

Candidates Continue Battle for Student Offices

As Polls Remain Open Until 5:00 p.m. Today

It's only a matter of hours until the 1963 MacCollege student elections will be all over but the shouting. The balloting commenced at 10:30 this morning in the Student Union Basement, and is scheduled to end at 5 p.m.

Students will soon know who will represent them on the Student Council, Student Court, and as cheerleaders during the 1963-1964 school year.

A possible exception is that of the presidency of the Student Council. Three candidates are seeking this office, and unless one of them polls at least 51 per cent of all ballots cast, a runoff will be required next Tuesday.

As the campaign rolled into election day, Roger Emmert, presidential candidate from Redfield, Iowa, remarked, "This campaign has turned out to be one of the best for some time. I hope that with the change in the structure of the Council, the student body will realize the increased importance of electing a capable president."

"This will call for a study of the issues involved and an election which is more than the traditional popularity contest."

Emmert was referring to the change in the make-up of the Council which increases its size and provides for the election of eight representatives at large.

The amendment was approved by two-thirds of the student body in an election several weeks ago.

Steve Mohler, of Warrensburg, Mo., commented that "this year's campaign has been a valuable experience for all concerned."

He urged students to "remember that student government goes on all year, not just during election week, and that it is each individual's responsibility to see that this government is what he honestly believes it should be." John Harrison of Beloit expressed optimism for a stronger student government at MacCollege.

He concluded, "In assessing the campaigns for positions in student government the past week, it would appear that the student body cannot help but gain during the coming school year; provided that they give ample support to the Council, which should be the strongest the college has had in years."

During the week, all the candidates participated in a program of issues and questions concerning the candidate's platforms. This program was held in the S.U. lounge. Several of the candidates also scheduled "bull sessions" in the various dorms.

This morning's chapel program featured nomination speeches for the presidential and treasurer candidates.

Two sophomores are seeking the office of student body treasurer. This position carries with it the chairmanship of the Board of Publications. The two candidates for this office are Sandra Hoover of Plattsburg, Mo., and Bill Grove from Redfield, Iowa.

Fourteen students appear on the ballot seeking the eight "at large" seats on the Student Council. Each voter is allowed to select eight of these candidates. In addition, two representatives will be elected from each class.

Also appearing on the ballot are the candidates each class has nominated for the Student Court. Cheerleaders will also be picked in today's election.

The new officers will take over their responsibilities next September, and will direct the student government throughout the year.

Blickenstaff Advances To National Auditions

Marvin Blickenstaff, assistant professor of piano, was named district winner in the Young Artist Auditions held last Saturday in Kansas City, Mo.

He thus won the right to compete with other pianists for the $1500 cash award at the national contest in Pittsburgh, Pa., April 17 and 18.

The Young Artist Contest is sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs, and is designed to determine whether outstanding young artists are ready for a national concert career.

Contestants are judged on the basis of a musical standard of excellence, leaving open the possibility that no winners may be declared if judges feel the standards of performance were not high enough.

The contest is open to artists in the fields of male voice, oratorio, piano, violin, and women's voice. Blickenstaff was the only winner declared in any division at the Kansas City Contest.

He was asked to play from memory for fifty minutes, several portions of certain predetermined repertoire requirements. Blickenstaff began with Barcarolle, Op. 60, by Chopin, and followed with a performance of parts of Prokofiev's Concerto No. 3. Jolene Johnston, sophomore from El Dorado, accompanied him on the Concerto.

Blickenstaff was then required to play several selections from the works of Bach and Beethoven before concluding with the first movement from Schubert's Sonata in A minor, Op. 164, and Toccata from Ravel.

The district contest was held in the auditorium of the Jenkins Music Center in Kansas City. The national contest is scheduled for Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Immediately after the national contest, Blickenstaff will fly to the West Coast for two recitals. On April 19 he will perform at LaVerne College, LaVerne, Calif., and April 21 he will present a concert at College of Idaho, Caldwell.

Blickenstaff to Present Concert at Lindsborg

Marvin Blickenstaff, assistant professor of piano, will present a piano recital at Bethany College, Lindsborg, next Monday evening, April 1, at 8.

Blickenstaff's recital will be played in Presser Hall and will feature works of Beethoven, Chopin, Bach, Copland and Ravel.

Bittinger Will Deliver Commencement Address

Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of the college, will be the speaker at the McPherson College Commencement, June 2.

Galen Ogden, Elgin, Ill., will be the speaker for the Baccalaureate service.

Coming . . .

Friday, March 29—Music recital, Brown Auditorium, 7:30 p.m.

Saturday, March 30—Booster Banquet, 6 p.m., Student Union.

Sunday, March 31—Music recital, Church of the Brethren, 2:30 p.m.

Friday, April 5—Easter vacation begins, 5 p.m.

Tuesday, April 16—Easter vacation ends, 7:45 a.m.

Brown Will Appear Sunday In Senior Recital at Church

Clarice Brown, MacCollege student from Quinter, will present her senior organ recital, Sunday, March 31, 2:30 p.m., at the Church of the Brethren.

Included on the program will be "Tocatta in G Minor" by Matthews, "Sonata" by Mendelssohn, a chorale fantasy on "Christ, the Lord, is Risen," by Peters, and "Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach.

A brass ensemble will accompany Clarice on the selection by Peters. Members of the ensemble are Warren Harden and Larry Kitzler. Trombone; and Ron Achilles and Dale Marrs, trumpet.

Clarice is a music education major and plans to teach elementary vocal music. Her major instrument is the organ.

Mrs. Audrey San Romani, associate professor of piano and organ, has been Clarice's organ instructor for four years at Ma-

CANDIDATE MOHLER MOVES FORWARD—with vigah, as he implements the techniques of aggressive, behind-the-scenes campaigning. Apparently babes of voting age have the most appeal for this presidential candidate.

Pre-enrollment Begins On Return from Break

Pre-enrollment will begin immediately following Easter vacation.

Students may pick up material in the Registrar's Office, complete it and then take it to their counselor for approval. The material is to be left with the counselor.

The deadline for pre-enrollment is May 17.

A BLACK, CONCERT GRAND PIANO—forms the backdrop for Marvin Blickenstaff who will compete next month in the National Young Artist Auditions in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Smith Denies Socialistic Trend In American Government Policy

Two years in the heart of the Sunflower State is capable of warping anyone's political perspective. Even a hardened Democrat can be overwhelmed by the barrage of slogans frequently reiterated by the "rugged individualists" of the state.

It was, therefore, a refreshing experience when E. B. Smith explained his concept of American government to me at Ames, Iowa, last weekend. Dr. Smith, who was defeated in his bid for a United States Senate seat last fall, is currently teaching history at Iowa State University.

After he briefly described the reason for the Republican domination of Kansas, I blunderingly asked a question I've heard repeatedly in the last few years, "What do you think of the drift toward socialism in the United States?"

As a slow smile spread across Dr. Smith's face, he replied, "In the first place, we aren't drifting toward socialism. Socialism is government ownership of the major means of production. This is not occurring in the United States.

"Furthermore, it is unfortunate that so many people have swallowed the line about a 'power grab' in Washington. John Kennedy would be very happy if he did not have to tell people what to do or worry about unemployment, or medical care, or agriculture. But Kennedy wants to be reelected and he knows that if he doesn't do something about these problems, the American people will find someone who will.

"Apparently some people fail to realize that a changing nation demands a changing government. The government Thomas Jefferson headed in the days when America was 90 percent agrarian, would be completely ineffective in handling the problems of the sprawling megalopolis of the mid-twentieth century.

"A nation which continually grows larger and more complex must have a viable government—a government capable of expanding its scope of activities in order to meet the needs, desires, and problems of an ever-changing populace."

"As I left Beardshear Hall last Saturday, I couldn't help but wish that this man had been elected to the United States Senate. It's perhaps quite indicative of human values that Republican Iowa did elect as governor last fall, a Democrat who campaigned actively for liquor-by-the-drink. Apparently the people of the state are more interested in convenient booze than good government.

"At any rate, it was an enjoyable twenty minutes with a man who is facing the future with a progressive optimism instead of hiding behind the tradition, nostalgia, and accomplishments of the past. WMB

Questioning, Dynamism Links Da Vinci to Today's Society

By Darlene Blickenstaff

Few people think of science in reference to Leonardo da Vinci, and yet his intense persual of the empirical means of observing nature would seem to make him fit directly into our scientifically oriented society today.

For his drawings of human anatomy, of natural formations, of landscapes in various climatic conditions illustrate the insatiable delight of the scientist in careful scrutiny of observable data.

Leonardo wanted to know—as scientists today want to know—what things are made of, where they came from, and above all, why they exist.

It is this last quality which links his science to philosophy and to art. For the questioning of the very existence of man and his universe lies within the realm of these two fields.

For Leonardo, seeing the outer surface of things was not enough. To his mind there existed an inner reality, an inner being which gathered more significance than the mere shape of a leaf, the color of the eye or of the pattern of a landscape.

To him, these shapes and colors suggested something beyond themselves and pointed to beauty of a very spiritual nature.

There are several other reasons why Leonardo would hold his own in contemporary society. One of these can be described in one word: dynamism—a word universally understood but perhaps more important in the Renaissance of Leonardo and in our own time than to any other eras.

The dynamism of our society refers chiefly to the energy of the mechanized world of computers, rockets and missiles.

The dynamism of the Renaissance consisted in the energies lying within man, himself, being newly awakened to self-realization and finally aimed toward highly creative ends, artistically, philosophically and scientifically.

To see this dynamism in Leonardo's drawings takes some effort on our part. It doesn't hit you in the face in the obvious manner used by present day target painters and assemblages

(although, I dare say, were Leonardo living today, he would be in the extreme front ranks of this avant garde.)

No, the dynamism of the Renaissance in Leonardo must be sought out by each individual. If one looks carefully and patiently, he will be rewarded, for he will find that Leonardo incorporates movement, energy, strength, virility in nearly every drawing—the horse drawings being among the most obvious, the drawings of natural occurrences such as the "Deluge," the "Tide," and his extremely expressive portraits.

Each has been treated with the uniqueness of first hand observation. If you take the time to observe the power portrayed in one of these, you will be brought closer to the understanding of art which symbolizes the state of man in various ages.

The drawings in the exhibition, now in Friendship Hall are photographic reproductions of originals taken from various European museums. They will be on display for four weeks.

Bootlegger Bess Threatens College Bomb Shelter!!!

A black-haired moonshiner has turned the basement of the Student Union into a brewery sprawling forth a sea of hard liquor.

Not since the days of Uncle Al Capone has an operation as extensive and dangerous been undertaken. Indeed, officials of the S.U. as well as the Slater Food Service fear an explosion endangering both personnel and property.

The constant harassment by skeptical party-waists, has forced the Bootlegger to transfer her operations from the furnace room of the S.U. to the Spectator office, and finally to the guzzlers of Dotzour Hall.

All the students who have sampled this amalgamation, acknowledge its superior qualities by vowing never again to return to the bathtub gin of third floor "Fanny".

Even the cooks have found the "foaming cleanser" a definite aid to digestion after a well-planned meal of Slater corned beef.

Unfortunately, there hasn't been an opportunity to test its healing qualities relative to snake bite. However, plans are underway to plant a rattler in Dean Geisert's office for this purpose.

Any attempt on the part of the administration to suppress this demonstration of medical, intellectual curiosity, will be vigorously protested by the extreme progressives of the Student Council—namely, the Dean of Men.

The demand here on campus for a liquid refreshment of this

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Ford Favors Large Family

Dear Editor,
I am glad that I am a student at Mac. The happy boys and girls, many of whom are married or are working their way through school here at Mac, along with the happy fathers of the administration, make a big happy family.

The students at Mac come here to study. Everyone studies hard at Mac; it is no marriage factory. The high academic aspirations to be found among the students here make the campus buzz with activity. Everyone is interested in everything—like who is going steady with whom.

The fathers of the administration see this striving for intellectual growth and do all they can to foster it; there is no red tape to bog down intellectual growth at Mac. The administration sees to that; they want the best for the students at Maccollege.

Mac is a showplace. The administration has seen that many nice buildings be built on campus. We see why the administration does not want them used any more than is absolutely necessary. Then Mac would no longer be a showplace.

Things like cultural exchanges with other colleges would cause wear and tear on the shining new buildings. Education must be kept pure at Mac. Besides, there are problems.

There are so many intellectually challenging things to do at Mac. When the boys and girls are not out in cars busy being one big happy family, they can go to the Student Union and play with the pinball machines.

With such high standards of purity at Mac, we can see why prices must be raised next year. Such purity of education as that to be found at Mac can be maintained only at a price.

Mac exists for the students—after tuition has been paid.

I am happy to be a student here. McPherson is a Christian college.

Sincerely,
Peter Ford

Defense Policy Hampers Canada's Economic Growth

By Jim Weaver

Our neighbor to the north has been hampered in economic growth as a small world power by the defense policy of North America.

After the Korean conflict, Canadian policy makers felt that in the comparative peace they would be able to set Canada on her feet by utilizing her great expanse of natural resources.

But the policy makers were stymied in their efforts by the necessity of the North American continent to strengthen its defenses against the threat of a Russian attack.

Canada was picked for the added radar sites, air bases, and expense over which Russian bombers could be shot down. As the Russian threat increased, the use of Canadian resources increased.

Now the situation is this: in the event of an attack, the Canadian Air Force (both manpower and planes) comes under the ultimate command of the U. S. Air Force.

The question I now ask is whether we should, as a nation which upholds the sovereignty of an individual nation, require Canada to give up her sovereignty?

We are taking away her sovereignty by using her resources (expanse of land) as a "killing ground," and (to add insult to injury) using her own manpower to do the killing.

I feel that if the U. S. is to keep any respect in this world as a country which upholds the sovereignty of the individual nation, it must respect Canada's sovereignty, i.e., reject its present policy of using Canadian soil for the defense of the U. S.

Also, I feel that the U. S. should be working for the improvement of Canada, instead of the saving of its own neck. To attempt to use another's property to save one's neck is a selfish action, one which needs to be condemned and discontinued.

Smucker Wins Court Tourney

Kenny Smucker's team won the Warren Leinen, 18 points for 1963 intramural basketball tournament by defeating Bob Hess' team by a score of 48-28. Duane Pope lead Smucker's team with 14 points, while Larry Crumrine topped Hess' team also with 14 points.

Ken Feasenhiser's team won the consolation games and third place by defeating Keith Miller's team by a score of 68-50. High for Feasenhiser's team was Stratman Judson with 22 points, and Miller was high for his team with 20 points.

To reach the finals of the tournament, Smucker defeated Byron Hayes' and Feasenhiser's teams. Hayes, which tied Smucker for second in league 1, fell in spite of a 36 point output by Silas O'Neal.

Smucker defeated Hayes 88-54 with a well-balanced attack. Harold Schrag hit 27, Pope 24, and

Athlete Supports Work Program

Dear Sports Editor,

This past week you publicized an appeal for comments regarding the work patrol, or the work crew as those of us who are on it have come to affectionately know it.

I am sure that many students do not realize the amount of work which fellows who are on this program do. In addition to the large amount of janitorial work done, the work crew's efforts can be observed in the fall of the year at the football stadium.

The men on the work crew are assigned to pick up that program which you dropped Saturday night and which, during the course of the early hours of Sunday, became plastered to the bleacher seat as the result of a one-inch rain or a cold snow storm.

In the winter, the work crew men are responsible for the operation of intramural volleyball and basketball; and when spring does finally arrive, it's softball.

When the student reception was formerly held at the President's home, various work crew members lugged all those chairs from the church basement and back.

There are many pieces of athletic equipment distributed to varsity athletes during the year as well as being washed by some fellow done in the gym furnace room.

There are varsity athletes at this college who probably would not have come here had it not been for the college's work program. I am sure that there is not one of those who is not grateful for the work crew job.

I am sincerely thankful to have had the privilege of working on the work crew while I have been here at MacCollege. Let's hope this opportunity continues to be present here.

Sincerely,
Art Hoch

NAIA Names Hower Coach of Year in District

Bob Hower, basketball coach at Southwestern College, was named coach of the year in District 10 by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Southwestern won the KCAC championship this year for Hower, who has been at Winfield since 1954. Under Hower, Southwestern won the league title in 1961 and finished third in 1962.

Hower has been a coach 20 years, previously coaching at Caldwell, Lakin, Fowler, and Caney High Schools and Friends University.

Miller, Feasenhiser Capture Intramural League Titles

Intramural basketball action and the intramural tournament resulted in three different winners.

In league 1, Keith Miller's team copped the regular league title with an undefeated record of 6-0.

In league 2, Ken Feasenhiser's team captured the league title with a 5-0 record.

Second place teams were added to the final tournament to close out the season. In league 1, two teams, Smucker and Hayes, tied for second, with 4-2 records.

League two had only Bob Hess' team in second place with a 4-1 record. The two-way tie in League 1 made it necessary for a five-team tournament to close out the season.

League 1	W	L	Pct.
Miller	6	0	1.000
Smucker	4	2	.667
Hayes	4	2	.667
Davidson	3	3	.500

From The Locker Room

By Larry Morlan

The spring sports season has begun, and it began with a victory for MacCollege. The tennis team opened with a win, and proved it will be a threat again this year.

Dave Priddy, John Sonafank, Bill Kelly, Larry Wachtman, and LeRoy Weddle form a strong team in the try for a second straight conference crown in tennis.

Now, I will advance an idea entirely of my own thinking and one which will be sponsored by this column. It is a poll of the student body on the top athletes on the campus.

The poll will consist of three major categories: football, basketball, and spring sports. Each major category will be subdivided into different areas.

The poll is not intended to be a popularity contest among the men, it is intended to be a true evaluation of the students' viewpoint.

Each person who votes should consider each area very carefully before deciding who to put down. If you do not know who would be best suited to fit one area, either ask someone who would know or else just leave that one area blank.

Since there is no certain way to tell how many times a person votes, we are asking all students to be honest about it and vote only once in each broad area.

The ballots should be taken to the Spectator office in the Student Union basement or placed in an envelope addressed to the Sports Editor of the Spectator and dropped in the campus mail. Deadline for filling in the ballots and handing them in will be two weeks after the ballot has appeared in the Spectator.

Today the ballot for the choices for football appears. Deadline for these ballots to be handed in will be April 5.

Also, if anyone has any ideas for awards for the eventual winners, please let us know. Nothing has been decided for sure yet.

Wind Ensemble to Entertain Booster Banquet Guests

McPherson College Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Irvin Wagner, will present a concert of Sousa marches for the Booster Banquet program, tomorrow night in Brown Auditorium at 8.

The faculty and their wives will serve as hosts and hostesses at the reception which precedes the 33rd Annual Booster buffet dinner to be held tomorrow, 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Norvin O. Rolander, president of the Chamber of Commerce will be master of ceremonies. Rev. George Stoneback, president of McPherson Ministerial Alliance will have the invocation.

Dick Roland Jones, the drive chairman, will report on the current drive. W. F. Geisert, dean of Macollege, will express appreciation to the donors.

The Wind Ensemble is a select group of 45 performers whose major purpose is to perform the finest, original band literature available.

The concert, devoted to the Sousa marches, should, in the words of Professor Wagner, be both enjoyable and educational. About half of the marches will be familiar to most people.

Personnel of the ensemble include Judy Miller, Dorothy Brown, and Bruce Holderreed in the flute section.

Kathy Parks plays oboe. Sandra Hoover and Karen Oltman play bassoons.

Clarinetists are Clarice Brown, Dorothy Chaloupka, Mary Lehman, Margaret Hintz, Joyce Shobe, Vida Sue Werner, Donald Kusart, and Colleen Neher.

Saxophones are Dennis Dusek, Linda Jamison, and Edward Embers.

David Weimer, David Peters, Lynn Olwin, Terry Tietjens, Robert Fletcher, Dorothy Delp, and Joan Burger will play in the French horn section.

The trumpet section is composed of Dale Marrs, Jim Burnett, John Allen, Larry Blair, and Ron Achilles. On trombones are Warren Harjen, Larry Kitzel, Merlin Grady, and Merlin Dreshner.

Baritones are Sheryl Hollis and Carol Kesler. Tubas are Jim Neher and Lowell Flory. Percussion section includes Jim Weaver, Jim Ockerman, Ruth Ann Emmert, Thelma Stump, and Ron Leonard.

Bulldogs Sweep All Matches In Tennis Meet

Macollege's tennis team opened its schedule where it left off last year by defeating the Bethel College team.

The win marked the fifteenth straight win for the team over a two-year span. Mac swept all five singles matches and both doubles matches.

Dave Priddy, McPherson, defeated Mike Purdie, Bethel, 6-2, 6-3. John Sonafrank, McPherson, defeated Charles Graber, Bethel, 6-3, 6-0. Bill Kelly, McPherson, defeated Gene Bergman, Bethel, 6-0, 6-1.

LeRoy Weddie, McPherson, defeated Bruce Haskett, Bethel, 6-1, 6-3. Lane Yoder, McPherson, defeated Tony Epp, Bethel, 6-1, 6-1. Priddy-Kelly, McPherson, defeated Purdie-Graber, Bethel, 6-0, 6-0. Wachtman-Sonafrank, McPherson, defeated Bergman-Epp, Bethel, 6-0, 6-2.

Smith to Direct One-Act Play As Class Project

The cast for "A Woman's Privilege," a one-act to be given for the McPherson city Federated Women's Club on April 1, has been chosen by Sonja Smith, special student from McPherson who is directing it as her project for Advanced Play Production class.

Karen Oltman, sophomore from Ender, Neb., will play the part of Isabelle Millikan, a housewife. Sue Warrick, senior from Limon, Colo., will play the part of Anna, a Pennsylvania Dutch maid.

Jim Ockerman, sophomore from Hollansburg, Ohio, will play the part of Henry Millikan, and Ken Smucker, junior from Orrville, Ohio, will play the part of Dr. Shaw, Isabelle's psychiatrist.

The play will be given at the Warren Hotel for the women's group, and later in the semester, will be given on campus for the students.

Stern to Speak Sunday At Morning Worship

Irven Stern, instructor in philosophy and religion, will speak at the Sunday morning service of the Church of the Brethren, March 31.

The adult choir of the church will present the Easter music from the Messiah at the evening service.

Eller to Meet with Students Interested in Hospital Work

John C. Eller

John C. Eller, administrator of Bethany Brethren Hospital, Chicago, Ill., will visit Macampus April 3-4. He is, at the request of the Board of Trustees and the Nursing Education Committee of the hospital, visiting all campuses of the colleges of the Church of the Brethren.

The purpose of his visit is to confer with any who have interests in the many opportunities to serve through the healing arts. He will especially be visiting with those on the campus that are receiving scholarship money in the field of nursing education. He will also wish to talk with any who might be interested in hospital administration, hospital business management and purchasing, laboratory services such as laboratory technician, X-ray, radiology, pharmacy, hospital engineering and maintenance, as well as the whole field of nursing education.

Eller will be meeting with individuals interested and will meet with groups that would like to have a conference with him with regard to these opportunities for service.

Private interviews may be arranged with the secretary of the dean.

Eller is one of the outstanding hospital administrators in the mid-west. At the Annual meeting of the American Protestant Hospital Association in Cincinnati, Ohio, the Association elected him to serve as a delegate to the International Hospital Meeting to be held in Paris.

Mr. Eller was also re-elected Treasurer of the Association.

Committee Sets Entry Deadlines For Arts Festival

Final deadlines have been set for contributions to the McPherson College Fine Arts Festival to be held May 10-12.

March 31 is the final date that material in the drama and music divisions will be accepted. April 20 is the final date for poetry, short stories, art, and ceramics.

Students, alumni, and faculty wishing to contribute material for the Festival may send their material to the Fine Arts Festival committee by way of the campus mail.
