Students May Apply For Overseas Study

Applications are due Friday Feb. 15, for the 1964 program of Brethren Colleges Abroad sponsored by the six colleges of the Church of the Brethren.

Students may obtain application forms from Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, dean of the college.

Under this program, students from the Brethren colleges study for one academic year at Marburg, Germany, or Strasbourg, France.

Next year will mark the third year for the program in Germany, while the Strasbourg program was initiated this year.

Dennis Hubbard, special student from Hugoton, was Macollege's first representative in the program last year.

This year, Mike Brown, junior from Wichita, is studying in Marburg under the program.

Candidates for the programs must have had at least two years or the equivalent of Ger-

Mike Brown . . . now at Marburg man or French at the college level.

Other qualifications include high general academic ability, emotional stability, intellectual initiative, ability to participate constructively in small group living, and the attributes which enable one to be a responsible and scholarly representative of America abroad.

Members of both the German and French programs will sail from New York in late August. An orientation program will be conducted on board ship.

During September and October the students will attend special language training institutes. The emphasis in each institute will be on conversation skills, vocabulary work, and an orientation in the culture and civilization of Germany or France.

Six semester hours of credit may be earned during this period.

The program is arranged so that students can receive a full year of college credit in Europe, including round-trip transportation, for approximately the same cost in the United States for a year of study.

During some weekends and during holiday periods group and individual excursions may be made to various points of interest.

Each student will be given a monthly food allowance. Students live either in private homes or in university dormitories.

Established in the twelfth century, Marburg is located on the Lahn River which flows into the Rhine. It is midway between Frankfurt and Kassel, a few miles from Schwarzenau, the birthplace of the Church of the Brethren.

The University of Marburg is the oldest Protestant university in the world. It has approximately 7,000 students.

Strasbourg, the capital of Alsace, is located 250 miles east of Paris and has a population of 300,000.

The University of Strasbourg, founded in the 16th century, has a library containing 3,000,000 volumes.

Convocations Calendar

Tuesday, Jan. 7 — Chapel. Howard Mickel, assistant professor of sociology, Bethany College, Lindsborg, will speak on Reinhold Niebuhr's criticism of pacifism.

Friday, Jan. 10 — Assembly. Mohammed Shuhud Sa'aid, representative from World University Service.

Tuesday, Jan. 14 — Chapel. Kenneth Yingst, director of development.

Friday, Jan. 17 — Assembly. Robert Gadberry, Wichita.

Spectator to Publish

Last Issue of Term

The next issue of The Spectator will be published Friday, Jan. 17. This will be the final issue for this semester.

Dave Anders, senior from McPherson, will become editor-in-chief next semester. Mike Hiltebrand sophomore from Melba, Ida., will be managing editor, and the campus editor position will be filled by Carolyn Lehman junior from Lincoln, Neb.

Coming . . .

Friday, Dec. 20 — Christmas recess begins 12:15 p.m.

Thursday, Dec. 26 — Saturday, Dec. 28 — Christmas Tournament.

Friday, Jan. 3 — Lincoln, Neb. Tournament.

Tuesday, Jan. 7 — Christmas recess ends 7:45 a.m.

Tuesday, Jan. 7-10 — Enrollment begins.

Wednesday, Jan. 8 — Game, Ottawa at McPherson.

Friday, Jan. 10 — Game, McPherson at Emporia.

Tuesday, Jan. 14 — Game, Bethany at McPherson.

Thursday, Jan. 16 — Game, McPherson at Friends.

A sociology professor from Bethany College, Lindsborg, and a field representative of World University Service will deliver convocation addresses to McPherson students in January.

Howard Mickel, assistant professor of sociology, will speak on Tuesday, Jan. 7, and Mohammed Shuhud Sa'aid will be featured on Friday, Jan. 10.

Mickel is in his second year in the Sociology Department of Bethany College. A Lutheran minister, Mickel was formerly a pastor.

Last summer, he participated in graduate work in California. He is presently working towards his doctoral degree.

Mickel's doctoral thesis is on Reinhold Niebuhr's attitude toward pacifism. This will be the topic for his chapel presentation. Mickel is married and the father of three children.

Mohammed Shuhud Sa'aid came to this country last year under the United States National Student Association's Foreign Student Leadership Project to study at Cornell University.

As an outstanding student leader in Malaysia, he was nominated by the Malayan National Union of Students for the NSA program.

Sa'aid was graduated in 1962 from the University of Malaya, where he was president of the student body and earlier was editor of the student newspaper. His major field was research in natural rubber in the College of Agriculture.

Since graduation, his interests have turned to politics, and he is considering law studies when he returns to Malaysia.

In addition to his studies at Cornell, he was employed by the Cornell Center for International Studies to lead discussions on the political developments of the Malaysian region.

This past summer, he was nominated by WUS to attend Friends World College, a new international summer school directed by Dr. Harold Taylor and scholars from several countries.

'Why Talk Peace' Topic For Peace Conference

'Why Talk Peace' will be the topic for the Peace Fellowship Seminar to be held at Macollege, during semester break, Jan. 23-25.

Guest speaker for the seminar will be Dale Aukerman from West Alexandria, Ohio.

Students from Bethel, Tabor, Bethany, and Hesston Colleges will attend along with Macollege students.

Aukerman, a graduate of the University of Chicago, was on campus last year as a chapel speaker.

Besides receiving a B. A. degree from the University of Chicago, Aukerman has had seminary work and participated in an Oriental Institute on Ancient Near Eastern Studies in Old Testament.

Under the auspices of the BVS, Aukerman assisted in refugee placement in Austria.

Also while in BVS, he directed two training units at New Windsor, Md. Following BVS, he served as pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Rodney, Mich.

Aukerman then spent three years in Europe studying and working. He has been instrumental in planning peace conferences for peace churches and other denominations in Europe.

This Peace Seminar is being sponsored by the McPherson Peace Fellowship. Jim Weaver, senior from Edwardsville, Ill., is chairman, and Robert Porter, assistant professor of German and literature, is faculty advisor.

Other members of the steering committee are Dottie Wine, Bob Shank, Dan Zinn, and Carlos Green.

Series to Star Mezzo-Soprano As Guest Artist

Miss Joann Grillo, mezzo-soprano will be featured in the third program of the McPherson Cultural Series, Saturday, Jan. 18, at 8 p.m., in Brown Auditorium.

Miss Grillo has starred in leading opera houses in the United States, Europe and Latin America.

She is one of the very few mezzo-sopranos in the world today who has sung both the deep contralto role of Ulrica in "Ballo in Maschero" and the high mezzo role of Rosina in "Il Barbiere di Siviglia."

Youth to Plan Conference On Campus

"Unto the Least of These," is the theme of the Church of the Brethren Regional Youth Conference to be held here at Macollege, March 6-8.

The Rev. Robert Mays, pastor of the Seattle, Wash., Church of the Brethren, will be the main conference speaker.

A choral concert by the Macollege choir will be featured Friday night, with Donald Frederick, professor of voice and director of choral organizations, in charge.

"The Peculiar Ones," is the topic for the Church of the Brethren speech contest to be held at the conference.

Students participating are high school students who were winners in their home churches and in their districts.

The winner of the regional contest will participate in the national contest held at the Church of the Brethren Annual Conference in Lincoln, Neb.

E-Town Will Select Teachers for Africa

Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, Pa., under a grant from the Hershey Chocolate Corporation, will select a limited number of applicants for teaching posts in secondary schools of Ghana and Nigeria, West Africa.

The grant is a concrete expression of interest in bettering relations between the people of Africa and the United States through an educational program. Elizabethtown will select teachers for the Teachers for West Africa program from the seniors and alumni of colleges and universities of high academic standing.

Completed application forms must be submitted to the Teachers for West Africa Program, Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, Pa., no later than April 15, 1964.

However, the earlier the application is received, the greater are the applicant's chances for placement.

Applicants will be notified by June 1, 1964, as to the status of their application.

The African-American Institute, a private non-profit organization, will assist in placing those selected under the program.

Applicants must have a Bachelor's or Master's degree in one of the following subjects: biology, physics, chemistry, mathematics, English, French, industrial arts, business education, or business administration.

Salaries range from $2500 to $3000 for teachers based on academic qualifications and experience. There are also allowances and benefits based on individual qualifications.

Married couples with no more than one child under school age, and single candidates, will be considered for acceptance in the program.

Transportation from place of residence in the United States to Africa and return at the end of the two or three year contract period will be provided by the Teachers for West Africa program.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from Dr. James M. Berkebile, Director, Teachers for West Africa Program, Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, Pa.

Flory to Return Spring Semester

Dr. Raymond L. Flory, professor of history and political science, now on sabbatical leave, will be returning to Macollege for the second semester.

The Florys, who are now in LaVerne, Calif., plan to return approximately a week before the beginning of the second semester activities.

Dr. Flory has been doing independent study in history and political science at the Claremont School of Graduate Studies.

He has also been teaching a Saturday morning class at the LaVerne Church of the Brethren College.

A NATIVITY SCENE at the entrance of the college greets visitors to the campus and highlights the Christmas decorations at Macollege.

The Scholiast

By Christopher R. van de Velde
It seems a shame that within a week nothing proper could be done to correct the unsanitary conditions of Arnold Hall. Perhaps, however, after last week's Student Council meeting there will be some definite improvement in the deplorable conditions.

It is with the hope of making the Student Union a more enjoyable and used facility that the administration and the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees approved the Student Council's request for a jukebox in the Student Union basement.

This writer was assigned to gather cost data on such an operation.

Since the bookstore is a success, the Student Council has decided to see it enlarge its operation. Now, however, there are new problems—how large to make it and where to put it? Several ideas will have been discussed at the "Public - invited" meeting by the time this article appears in the Spectator.

Art McAuley was selected as the freshman representative to the Foods Committee. Another phase or aspect of the students' eating situation was discussed at the December 11 Student Council meeting.

It was suggested that the on-campus students be given a 2 or 3 meal option plan, rather than the now mandatory 3 meal plan.

The economic savings would be a great help to many students, and the plan should certainly work no hardship (only a benefit) on any party concerned.

The Council commended the vigor of the cheerleaders, and suggested that the Pep Club might see to their financial reimbursement in advance if the need arises.

Letters to the editor from students, faculty members, or others are welcomed. All letters must be signed, but the name of the writer need not appear in print. Letters may be submitted to the editor or placed in the campus mail. Contributions do not necessarily reflect the policy or opinion of The Spectator, the administration, or the faculty of McPherson College.

Athletes Support College Sports

Dear Editor,
Let's look more closely at the three major points you advocated in your last editorial for the abolition of intercollegiate athletics, particularly football.

While discussing lack of interest in football, let's apply the term to everything on Mac-campus. The same is not true of other colleges: there were still enough interested people who did not chase off to high school or professional games to set attendance records at three Big Eight schools this past season.

And with interest still on our minds, we might say that when we go home attempting to freshen our active, inquiring minds for the institution, the questions asked are not how the A Cappella Choir sounds this year, or if the debate team placed 31 in the Hastings Tourney again.

Instead their questions are directed toward athletic records, particularly football and basketball. This is true of both present and future alumni.

With regard to the question of finances, we cannot understand how your proposed switch from intercollegiate to intracollegiate athletics would benefit the situation. At least as much and probably more equipment would be required, and the revenue source of football ticket sales would be curtailed.

Besides, how can you evaluate the price of the character gained by an athlete who learns to keep giving his all even when flat on his back while losing 68-0? And, having people in the stands teaches performance under pressure.

We fail to comprehend the validity of your final point also.

Most football games are played on Friday or Saturday nights. Most students have dates at this time anyway, so they would lose none of their study time by attending games.

Again with reference to study time, we would like to remind you that the average athlete receives higher grades than the average student, and he spends more than 20 hours per week practicing and playing his sport. The games last about one tenth that long, and that is all the time required for active support by most students.

While you are butchering extracurricular activities anyway, why not cut up The Spectator. If we interpret "Mr. Scholast" correctly, The Spec is just a propaganda organ except for the few information items it contains.

Why not read this information in chapel so that the Spectator staff can resume their normal sleep and studies which they have forsaken in the interest of the beloved old Spec.

If you fail to understand our answers to your three arguments, contact either of us.

Reader Misses Point of Letter States Writer

Dear Editor,

The point of my letter printed in the Dec. 6 issue of The Spectator was completely missed by Mr. Weimer in his letter of last week.

To restate what I expressed before, one cause for President Kennedy's death was political apathy. The definition of apathy is the lack of something — not to condemn what already exists.

Mr. Weimer seems to feel that because there is political apathy, that we belong to "A group which seeks to obliterate all but that which, in their own minds, is right while not realizing that the most basic tenet is equal right to existence."

Mr. Anders and I are not ignoring the fact that it is freedom of the individual to think and express his ideas freely that gives democracy its strength.

When I make the accusation that there is political apathy in America, I condemn no man for what he thinks or believes; rather that man does not think. I agree that democracy is based on the free interplay of ideas, concepts which arise in individual minds.

I also agree that it is a detriment to our society when one segment or party, whether church or state, attempts to force its own ideas upon another.

To blame political apathy for the existence of the extremists is not evading the issue or pointing an accusing finger at those who disagree with my ideas.

For, blaming political apathy is blaming those who do not have ideas.

Robert Crabb

Man's capacity for justice makes democracy possible, but man's inclination to injustice makes democracy necessary.—Reinhold Niebuhr;

The Island of Jersey in the United Kingdom has the highest per-capita use of tobacco in the world, reports the December Reader's Digest. It also has the world's highest incidence of male lung cancer.

Issues Stimulate Writers

Minds Shrink From Disuse

Dear Editor,

The other night while just sitting and thinking, some people came in and asked what I was doing. They stared unbelieving as I said "Just thinking."

Most of us have lost the talent for slowing down and thinking. We are too unaware of ourselves to evaluate things, let alone ideas.

We buy and use and wear and eat and drink what others do. We listen by the scores of millions to the same TV Westerns. We believe what we hear—not what we think.

Our minds have shrunk from disuse, and from the avoidance of situations which demand serious reflection.

And in such rubber-stamp patterns we turn out mindless youngsters, adjusted to the status quo; youngsters who seek not self-realization but security, security in what is the least secure, most dangerous and fastest changing period of all human history.

We are in desperate need of new ideas, new leadership, new goals and a new version of lofty hope that our nation can offer the beleaguered world.

To me the outlook of our society seems pitiable. We, the younger generation are being brought up to have group adjustment, not self reliance.

We are in a society that is changing so fast and so radically that only a person with a deep knowledge of himself can decide which of the changing ideas he will accept, which he will reject.

Today it is this pondering, day-dreaming person who is prodded into useless, meaningless activity by nervous companions who fear that solitude is somehow dangerous. As a result we have no need to test our inner selves.

Stand up and be counted as a scorned thinker.

Jerry Lasater

Hate Mongers Hinder Rights, States Student

Dear Editor:

It was with great inward helplessness that I read the letter of Mr. Mike Weimer in the Dec. 13 issue of the Spec.

First of all, let me hasten to say that I, like Mr. Weimer, believe that "democracy is based on the free interplay of ideas."

But, I feel that Mr. Weimer has ignored the fact that in a democratic society, we only have democracy as long as we do not infringe upon the rights of other people.

Are not the hate mongers of the left and the right infringing upon our rights?

When they become so saturated with hate that they will resort to extinguishing the life of an individual, are they not infringing upon a person's most cherished possession—LIFE?

Mr. Weimer has a good point when he states that "it is the value of democracy that we are exposed to such radical ideas as those of the extreme left and right," and thus draw our conclusions.

But, when radicals advocate and support hatred (not just "racism or fanatic rightism"), this is wrong.

Mr. Weimer made the statement that, in his opinion, hatred was not behind the assassination, but that it was "Only a one-man vendetta, supported by a false belief in the harangues of a false political leader."

I'm not sure who Mike is referring to, but I would imagine that he is referring to Castro as the leader whom Oswald followed.

Only one question, does Mr. Castro, advocate brotherly love?

Mr. Weimer also makes the accusation that Mr. Crabb and myself seem to belong to the group of people who "seek to obliterate all but that which, in their minds, is right while not realizing that most basic tenet is equal right to existence."

To the contrary, Mr. Crabb and I are not seeking to obliterate all but that which is not right in our minds.

Rather, we agree that extremists have the right to exist. What we want to obliterate is the hatred which extremists often advocate.

In his final analysis, Mr. Weimer stated that if we must blame someone or something else, "blame that which gave us the power of mind, not those who exercise this power in its proper environment."

I shall not blame God, for I don't believe He wills that things such as this should happen. So, Mr. Weimer, I shall blame the environment of our society.

In our society we allow hatred to exist. Is this the proper environment for straight political thinking?

Winter Recess For Observance Of Christ's Birth

Dear Editor,

Another year and another Christmas vacation! This Christmas vacation seems like all the previous ones, except I have much more homework which must be done.

What really is a Christmas vacation? Is it only to catch up on term papers and back assignments? Of course, the answer to the latter question is "yes" to many of the college students.

Christmas vacation is given to us by the college in order that we can take time out to celebrate the birth of the Christ child. Christmas is one of the most blessed, and sacred celebrations in all of Christendom.

God was not forced or pressured to act in history and reveal Himself in the form of Jesus Christ, but He did so out of the great love and concern He has for mankind.

In the Christ child, God was giving Himself unto the world and bringing a fulfillment to His love.

Christ was born in a stable, grew up in an obscure village and was the child of a peasant woman. However, all the armies that ever marched and all the kings that ever reigned have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as that one solitary life.

During this Christmas vacation may all of us examine our religious beliefs carefully and ask ourselves the question: "Is Christ a real and living friend in my life?" Answering this question truthfully will help you know where you stand in relationship to your Creator.

So Grow, Son, Grow!

By D. W. Bittinger
President of McPherson College

As a child I slept with my three brothers in what was called, "The boys' room". I can recall that at night there were occasional smothered groanings, or tears, from one or the other of us as we tried to sleep.

My mother, who slept in a nearby room, had a very sympathetic ear turned toward her children. She would appear almost at once with some helpful home-made remedy. After we had taken this, she would say,

"This will help the pain in your legs for a little while. But your real trouble is that your body all over. Your bones may be growing faster than your muscles. The only real cure for this pain is to grow all over. So grow, son, grow!"

My mother did not know the medical term for these pains, but she was a very wise woman. Her words would have applied as well to the psychological or the spiritual growth and development of her sons and daughters as they applied to their physical development.

Psychiatrists, sociologists, preachers, and anthropologists could apply these words of my mother to the total spiritual and social development of our world. "So grow, world, grow." This alone will relieve distress and pain!

I read the Spectator week by week with interest. Our college sons and daughters groan some; our magazines and papers, on their "readers write" pages, also reflect certain personal and social groanings in our society.

Some of these groanings, as reflected in The Spectator are for very minute things; some of them are for significant things. Sometimes the pain of the groaner is acute, but so self-satisfying that it would really be a dis-service to the writer to change anything; dress up night, chapel attendance, etc.

Each person has a right to his own opinion and so long as it does not injure the total group too badly, or so long as it does not seriously wound the writer himself, he has the right to express this opinion.

When, however, the method of expressing it actually harms the writer or the paper, the editor has the right to suppress the article, or ask for it to be re-submitted in better terms.

But the only ultimate solution to many of our pains and groanings, within whatever social structure we are asked to live, lies in the philosophy so strikingly set forth in the words of my mother, "So grow, son, grow!"

Christmas is here. Christmas focuses around a Child. But Christmas is significant chiefly because the Child grew. He grew magnificently!

Busy Schedule Faces Macollege Bulldogs

While everyone else is home enjoying the holiday vacation, McPherson's basketball team will be facing the busiest part of their schedule immediately following Christmas.

The Third Junior Chamber of Commerce Tournament at McPherson starts Thursday, Dec. 26, and runs through the 28. The eight teams participating in this year's tourney are Tabor, Sterling, Northwestern (Oklahoma), Kansas Wesleyan, C of E, Phillips (Oklahoma), Bethel, and Mac.

C of E meets Northwestern in the first game at 4 p.m. Thursday; K.W.U. takes on Phillips at 5:40; Mac plays Bethel at 7:20; and Sterling closes first round action against Tabor at 9 p.m.

The winner of the Mac-Bethel game then tangles with the winner of the Sterling-Tabor contest at 7:20 Friday, with the losers playing at 5:40. Should the Bulldogs win their first two games, they will vie for the championship at 9 Saturday night.

The next weekend the Bulldogs travel to Lincoln, Neb., where they will play Doane and Nebraska Wesleyan on Jan. 3 and 4 in a doubleheader.

The stronger of the two teams will probably be Nebraska Wesleyan, who had a 23-4 record last year and return their top three scorers and rebounders.

They are three-year lettermen Dick Nelson, 6' senior who scored over 17 points per game last year, and Don Beckmann, 5'11" senior guard who sported a 12.5 points per game average last year.

Chef Paul, a 6'3" senior two-year letterman, led the team last year with over 19 points per game average.

Two other lettermen, 6'2" Jim Booker and 5'10" Jim Roark, both juniors, round out the starting line-up for Wesleyan. In the two previous encounters between the two schools, Wesleyan won the first game 62-61 in 1957 and Mac captured the second 63-62 in 1959.

McPherson returns to league play Wednesday, Jan. 8, when Ottawa's Braves make their first appearance at the Bulldogs' home court.

Ottawa finished in a tie for fifth in the conference last year with Mac and C of E. The Braves own the best record of any team against Mac; they have beaten the Bulldogs 50 times and lost to them 23 times.

C of E hosts the Bulldogs Jan. 10. Though the Presbies lost their big guns from last year; Peebler, Rose, Levin, and Miller make up a good nucleus around which to build, and the Presbies are always good on their home court.

Bethany comes to Mac Thursday, Jan. 14. The terrible Swedes have given every indication of ruling the conference this year, just as many said they would. Their only loss at the time of this writing has been a 1-point loss to Mac in the finals of the Moundridge Tournament.

With Bob Ahlstedt and Paul Johnson leading the scoring, and the whole team tough on the boards, Bethany stands as the team to beat in the KCAC at this point.

McPherson plays Friends at Wichita Jan. 16 to round out the first round of league play. The Falcons have not won a league game at time of this writing, but two Wichita South products, Keith Rucas and Otis Isaacs, provide enough scoring punch to make them dangerous.

Line backers, Dave Sears, Baker, sophomore; Warren Rinehart, Ottawa, senior; Phil Hower, Southwestern, senior; defensive back, Marv Williamson, C of E, senior; Rich Tresky, C of E, junior; and Jerry Harshaw, Ottawa, senior.

The NAIA Little All-American teams listed Jim Switzer, fullback for C of E, on their third team. Upstill, Moore, and Williamson, all from C of E, were given honorable mention.

Team Splits League Play In Last Week's Games

In last week's basketball action the Bulldogs split in league action, giving them 1 win and 2 losses in league competition, and 4 wins and 2 losses in overall competition.

On Tuesday, Dec. 11, the Bulldogs evened their league record with a 56-49 victory over the Bethel Threshers on Mac's home court.

George Czaplinski led the Bulldog attack with 19 points. Marion Enke contributed 16 points, while John Tegeler added 13 and Doug Kneahns 7.

It was a tight game until the second half when the Bulldogs height advantage began to pay off in points and they took over a commanding lead, never to be threatened by the Threshers.

The fine playmaking of Arlo Schmidt kept the Threshers in contention throughout the first half.

On Saturday, Dec. 14, the Bulldogs lost to the Southwestern Moundbuilders at Winfield on a last second shot by the score of 67-65.

In the early moments the Bulldogs appeared as though they would make a route of it, taking a commanding lead, but in the last three minutes of the first half the Builders attacked the Bulldogs with a fullcourt press and scored 16 points to the Bulldogs 3, and took a half-time lead of 33-35.

The last half was close all the way with the Builders on top when the buzzer went off. George Czaplinski again led Bulldog scoring with 21 points, followed by John Tegeler with 14, Dick Welch with 12 and Marion Enke with 10.

Students Enroll After Vacation

Enrollment for the second semester will begin immediately following Christmas vacation, Jan. 7. Enrollment deadline will be Jan. 10.

Students may pick up their cards in the registrar's office and begin enrolling as soon as the Christmas recess is ended.

Cagers Defeat Sterling 75-69 In Loop Contest

STERLING—The McPherson College Bulldogs battled off a late game rally to defeat the Sterling Warriors 75 to 69 here Dec. 17 in a Kansas Conference game.

McPherson held leads of 12 points midway in both periods of the game only to see Sterling rally and cut the margin in the closing minutes of the periods. McPherson held a 37-32 advantage at the half.

George Czaplinski led McPherson in scoring with 22 points and Marion Enke had 20. High for Sterling was Dudley Boeken with 23.

Each team is now 2-2 in the conference and McPherson is 5-2 for the season and Sterling is 2-4.

Thursday night at McPherson, the Bulldogs played the Baker Wildcats in another conference game. Monday Bethany defeated Tabor 96-87 in a game played at Lindsborg. The box score:

C of E Leads All-Star Team

Led by two players who were unanimous selections, championship College of Emporia dominated the Kansas conference all-star football teams this year.

The Presbies placed eight men on the offensive team and four on the defensive unit. Three Ottawa Braves and one Baker Wildcat were also chosen on the offensive team. The extra player was the result of a tie in the voting.

Ottawa also placed four men on the defensive team. The remaining three spots were shared by Bethany, Baker, and Southwestern.

The only unanimous selections were Eldon Moore and Marvin Williamson, both from C of E, who received every vote for the offensive team. These two players plus Val Finney, Ottawa, and Richard Tresky, C of E, were named to both the offensive and defensive teams.

Six players repeated from last year's all-conference team. They were Bruce Upstill, C of E; and Phil Hower, Southwestern; both for the third time, and Williamson, Moore, Finney, and Jim Switzer, C of E.

Offensive team members are:

Line backers, Dave Sears, Baker, sophomore; Warren Rinehart, Ottawa, senior; Phil Hower, Southwestern, senior; defensive back, Marv Williamson, C of E, senior; Rich Tresky, C of E, junior; and Jerry Harshaw, Ottawa, senior.

The NAIA Little All-American teams listed Jim Switzer, fullback for C of E, on their third team. Upstill, Moore, and Williamson, all from C of E, were given honorable mention.

Barchesky, Dell

Secretaries Enjoy Hobbies

Hobbies seem to be the favorite pastime of Mrs. Betty Barchesky and Mrs. Miriam Dell, both Maccollege secretaries.

Cooking is one of the favorite pastimes of Mrs. Barchesky, secretary to the dean. She especially likes to try new and unusual recipes.

She has won several city and 4-H cooking contests and been asked to submit some of her recipes to cookbooks.

Mrs. Barchesky also enjoys sewing and makes most of her own clothes and clothes for her two daughters, age 14 and 10.

She reads a lot of books and magazines, especially biographies and books on crafts. Collecting figurines is another of her hobbies.

Mrs. Barchesky enjoys all kinds of music and some modern art paintings. She has done some painting for relaxation.

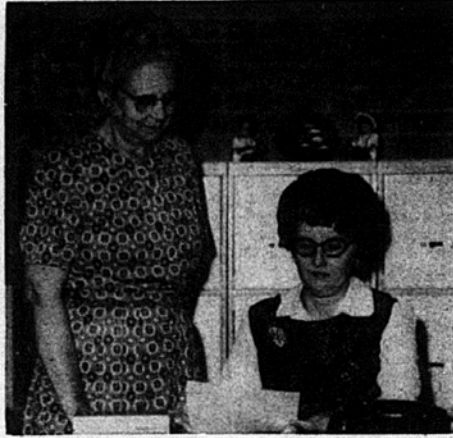

She is a member of the Progressive Home Demonstration Unit, PTA, the church society, and is acting as a campfire guardian for Campfire Girls.

After high school graduation she worked as a stenographer and bookkeeper in Salina, then married Walter Barchesky, who now works at Harry Lohr Supply Company in McPherson.

She worked as a secretary while her husband was in the service, then worked as a bookkeeper and stenographer in McPherson.

She took time off to raise her family, then began work at Consumer's Co-op in McPherson. Last fall Betty began working for Dr. Geisert at Maccollege.

Ceramics is one of the main hobbies of Mrs. Miriam Dell, secretary to D. W. Bittinger. She makes dishes, plaques, and figurines, and even makes flowers by hand-molding each petal.

She is particularly interested in experimenting with different types of finishes and decorations. Her handiwork is displayed around her home and office. Many of her ceramics she gives as gifts.

Knitting is another favorite hobby of Mrs. Dell. She now has a knitting machine which cuts knitting time in about one half but still does a lot of knitting by hand. She often works out her own designs for sweaters.

Another hobby is collecting jewelry from different lands. To date, she has pieces from Portugal, Spain, Mexico, Italy, Taiwan, China, Canada, and Japan. She also has some Navajo jewelry.

Mrs. Dell also embroiders and crochets and does copper enameling. She enjoys reading all types of books, especially histories.

Mrs. Dell graduated from McPherson College with an education major. She took several education courses while here and worked as a student secretary.

She married Milton Dell, professor of industrial arts education, after college and stayed home to raise a family.

The Dells have three children, all married. Their oldest daughter, Leona Ikenberry is living in California and has two children, a girl and a boy.

Their other daughter, Mary Jo Christy, has three girls and lives in McPherson. Their son Bob is spending his last year in seminary in Chicago.

Choir Elect Officers

Barry Haldeman, junior from Manheim, Pa., was elected president of the A Cappella Choir during elections held last fall.

Other officers elected at the same time were John Miller, junior, Waterloo, Iowa, vice president; Colleen Neher, junior, Quinter, secretary; and Karen Andes, sophomore, Mound City, Mo., treasurer.

Vida Sue Werner, junior from Winona, and Earl Saffer, junior, from Arriba, Colo., will serve as council members.

Mac Delivers Above Average College Leaders

By R. E. Mohler
Professor Emeritus of Biology
Several publications, not friendly to President Kennedy, made rather free use of the expression, "Presidents are made by sending them to Harvard where they turn left."

Regardless of what you may think of the statement, the truth remains that presidents are made and there is no doubt but that their immediate environment has much to do with their making.

It is no accident that four of the presidents of our six Brethren colleges are graduates of McPherson College.

We hear very often of the supposed superior training a student receives in the schools of the east. In fact we seldom hear the suggestion that we turn to the schools of the mid-west when in search for superior talent and training.

I do not consider college trustees exactly a stupid bunch and I well know that when it comes to the selecting of a president they search long and hard to find the best man available.

Evidence points to the fact that in the past they have found many of their best men in the mid-west and McPherson College graduates stand high in the presidents chosen.

I have known personally, both as students and as administrators, the following men; their history is now a matter of record.

McPherson College has chosen two of her graduates as presidents: Dr. S. J. Miller and Dr. J. A. Clement. Dr. E. M. Studabaker served for many years as president of LaVerne College.

Dr. A. R. Ikenberry was president of Mt. Morris College, Dr. Oliver Ikenberry is now president of Shepherd College of West Virginia.

All of these men were students at McPherson College. The only Brethren College that
