

Porter Spends Summer Directing Tour of Germany

In connection with the Experiment in Home Living Exchange Program, Professor Robert Porter made a return trip to Germany this summer.

This organization has been in operation since 1932, and has its headquarters in Putney, Vt. Through this organization, many American students travel in foreign countries.

Professor Porter served as director of one of fifteen groups in Germany. He took his group to Alfred, near Hanover, Germany.

The students lived with German families secured through the local high school. This gave each American student a German partner near his own age.

The group spent four weeks in the homes of the families. The next two weeks were ones of travel for both American and German students. They traveled through Southern Germany, Switzerland, and Austria.

The last four days of the experiment program, the American students and Professor Porter visited Berlin, Germany. They visited both East and West Berlin.

Many American students who travel in foreign countries, do so to study. Through the Brethren Year Abroad, twenty-nine students are studying in Europe this year.

One of these students is Mike Brown, who studied at Macollege last year. Mike, a history major is from Wichita.

The students arrived in Rotterdam on Aug. 31 and were given an official greeting at the University of Marburg.

On Sept. 3, the Institute for Language Study began for the students. The Brethren Program employs six teachers for this instruction which lasts for eight weeks. The study includes lectures on German life, cul-

Day's Activities Draw Parents From 8 States

Over 100 parents turned out for the Parent's Day activities held on Mac College campus last weekend, September 27-29.

"Our committee was very pleased with the response of the parents," stated Paul Wagoner, chairman of the planning committee for the Parent's Day activities.

Parents came from eight different states, a few from as far away as Ohio and Illinois. Other states represented were: Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Kansas.

Parents were invited to watch the McPherson-Kansas Wesleyan game Friday evening, then to attend a social coffee hour following.

Open house and faculty-parent conferences were held Saturday morning, and a presentation by Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Bittinger on their world tour, and a visit to college classrooms was held Saturday afternoon.

A talent show, presented by students and faculty members featuring various musical numbers and a reading, was presented Saturday evening.

It is intended that Parent's Day will be made into an annual affair.

Three Goals Set for Chapel

By Dr. Wayne F. Geisert
Dean of the College

This response to the invitation to write a guest editorial for the Spectator concerning chapel at McPherson College should not be considered an official set of comments, but rather the thinking of one individual.

The traditions of required chapel in the church-related colleges have originated in the conviction of the founding fathers that students and faculty members should not only work together in the educational task, but that they should also engage in common worship.

The fact that the enrollment card for "chapel" at McPherson bears the course title "convocations" is an admission that the thrust of chapel in our day has a broader emphasis.

As I see it, the goals can be summarized as falling in three categories:

1. to provide an opportunity for common worship of our Creator, the Infinite Mind.
2. to provide opportunity for intellectual stimulation in the broad sense, including not only matters of man's spirit, but also of the total realm of his knowledge.
3. to provide opportunity for development of the aesthetic in man, both in terms of his creativity and in his response

Individuals Need To Check Rules For Graduation

Any student having questions as to whether he is meeting all of the graduation requirements is encouraged to consult the college catalog, pages 30-34, or to check his transcript in the Registrar's Office.

Each student is responsible for checking his own courses against the requirements. It is neither the duty of the student's faculty adviser nor the Registrar's Office to take the initiative in checking these requirements.

Seniors who plan to graduate at the end of the first semester may check their transcripts at the Registrar's Office at their earliest convenience.

to creativity of others.

In my mind, other goals added to these must either be related to the above or should be subjected to considerable scrutiny in terms of their validity.

All of us are acquainted with the many announcements that are made at any time that the students and faculty members are assembled.

Many of these announcements are necessary and desirable; yet they are not the prime purpose of chapel and must be handled in such a way that they do not detract seriously from the major thrust of particular day's chapel presentation.

There are obviously a lot of do's and don'ts relative to making the chapel hours efficient vehicles related to the three major goals stated above.

Punctuality, orderliness, courtesy, worshipfulness, and intellectual inquisitiveness are attributes that should characterize each of us as we enter the auditorium for chapel.

When mistakes are made and "eggs are laid" we have the right of criticism; yet we should not over look the tremendous responsibility that confronts the members of the chapel committee as they organize and present the various programs of the year.

At times there is a tendency to be critical of any program that provokes controversy among students. All of us should remember that the provoking of discussion is a legitimate by-product of the intellectual and spiritual confrontation.

Obviously, the committee has responsibilities in terms of seeking balance, in its array of programs.

I am aware that the chapel committee operates on a limited budget and that this budget must grow as resources become available.

Yet, I cannot refrain from reminding ourselves that the success or failure of the year's chapel programs relates in part to the attitudes and aptitudes of students and faculty members as they participate in chapel.

There are tremendous talents within the faculty and the student body of McPherson College augmented by talents from beyond the campus can assure us of worthwhile experiences as we come together.

Larger amounts of funds in this area of educational activity can materially benefit the chapel committee in its labors relative to obtaining the services of people from beyond the campus.

However, money is no panacea; it is possible to lay "expensive eggs" as well as "inexpensive ones."

In my opinion, the chapel committee does a good job with the resources that it has. It will probably do a better job with more resources. However, I do not expect the committee to reach perfection, particularly in terms of any desire to satisfy everyone.

Indeed there is little in the total education realm that dares be measured purely on the basis of popularity.

I expect to enjoy and appreciate most of the chapel programs this year, yet I know that I will be distressed by a few of them.

My hope is that all of us will give the chapel committee the support in terms of its endeavors and that we will, with good grace, accept—but not necessarily agree with—those that distress us momentarily.

CBYF Service Inspires Student

Dear Editor,

I would like to publicly commend the college CBYF committee which was responsible for the inspiring campfire program at Black Canyon on Sept. 29.

The program was centered around a definite calling for Christian service in today's world. Paul Wagoner delivered an interesting message which brought many confronting challenges to the Christian student.

The group singing and the men's trio added much to the spiritual environment of the campfire.

I would highly recommend and encourage more programs of this nature by the college CBYF.

The Scholiast

By Christopher R. van de Velde

(Editor's note: The following article reflects the views of Mr. van de Velde and does not necessarily report the consensus of opinion on the Student Council or the Spectator staff. The report of decisions made by the Student Council, however, is factual.)

I was told that my first article was a success: I was also told that it didn't really say much of anything—what a memorable comment.

On Sept. 25, the Student Council made some momentous decisions. From a list of very eligible candidates we selected Gail Colvin and Glen Draper to be the two student body representatives to the chapel committee.

I want to wish them both some success in voicing student opinion on a committee so well-known as a faculty tool for guidance.

Kansas Wesleyan fought well last week, but we have decided to give them another chance. Later this fall, the McPherson student body will challenge KWU to a blood-donation drive for the American Red Cross.

A very noble undertaking, which we hope will be as well attended as the football game. Of course, this sort of contest will not be so exciting as watching Eddie Lee carry the ball.

By now, everyone knows that Shirley Fasnacht and Terry Reyher were elected to represent the freshman class on Student Council, so there's not much point in mentioning that we decided to hold the elections last Monday.

In an attempt to have dress-up night serve a more beneficial purpose, Student Council voted to do away with it on its past basis.

We decided to have dress-up nights only when a large segment of the student body would have to be dressed up anyway—for such things as Cultural Series programs, dances, plays, music recitals, or concerts.

Sunday noon will remain a dress-up meal, but only on one evening during some weeks will students have to dress up.

If you had a choice between improving your campus habitment by request or by law, which would you prefer to do? It is fair to use a dictionary to decide.

Record Player Adds To Library Facilities

A new addition to the facilities for students in Beeghly Library is a record player which was purchased with a special fund.

The record player has four turn tables and eight sets of ear phones so that several students may listen to a record at the same time.

It was bought "especially with the music students in mind," explained Miss Virginia Harris, librarian. She added that anyone could use the record player.

The library also has records which may be loaned out for a week.

Slater Questions Role of Adviser

Dear Editor,

At a recent athletic contest, many of the spectators were surprised to see a certain member of the faculty on the sidelines taking pictures for our student publications.

While there is no rule that would forbid this faculty member from taking these pictures, it was my impression—a mistaken impression, evidently—that the primary purpose of student publications is to give students the experience and learning what could be obtained from actually doing the work for the publications.

I understand that this faculty member is referred to as "adviser." Mr. Webster defines adviser as one "who offers opinion for the practical direction of conduct; information given; counsel." There is no mention of actual work done by the adviser.

I admire the spirit and devotion with which our "adviser" accepts her responsibility and I by no means wish this to be taken as a personal criticism or ego assassination.

I merely wish to question whether the valuable time of this faculty adviser should be wasted on tasks that could be done by students—tasks I believe should be done by students.

Although I realize the results of the students might not be equal to the quality of our adviser's, I think the experience and training of doing the work will benefit the students more than it will the adviser.

Since this is what I considered the purpose of student publications in the first place, I would personally like to see the task of taking pictures turned over to students.

Bob Slater

Editor's Reply

You are correct in saying that part of the purpose of student publications is to give students a learning experience—and this would include photography.

It is not always possible for a student to be on hand when pictures need to be taken, and this was part of the situation at the ball game.

Since the Publications Department is purchasing a camera, it is only logical that we should experiment. And since our adviser took a graduate course in photography this summer, it also seems logical that she should have an opportunity to work with the camera we hope to buy.

We are greatly interested in any students who would be willing to work with us in taking Spectator pictures.

Photography naturally falls into an area that should not be the direct responsibility of the editor or the adviser. If any student is interested in trying out as a photographer, please contact me.

We will be happy to make arrangements for students to show their photographic abilities.

Kansan Proud Of McPherson Achievements

Dear Editor,

What a nation of contrast! In the south we have a city refusing to accept their fellow man as equal and attempting to bomb him out of existence. As a result they have earned their city an infamous position in the annals of history.

Meanwhile a middle-size Kansas farm community finds itself on the verge of a great economic and industrial achievement.

A nation-wide tire company is strongly considering the location of a $5 to $8 million tire factory in its midst.

Located over the Equus Beds of Kansas, the city could offer unlimited water at the right temperature, besides having a locally-owned power plant which could offer power at a rate that is $25,000 cheaper per year than a state-owned concern located in a neighboring city to the south.

These two important facts, coupled with other desirables, such as two progressive church colleges, a very clean and modern community, a large oil refinery to supply the needed oil products, and a central location from which to ship their products throughout the nation, presented a very desirable package for the company to consider in selecting their site.

Last week, a delegation made up of the president and eleven of the thirteen controlling board members of the Seiberling Tire Company visited McPherson. After a short tour of the proposed site and the city they left, their decision yet unmade, but favorably impressed with the city.

We sometimes find ourselves critical of our local town and community, but that town and community, as well as our society in general, is only as good as those members therein make it.

The populace of McPherson decided to make their city a better place for themselves, their neighbors, and the future generations.

The citizens of McPherson can be proud of their city. The achievements of McPherson are shining examples of what a free people in a free society can do with what they have.

A Proud Kansan

Bulldogs Will Invade Moundbuilders' Home

By Jamie Oxley

A team of spirited McPherson College Bulldogs will invade the home of the Moundbuilders of Southwestern College tomorrow night.

The Bulldogs will be out to prove that last week's 24-0 victory over Kansas Wesleyan was no fluke.

The Bulldogs will find things tougher in Winfield, however, as the Moundbuilders have three consecutive victories to their credit, including a 66-0 rout of Kansas Wesleyan.

The Moundbuilders also hold an impressive 13-7 victory over tough Northwestern Oklahoma, and a 28-7 conquest of Friends University last week.

With the victory over Kansas Wesleyan, the Bulldogs record is now one victory and two losses, all in league play.

The series between the Moundbuilders and Bulldogs is a short one, as the teams have only met three previous times. Last year was the first time the Bulldogs had managed to score on the Moundbuilders, but they still went down to defeat by a 26-7 score.

The strength of the Mound-builders is maintained by their seventeen returning lettermen from last year's fourth place team.

The main portion of these lettermen are returning to the backfield where coach Ron Morrison has Ken Sargeant, Leon Burnett, and Dick Strano in the running positions; Don Reed returns as quarterback, and Larry Reed at fullback.

The line is bolstered by the return of all-conference guard Phil Hower. Other returning numeral winners in the line are Jim Brown, Jim Davie, Jim Elland, Mike Robinson, and Ken Wilkinson.

Touchdown!

ONLY THE BEGINNING of a successful gridiron experience, the Bulldogs pushed over the goal line for a touchdown in the first minute of play against Kansas Wesleyan.

Johnson Wins Acclaim as Player of Week

By Jamie Oxley

The player of the week this week is Eddie Lee Johnson, a 5'10", 170 pound halfback from Forest, Miss.

Eddie Lee was chosen because of his fine offensive and defensive performance in the winning effort against the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes last week. In that game Eddie Lee gained 225 total yards. That total included 121 yards rushing and 104 yards from passes received. Altogether he carried the ball 18 times. Eddie also garnered 18 of Mac's points; two of them after catching passes, and one on a five-yard run.

The large crowd at the game was treated to some fireworks on the very first play from scrimmage when Eddie Lee took a screen pass from Don Kuhlman and outraced the Coyote defenders the remainder of the 22 yards to the goal line to give McPherson a six point lead with less than a minute gone.

Being the fastest man on the team Eddie Lee is always a threat. When he sees a hole he seems to shift into high gear, as he really turns on the steam. He is also an excellent defensive halfback. He has played almost every minute of the three games thus far.

Volleyball Players Enter Third Week of Competition

Intramural Volleyball on the MacCollege campus is now in its second week.

Four games are played in the college gym each Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights at 6:15 and 7.

Students wishing to take part may contact Dennis Wallace, John Tegler, or Don Widrig. Rules which have been set up for the games are:

1. Two girls must be present before a game can start.
2. Two boys can play for each girl present.
3. The game must start not more than five minutes late, otherwise it will be forfeited.
4. Each person will call out when he is in or under the net.
5. Only nine players can play at one time.
6. The ball must be hit, not thrown.
7. The ball cannot be hit with the knuckles or the fist.
8. The captain will record, in the gym, the score of the game.
9. The ball can be hit with hand and fore arm.

10. Each game will be played to a score of 15 points. At the end of the 45 minutes of play the team ahead at that time will win the game. The winner of two out of three frames wins the set.

There is a possibility that some games will be scheduled for Saturday mornings at a later date.

The gym is open on Saturday from 1-4 p.m., and on Sundays from 2-5 p.m.

Gridders Defeat Coyotes In First Win of Season

By Wendell Kuhlman

Getting off to a fast start the McPherson Bulldogs scored on their first offensive play and went on to defeat the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes by a score of 24-0 last Friday night.

Mac scored again in the first quarter and once in both the third and fourth periods.

The first TD was scored by Eddie Lee Johnson on a 32-yd. pass from Don Kuhlman. Bob DeTour scored the second on a 2-yd. plunge to cap a 60-yd. drive late in the first period.

The Bulldogs took the second half kick-off and marched to their third touchdown, Johnson scored this one from the 5 yard line.

Eddie Lee also tallied in the final period when Nick Petrucci hit him with a 14-yard pass.

Defensive standouts for MacCollege were Larry Bowman, Merlin Grady, and Duane Pope. Offensive leaders were Don Kuhlman, Eddie Lee Johnson, John Harrison, and Duane Sword.

Statistics:

MacCollege: first downs 14, passing, 4 of 14; rushing 264; punting, 5 for 34; fumbles lost 0; penalties, 6 for 60.

Wesleyan: first downs, 15; passing 6 of 22; rushing, 176; punting, 3 for 25; fumbles lost, 4; penalties, 0.

From the Locker Room

By Larry Morlan

Congratulations go to the Bulldogs on the fine game which they played last week. It was nice being wrong on my prediction. I only wish we played more teams like KWU throughout the year.

Eddie Lee Johnson played an outstanding game on offense and dazzled the crowd with his spectacular running ability.

Ed should be about McPherson's only hope for all conference honors this year.

Bob DeTour, freshman fullback, contributed heavily to the Bulldog cause with his fine play, as did Don Kuhlman, senior quarterback.

Be sure to watch next week for a few words on the coaching situation at McPherson College.

Predictions:

Ottawa over Sterling
Ottawa should run up another high score, as a freshman quarterback has been adding more spark to their already loaded lineup.

C of E over Baker
The Presbies had no trouble with Bethany last week so there is no reason to worry about this week's game either.

Bethany over KWU

Bethany gets back in the win column after a loss to C of E by completely wrecking the Coyotes.

Bethel over Friends

Bethel is out to right itself after last week's beating.

Southwestern 38 McPherson 10

Woe is us! The Moundbuilders are just likely to really bury the Bulldogs as our defense leaves too much to be desired. The offense might do alright, but forget the defense.

Look of Despair Haunts New Peace Corps Volunteer

"He didn't say anything; he just looked at us. It will be a long, long time before I forget that look of despair and pleading that I saw in his eyes."

Roberta Varner, Peace Corps volunteer stationed in Brazil, thus described her response to a street beggar there.

Roberta, '62 Mac graduate, continued, "There is so much to do, and so little time to do it in."

A home economics major at Mac, Roberta finished her Peace Corps training last May, at Zaos, New Mexico. After a few days at home in Kansas City, Mo., she left New York in June for her station in Santana, Brazil.

Janeiro. The women of the group spent a week in a small hospital learning how health works are carried on in Brazil.

Roberta's work will entail such jobs as working in the health center and doing follow-up visitation to improve medical care and nutrition in the homes.

She will also be "working with the boys in agricultural projects such as planting experimental gardens and raising rabbits and chickens."

"Then there are the Pavelas or slums. Never in my whole life not even in the worst migrant camps in Florida, have I seen anything like the Pavelas.

"The rows and rows of wooden shacks are packed so tightly together that there is hardly room to walk except straight up the mountain side."

Roberta wrote that one would have to see the beggars to be able to understand them.

"Distance," she stated, "in the interior of Brazil isn't measured in the miles or kilometers. It's measured in the time it takes you to drive the bumpy season—very muddy roads."

Roberta's address is Miss Roberta Varner, Peace Corps Station, Santana, Bahia, Brazil.
