Fuzzy Face Ford Reveals Inhibitions, Complexes, Etc.

Peter Ford, junior from Rochester, Minn., who will play the leading male role in "Papa Is All," says "I wear a beard because I am effeminate; I want to prove something—what, I don't know yet; and I want to hide my ugly face."

This statement comes as reaction to many unwarranted comments here on campus. Peter started a beard by first growing a moustache in early March, 1962. He worked at the Mayo Clinic during the summer and never heard too much about the moustache from his co-workers.

This fall, when he heard that the Macollege Players Club was planning to produce "The Miracle Worker," Peter started the full beard. The full beard served very well in aiding Peter to characterize Captain Keller.

After the last production of "The Miracle Worker," many students felt that Peter would shave his beard. But Peter had other feelings on the subject. He said, "Since I aim to prove something, I'll keep the beard."

Then Peter decided to try out for a part in "Papa Is All." He tried out for and landed the part of Papa. The beard will again be of use to Peter, since Papa is a Mennonite.

When will Peter shave his beard? He isn't sure. "When I do, I will definitely not shave all of it."

TWO WAR BABIES—Peter Ford and his 1941 Cadillac Fleetwood reflect upon the good old days when cars were cars and men were men as they pause along side of a lonely country road east of McPherson.

Trio Vocalizes Here Feb. 20

Converging from different parts of the nation, but with a common love for folk song, The American Folk Trio will present the next Cultural Series program in Brown Auditorium next Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.

All three members of the group—Dave Sear, Sonja Savig and Tony Saleton—had considerable experience in folk singing before joining together to form the American Folk Trio.

David Sear started strumming

a banjo-uke at age eight and then attended a small, private school in New York City with emphasis on folk singing.

Sear enrolled in Black Mountain College in North Carolina to continue his education. While there, he spent hours wandering among the mountain people, collecting their songs.

He has appeared with Harry Belafonte on the stage, and has worked with the Weavers and other folk musicians at Town Hall in New York City.

Sonja Savig grew up in Denver, Colo., singing folk songs as a small girl.

Miss Savig graduated from the University of Denver and taught dance and physical education in Denver, Los Angeles and New York.

She quit teaching after several years and switched to the musical comedy stage, holding stock and off-Broadway leads in "Carousel," "Brigadoon" and "Little Mary Sunshine."

Later Sonja toured Scandinavia, native home of her parents, hearing more songs of the North. While studying at the University of Oslo, she learned to play the Langeleik, an eight-stringed Norwegian folk instrument similar to the dulcimer.

Tony Saleton has sung and strummed for crowds from Carnegie Hall to Hong Kong, Pakistan and Cambodia.

He spent a year-and-a-half wandering the world under State Department and other auspices. Tony had three big pieces of luggage: a banjo, a guitar and a tape recorder.

Saleton sang and taught American songs and listened and recorded folk music all across Asia and the Middle East.

The young man from Massachusetts is responsible for discovering and spreading "Cindy, Oh Cindy," and "Michael Row the Boat Ashore," among other folk songs.

Missions Still Vital, According to Burger

By Linda Coulson
"The future of missions is as broad as the world," according to the Rev. Richard Burger; guest speaker during the Christian Emphasis Series at the College Church and MacCollege.

"In those countries where the relations between nationals and expatriates or between races have been enlightened, as it seems to me they were in Nigeria, the future of missions is bright."

"The tradition of the mission is of basic importance, for the mission must win the respect of the people." Quoting Indian Prime Minister Nehru, Burger said, "The Brethren have won the right to stay in India," and he believes that this also applies to Nigeria. (The Rural Development Program is the most recent development made in our mission work," stated Burger and he believes that it has won us a great volume of good will. As a missionary to Nigeria, Burger was closely identified with the origin of the program.

In discussing the problems facing mission work, Burger said, "Whether we like it or not, we are identified with two great historical forces—first, the imperialism and colonialism of the West with its attitude of racial superiority, and second, the cold war."

"Making an articulate, creative and positive Christian witness to people who really identify us with these two forces constitutes our greatest problem."

"It's easy for us to leave the impression that the foreign mission enterprise is going into some kind of an eclipse and that the need for our young people to volunteer has diminished. This is not true," commented Burger.

"We should probably stop calling it the foreign mission enterprise—the whole movement needs and has gone through some refinements, but for young people who want to serve, who want to cooperate in making a better world, and who feel a deep motivation to witness for their faith, the cause has not diminished."

Bittinger Change Work at Taiwan

Dr. R. W. Bittinger, president of MacCollege, who is spending his sabbatical leave of absence under the Fulbright Lectureship Program, has begun work as professor in sociology at the National Taiwan University.

He had previously held a similar position at Tunghai University. Mrs. Bittinger has also begun her position as an instructor in French at the National Taiwan University.

Dr. Bittinger, with several Fulbright students and exchange teachers, recently took a trip to the western side of Taiwan-Formosa where they were met by Aborigines.

Dr. and Mrs. Bittinger plan to return to the United States in the last part of May.

Spec Corrects Error

Last week's Spectator reported that Sigurd Rascher will appear in a concert with the Wind Ensemble. Actually Mr. Rascher will appear with the Concert Band March 2 in the McPherson High School Auditorium.

Burt's Ceramics on Display Here Throughout February

Ceramics work, created by Clyde E. Burt, studio potter and instructor, is on display in Friendship Hall. The pieces of art, all for sale, will be displayed throughout February.

Burt, a native of Melrose, Ohio, began his art studies at Langors Commercial Art School, Toledo, Ohio, and did advanced work at the Fort Wayne Art School, Fort Wayne, Ind.

He later studied at Provincetown, Mass., and Bloomfield Hills, Mich., where for two years he majored in ceramics under Maija Groteel.

His wife, Anita, also an art student, works with him in their "pot-shop."

Burt has been an instructor in ceramics at Ohio Northern University, Dayton Art Institute, Fort Wayne Art School and Museum, and the University of Wisconsin summer school.

He has returned to the Dayton Art Institute but concentrates most of his efforts on his own studio work.

There he mixes and colors his clay, throws his pots, sketches his designs, mixes and tests his colors, glazes and finally fires his work.

He uses power wheels, and due to the lack of natural gas in that area, fires by electricity.

Also on display in Friendship Hall are ceramics work done by the beginners class in ceramics at Bethany College, Lindsborg. The display will remain there for two weeks.

Leo Kirk is instructor of the class.

We Get Letters . . .

FOR Not Free From Taxation; Stifle Freedom

To the Editor:

Recently I received a letter from the Fellowship of Reconciliation. The letter stated, in fact, that because the Fellowship works for peace in the way taught by Jesus, the Fellowship is a political group and cannot have the income-tax-free privileges of a religious organization.

The letter also mentioned that this consideration was made known by the Internal Revenue Service just four months after the New York State Supreme Court declared the FOR a religious, non-profit organization exempt from property taxes.

The action of the income-tax people seems to be another attempt by our federal government (of the people, for the people, by the people) to stifle the freedoms granted us in the First Amendment to the Constitution.

Can we survive the onslaught of Communism by allowing our government to take our rights away one by one?

Sincerely,
James E. Weaver

Writer Blames 'Troika System' For Suppression

Dear Editor,

While your latest editorial was in keeping with the Spectator's fearless and progressive editorial policy, I feel that some aspects of the problem were sadly overlooked.

Perhaps the credit for the suppression of student initiative does not lie in one person, but in the nature of the troika system. Surely you recognize the weakness of a multi-party political system, and if this is an unstable form of government, how much more unstable will a multi-party administration be?

Unfortunately, divergent philosophies in such a situation must be compromised to give the impression of unified leadership, and the process of compromise may do little credit to any of the leaders' philosophies.

In such cases it is usually the person who sticks his neck out the farthest, whether the views he represents — Republican or otherwise — are entirely his own or the composite of others.

We must recognize that the responsibility for the success or failure of any "reform" lies neither in the leaders of the movement nor in the opposition, but in the inaction of the complacent and uninterested, and perhaps in the fears of the rest of us.

Edwin Mohler

Republican Rips Editor, Corrupt Gambling Device

Dear Editor,

The trend on the "big" campus now-days seems to be that of "speaking in tongues" as exemplified by Shades and the much more recent editorial on Monsieur Flurae. I propose to turn the tide back to the more common idioms of English.

Until last week I had always thought of the Spectator as a non-political paper which gave equal time to all sides.

With last week's editorial one can easily see that the Spectator has shifted from the non-political ranks to the "progressive" left. What virtue!! Soon it may even be a Great as the Denver Post and The Worker.

I feel that it's a great shame for a student newspaper, the caliber of ours, to be turned into a political machine to exploit the Democrat cause or even the Republican cause.

While political activity is much needed on our apathetic campus, I feel that editorializing in the Spectator is certainly a poor place to begin.

Furthermore, comparing Dr. Flurae to de Gaulle is absurd; many of us know that, in contrast to Dr. Flurae, other faculty members have not taken a Republican seriously for years.

While I'm on the subject of bad tastes, I might mention the pinball machine in the basement of Club Lido. (Talking in tongues again)

Congratulations are in order to those who, sensing that a juke box would create too much noise and disturbance and confusion, placed of all things—a pinball machine in our Student Union. Of course this makes sense!

Whereas a juke box is sinful, a pinball machine never leads to gambling. Whereas a juke box creates mass confusion, a pinball machine never does with its

Student Council News

Committee Works on File To Solve Ticket Problem

The Student Council meeting on Feb. 7 was short with only one item of major importance being considered. However, this concerns a large number of our student body as it deals with the recent problem of showing meal tickets at every meal.

Many objections have been raised to this and through consultation with Joe Clink, Slater Food manager, a possible solution is in the process of being completed.

A committee of Council members has been appointed to work on a card file which will eliminate the carrying of tickets by the students. This file will include a record of each student's number and a picture of that student.

Three basic objections to this solution were presented:

1. It would take time to check numbers as students go through the line.
2. A complete rearrangement of the file would be necessary each year.

3. A growing enrollment would present problems with the file.

The Council decided that it would be possible to set up such a file that would be quick and easy to use and would be at least a temporary solution to the problem depending largely on how well it works and on future conditions.

Student Body elections, involving the Student Council, Student Court, and MCA will be held on Friday, March 29.

Seniors Eligible To Win $1000 Loveman Award

A cash award of $1000 awaits the college senior who wins the Amy Loveman Award for the most outstanding personal library.

The Loveman Award was created in 1962 to encourage "intelligent, imaginative book collecting." It is sponsored by the Saturday Review, the Book-of-the-Month Club and the Women's National Book Association.

Last year's winner, Walter S. Rosenstein, was selected from a field of 52 finalists to win the first award.

Students entering this year's contest are asked to submit an annotated bibliography listing at least 35 volumes, other than textbooks, which are in their personal libraries.

All entries must be received by April 30. Further information about this year's contest may be obtained from Robert Porter, assistant professor of German and literature.

White House Textiles Here Until March 1

By Verda DeCoursey

Fifteen-foot lengths of drapery and upholstery materials used in the East Room, Green and Red Rooms, the State Dining Room, and other rooms in the White House will be on exhibit in Friendship Hall until March 14.

These textiles, on loan from the Scalandre Museum of Textiles in New York, are those used in the restorations of the White House and other homes of famous Americans, and represent the late Georgian period of the 18th century, and those of the Federal, Empire, Greek Revival, and early Victorian eras of the 19th century.

The textiles are reproduced from old fragments with exactness as to designs, colors, and yarns by Franco Scalandre, the leading silk manufacturer in America. Great care has been taken to use only such yarns as were available in the past—consequently no modern synthetic yarns are used.

"Monticello," Thomas Jefferson's home, is represented, as are "Ash Lawn," the home of James Monroe, "The Hermitage," home of Andrew Jackson.

Bottom Teams Next Mac Foes

The Bulldogs' next three games will be against the three teams just below them in the league. On Saturday, Feb. 16, the Bulldogs play Friends at Wichita, then on Monday, Feb. 18, Baker is at Mac. On Thursday, Feb. 21, McPherson plays KWU at Salina.

McPherson owns a victory over each of these teams in earlier season play. The scores of the earlier games read as follows: Mac 77 Friends 70, Mac 73 Baker 54 and Mac 78 KWU 59.

Friends is currently in a last place tie in the league with KWU.

Bulldogs Retain Second Place In Field Goals

Retaining second place among District 10 schools in team field goals, the Bulldogs picked up ground in the team free throw division by roaring past Pittsburg into second place.

Mac's accuracy from the field now stands at 45 per cent, and free throw accuracy has risen to 71 per cent in the past week.

Individually, Deryl Elmore retained his grip on sixth place among the individual scorers with an average of 19.3 points per game. Marcin Enke has dropped out of the top ten scorers after 18 games.

Art Hoch and Enke are still third and fifth respectively in field goals. Hoch with 55 per cent, and Enke at 52 per cent.

Elmore retains third position among individuals in the free throw division, sinking 83 per cent of his charity tosses.

From The Locker Room

By Larry Morlan

It looks as if the Kansas Conference race might just go down to the final games of the season. The team that seems to have the best chance is the current leader, Southwestern, while Bethany and Ottawa will try to prevent it.

The Swedes and the Braves are both on an upward swing and just might have enough energy to catch the Builders. The early leaders Sterling, Bethel, and C of E have run out of steam, though they could still challenge.

When this paper comes out the Bulldogs will have closed out their schedule against the upper division teams, and will have games left only with the bottom three teams. And let me add, I hope we defeat these three teams.

However, all the teams in the conference are capable of defeating any other team. That is how strongly the conference rates.

This balance was pointed out rather well by something the Bulldog team manager said. "In most leagues you can have an off-night and still win your game, but in this league, if you have an off-night you get beat by 20 points."

Cagers Knock C of E to Third In Conference

McPherson College evened its Kansas Conference record at 7-7, by defeating C of E 66-62 at Emporia last Saturday. The loss knocked the Presbies into second place in the conference.

The Bulldogs played a relaxed first half and built up early leads of 12 to 17 points. The closest Emporia came to Mac, with the exception of the start of the game, was the final margin of victory, 4 points.

Deryl Elmore sparked the Bulldogs with his scoring and ball stealing. Elmore finished the game with 23 points in the scorebook, but his actual value from his all around-play cannot be tabulated.

John Tegeler was next high for Mac with 14 points. Art Hoch tallied 10 points.

Southwestern Surges Into Conference Lead

Southwestern surged into the Kansas Conference lead with two victories in the past week giving them a 10-3 record. College of Emporia, last week's leader, fell to a second place tie with Bethel and Ottawa all with 9-5 records.

Bethany College continued its upward climb and moved into third in the league. Ottawa moved into second place and a contending position with a 9-5 record.

Regional Youth To Converge For Conference

Other conference leaders are Floyd Bartz, executive secretary of the Western Region; Raymond Flory, professor of history, MacCollege; Harold Bomberger, pastor, McPherson Church of the Brethren.

Paul Miller, pastor, Panther Creek Church of the Brethren, Adel, Iowa; Lyle Albright, executive secretary of the District of Iowa-Minnesota, Dallas Center, Iowa; Don Ullom, former BVSer, Wiley, Colo.

Bethany K.O.'s Bulldogs 67-61

Coming from a big victory over C of E last Saturday, the MacCollege Bulldogs took it on the chin from the Swedes of Bethany 67-61 Tuesday night.

The game started fast and the first half was a see-saw affair which ended with only two points separating the two teams. Doug Ade and Paul Johnson carried the load for Bethany, while Elmore and Enke seemed to lead Mac's scoring threat.

The second half was pretty much a repeat of the first with Bethany in the lead most of the time, however.

Ade and Johnson, playing good, consistent ball for the Swedes scored 24 and 20 points respectively. Elmore was high for the Bulldogs with 16 points followed by Enke with 12 and Bailey who had 10.

The "B" team also came out on the short end of an 81-68 score.

Bowling Standings Change After Second Week of Play

Standings in the college intramural bowling league have changed considerably after last week's competition.

The men's league has three new leaders in the Pros, H2 W2's and Holy Rollers. Last week's leader the Hi-Lows dropped to a tie for fourth place with the M. C. B. Ters.

The women's league has a new leading team in the Queen Pins. They are tied with one of last week's leaders, the Miskaboobles, for first. Two more of last week's leaders, the Hissmitts and Curvetts, dropped to a tie for third with the Gutter Dusters and Alley Cats.

Pros are leading the men's league with a 5 win-1 loss record. The H2W2's and the Holy Rollers are tied for second with 4-2 records.

Hi-Lows still hold the high score for three lines with 1971 pins. Second place is still held by the Kingpins with 1836 pins, but the H2W2's moved up to third with 1828 pins to replace the Lucky Four.

Hi-Lows and the Kingpins also kept their first and second place berths in team line scores with 712 and 693, but again the H2W2's moved up to third place with 673 pins.

League leading Pros team is made up of Henry Gier, Merrill Hodgden, Ralph Kreutziger, and Ken Smucker. The H2W2's consists of Jon Warner, Junior Hendricks, Jim Huber, and Max Warner.

In the women's league, the Queen Pins and Miskaboobles are tied for first with 4 wins and 2 losses. The Hissmitts, Curvetts, Gutter Dusters, and Alley Cats are tied for third with 3 and 3 records.

Hissmitts held on to their first place standing posted a week ago for high team in three lines with a 1380. The Miskaboobles stayed the same in second place with 1271 and the Gutter Dusters took over third place from the Gutter Girls with 1283.

Members of the three new teams in the standings are, for the Queen Pins, Carole Kimmel, Sylvia Albright, Angie Benton, and Genelle Mohler. The Gutter Dusters are Jeanette McBride, Glenn Fields, Sue Stouffer, and Mary Ann Bryant.

Alley Cats are made up of Karen Henry, Linda Rouch, Mary Ellen Scott, and Judy Richards.

Porter to Accompany Group To Germany This Summer

Robert Porter, professor of German and literature at McPherson College, has accepted the role of leader of a group of American college students going to Germany for the summer.

The group will consist of around ten students, who will go to a community in Germany where each student will live with a separate family from four to five weeks.

One of the members of each family will preferably be the same age as the student who is placed with them.

The program in which these students are participating is called "Experiment in International Living."

This program was started in 1932 in Putney, Vt., with the primary aim to get as many students from the United States as possible into homes in other countries all over the world.

To date its aim has been extremely successful in that it is now placing several thousands of students every summer into homes in many countries around the world, even behind the Iron Curtain in Poland, Russia, and Yugoslavia.

The program works also in the opposite way, bringing several thousand students from other countries to the United States.

These students will stay with an American family for the short time during the summer and then will go to the American college of their choice, whereas the American student will stay away only for the summer.

The average cost of the program is $950, and the stay lasts from July 20 to August 20.

A prerequisite before a student can join in the program and visit another country is a fair speaking knowledge of the language of that country.

Professor Porter, who has lived in Germany and speaks the language, was picked as a leader for a group of students for this reason.

As a leader he has the privilege
