

Spacemobile Will Visit McPherson College Today

Spacemobile, a traveling space science demonstration unit, will be presented from the platform in Brown Auditorium today. Spacemobile is sent out by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Spacemobile visited the campus last June 11-22, for the aerospace workshop, and was well received.

A lecture-demonstration will be presented from the platform in Brown Auditorium at 1 p.m. All students, faculty, and the public are invited to attend.

Spacemobile consists of a compact bus which carries equipment for space science experiments. Included are models of launch vehicles, satellites, and other devices for demonstrating aspects of space science and exploration.

In the demonstration, six basic questions will be answered: What is a satellite, how does it get into orbit, what keeps it in orbit, what does it do, what good is it, and what are future plans for space exploration?

Laws of motion are described and the principle of a reaction motor is demonstrated. Simple experiments are performed describing and illustrating solid and liquid types of rocket fuels.

In the demonstration a short motion picture of the firing of the Saturn first stage at Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., is supplemented by color slides of a typical Saturn launch.

A scale model of the Saturn C-1 rocket will be used in the demonstration.

Spacemobile contains interesting scale models of several space vehicles, including a cut away model of the first TIROS weather eye satellite. The TIROS was the first meteorological satellite.

Scale models of the NASA launch vehicles will show the relative sizes, from the small Scout, to the gigantic Centaur, Saturn and Nova boosters.

Loan Plan Available To Deserving Students

Several loan plans are made available to McPherson College students each year so that they may be able to further their education.

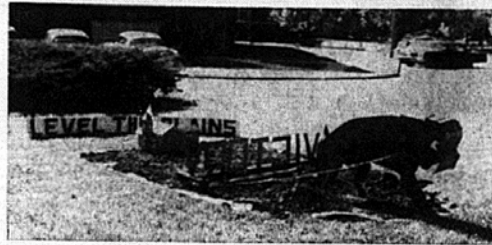

The most widely known and used of these programs is the Student National Defense Loan program.

The purpose of this program is to attract more students to go into the teaching field. Those who do go into public school teaching may have up to half of their loan deducted.

McPherson College is assigned $44,753 from the federal government. The college then adds to this one-ninth of this amount. The money left over from last year is added to this.

So far this year, McPherson College has committed $50,700 of the Student National Defense Loan funds to worthy students who need the money to continue their education.

The Church of the Brethren set up a fund of $900 for use at McPherson College. This, however, is already committed.

Junior Class Wins $30 In Float Competition

Winner of the Annual Homecoming Float Contest was the Junior Class. Their float, with the theme, "Sweeping the Plains," won a $30 prize.

The Juniors wish to express their appreciation to the Senior Class for the use of their most vicious Bulldog growler, Gary Bailey.

Second prize of $20 went to the Arnold Hall float entitled "Bulldogs prove Darwin's theory". Fahnestock Hall won third prize with its float entitled "Plane Victory."

Five Honorable Mentions of $5 each were awarded to WAA, Warren Hotel, MCA, Kline Hall, and the Sophomore Class.

endorsement, the bank issues a check to the student.

Repayment is made to the bank starting four months after the student finishes his undergraduate or graduate education. Payments are made in monthly installments spread over three years.

If the student leaves college before graduation, the monthly repayments begin within 30 days, but may take up to three years to repay.

No notes under this plan may bear more than 6 per cent simple interest. This is less than customary bank rates for installment loans.

In event of the student's death, the family will not have to pay off the loan. United Student Aid Funds will repay the outstanding amount of the loan in full to the bank.

The McPherson Rotary Club and the McPherson Federated Womens Club both have loan funds available to students. McPherson College works with these clubs and sends to them students who need to take out a loan.

Trustees Change College Costs

At the trustee meeting held last weekend, mostly budgetary items were discussed. Changes in cost were announced as soon as possible so that students could start planning to meet the changes and so that the information could be printed in the new catalog.

Increases in room charges were for College Courts, $50 per month for the small apartments and $60 per month for the larger apartments.

Charges for the new men's dormitory are $137.50 per semester, for Dotzour Hall; $125 per semester, and for Fahnestock Hall, $120 per semester.

Tuition costs were increased to $20 per semester hour for full-time students, and to $22 per semester hour for students enrolled in less than twelve hours.

The increases go into effect in the fall of 1963.

Hale Will Be Guest Soloist

Florene Hale, professional singer from Chicago, Ill., will present a vocal concert in Assembly next Friday, Oct. 19, and is also guest soloist for the performance of "Requiem" by Gabriel Faure, to be given Sunday afternoon, Oct. 21.

Friday's concert will consist of Operatic Arias and Folk Songs of European Countries.

A 1933 graduate of McPherson College, Miss Hale was a member of A Cappella Choir and sang in small vocal ensembles.

She played the leading roles in "The Bohemian Girl" and "The Piccolo" at McPherson.

Working nine years for radio station WMBI in Chicago, Miss Hale does ensemble work, duet programs, and solo work.

On radio station WLS, also in Chicago, Miss Hale has worked three years for the "Songs in the Night" program.

Having five years' experience in teaching private voice, Miss Hale is now a voice instructor at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill.

Miss Hale has written and arranged children's songs for the David C. Cook Kindergarten Course, published by the David C. Cook Publishing House in Elgin, Ill.

Miss Hale regularly does recording work with Word Records and Zondervan Records, doing ensemble work, obligato backgrounds, and solo work.

Oratorios she had done the Chicago area are the Messiah, Elijah, Hymn of Praise, Christmas Oratorio (St. Saens), Seven Last Words (DuBois).

With the Moody Chorale, Miss Hale did Vaughn Williams' "Ben-edicte," for soprano soloist, with orchestra.

Miss Hale is presently working on her Master's Degree in Voice at Chicago Music College at Roosevelt University.

Faculty Prepares Grade Reports For Five Weeks

At the end of this week of many tests, both students and faculty seem more grade conscious.

Faculty members report that they are busy grading tests and averaging scores as they prepare their lists of the five-week grade for each student in their classes on a form provided by the Registrar's Office.

Deadline for grades is 5 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 16, but Mrs. Alice B. Martin, registrar, would like to have grades before the deadline.

Five-week grades are used only for counseling purposes. Students receiving C or better in all courses will not receive a notice of their grades.

Those receiving low grades will be notified by the dean and will be asked to confer with their counselor.

Grades will be issued to all students after they are computed at the end of the ninth week. However, only semester grades become a part of a student's permanent record.

Faculty Meetings Serve As Communication Media

McPherson College faculty and administration members meet every Thursday morning at 7:45 a.m. These meetings serve as a means of communication between the different departments and between the faculty and administration.

At the meetings, curricular problems related to the college are discussed. Special studies are also conducted by the faculty and administration.

Such programs have included a year-long study of the library, discovering the best facilities for a school of this size; and a study of guidance and counseling at McPherson.

In studies of this kind, the faculty and administration are divided into committees.

At times, there are outside speakers present at the meetings to present special programs. At the Oct. 18th meeting, Mr. Anderson, the McPherson Senior High School Counselor, will discuss his work and the role of the counselor in high school work.

Coming . . .

Friday, Oct. 19 — Cultural Series, Singing Boys of Mexico, Brown Auditorium.

Friday, Oct. 19 — Regional Conference for the Western Region of the Church of the Brethren begins in Macampus.

In Chapel Next Week

Tuesday—The Rev. Harold Z Bomberger pastor of the McPherson Church of the Brethren will speak.

Mexican Choir Inaugurates Maccollege Cultural Season

As the first Cultural Series number, the "Singing Boys of Mexico", will appear in Brown Auditorium Oct. 19 at 8 p.m.

Altogether the group is composed of 28 selected voices under the leadership of Maestro Luis Berber.

Whatever they perform—ancient church music, Mexican folk songs, great choral works such as the Mozart and Verdi Requiems their youthful voices and pure singing have aroused enthusiasm throughout Mexico and Central America.

Often referred to as "the nightingales of Morelia" and "the boys who sing like angels," they are now being booked for their fourth tour of the United States.

Tickets may be purchased at the door before the performance, but season tickets at four dollars for children and students, and seven dollars for adults must be purchased in advance at the Public Relations office.

Single admission tickets are two dollars for adults and one dollar for children.

Spectator Apologizes For Last Week's Error

Apologies are sent to the Wind Ensemble and to those who were confused by the headline on the Wind Ensemble story last week.

The headline's error slipped past at least eight people who have red faces this week.

Financial Bomb Hits Students

Last Tuesday's chapel announcement that tuition and room were being increased beginning next fall, seemed to hit the student body like a bomb. Almost immediately after the groans had ceased, students began to get out notebooks and figure how much the increase would affect them.

As could be expected, the students did not react too favorably to the announcement.

ONE student commented, "I'm glad that I am a junior. Although I don't like it I can see it is necessary. Some of the professors here are not worth paying $20 per semester hour.

Better professors would not cost any more to the college. It would definitely benefit everyone in the college if some changes could be made."

I'm broke is all that I can say," another commented.

"I am just sick about it," a third student stated. "I do not see how they can expect students to stay in college. Maybe the tuition aspects could be justified, but $125 for a room we have been living in for years for $90 is outrageous. And the rooms sure are not getting any nicer."

The lighting is poor and if one buys a pole lamp to avoid any eye strain, students are charged a dollar a semester for electricity."

Partly defending the raise, another commented, "I know that this is still cheaper than any of the other Brethren colleges. However I'm sure glad I will not be living in Dotzour next year."

"I think that I will pitch a tent" or "It would actually be cheaper to get married and I am considering it," other people remarked.

Wages received for student workers on campus seemed to be the main complaint. "It seems students' wages could be increased as much in proportion as the costs of attending college have been increased."

"I do not see how anyone can compare what we will earn after graduation with what expenses are now. It is right now that we have to pay this additional expense and will go into debt and it will just take all the longer to overcome this additional burden."

Another student comparing the raise with wages commented, "It is impossible to compare the two. Only a small majority of the students have jobs off campus that pay $1.50 an hour or can earn over $1000 in summer jobs. The rest of us are stuck with jobs paying $.65 an hour or less."

Reactions to making the jump all at once were also varied. One commented, "That much of a jump in one year was just too much. Why couldn't it have been more gradual so it would not hit the students so hard?"

In contrast another commented, "I'm glad they told us all of their changes for the next two years at once. Now I know I will definitely have to transfer next semester or next year at the latest."

A student summarized the feelings by expressing, "I believe that if this just pays for new buildings it will not be worth it. But if this will secure better teachers and if wages will go up in proportion the situation might not be as bad as it seems at present."

Enrollment will probably be affected in the next two years or so but after that, no doubt, people will not think about the higher costs as much."

Flag Display Causes Mac Controversy

A voice on the other end of the switchboard connection last Friday afternoon said, "Please tell the college janitor to take down the Flag. It's raining."

Proper display of the United States Flag was discussed in two letters to the editor of The Spectator last March, but perhaps some misunderstanding has arisen again about the interpretation of the rules for proper display of the Flag in public places.

After the Flag is raised in the morning, it is not lowered until evening except in case of a disaster.

Leaving the Flag up in the rain does not represent disrespect, according to this ruling.

At the McPherson Post Office the Flag is not taken down during rain or drizzle, and a special shorter storm flag like those used at Army posts during severe weather is used on windy days.

On the campus, if heavy rain is falling early in the morning, the college custodian does not raise the Flag. However, once the Flag is up and rain begins, the Flag remains up until evening.

McPherson's 75-foot flagpole, now located in the center quadrangle, once stood about where the breezeway between the entrances to Mohler Hall and Brown Auditorium provides a frame for a view through the campus.

This view through the campus is relatively new for McPhersonites since a three-story red-brick building, Sharp Hall, the second of the college buildings, stood at the end of Euclid from the early days of the college until the summer of 1961, when Sharp Hall was razed.

On Oct. 9, 1961, the flagpole was erected for the second time as the gift of the class of 1920. The site of the flagpole is now called the Sharp Memorial Area. "Truth is Freedom," proclaims the class memorial plaque on the flagpole.

The stone bench south of the flagpole is constructed of natural limestone blocks from the foundation and first floor wall of Sharp Hall. The plaque on the bench pays tribute to Dr. S. Z. Sharp, the founder and first president of McPherson College.

Stump Discusses Trends In Contemporary Literature

"Trends in Contemporary Literature" was discussed by Harley Stump, assistant professor of English, in the Alumni Classroom held last Saturday afternoon in Mohler Hall.

Approximately thirty alumni, faculty, and students attended the meeting which gave alumni the opportunity to sit once more in a classroom at McPherson.

In discussing the direction of contemporary literature, Professor Stump gave a brief review of the background of American literature.

First he pointed out the three great-questions of life which all authors try to answer—What is reality; what is knowledge; and what is value.

In the first era of American literature, said Professor Stump, beginning with the time of the Puritans, reality was God; knowledge was knowing God; and value was maintaining a Victorian moral code.

This was the classic era. During the Revolutionary War, the great leaders of our country began to turn away from the classic era, ushering in the Neoclassic era.

"God was de-throned during this era," stated Professor Stump. "The mind of man was the seat of knowledge, and value lay in what was most practical to meet the needs of the common man."

With the emergence of the Romantic age, the center of reality appeared in man. The Romantics were optimistic.

Emotion was a great keynote in value, added Professor Stump, in a (rawl) which he attributes to Texas, where he once lived. Concluding the Romantic era, he reported that being good consisted of aligning oneself with nature.

World War I brought about the fate of the Romantic era. Disillusionment of the war introduced realism. Writings of the realists gave a frank picture of life.

To realists, life was nothing but a succession of struggles ending in tragedy. Realists believed

Letters To The Editor—

Cultural Series Features Low Class Entertainment

Dear Editor,

It seems as though our cost of living has reached a new high; we have crossed over into a new high standard of living. Since we are attempting to imitate the cultured, we should also share in their luxuries.

Our community concert series is lower class. We are being entertained by lower class talent.

Other colleges are sharing in top talent; they are brushing elbows with the elite of the entertainment field. Why must we be saddled with poor entertainment?

Is McPherson such a poor community that top talent won't come here? No! McPherson is a thriving, prosperous community. A community of this bracket should share in the profits of top rate entertainment.

Profits of culture reflect in the community, we are actually degrading our community by accepting the series concerts as they are.

Profits, alone in the grading of a community, are not the only profits we could share. Monetary profits might even be raised if we employed a better series.

We pay now $4 per ticket and the community pays $7 per ticket. Many people on the campus have stressed paying more for each ticket, if we could be provided with better entertainment.

For a good series with top talent and personalities, $10 for the college student and $15 for a community ticket would not be an unfair price. This price is small to pay for raising the cultural level of our community and for the enjoyment that only top talent can produce.

Must we be satisfied with something less than we deserve? Why not let the administration know the feelings on campus about our cultural series? Let's bring in a cultural series befitting our college.

the "captain of his own soul", man is concerned with saving his soul. Man is seeking an escape from life, and has found it in the orthodox church.

Emphasis is being placed upon the welfare and struggles of the world instead of upon man. This is an era of existentialism, a term almost impossible to define.

A return to morals is the result of era as shown in literature.

"Man is now standing upon a new threshold," concluded Professor Stump, "seeking a new way out."

Tom, Dick, and Mary eat all their meals in New Hedon's Student Union. It is a beautiful new building with walls and windows.

At mealtime everyone sits around a big green and white table. It is the school's only table. It is covered with a lace tablecloth.

After the meal they will fold up the tablecloth. It then becomes a ping-pong net for the table.

Obviously the Student Union was another committee project.

My but homecoming was an exciting game. Tom managed to get three kings, but he didn't win again. Losing is another homecoming tradition.

Even so, his strategy was clever, and the fans broke into spontaneous cheers of approval. Fortunately this didn't cause too much trouble, except for Dick. He called Sam Houston a Texan. They formed a committee to wash his mouth out with soap.

Last year, New Hedon formed a committee to boost school spirit

Friends Invade Mac For Pigskin Battle

Friends University of Wichita attempts to break a McPherson winning streak dating back to 1932 tomorrow night. Game time is 7:30 at the Maccollege stadium.

The Bulldogs will be seeking their third win in conference play over the winless Friends Falcons. Friends stands three losses and a tie in the conference, while McPherson has two wins and two losses.

Competition between these two schools started in 1916. Friends won three and tied one of the first four games in the series, but since that time Maccollege has never lost a game to the Falcons.

Friends will be seeking their first conference win of this season after tying their first game and losing their last three.

The Bulldogs and Falcons have played two common foes, Southwestern and Kansas Wesleyan. Friends tied KWU, 13-13 and lost to Southwestern 47-14. Their other two losses were to Ottawa 51-0, and Bethel 27-0.

The Falcons are a passing ball club and should fill the air with pass against the Bulldogs. Thus far, however, Friends has shown very little offensive threat.

The McPherson ground game attempts once more to throw off the fumble bug which has plagued their first four ball games.

Unruh, improving halfback; Hoch, able fullback; and Crumrine, masterful quarterback, pose McPherson's greatest scoring threat.

From The Locker Room

By Larry Morlan

I feel that the Bulldog defensive line should be given great praise for the way they played against Southwestern, at least the first 50 minutes. The Bulldog line held the potent Builder backs almost up to the final gun.

Linemen, how about four quarters against Friends like the first 50 minutes against Southwestern.

Two boys in particular should be cited for playing a fine game last week—Silas O'Neal and Buddy Taylor.

O'Neal ranged over the whole field, repeatedly bringing down the Moundbuilder ball carriers. Taylor had a tough job in the secondary on pass defense and on running plays going around the end. He did a bang-up job on both.

Cal Unruh is another Bulldog that bears mentioning. Each game Cal seems to improve just a little more on his running. Cal reckons as a good running back.

The big game of the Kansas Conference is tomorrow night. The C of E Presbies battle the Ottawa Braves at Ottawa in what may well decide the conference winner.

I will stick with C of E and Bruce Upstill to win, but the game should go down to the wire. It should be a hard-fought clean ball game.

If you have any comments on the sports page, just jot them down on some paper and turn your thoughts in to the Spectator

Alpha Psi Omega Meets In Quiet Room Tonight

Alpha Psi Omega will hold a short meeting in the Student Union Quiet Room this evening at 6:30 p.m. The program will be a discussion of the production "The Miracle Worker." All members are urged to attend.

Moundbuilders Hammer Bulldogs In Final Period

Playing a superb and fired-up brand of football during the first 50 minutes of play, the McPherson Bulldogs nevertheless went down to defeat at the hands of Southwestern 26-7.

The homecoming spirit and a large crowd seemed to arouse the Bulldogs last Saturday.

After three quarters of play against the very strong Moundbuilders, McPherson held a 7-0 lead. Only a crushing fourth quarter drive enabled Southwestern to register a 26-7 victory.

The first three quarters of play revealed a Bulldog team not seen by McPherson fans before this year.

Time and time again the Bulldogs defensive line stopped the Moundbuilder offensive thrusts. McPherson scored their touchdown in the third quarter after Silas O'Neal recovered a Southwestern fumble on the Southwestern 32-yard line.

After the recovery, Crumrine faded to pass and was trapped behind his own line only to break free and carry the ball to the eight yard line. From there, Art Hoch carried the ball into the end zone, scoring the touchdown. Keith Miller kicked the extra point to make the score at that time, 7-0 in favor of McPherson. In the fourth quarter, McPherson returned to its usual "three-yards and a fumble" to almost hand the ball game to Southwestern.

After Southwestern tied the game on a 44-yard drive at the offset of the fourth quarter, McPherson fumbled the next two times they had the ball. Southwestern then scored from the McPherson 29 and 39 yard lines respectively.

A recovered onside kick-off by Southwestern led to the Moundbuilders fourth touchdown.

Akin and Kimberly each scored two of the Southwestern touchdowns. Akin's scores were long runs, while Kimberly's were short line plunges.

Final statistics showed Southwestern gaining 331-yards to 128-yards for McPherson.

Baker Falls 15-6; Three Teams Remain Unbeaten

Baker fell from the ranks of the undefeated in the Kansas Conference this last weekend. The Wildcats went down to defeat at the hands of the C of E Presbies.

C of E scored early and late in the game to give them the 15-6 win. Baker, who did not score until the last quarter, exposed the Presbies to their roughest game of the year.

Ottawa and Southwestern also remained undefeated in conference play with wins over Sterling and McPherson respectively.

Ottawa had the easier time of the two rocking Sterling 34-0. This win gave the Braves 23 consecutive victories, as Kent Smart and Jon Krebs each scored two touchdowns in the victory. Ottawa accumulated 509-yards gained to 149-yards for Sterling.

Southwestern defeated a fired-up McPherson team 26-7 to keep its conference record clean. The final score did not give a true account of the game as McPherson led going into the fourth quarter 7-0. The Moundbuilders stormed back with four final period touchdowns for the win.

The upset of the week in the conference would have to fall to Kansas Wesleyan. The Coyotes defeated Bethany, who last week held C of E to 10 points, by a score of 14-0.

KW used an air attack to score their first touchdown in the second quarter and a pass interception led to their second score. Statistic wise, the game was even with the passing of KW prevailing.

Bethel garnished its first win in conference play with a 27-0 win over Friends of Wichita. Bethel ran almost at will against Friends, while holding the Falcons to 60-yard rushing.

'School Like Little UN', Writes Hubbard

"Language school is just like a little UN," Dennis Hubbard, '62, has written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hubbard of Hugoton.

Dennis, who is attending the University of Marburg under the Church of the Brethren Year Abroad program, spent eight weeks studying the German language at the Goethe Institute in Iserlohn, Germany.

Goethe Institute, founded in 1932 on the 100th anniversary of the poet's death, maintains 18 schools in Germany with a total of almost 50,000 pupils. Most of the schools are located around Munich, but Iserlohn and some others are in north Germany.

More than 70 students from all parts of the world attended the eight-week course which closed Sept. 26.

"Here the students acquire in eight weeks a working knowledge of the German language, more than the equivalent which a student would receive in a university in the United States during a year's instruction in a classroom," Dennis wrote.

"One advantage the students have over the university instruction is that each student lives in a German home and is exposed to German atmosphere constantly. Although many of the German people speak English or other languages, the student is compelled to converse only in German.

"The average day for the students begins at about 7 a.m. and is finished at 8:30 in the evening. Classes commence at 9 and last until 6 with a break of about two hours following lunch. Thirty hours a week are spent in the classroom and nearly the equivalent is spent in preparing for classes," Dennis wrote concerning his eight weeks in Iserlohn.

Branches or lectureships of Goethe Institute are maintained

"Just like a little UN," comments Dennis Hubbard, '62, concerning the students at the Goethe Institute which he attended for eight weeks of German language study. Six countries are represented in this small group which went on a week-end excursion: Dennis, at the left, from Hugoton; the two fellows next to him, from France; the woman, one of the German professors; the fellow in front, from Nigeria; the fellow on the right end, from Cyprus; and the two next to him, from Pakistan. in 44 countries. The purpose of the Institute is the encouragement of the German language outside Germany.

Grove To Relate Experiences In News Writing

Noel Grove, '59, will relate some of his first-year experiences in writing for a daily newspaper tonight at 7:30, when the Spectator staff and others interested in journalism meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Brunk, 1711 East Kansas.

"Buzz," as Mr. Grove is called by staff members of the McPherson Sentinel, is a native of South English, Iowa. He graduated from McPherson College with a major in English and taught English and coached debate at Inman High School for two years before joining the Sentinel staff.

Any student interested in news writing is invited to the meeting. If possible, those planning to attend should sign the list on the bulletin board outside the Spectator office in the basement of the Student Union before 6:00 o'clock this evening.

SC Chooses Larry Morlan

Larry Morlan, freshman from McPherson High School, has been appointed campus editor of the Spectator by student council.

Larry, who plans to major in journalism or political science, was editor of High Life, the McPherson High School newspaper.

He was a member of Hi-Y and Mask and Gavel, and M-Club.

Basketball is one of Larry's main interests. He played on the McPherson High School basketball team.

Larry wants to go into politics or diplomatic relations, but if he can't, he will go into journalism.

The campus editor position was temporarily filled by Betty Varner, sophomore from Kansas City, Mo., until the position could be permanently filled.
