Metzler Celebrates 25th Year At Mac

Dr. Burton Metzler, professor of philosophy and religion, was presented a pin commemorating his 25th year of teaching at Macollege at the Faculty-Trustee Banquet last night. Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of the college presented the award to Dr. Metzler.

Dr. Metzler was born in 1894 in Indiana and grew up on a farm country school. He attended Manchester

Students To Submit Questions For Chapel

"Are college students of today as concerned with religion as college students of five or ten years ago?" This may be one type of question submitted to the religious panel appearing in chapel next Tuesday.

Students may submit written questions of a religious or moral nature to the four-man panel for discussion.

Dale Brown, assistant professor of philosophy and religion at McPherson College, announced that students may submit their questions to his office before Chapel on Tuesday or at the door when entering chapel.

After entering Bethany Biblical Seminary he married Alma Stump of Indiana. After receiving his B.D. degree at Bethany, they filled a one-year pastorate in a small Indiana church.

Junior Year Abroad

Upperclassmen Will Study At Marburg University

Study for the first year of the Junior Year Abroad Program, sponsored by the six Church of the Brethren Colleges, will be at Marburg University, Marburg, Germany.

Marburg University has an enrollment of 7000 students of whom 354 are foreign students.

McPherson College may send three students out of a total of twenty-five from the Brethren Colleges. Application blanks are now available to any interested juniors or seniors.

Dr. William Willoughby of Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., will accompany the group to Germany.

Housing

Of the 25 students, half of them will live in a Brethren house with an equal number of foreign students for one semester. The remaining students will be placed in German homes which will give them direct contact to the German people. For the second semester the students will be shifted so that each group may benefit from both living conditions.

At Marburg University the students will all meet in regular German classes. In addition, Dr. Willoughby will be teaching courses in English. Students will lose no credit through this practice.

The estimated total cost will range from $1400 to $1500 for each student. This sum may be paid in installments.

Leave USA This Summer

Departure time is not definite but it will be sometime this summer. It is hoped that an extensive study of the German language would be pursued before actual classes begin.

The time spent in the University will be equivalent to that spent in universities in the United States. However, some students may wish to spend more time in Germany which will be worked out in future plans.

Vacations may be spent traveling in different parts of Europe. The Junior Year Abroad Program is still being prepared. More information will be available regarding this program.

Cast Members Start Rehearsals For One-Act Play

Cast members have been announced and rehearsals are now in session for the one-act play, "Suppressed Desires" which is to be presented in chapel Tuesday, March 20.

Garth Wood, junior from Panora Iowa, will portray the part of Stephen Brewster with Irma Wyomere, senior from Beatrice, Neb., portraying his wife Henrietta Brewster. Betty Oltman, senior from Enders, Neb., portrays the role of Mabel, Henrietta's sister. The play will be directed by Kay Weber, junior from McPherson.

Cilli Wang Shows Confidence In Cultural Series Performance

By Robert Porter
and Doris Coppock

(Editor's note—Mr. Porter is assistant professor of German and literature, and Miss Coppock is assistant professor of physical education for women.)

As Cilli Wang performed on the Brown Auditorium stage last Saturday night, introducing us into her World, we felt she gained a delightful response from her audience.

In part this was a result of her confidence in the profession of a pantomimist. In the preceding two Cultural Series performances, this confidence of the performer in his art has been unfortunately lacking, being substituted by a superficial showmanship.

Cilli Wang, however, was in control of many skills. She is an acrobat, herself, a dancer, and a comedienne. We enjoyed particularly the rhythm of her portrait of the Painter in His Studio. The two dance imitations, Pas de Deux, and Society Dancing were delightful as was the caricature of the Chambermaid.

It is also refreshing to see the humor in human drama. Through her confidence in these skills she acquainted us with a number of types and a variety of exotic creatures, taking us into a world of her own creation.

We are privileged to experience talent of this nature today. Appreciation for the vaudeville tradition has waned, and only on television do most of us get a chance to see individual performers in action. These give us no idea of the variety one may enjoy in vaudeville on the stage.

Still On Stage

Perhaps it is significant that in Europe one can still see this type of entertainment on the stage. The European delights in humor founded on a social system in which types abound partly owing to a more pronounced class structure.

He appreciates the talents of the individual, and is more capable than we of amusing himself with his friends and relatives at home.

One of the most enjoyable theater experiences I had in Europe was at the Hansa Theater in Hamburg, where one may see the best in European vaudeville all year.

The show on the stage captures the attention of the audience with its display of skills, its variety, its humor, and the timing of the acts with the orchestra in the pit which sustains the mood or sets the scene for a change of pace.

We were glad of the response of our audience to Cilli Wang's accompanist, Mr. De Vries who was an indispensable partner in the act, providing background and rhythm for the star's performances and sustaining audience interest while she was off stage. The coordination of the music and the dance pantomime was often so perfect one had to wonder which was the initial stimulus.

Extravaganza Productions

One cannot help deploring the development of a taste in the American public for extravaganza productions fed to us from Hollywood which seems convinced that Americans will buy only mediocrity. A few brave producers, and it takes bravery in the face of financial failure, are beginning to see that there is still a market for quality.

The same remarks could easily apply to a cultural series. We

George Snyder, junior from Altoona, Pa., will be house manager.

Costumes

Approximately 40 costumes were borrowed from the University of Arizona but approximately 10-12 more skirts were needed. Those working costumes are Janice Webber, sophomore from Mound City, Mo.; Roberta Varner, senior from Kansas City, Mo.; and Sandra Walty, junior from Windom.

Final preparations for both scenery and costumes are now being made. Starting tomorrow all costumes will be used. At the present only the dancers are in costume.

owe it to ourselves and to our community to bring only the best that our money can buy to this area, otherwise isolated from the worlds of the theater, music, and art.

We have confidence that the McPherson student and the McPherson citizen would react enthusiastically to quality.

Pondering With The President

Welcome Trustees

By D. W. Bittinger

Dear Trustees:

It is good to have you come to see us this week. Even though we do not see you often we know that you are important to the life of the College.

If it had not been for adventuresome and far-seeing trustees who founded McPherson College 75-years ago we would not be here now as students and teachers, and you who are the present trustees would not be related to higher education at McPherson as you are.

We urge you to dream well in 1962 for 2062. Although there are certain dangers and difficulties lurking about we would like to see you plan courageously, knowing that our generation can overcome these just as our forefathers overcame theirs.

We have faith in the future and our ability to be used of God to help shape it.

We who are second and third generation McPherson students want to have a good college for the fourth generation! So plan well in 1962!

Coach Captures Christian Spirit In Athletics

Dear Editor,

The following conversation was overheard in the locker room after a basketball game:

First referee: "Sid, that's one thing about you. You never give us any trouble. We know when we work one of your games, you will honor our right to call the game as we see it."

Second referee: (with twinkle in his eye): "I thought for a while tonight though that you were going to give us a bit of trouble. Once I saw you shift your position and cross your legs the other way."

Sid Smith is an excellent example, not only for the athletes he coaches to emulate, but for all of us.

Such an attitude captures the Christian spirit in athletics. I like the image Sid portrays as our coach!

Alarm Fails To Arouse Arnold Residents

Dear Editor,

At about 5 a.m. Sunday morning, the fire alarm system of Arnold Hall awoke a few startled residents of the immediate vicinity.

Although it was a prank which aroused a few not so pleasant remarks from those of us who were rudely awakened, it brought to light a stark fact.

If there had been a fire in Arnold Hall that morning, barely half of the hall would have been awakened by the alarm.

All of the residents of the first floor and two-thirds of those on second were awakened. But those at the far end of the second floor and most of those on third were not disturbed from their sleep.

Arnold Hall's fire alarm system is inadequate, and thus dangerous in a building which is such a match box anyway. There should be a horn on each floor located where the telephone buzzers are.

Because of the age and condition of the dorm, the least we could have would be the comfort of knowing that we have a fire alarm system loud enough to wake us from our sleep.

Nationalism Replaces Imperialism In Africa

Nggida Gadzama

Perhaps the greatest thing that has happened to Africa today is the growing nationalism of the Africans replacing the disliked foreign imperialism.

Imperialism has indeed undergone many stages in that continent and is serving its final function as one of the best words for propaganda. Not everything that imperialism stands for is bad, but so often it is vehemently criticized by the Africans.

Are the Africans prejudiced when they do so? What moral right has one nation to continue to rule over another nation without the other's consent, remembering that this is the consequence of colonization rather than war?

Inside Africa

John Gunther in his book, "Inside Africa," made a sweeping statement that there is not a single educated African without some feeling of nationalism for good or for ill.

It is also said that if there is an educated African's common language it is nationalism. This certainly becomes a word of many ways and ends.

Individuals Are Important

It is my impression as an African that there is a great feeling of the individual's importance in the Africans. To see a fuller meaning of this individual's freedom, an African with his growing nationalism must have a sound education. For nationalism without education is a dangerous fire.

This new feeling of nationalism has played the greatest part in Africa's modern panorama and will continue to do so.

It is the sincere desire of the young Africans that it does not become Africa's schizophrenia or the T. N. T. of the mysterious continent.

"I have counted it a great privilege to teach at McPherson College. Sometimes I feel that college students of today are more serious-minded and better students than those of my day," Metzler says.

Dr. and Mrs. Metzler have three children and fifteen grandchildren. They are: Mrs. David Albright (Ann), Fort Wayne, Indiana; Mrs. Paul Wagoner (Mary) McPherson; and David, who teaches philosophy and religion at Bridgewater College.

Rev. Albright is pastor in the Fort Wayne church while Mrs. Albright teaches English in junior high school. Paul Wagoner is director of alumni affairs at Maccollege.

Second Half Proves Fatal; Mac Drops Game 77-74

A cold second half proved fatal for the Bulldogs as they dropped an 18-point lead and lost to Kansas Wesleyan 77-74 on Feb. 22.

The Bulldogs took an early lead and widened the margin as the game progressed. At the half they led 47-31. They hit 47 per cent of their shots from the field while Wesleyan was able to hit only 41 per cent.

Turning Point

The second half was the turning point of the game and in a matter of minutes Wesleyan had cut the Bulldog's lead to only 12 points.

With Wesleyan hitting 53 per cent of its shots during the second half and the Bulldogs hitting only 33 per cent, the game was soon tied at 56-56.

The score was tied twice and then the visiting Coyotes spurted ahead 71-60.

Scoring Attack

The Bulldogs then staged a scoring attack and narrowed the eleven point gap to 71-66. Wesleyan then made three trips to the free throw line and collected six points winning the game 77-74.

Wesleyan won the game at the free throw line making 21 out of 26 attempts.

Max Francis of Wesleyan and Deryl Elmore shared scoring honors with 25 points each.

Debate Teams To See Action At Winfield

Five of the nine McPherson students participating today and tomorrow in the St. Johns College debate tournament at Winfield, are competing for the first time in an official tournament.

Two debate teams, Lowell Snyder and John Harrison and Weyland Beeghly and Kenneth Ullom are competing in the seven rounds of debate.

Students competing in individual events are: Judy Fox in Book Review; Becky Mettlin, Kay Shever, Judy Fox, and Janice Rankin in the story telling event; John Harrison in extemporaneous speaking; Ullom and Snyder in radio news casting; and Janice Rankin, Bonnie Eberly, and Judy Fox in Bible interpretation.

Eberly, Mettlin and Shever are also participating in poetry interpretation.

Mrs. CARA LOU ELLWOOD and Mrs. Darlene Blickenstaff, (right) Maccollege instructors in art, used the silk-screen method in making posters to advertise tomorrow night's "Danse Fantastique." In this method paint is forced through the silk-screen stencil by a squeegee.

Student Models Needed

Student models are needed for the afternoon Monday, Wednesday, and Friday drawing classes. Modelling involves sitting and standing in various positions and costumes for ten to thirty minute periods.

Models are paid 50 cents per hour. Interested students may contact Mrs. Darlene Blickenstaff, instructor in art, immediately.

Snyder, Ullom and Beeghly will participate in the impromptu speaking event in addition to debate competition. Beeghly will also compete in the oratory event.

This tournament is classified as a junior tournament open only to college freshman and sophomore participants.

Beeghly, Ullom, Snyder and Harrison are experienced Maccollege debaters. The remaining five participants competing in individual events are members of the practical debate course being conducted this semester. This is their first experience in an official collegiate debate tournament.
