

Former Dean Succumbs To Illness on January 7

Mrs. Ernest L. Ikenberry, former dean of women at McPherson College and former missionary to China, died Jan. 7.

Mrs. Ikenberry was born in 1886, at Haverhill, Mass.

After high school, she attended the Northfield School for girls in Massachusetts for three years, then attended Oberlin College two years and McPherson College for two years, graduating in 1921.

Mrs. Ikenberry taught in Daleville College, Daleville, Va., the following year.

She was married to Ernest L. Ikenberry, June 5, 1922, at the Daleville Church of the Brethren.

They went as Church of the Brethren missionaries to China on their honeymoon, where she served in many capacities for over thirty years.

During the war years, 1944-1946, Mrs. Ikenberry was Dean of Women at McPherson College, teaching Church History. They then returned to China in 1946.

In February 1951, the Ikenberrys returned home by way of India, Egypt, Greece, Italy, Austria, and Germany, visiting the work of the Brethren. From 1951 to 1953 they resided in Elgin, where Mrs. Ikenberry spent some time in the Brethren National Church Office.

They went to Cuba, New Mexico in 1953 to open the Lybrook Navajo Mission, remaining five years.

The Ikenberrys served the First Church of the Brethren at Phoenix, Ariz., from 1953 until 1962.

In September of 1962, the Ikenberrys became semi-retired pastors of the Pleasant Plains Church of the Brethren, Aline, Okla.

Lindsey to Substitute For Grillo Program

Miss Claudia Lindsey, soprano, will be performing for the Cultural Series program, tomorrow night at 8 in Brown Auditorium.

Miss JoAnn Grillo, the previously announced artist for the Jan. 18, Cultural Series program, will not be able to appear. The Metropolitan Opera does not wish to release her from opera rehearsals for a January tour. Born in New York City, Miss Lindsey is an only child of a Baptist minister and a mother who chose nursing as a profession.

and "Gretchen am Spinnrade" by Schubert; four songs from "Ariettes Oubliées" by Debussy; "The Daisies," by Barber, and "Fade, Vision Bright" by Dellojolo.

She will be accompanied by Kenneth Manzer.

When Claudia entered Brandeis University as a Political Science major, a serious musical career was the farthest thing from her mind.

However, she loved good music, and it was not long before she mustered enough courage to sing at various student functions.

She returned to New York and took an editorial job with a Manhattan publishing firm to finance her new career.

It was the Little Orchestra Society's conductor, Thomas Scherman, who gave her her first important opportunity — that of featured soprano soloist in a Mendelssohn work, "Lobgesang."

The program will include such numbers as "V'adoro Pupilli" by Handel; "Liebesbotschaft," "Du bist die Ruh," "Beheimes,"

Groups Help With Wagner Recital at 8

Irvin L. Wagner, assistant professor of music and director of bands and orchestra, will present a faculty trombone recital in Brown Auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Professor Wagner will play the "Sonata in D Minor" by Corelli and "Seven Variations" by Beethoven. This will be followed by two examples of seventeenth century tower music by Pezel which will be played by the Brass Quintet.

The Quintet consists of Larry Blair and Dale Marrs on cornet, Jim Neher on bass, David Weimer on French horn, and Irvin Wagner on trombone.

"Piece for Six Trombones" by Phillips will be played following the Quintet number. Larry Kitzel, Warren Harden, Merlin Grady, Tim Matthaqi, Merlin Dresher, and Irvin Wagner are the six trombonists.

Professor Wagner will end the recital with "Vocalise" by Rachmaninoff and "Concertino d'Hiver" by Milhaud.

Professor Wagner will be accompanied on all solo numbers by Robert Edwards, assistant professor of organ and piano.

Hours, Facilities Expand For Student Book Store

Facilities for the student operated book store were moved to the former Student Conference Room in the basement of the Student Union during Christmas vacation.

This will be the permanent residence for the book store during the rest of this year.

Current hours for the book store are 11 a.m.-1 p.m. and 4-8 p.m., Monday through Friday. The store is open from 9-12 noon and 3-6 p.m., Saturday.

Beginning Monday, Jan. 27, book store hours will be extended to eight hours a day during the week. The store will be open from 10:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and it will be open several hours on Saturday.

Additional student personnel will be hired to take care of the increase in hours.

Students may not only purchase reading materials at the book store, but may also post advertisements for books which they wish to buy, sell or exchange.

Tedd Brumbaugh, senior from Fruita, Colo., is student manager of the book store.

The book store will be open during the week of final examinations.

Hubbard to Lead

Group to Tour European Sites

Members of the McPherson College community will have the opportunity to participate in a tour of Europe this summer.

The tour, being led by Dennis Hubbard, a 1962 graduate of McPherson, will begin June 12, and the group will return to the United States Aug. 8.

Hubbard, majored in business administration and minored in modern languages at McPherson. He has a wide range of travel experiences, having traveled twice over the Continent and England on similar tours.

He returned last August from a year's study in Marburg, Germany.

Present plans call for a three-week study of the French language at one of the French University language schools, as well as a visit to many of the historic places of France.

The remainder of the summer will be spent traveling through England, France, Italy, Germany, Switzerland, Monaco, Holland, and Belgium.

Tentative plans include a stop at the World's Fair in New York after returning to the States.

College credit will be given for those who successfully complete the language courses.

Attempts will be made to keep the cost of the tour reasonable.

An alternative travel plan to Spain is being considered for those who do not wish to study during the three weeks. Several days will be spent at the Spanish Riviera.

Anyone interested in this tour may contact Dennis Hubbard, Sharon Springs, Kan., as soon as possible. The deadline is tentatively set for Feb. 15.

This tour will not be limited to students, and whole families may participate.

Seminar Will Discuss Both Sides of Pacifism

Dale Aukerman

8:30, Friday morning, followed by questions and discussion.

After a 15 minute break, Aukerman will again address the group at 10:15 on "Ways of Living Peace," again followed by questions.

A panel discussion of "Living Pacifism" will begin at 1:30 p.m., Friday.

A summary and evaluation by Aukerman will close the seminar at 3:15.

Aukerman, featured speaker for the Peace Seminar, is from West Alexandria, Ohio. He graduated from the University of Chicago in 1949 at the age of 19. An ordained minister, he then worked in Biblical Studies at the University of Chicago.

In 1952 Aukerman entered Brethren Volunteer Service and was asked to give interim leadership to the training program through the following three units.

In 1953, he was assigned to Europe where he took part in the building of Kassel Haus, worked in German refugee camps, and helped refugees emigrate from Austria to the United States.

Following his return to the United States he became pastor of the Rodney Church of the Brethren in Michigan where he served from 1956 to 1959.

In 1960, he became the Brethren Service Peace Representative in Europe and Secretary of the Puidoux Theological Conference with responsibility for setting up theological peace conferences with church leaders on Christianity and war.

During this period from 1960-

62, he associated with Christians of the communist countries, having spent a month in Prague, Czechoslovakia, assisting with an international peace conference.

He has spent time in Scotland, England, Italy, Greece, France, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and Austria. These experiences have provided him with a background of contacts with churchmen in the areas of theology, peace, relief, and rehabilitation.

He is presently giving leadership in the Church of the Brethren peace program as a roving peace representative, which takes him throughout the United States into local churches, districts, camps, conferences, seminars, and civic groups.

He also writes articles for The Gospel Messenger and other Brethren periodicals.

Mickel, a sociology professor at Bethany College, Lindsborg, spoke in chapel Jan. 7 on the subject of pacifism.

Mickel's doctoral thesis is on Reinhold Niebuhr's attitude toward pacifism. Mickel is a former Lutheran pastor.

This Peace Seminar is being sponsored by the McPherson Peace Fellowship.

Jim Weaver, senior from Edwardsville, Ill., is chairman, and Robert Porter, assistant professor of German and literature, is sponsor.

Other members of the steering committee are Dottie Wine, Bob Shank, Dan Zinn, and Carlos Green.

No registration fee will be charged.

Dale Aukerman, Alexandria, Ohio, and Howard Mickel, Lindsborg, will be the leaders for the Peace Seminar at Macollege Thursday and Friday, Jan. 23-24.

Students from Bethany, Tabor, Bethel and Hesston Colleges will attend along with Macollege students.

Registration will begin Thursday, 3 p.m., in the Student Union. At 7 p.m., that evening Mickel and Aukerman will present their contrasting positions on pacifism.

After each presentation, there will be group sessions for the formulation of questions. Following a short break, the entire group will discuss the questions. Aukerman will speak on "Ways of Talking Peace" at

Tying Up Loose Ends

Every Spectator editor looks forward to the publication of his final issue, and I am no exception. And like most editors, I have an odd assortment of final statements to make before turning in my keys.

Regarding this first semester, I feel that the most significant thing the Student Council and student body accomplished was to successfully begin the operation of a paperback book store.

We should be especially proud of this accomplishment because it was primarily a product of student initiative, labor, and promotion.

A project of the Student Council just underway is the revision of The Growl, and I feel confident that some significant results can be reached through this effort.

Secondly, since I am not content to so easily let my "adversaries" have the final word, I would like to react to a criticism of The Spectator printed in the last issue.

I have no trouble in justifying the position of The Spectator on our campus, and I wholeheartedly disagree with the suggestion that we disseminate campus news in chapel "so that The Spectator staff can resume their normal sleep and studies which they have forsaken in the interest of the . . . Spec."

If we of the staff were not convinced that there is a good reason why this paper should be continued, I doubt that many of us would sacrifice that sleep and study time which is scarce on deadline nights.

I doubt that Dave Anders, my successor, would be willing to invest 20-25 hours each week next semester unless, like the rest of us, he felt that the McPherson College Spectator serves a purpose—even if it is only to provide a means by which letter writers may express their opinions.

Finally, just as the sentiments of particular letter writers are never the feelings of the entire student body, neither are the sentiments of a particular editor necessarily the feeling of the next editor.

Thus, the student body now falls to the mercy of a new editor—with whom I disagree politically, but for whom I am inexpressibly grateful for the long hours of assistance he has given us.

I have a great deal of confidence in the succeeding staff to provide a top-quality paper.

Not only have the three editors lost many hours of study and sleep, but the reporters have been generous with their time and sympathetic with the pressures of deadlines.

I am certain that the college community shares my feeling of gratitude to all who have helped publish The Spectator this semester. BJJ

The Scholiast

By Christopher R. van de Velde

Before beginning to report on the business of last week's Student Council meeting, I would like to review the highlights of the council meeting which immediately preceded vacation.

The committee reports were the first order of business; committees for which the Student Council is responsible for financing or creating in whole or in part.

These were the first reports of these committees, and they are the result of the council's desire to coordinate efforts and activities of various groups and committees — an attempt at more effective student leadership.

Don Merryman reported that he has met with little or no success in his attempts to meet with concerned officials regarding the two- or three-meal plan proposed by the Student Council. The choice between the two food plans would offer a desirable alternative to the present mandatory three-meal plan.

The decision to ask the administration to replace the pin ball machine with a juke box was made by the council, and I am sure that everyone is aware that the change has been made.

The change was made with the hope that the drab social atmosphere of the Student Union would be improved, and our most optimistic hopes, appear to have been realized.

This morning you had the opportunity to give your ideas and opinions on an assortment of topics on the questionnaire.

The answers to the questions about The Growl and the idea of revising the general information section will be used by special working committees.

The committee for the general information section will be composed of Shirley Fasnacht, Beverly Judge, Joe Little, Ed Mohler, with this writer serving as chairman.

The committee which will begin work on the revision of the constitution will be chaired by Don Merryman and will be composed of Ken Ulom, Phil Miller, Allan Miller, and this writer.

Another series of questions pertained to the projected Model United Nations program. The purpose of these questions was to discover how willing the student body would be to work long and hard at making such a program successful.

A program such as this could be of great benefit to the college and the surrounding community.

Daryl Standafer received the unanimous support of the council when he proposed the erection of a sign on the east side of the campus (facing Highway 56) which will bear the name of the college.

The council decided to pay the expenses of personnel who attend Kansas Conference Student Association meetings.

It was also decided in last week's meeting to limit council participation in charity drives to merely approving the individuals who wish to conduct such activities.

It was with a feeling of sorrow that the council voted to send flowers to Mrs. Una Yoder on behalf of the entire student body — flowers sent with a sincere wish for a speed recovery.

Critics Become Addicts, States Agitated Reader

Dear Editor,

I may be somewhat idealistic but I am extremely agitated by the numerous criticisms that I have read in the previous issues of The Spectator. And I don't think that many of them could be labeled constructive.

It appears that our critics have become addicts.

I would like to enlighten our critics on the meaning of our school emblem. I am referring to the emblem which we carry on our notebooks, and is printed on our Bulletin and Quadrangle.

The two Greek words enclosed in four M's mean light and life.

One who lives with criticism learns to condemn. How can he see the light of life when his head is bowed under the load of condemnation?

Not once have I heard a student at this Christian college say, "Joe, that was a very good meal," or complimented the Student Council for the much desired pin ball machine, a book store, or juke-box, or praise a faculty member for instructing a course on the level of a state school.

Maybe I have lived in the hills too long and am just now finding that politeness is no longer useful. But if praise did not work one could have tried flattery instead of criticism.

Cold Attitudes Bother Reader

Dear Editor,

I believe it was Norman Forester who said, "Students come to college to free themselves of ignorance, prejudice, and foolishness." This thought brought my attention to a letter that was in the Nov. 22 issue concerning "Cold greetings" on this campus.

I am not sure whether this persistent attitude of some of our students has any definite relation to the above thought or not.

Of course, our American society allows freedom of association which includes the right to choose who we want for our friends and the right to eliminate others with whom we do not wish to associate.

Apparently, some students on this campus think that it is inappropriate to greet certain classmates with a smile or a hello. If this is the case, I would much rather be greeted with a frowning "good morning" than just a meag stare.

Editor's Note — The following editorial was printed in The Colorado Daily, student newspaper of the University of Colorado.

I print it in The Spectator for two primary reasons: First, simply because I am in complete sympathy with the political sentiment so well expressed here.

Secondly, since this is the last issue of The Spectator of which I will serve as Editor-in-Chief, I wish to give the readers of this paper one last glimpse of reality before they are exposed to the pro-Goldwater leanings of my successor.

Probably the greatest single barrier to East-West understanding has been failure of the Communist-bloc nations to live up to their agreements with the West.

A fairly complete history of the cold war could be compiled, in fact, by documenting Communist violations of international agreements.

So it is all the more incredible that the first threat to violate the three-month-old nuclear test treaty has come not from a Communist official, but from a candidate for President of the United States, Senator Barry Goldwater.

In a nationally televised interview Goldwater said: "If it appeared to be to our advantage to test in the atmosphere, I would renounce the (test ban) treaty." He also said the treaty "is of no advantage to us."

Admittedly, there probably never will be a treaty that we or any other nation will continue to abide by "if it appeared to our advantage" to no longer do so.

But still it strikes us as a mite indiscreet for a prospective U. S. President to admit in effect that his foreign policy would be based entirely on expediency.

If, by some unforeseeable accident, Goldwater were to assume the Presidency, part of his duties would be to negotiate treaties—with both allies and rivals — a task which he might find considerably complicated by his implying that he respects international agreements only to the extent that they serve immediate ends.

What Goldwater intended to accomplish by his remarks is not clear — their political value is at best questionable — but it is a pretty safe bet that he has succeeded in giving the Communists a remarkably cheap propaganda victory.

A man who has been in public life as long as Goldwater should have learned by now how to avoid making statements which can easily be used to promote anti-Americanism abroad.

But what is really disturbing about the Senator's pronouncement is what it implies about his sense of political ethics. Goldwater's attitude toward the test ban treaty can't help but make us wonder if his criteria for abiding to all political covenants isn't the test of "advantage."

What does a conservative's conscience say about that, Barry?

Macollege Extends Sympathy to Families

McPherson College extends sympathy to the family of Mrs. Ernest L. Ikenberry who died Jan. 7. Mrs. Ikenberry was formerly dean of women at McPherson College.

Sympathy is also extended to Miss Edythe Eis and her family. Miss Eis' brother, Beverly, was fatally injured in an auto accident in December.

Miss Eis is secretary to the Director of Development at McPherson College.

Sympathy is also extended to Professor David L. Eiler and his family at the death of Mrs. Eiler's father, Joseph A. Holsopple, Jan. 13 in Virginia.

Funeral services are being held today in South English, Iowa.

Bulldogs Seek Bluejay Defeat

Basketball action for the second semester starts Friday, Jan. 24, when the MacCollege Bulldogs take on the Tabor Bluejays at Hillsboro.

These two teams have already met twice this season, once at McPherson and again in the Moundridge Tournament. Mac won both of these games by scores of 60-56 and 67-62, respectively.

Both of these games have been close throughout, however, and this third meeting could go either way. Tabor appeared much improved in the McPherson Tourney, and they will have the home-court advantage this game.

Schmidt and Weibe have been the best consistent scorers for Tabor this year.

The Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes invade the new McPherson High School gym on Monday, Jan. 27. The surprising Coyotes will be seeking their second win over MacCollege this year.

Wesleyan dropped Mac 76-69 when the two teams met in Salina on Dec. 7. Harold Johnson and Jim Rash each scored 21 points in this contest.

Both of these games promise to be interesting, and the game with K.W.U. begins the second round of league action.

WELCH CHALKS up two points for the Bulldogs, but in a losing cause as Bethany downed Mac in cage competition Tuesday evening.

Swedes Rally To Beat Mac

The Bethany College Swedes rallied midway in the last half to defeat the McPherson Bulldogs 73 to 62 in a Kansas Conference game last night at the Roundhouse.

The victory kept Bethany in undisputed first place with a 7-0 record. The Swedes are the only unbeaten team left in the conference. The Swedes have an overall seasonal record of 9-3, and one of those losses was to McPherson in the finals of the Moundridge tournament early in December.

game. McPherson led 44-38 at the half. McPherson had a one-and-one situation after the final whistle had blown but missed the first shot. The score:

Braves Bow To MacCollege

In action since the Christmas recess the Bulldogs have split in league competition with 1 win and 1 loss.

On January 8, the Bulldogs defeated the Ottawa Braves 84-70 on the Bulldogs home court.

This was a tight game until the last half, when the Bulldogs gradually pulled away from the cold-shooting Braves.

George Czaplinski led the Bulldog attack with 22 points. John Tegeler followed closely with 21, while Marion Enke added 19 before fouling out.

On the following Friday night the Bulldogs traveled to Em-

AAC Holds Convention

Dr. D. W. Bittinger, president of the college, and Dr. Wayne Geisert, dean of the college, attended an annual meeting of the American Association of Colleges in Washington, D. C., this past week.

Dr. Bittinger attended meetings of Brethren college presidents on Monday, Jan. 13. Tuesday through Thursday was spent in meetings of college presidents from the United States and Canada. Approximately 2000 college presidents and deans were expected.

Speakers for the meetings included Dr. Robert Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago; the dean of Yale University, and the president of poria where they were defeated by the Presbies 74-64.

The Bulldogs shot very poorly throughout the game; shooting 12 per cent during the first half and end up with 21 per cent for the game.

Quintet Loses During Recess

In basketball action over the Christmas recess the Mac College quintet entered two tournaments and emerged with one win and four losses.

The annual McPherson hosted Christmas tournament was the first tourney the team entered during vacation.

The Bulldogs battled the Bethel Threshers in their first game and lost by a 57-66 score. Marion Enke led the Bulldog scorers with 16 points, and was followed closely by Dick Welch with 15. George Czaplinski, John Tegeler, and Doug Knehan each added 6 points.

In their second game of this tournament the Bulldogs won their only victory of the vacation with a 85-63 victory over the Sterling Warriors.

The Bulldogs shot almost 50 per cent from the field in this game and had four players in double figures. George Czaplinski was high with 28 points, John Tegeler had 21, Dick Welch 17, and Marion Enke 14.

The Bulldogs lost in their last game of the tourney to Northwestern Oklahoma despite shooting 53 per cent for the game.

Northwestern made forty baskets in 59 attempts for a very fine percentage. Marion Enke had 24 points, while John Tegeler added 21, Doug Knehan 17, and George Czaplinski 19.

In the Lincoln, Neb., Tournament the Bulldogs lost both games they played. Nebraska Wesleyan was the victor in the first game by a 107-82 score. Tegeler was high for the Bulldogs with 19 points, while Czaplinski and Knehan each added 15 counters.

Doane Nebraska included McPherson as one of their victims in the Bulldogs' second game by a score of 94-81.

McPherson is now 3-5 in the conference and 7-9 for the season.

Marion Enke had a good night in scoring for McPherson. He made 10 fielders and seven out of 10 free throws for a total of 27 points. He was the high scorer of the game. John Darrow led Bethany with 21 points.

Stern Plans for Return To Africa as Missionary

Irven Stern, visiting professor of philosophy and religion, has been notified of his medical eligibility to return to the African mission field.

Stern has been on a medical furlough for the past two years in order to recover from an African parasitic disease, schistosomiasis, which affects over 150 million Africans.

Mr. and Mrs. Stern and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Neher were co-founders of the Kulp Bible School in North East Nigeria in 1960. The school, which belongs to the Nigerian district Church of the Brethren, trains religious and vocational leaders.

Stern, who directed the religious aspect of the mission stated that he probably contracted the tropical disease while standing in water for long periods of time in order to baptize over 50 people.

The Kulp Bible School developed out of a need, since the educated young people were often dissatisfied with village life and moved toward the large cities. The mission school lends dignity to manual labor and farm work.

The school, which has a yoke of oxen, gives each student land and oxen to work the land. The

January Exhibit Features Local Artists' Paintings

January's exhibit in Friendship consists of oil paintings by two local McPherson residents and a pottery exhibit by this semester's ceramics and sculpture students.

The oil paintings were done by Lee Ellen Becker and Robert R. Smith. Lee Ellen Becker is a housewife who paints for a hobby. She had art training in high school and took the Kansas State University Extension Art course offered in McPherson each year.

Her work was chosen to exhibit for one year on the Kansas State University campus. She has given various one-woman shows in McPherson and has had work chosen for exhibition in the Rural Urban Art Program.

Robert R. Smith is currently majoring in art and humanities at Kansas State University in Manhattan. He won first place in the state contest of Federated Women's Clubs and won a scholarship for further art training.

Smith exhibited work in the Mulvane Seven State Show at Washburn University in Topeka. Smith won first place in a student show in Crete, Neb. Several of his paintings have been chosen for exhibition at Kansas State University.

He has had various one-man shows in Manhattan and McPherson.

Most of the paintings are for sale.

AAUW Invites Mac Professor For Program

Jesse Krehbiel, associate professor of mathematics, will speak on "The New Elementary Mathematics" at the McPherson chapter of the American Association of University Women, Jan. 20.

This will be the first meeting of the McPherson chapter since Macollege graduates have become eligible for membership. Macollege was approved by the AAUW the latter part of November.

Miss Mildred Siek, professor of home economics, has worked on invitations for all alumnae in the McPherson area. Mrs. Homer Brunk, associate professor of English and journalism, is the program chairman.

Professor Krehbiel and Gayle Wood, junior from Panora, Iowa presented a program on mathematics over KTVH, January 10.

Yoder in Hospital As Result of Accident

Mrs. Una Yoder, director of dramatics, is now in the McPherson County Hospital with a broken vertebrae after an accident in her home.

Mrs. Yoder fell from a kitchen stool Jan. 6.

Her speech classes are now being supervised by Guy Hayes, director of admissions.

Robert Porter, assistant professor of German and literature, is directing her Oral Interpretation class, and Bette Quiring, senior from McPherson, is in charge of Play Production class.

Brethren Church Begins Sunday Missions School

"The Church in the Changing City" is the theme for the School of Missions which started last Sunday evening.

College students and adults will meet at 6:30 in the church for brief "kick-off" sessions and then adjourn to discussion groups.

The schedule for remaining sessions is Jan. 19 — panel discussion of problems of church and city; Jan. 26 — a reading play, "This Thine House;" Feb. 2—a film, "The Procession;" Feb. 9—a banquet.

The church schedule includes the following information for the month of January. The sermon for morning worship, Jan. 19 is "Would You Have a Joy?" and on Jan. 26, "Are Acts of God, God's Acts?"

According to Cecil Haycock, minister of education, three new study courses for college students are being offered for the new Sunday School term at the Brethren Church.

The courses are entitled "Disciplines of the Spiritual Life," "When Protestants Worship," and "One Life to Spend."

These courses are led by students with an adult who will serve as a resource person.

Registrations for the courses are being accepted.
