealing with man's basic problem: man himself. In doing so, one of McPherson College's Ph. D.'s, I might even encourage him to try again. Time heals all things even haircuts.

I am suggesting the students and faculty do something. Here's a suggestion that would separate the men from the males.

Russell Eisenbise

he becomes involved in the mental, spiritual, and psychological explorations of man

Pilgrimage

Briefly, Young Goodman Brown leaves his bride, Faith, in the evening and makes a pilgrimage into the woods to meet with the devil, and to be baptized before the latter's shrine.

In so journeying, Brown discovers that his minister, his former Sunday School teacher, his respected friends and neighbors, and even his parents are worshipping before that shrine.

He likewise discovers that even though he has left Faith behind, she is beside him in the woods and in the moment that he decides to follow the devil the pink ribbons of innocence come fluttering down out of the heavens.

In the end, Brown goes back to his village to live a life of guilt-filled despondency and dies in complete despair.

Interpretations

There are several levels of interpretation. In the first place, when this story is regarded from a religious viewpoint, man often decides to wander from his faith and fireside into the woods of carnal living. But he cannot leave his faith securely behind for it must likewise be tested and tried before the altar of evil.

In the second consideration, a philosophical level, man's thirst for too much knowledge drives him deeper into the woods of speculative reason and tends to separate him from his faith.

Finally, on the third level, which is psychological, a very vague allusion to the consummation of love between man and maid is made. Lacking the proper attitude toward faith and love, the individual discovers that this particular relationship can become

Pondering With The President

At New Delhi

By D. W. Bittinger

Representatives of the various churches of the world have returned from an international meeting in New Delhi, India.

At this meeting a number of new churches were admitted to World Council membership. Among these was the Orthodox Church of Russia. It required a lot of praying, discussion and thought before the vote was cast to include this church.

This is perhaps the largest single denomination in the world, ranging from 30 to 50 million in membership. Some thought that this placed the Council definitely on the side of Communism.

Others thought that Christians should reach sustaining and helping hands to each other as they labor under varying kinds of difficulty to find the will of God. In this spirit the hand of fellowship was extended to Christian brothers in Russia.

This world organization is not a super-church. Rather, it is the Church international, seeking, each from its own denominational and national background, to find the will of God for it, in the area where it works and, also how it can be a helpful part of the total work of the church in the world.

I have always been pleased that we at McPherson can have, in one student body, representatives from all races, many denominations, and often, from many of the major religions of the world. The sharing process helps us all in the seeking and growing process.

Last Minute Rally Fails; Sterling Tops Bulldogs

Sterling College, building a substantial lead in the early part of the game, had to battle desperately in the closing minutes to defeat the Maccollege Bulldogs 70 to 68.

The victory left Sterling with a 7-4 Kansas Conference record and McPherson with 3-9.

Warriors' Height

McPherson had trouble coping with the Warriors' height and consequently fell behind in the early stages of the game.

Midway in the first half Coach Smith sent in the second string and they sparked a scoring drive that cut the margin to three points 26-23, but later in the half the Warriors pulled away and widened the margin.

Reduced Sterling Lead

Trailing by 15 points in the second half, the Bulldogs began to whittle away at the Sterling lead. Time ran out with the Warriors winning by two points.

High scorers for Sterling were Ken Becker with 21 points and Larry Marker made 14. Deryl Elmore led the Bulldogs with 15 points while Marion Enke tallied 13.

Tom Kinder of Ottawa was high scorer of the game with 28 points. Close behind him was Deryl Elmore of McPherson with 27 points, including 13 of 15 free throw attempts.

Late in the first half Ottawa managed to pull away to a 47-36 lead over McPherson. The last half Ottawa outscored McPherson only 38-35.

Meet The Faculty

Porter's Interests Center
Around Travel, Education

Travel and education are among the main activities in the life of McPherson College's assistant professor of German and literature, Robert G. Porter.

Porter, a native of Richmond, Calif., during the early years of his life. His family later moved to Washington. Porter graduated from Roosevelt High School, Seattle, Wash., in 1950.

He received his B.A. degree in English literature in 1954 from Pomona College, Claremont, Calif.

Joined BVS

At Pomona, Porter participated in various organizations—Choir, Glee Club, and American Friends Service Committee work camps. Participation in the AFSC, a Quaker sponsored organization, prompted, what Mr. Porter designates as his most important decision, to join the Brethren Volunteer Service program following graduation.

In 1954, following his entrance into BVS work, Porter left for Germany, where he remained for three years. His first assignment in BVS was camp representative in Kassel, Germany from 1955-56.

He was transferred in 1956 from Kassel to Hamburg, Germany to fill the position of refugee resettlement officer.

Wilbur Mullen, former McPherson College dean of admissions, was director of the BVS operations in Hamburg when the future Macollege instructor arrived.

Annual Week
Of Secret Deeds

A costume party concluding Macollege's Heart Sister Week will be held Monday night, Feb. 12, in Dotzour lounge instead of the Student Union as previously stated. The party will consist of a short program, refreshments, and gift exchange.

Women whose last name begins with letters from A-M will meet at 9:15 p.m., and women whose name begins with letters from L-Z will meet at 10 p.m.

Macollege women are to bring a 25 cent gift for their Heart Sister. Two labeled boxes will be placed in the hall by Dotzour mailboxes.

All women should have the gifts for their Heart Sister in the proper box by 9:30 Monday night. The giver's name is revealed at this time.

Heart Sister names were drawn after chapel last Friday. Mac women have been doing small deeds and giving inexpensive gifts to their Heart Sisters during the week.

Traveled Extensively

Mr. Porter traveled extensively in over thirteen countries during his BVS service, and discovered a number of places to be added to his collection of "favorite places on earth". The coast of Yugoslavia, the hills of Hessen and Schwaben, Florence, and the old cities of Portugal and Holland are among those in this category.

Upon completion of his volunteer service in 1957, Porter returned to the United States to undertake graduate study at the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.

He received his M.A. in Comparative Literature (English and German) in 1959, and left shortly thereafter to return to Germany; this time for post-graduate work at Tubingen University, Wurttemberg, Germany.

Returned To United States

Porter remained in Germany studying and traveling until the fall of 1960 when he returned to the United States to teach English and German at South Bend High School, South Bend, Wash.

Porter came to Macollege last fall.

German, First Year French, Written Communications, and Introduction to Literature are the subjects in which he instructs at Macollege. He is also foreign student advisor, German Club sponsor, and participant in various other campus and faculty activities.

Porter's future plans include obtaining a Ph.D. in Comparative Literature.
