

Choir Paints Seasons In A Cappella Concert

"Songs of the Seasons" will be the theme of a concert to be presented by the fourty-four member McPherson College A Cappella Choir on March 6, 8 p.m., in Brown Auditorium.

The concert will contain a variety of numbers representing the music of varied composers and the four seasons. The music runs the gamut from 16th century to contemporary composers.

Nancy Miller, Karen Oltman, and Charlie Dadisman will accompany the choir on piano.

There will also be a few numbers with instrumental accompaniment.

Compositions by such composers as Rogers and Hart, Grieg, Brahms, Schubert, Gabrieli, Bach, Carmichael, and Vivaldi are typical of the songs representing each of the seasons. In addition to the A Cappella Choir, the men's choir will sing two numbers and the women's choir will sing one.

Admission to the concert will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and children. Holders of McPherson College activity tickets will be admitted free.

Faculty Receive Recognition Pins

About 160 people attended the faculty-trustee banquet, Feb. 27.

The highlight of the banquet was the presentation of pins to Dr. Merlin Frantz, professor of education and psychology, Dr. Raymond Flory, professor of history and political science, Miss Virginia Harris, librarian, and Miss Milred Siek, professor of home economics.

Miss Harris and Miss Siek were not at the banquet to receive their 20-year pins. Miss Harris was keeping the library open and Miss Siek was attending a meeting in Chicago.

Miss Harris and Dr. Frantz both received their A. B. Degrees from McPherson College. Miss Siek and Dr. Flory received their B. S. degrees from McPherson College.

At the banquet Dr. and Mrs. Geisert, dean of the college, were given farewell remarks.

College, City to Evaluate Student Teaching Policy

A joint committee including McPherson City and McPherson College representatives has recently been organized to evaluate the student teaching program at McPherson College.

Chairman of the committee is Miss Mabel Reichardt, principal of Roosevelt Elementary School. Mrs. Constance Hill, home economics teacher at McPherson High School will serve as secretary for the committee.

Public school representatives on the committee are: Mr. Emery Barkley, industrial arts teacher at the junior high school; Mr. Glenn Pyle, principal of the Park Intermediate School; Mrs. Maxine Brunzell, teacher at Lincoln Elementary School; and Mr. Ted Washburn, assistant superintendent of schools. Representatives from the college are: Dr. Wesley DeCoursey, professor of chemistry; Dr. Dayton Rothrock, professor of education and psychology; Jesse Krehbiel, associate professor of mathematics; and Dr. Merlin Frantz, professor of education and psychology.

All local school principals are officio members of the committee.

The college representatives will attempt to get suggestions from this year's student teachers concerning the effectiveness and adequacy of the present student teaching program.

The committee members from the public school will get suggestions and recommendations from the McPherson City teachers.

College Hosts Youth At Annual Conference

McPherson College will be host to nearly 400 high school students, as the 14th annual Regional Youth Conference of the Church of the Brethren gets under way today.

Youth Conference began in 1941 when it was held with the Regional Conference in February or at another designated time.

In 1951, the regional youth decided to strike out on their own and hold a conference independent of the adult conference. The theme of the first conference was "Planning for Tomorrow" with guest speakers Dan West and Paul Bowman. Other highlights of this conference were discussions on friendship, courtship, marriage, planning CBYF activities, and religion in daily life.

The second conference in 1952 featured Guy West and Ed Crill speaking on the theme, "Grounds for Growth." In 1953 the theme was "Christ's Way for Our Day" with featured speakers, Robert Sherry, Ed Crill, and Vernard Eller.

"Go Ye—Means Me" was the 1954 conference theme and Eugene Lichty was conference speaker.

In 1955, the newly organized work camp, Carpenter of the Yoke, was dedicated. Dr. Floyd Faust led the conference with the theme, "Call to Be." Dr. Fredrickson, professor at Ottawa University led the 1956 Conference, "Take Hold Here." The next year Paul Miller showed colored slides and told about his trip to Russia during the previous summer. The theme of the conference was "What is My Score" and J. Henry Long was featured speaker.

The largest conference was in 1958 when over 600 students crowded into McPherson, occupying the gymnasium and all other available housing. The Rev. Bob Richards, well-known pole vaulter was head of the conference, "Come and See." In addition to his messages, Richards demonstrated pole vaulting to the group.

In 1959 Earl Fike was guest speaker for the conference "Count Well the Cost." and in 1960 guest speakers were M. R. Zigler, Ira Gible, and Joe Long. Theme for the conference was "Follow Me."

The 1961 Conference, "To Serve the Present Age," was led by Dan West; and in 1962 the Rev. Paul Hoffman led the conference with the theme, "Use Me Lord, but How?"

In 1963, the Rev. Tom Wilson, one of the pastors of the First Church of the Brethren in Chicago, led the conference. The theme was "He Who Loses His Life for My Sake."

Robert Mays, pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Seattle, Wash., will be leader of this year's Conference. Mays, a 1945 graduate of McPherson College, served four years on the administrative staff at Macollege.

Mr. Mays has a special interest in youth work and has been active in this area since his college days as local and district advisor, director of youth camps, and speaker at conferences. Mays especially "liked the three times I was resource leader at the La Verne College Christian Association retreat."

Mays also has a keen interest in counseling and group therapy, which forms a large part of his pastoral work. The Rev. Mr. Mays will deliver four messages on the theme "...Un- to the Least of These ..."

Four high school students will compete in the speech contest on Saturday at 2:45 p.m. Steve Williams, Clovis, N. M., will present the Oklahoma - Texas-New Mexico district; Steve Rogers, Brooklyn, Iowa, will represent the Iowa - Minnesota district; Lethia Brown, Hutchinson, will represent the Kansas district; and Peggy Slater, Denver will represent Colorado.

A banquet Saturday evening will highlight the day. The Macollege Stage Band will provide dinner music.

During the program, Dave

Ankenman and Vance Alexander, and the Macollege Choral will provide musical numbers; Mrs. Homer Brunk and Wayne Moritz will do readings. Daryl Standafer, Macollege senior, will speak on "The Uncommitted Americans."

Dennis Emmert, Macollege junior, designed the cover for this year's poster and programs. The design, which may be seen on programs posted in campus buildings, illustrates man's daily needs in the context of his ultimate need—the olive branch of peace, the scales of justice, the leaves and fishes of daily food, the alpha and omega of the word, all in the light of the cross.

Trustees Make Plans For College Expansion

By D. W. Bittinger
President of the College

The trustees of a college or university serve as a board of directors. They make long-term plans, discuss the general policies, and the over-all welfare of the institution they direct. In keeping with this the McPherson trustees last week discussed ably most interested in what will happen during the four years they are at the college; a board of directors is interested in that, also, but even more in what will happen in five or ten student generations; twenty to forty years.

The trustees spent much time planning for the future we will need. They discussed expansion and up-dating of laboratories, the building of a new library, the up-grading of faculty salaries, the addition of faculty members year by year, the in-service graduate program which makes possible further degree work of current faculty.

The Student Council President made a very fair and thorough presentation of current student responsibilities and concerns. These included the bookstore, the use of the Student Union, the food service, and general campus life and activities. These matters were placed in the hands of a committee representing the student body and the administration for further study and implementation.

Since a goodly portion of the trustees have children presently enrolled in college and have themselves been students at the college in earlier years, they are aware of McPherson's interests and needs, and are deeply committed to helping develop long-range policies for the total good future of the college.

The trustees adopted a budget of approximately $900,000. This will make possible the addition of a number of faculty people in needed areas next year. They up-graded current faculty salaries. The trustees re-elected the officers of the Board: chairman, Harold Mohler; vice chairman, Ernest Peterson; secretary, Paul Sherry; treasurer, R. Gordon Yoder.

Is Graham Too Religious To Become Our President?

A few weeks ago political observers thought that Billy Graham might throw his hat into the ring and seek the Republican presidential nomination.

While he has several good points that would serve to his advantage as President, he also has some weaknesses which undoubtedly would have to be corrected if he were to become President.

Some of these faults are as follows:

Dancing does not play a role in the life of Billy Graham. He has religious convictions against such "entertainment." After all, we couldn't have the President not sponsoring dances for dignitaries, and not dancing with the lady reporters.

Drinking alcoholic beverages do not play even a minor role in his life. Instead of intoxicating drinks he would be serving soft drinks. No dancing and no drinking! Why everyone knows they usually go together.

Religious convictions would undoubtedly lead him to discuss old-fashioned and out-dated religious matters (such as heaven, hell, and salvation) with high officials. You can't have the United States President making people uncomfortable about their spiritual life. Why, Billy Graham probably goes to church three or more times a week! He'd be too religious to become president!

Profanity doesn't escape from his lips, not even a mild "damn" or "hell." Everyone knows we need a President who could, say, cuss out the steel kings when they need it, or the newsmen when they need it.

All these faults add up to the fact that Billy Graham would not make it as President.

Incidentally, I would wish that more of our leaders, national and state, or otherwise, had more of these "faults." daa

Unfortunately, it usually requires a great deal of incentive for a people to change their cultural habits, even though such a change would be beneficial. The change I am advocating is the elimination of professional boxing.

In 1963, there were ten fighters killed in the ring. This is a figure which should sufficiently disturb people; disturb them sufficiently that is, that they would prevent any similar tragedies.

Unfortunately, however, these deaths each caused only tremors in the fight racket. If the unnecessary deaths of human beings is not enough, and if the long rumored shady deals are not enough to bring about the outlawing of professional boxing—what will?

I do not want to go too far out on a limb, but I would predict the end of professional boxing shortly after the next farce, which is called a heavyweight championship title fight.

Two things are injured during contemporary title fights; two things which in my opinion cannot suffer much more injury—the public's pocketbook and the public's love of wholesome sporting events.

It has been several years now since the elimination of intercollegiate boxing; a disappearance brought about by the high mortality rate of the sport. Like college boxing I think medical considerations are sufficient to cause the termination of professional boxing.

There are, however, other strong arguments against professional boxing, and these together with the medical considerations may prove strong enough to change one segment of our culture.

The need for some sort of "Cinderella" occupation may exist, and perhaps men need to have some sort of contest where they can display individual warrior talents. If these things are necessary, then well-controlled Olympic style wrestling might fill the bill.

In any event, the mortality rate would be significantly lower, and the proper control would save the public's pocketbook and preserve its love of athletic contests.

Geisert Will Judge High School Orators

Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, dean of the college, will judge a high school speech contest on March 20-21, at the District Speech Festival in Nickerson.

Juniors Eligible To Participate In GR Exams

The National Selection Committee of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has recommended that juniors take the Graduate Record Examination at the end of their junior year, instead of seniors taking it at the beginning of their senior year.

Due to the fact that scores obtained in November were not available at the time the Foundation was weighing the merits of candidates, many candidates had to be passed over.

Juniors interested in taking the Graduate Record Examination may contact Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, dean of the college, for further information and application forms.

A Man of Himself by Himself, A Lonely Man, A Brave Man

By Peter Tham

It has been the basic assumption that modern society has greater worth and significance than its individual components which constituted it.

The value of the society has been such that in-born biological difference of its individual parts have been sacrificed to organization uniformly, that the rights of the collectivity takes precedence over the rights of the individuals, and that the idealized goals formulated by such an Organization for its components become the sole goal of supreme worth.

So much so that man as an individual part is no longer the natural man—he is a yes-man.

So well molded and carved out of the "civilized" pattern of organization—he stands as a standardized man, exhibiting all the "ideal" qualities of the Organization; he sits with the standardized posture and speaks with the mannerly duties so assigned him according to the "civilized" code of the Organization.

It is evident that he does not think by himself as unique biological man—and in most cases he need not; he only has to lean on his superior who is the design-master and subsequently the judge of his performance.

A yes-man is undoubtedly the only vertebrate without a backbone.

Indeed it is natural for the yes-man to uphold all the ideals and fulfill all duties and responsibilities and to become an ideal man of the Organization.

To him it is certainly hyper-natural to be responsible for social graciousness and to pretend to be the ideal kind of standardized "good - mixer," though it is questionable whether his nature is such.

And to him it is highly acceptable to be hypocritically gregarious, infinitely adaptable and prepared to execute all the Policies from the top without fail.

Should homo sapien be as completely gregarious and sociable as the mighty ants, the Organization could have been successful long ago in the time of Plato and Aristotle, Confucius and Mencius.

However, man is only partially gregarious; he is also lonely. Yet he lives in groups and fights like a wolf in the pack.

He is unique and his goal is not to attain dynamic conformity as the yes-man but to bring his natural qualities to reality and live within his innate real self.

Such is the man who fuses solitude and gregariousness and makes himself the master of his being.

It can never be denied that contribution to human civilization is principally owed to him—a man who dares to break through, a man of himself, a man by himself—a no-man in the Organization, a lonely man and a brave man.

We Get Letters . . .

Letters to the editor from students, faculty members, or others are welcomed. All letters must be signed, but the name of the writer need not appear in print. Letters may be submitted to the editor or placed in the campus mail. Contributions do not necessarily reflect the policy or opinion of The Spectator, the administration, or the faculty of McPherson College.

Authors Concur 'We're Just One Happy Family!'

Dear Editor: In a past edition of the Spectator, some enlightened soul presented an editorial in opposition to profanity and at the conclusion of his spiel of subjective writing, asked for a reply.

For this reply, we would like to present several selected bits and pieces from Ashley Montagu's book entitled Man In Process, and specifically from the chapter "On the Physiology and Psychology of Swearing."

"There is good reason to believe that swearing is a form of behavior coeval with the origin of man and the birth of language.

"On the basis of broad personal experience one may say that thwarting or frustrating conditions generally evoke swearing; that sudden shocks, surprises, disappointments, mortifications, and many similar conditions which produce angry feelings of great or little intensity are often relieved by, or are provocative of, swearing.

"The Law of Swearing may be formulated. Swearing is the verbal expression, or venting, of the aggressiveness which follows upon frustration.

"Anger is a fundamental urge which will give rise to some hostile response—it may be an oath, it may be a lampoon, it may be a laugh, or a hundred and one other things—but in the case of swearing, it is a peculiar kind of anger which calls it forth.

"It has thus been seen that swearing is a physiological means of keeping the organism physiologically clean."

In respect to the tirade of regarding swearing as "a lack of vocabulary" as stated by the author of last week's article, we would like to say simply that there are occasions when a monosyllabic interjection of profanity conveys the precise feelings and emphasis that cannot possibly be misinterpreted by the listener.

In these days of lack of communication, i.e., understanding, between individuals, we feel this alone would be sufficient reason to advocate an occasional use of profanity.

Let us reemphasize occasionally; as swearing, like anything else pressed to extremities, tends to become undesirable.

But does this sufficiently explain the use of excessive profanity on the McPherson College campus? Everyone knows there are no frustrations here; hell, we're just one big happy family!

Ellwood, Artists Display Works

Many artists contributed to Mrs. Garth Ellwood's ceramics collection being displayed in Friendship Hall during March.

Mrs. Ellwood, former part-time art instructor at Macollege, gathered these exhibits while traveling, from teachers, and as gifts.

All the works are of stone-ware, except the red earthenware clay pottery of the Navajo Indians. The exhibits are all one-of-a-kind pieces. A few pieces were made by the slab or the coil methods, but most were thrown off a potter's wheel.

Artists whose work is being displayed are: Susan Petersen, granddaughter of H. J. Harnly, after whom Harnly Hall was named, the Navajo Indians, Howard Kottler, Angelo Garizo, Lewis Hafermehl, Kenneth Kinzie, Paul Soldner, Jack Pharo, and Karl Martz.

"We Have A Common Cultural Background"

Finals Begin In Intramurals

With the end of the regular season for intra-mural basketball, the annual post-season tournament is now in session.

Twelve teams participated in the intramural program this year with anywhere from six to nine players on each team. Although an irregular number of games were played by the various teams, only Team Seven, captained by Tom Reazin, went undefeated.

Members of the varsity basketball squad donated their time to referee the games, while Dennis Wallace and Don Widrig set up and supervised the program.

The post-season tournament, a one game elimination affair which began on Feb. 27, determines which team is the champion as each team has an equal opportunity to win the prize.

In the first round of the tournament Team Five, captained by John Ratzlaff, defeated Team Two, captained by John Long, by the score of 39-32. Team Eleven, captained by Wendell Kuhlman, defeated Team Nine, captained by Bill Grove, by the score of 46-27.

Team Six, captained by Laurel Patrick, won over Team One, captained by Chris van de Velde, by the score of 74-48. Team eight, captained by Jamie Oxley, defeated Team Four, captained by Bob Crabb, by the score of 55-46.

In second round action two games were played on Friday, Feb. 28. Team Ten, captained by John Beckwith, defeated Team Eleven by the score of 54-46, and Team Three, captained by Doyle Ralston, defeated Team Eight by the score of 40-39.

In second round action on March 2, Team Seven, captained by Tom Reazin, defeated Team Six by the score of 51-46 in overtime, and the College Courts defeated Team Five by the score of 61-57.

Final regular season records for the teams were:

Team Captain	Won	Lost
7 Reazin	4	0
10 Beckwith	4	1
11 College Courts	3	1
3 Ralston	3	1
8 Oxley	3	3
5 Ratzlaff	2	2

Clark Places Second In Area Ping Pong Rally

By Bob Crabb
Last Saturday afternoon Clarence Clark, junior from Wheaton, Ill., captured second place in the Hutchinson Ping Pong Invitational. Clark, and four other MacCollege students, Bob Crabb, Ken Dauer, Don Spate, and Jamie Oxley, entered the Men's Open which included entries from Dodge City, Wichita, Hutchinson and McPherson.

Along with Clark's excellent showing in taking second place, Ken Dauer placed fourth, and Bob Crabb captured fifth place. After losing his opening match, in this double elimination tournament, Clark won eight straight matches including revenging his previous loss to gain a chance at the championship.

With three students finishing in the top five out of twenty-

Strange things sometimes happen on Friday the 13th. According to the Social Committee sponsor, "this dance will be no exception."

Enke, Tegeler Receive All-Conference Honors

All-star squads were announced this past week by NAA District 10 and the KCAC. McPherson was represented on both of these teams by Marjion Enke. John Tegeler also gained recognition on both squads.

Enke was named to the first team of 10 players in District 10. Other Kansas Conference players placed on this team were Bob Ahlstedt, Bethany, and Dudley Boeken, Sterling.

Tegeler received honorable mention from the coaches of the District, as did Tom Train, Bethany; Duane Bissitt, Ottawa; and Paul Johnson, Bethany.

Marion Enke was also placed on the first team of five chosen All-Conference performers by the coaches of the KCAC. Marion, leading scorer for MacCollege this season, was one of two juniors named to the team.

Dudley Boeken, Sterling senior, was the only unanimous choice of the coaches. Others named to the first team were Bob Ahlstedt, Bethany senior; Paul Johnson, Bethany junior; and Keith Rucas, Friends freshman.

John Tegeler, another MacCollege junior, made the second team All-Conference. Others named to this squad were Jim Harris, Southwestern senior; Glen Rose, C of E sophomore; Tom Train, Bethany senior; and Tony Verdi, Ottawa freshman.

Final KCAC standings this season show McPherson with the same league record that it compiled last year. This season the Bulldogs' 10-8 record was good enough for a tie for fourth place with C of E; last season the same record gave Mac a fifth place tie with the same team.

The Bethany College Swedes jumped out to an early lead and ultimately made a shambles of the conference race. The Swedes clinched the league title two weeks before the end of the season.

The Sterling Warriors, after a very poor first round showing, finished with seven wins in its last eight games to grab second place by one game over

Ottawa.

Southwestern and Kansas Wesleyan finished with identical 8-10 records to tie for sixth position in the final standings.

Bethel, Baker, and Friends followed in that order. The Thrashers dropped all the way from third place last season to eighth. Friends remained in the cellar despite the fact that it tripled its victory total of last year.

Final standings:	W	L	Pct.
Bethany	16	2	.889
Sterling	12	6	.667
Ottawa	11	7	.612
McPherson	10	8	.556
C of E	10	8	.556
Southwestern	8	10	.434
Wesleyan	8	10	.434
Bethel	7	11	.389
Baker	5	13	.277
Friends	3	15	.167

Secretaries Enjoy Mac Atmosphere

Genealogy is a hobby of Edythe Eis, secretary to Mr. Kenneth Yings, Director of Development and Public Relations, "It takes a lot of writing to different places, but it is very interesting." Right now Edythe is trying to trace her grandmother back to her native homeland of Czechoslovakia.

Much of her spare time is spent in reading. Edythe tries to read a few hours each evening. She enjoys all kinds of books and magazines.

Provocative percussion and jazz are Edyth's favorites in music. She played violin and snare drums in high school. She loves to sing, and was one in a quartet which won national honors in her church youth conference.

Edythe likes to cook and sew. She also does quite a bit of embroidering.

Her favorite sports are tobogganing and mountain climbing. She became acquainted with these sports while living in Utah. She's finding it a bit difficult to pursue them in Kansas.

Edythe has three sisters, two married. She has two nieces and nephews.

Edythe graduated from McPherson High School then went to Brown-Mackie School of Business in Salina.

After graduating from business school, she worked in Elwood for Pan American Petroleum, then worked in Utah for the Ogden Credit Bureau.

Last May Edythe began work at MacCollege. She enjoys her work and the atmosphere at MacCollege.
