Auditions Jan. 25 For Next Play

Monday, January 25, marks the beginning of the dramatics season for the second semester with the auditions for "Visit to a Small Planet," according to Loren D. Reyher, professor of dramatics.

This somewhat fantastic comedy, witty and thought-provoking, will be given in the arena theater for four performances, March 3-6. To be cast are eight male parts and two female parts.

The second offering of the season will be a formal dramatic recital during the middle of May. Featuring Harold Sliker's "Unto Us the Living," the production will revolve around a theme drawn from selections from the Bible and from poems by Carl Sandberg and Robinson Jeffers.

Venezuelan Guitarist To Present Concert

By Tim Bomberger

Venezuelan guitarist, Alirio Diaz will be presented in concert at Brown Auditorium on January 23 at 8:00 p.m. in the third of the McPherson Cultural Series.

Mr. Diaz is one of today's greatest exponents of the classical guitar instrument. A brilliant pupil of the Great Andres Segovia, who did much to elevate the classical guitar to its present unparalleled popularity, Mr. Diaz now takes his own place among the elite of that beautiful instrument.

Skate Party Tomorrow

Do you want a very good way to relax before semester tests? Why not go to Roller City in Hutchinson with the Skate Club? They are leaving in front of Dotzour Hall Jan. 16 at 6:10 p.m. Everyone is invited to come. This will be the last Skate party of this semester.

There are plans now under way, by the McPherson Skate Club, to rent the McPherson Skating Rink once next semester. It is thought that more of the students would be able to attend the Skate parties if they were closer to home.

If at least thirty students show interest, the project will be attempted. All of those interested in his project are to contact either Ken Dauer or John Wagner.

Bitteringer Resigns To Lecture In Pakistan

Dr. D. W. Bitteringer, in a formal statement before the college on Dec. 18, 1964, resigned his position as President of McPherson College to serve as a Fulbright Lecturer in Pakistan beginning in September, 1965. He will terminate his work at McPherson late next summer.

According to preliminary plans, Dr. Bitteringer is to help develop a Department of Sociology and Anthropology in one of Pakistan's new universities, Peshawar University, located at the foot of the world-known Khyber Pass and the Indus River Valley.

During a sabbatical leave from McPherson in 1962-63, he served as a Fulbright Lecturer in Formosa and in Pakistan. While in Formosa he lectured at two universities, did research among the mountain aborigines, and wrote a new book, "Wu Feng, Companion of Headhunters."

During his Presidency at McPherson, Dr. Bitteringer has devoted much of his time to upgrading and modernizing both the educational offerings and the plant of the college. Several new buildings have been constructed; a campus master plan was redesigned; the faculty was strengthened and enlarged; student enrollment has doubled.

Dr. Bitteringer stated that the increasing stresses on international and inter-cultural affairs prompted his decision to leave the work at McPherson to give more time directly to inter-cultural study and service.

He holds an A.B. degree from Elizabethtown College (Pa.) and both the M.A. and the Ph.D. D. in Formosa and in Pakistan. Additionally he was awarded an honorary Litt. D.

by Elizabethtown College and has been voted an Associate in the International Arts and Letters (AIAL) of Geneva, Switzerland.

Dr. Bitteringer has also been listed in "Who's Who": "Who's Who in America," "Who's Who in the Western Hemisphere," "Who's Who in Education," "Who's Who in the Clergy," and "Who's Who in the Mid-West."

His writings include books on international affairs such as "Sun-up in the Sudan," "Black and White in the Sudan," "In the Land of the Monkey Bread Tree," and others. He has also written articles in the area of the church.

Before joining the McPherson faculty in 1940 as a sociology instructor, he served many years in Nigeria as a missionary and research anthropologist. Dr. and Mrs. Bitteringer have given many years to international work. Two of their four children were born abroad and five of their eight grandchildren were born in other continents and nations.

Between stays at McPherson from 1944-50, Dr. Bitteringer served as the editor of "The Gospel Messenger," the weekly journal of the Church of the Brethren.

Dr. Bitteringer in his fifteen years of Presidency from 1950-65 has served the longest term of any McPherson President.

Past Presidents of McPherson College in chronological order are as follows:

S. Z. Sharp	1888 - 1896
C. E. Arnold	1896 - 1902
Edward Frantz	1902 - 1910
S. J. Miller	1910 - 1911
John A. Clement	1911 - 1913
H. J. Harnly	1913 - 1914
D. W. Kurtz	1914 - 1927

Board Announces

Jukebox Regulations

After a recent meeting of the Student Board held last Tuesday, Jan. 5, the board announced that some changes would have to be made in the S. U. with regard to the jukebox.

Due to financial problems in keeping the jukebox, the board suggested that the owner be asked to replace the present records with more recent releases in order to encourage student use of the machine.

Unless increased interest in the use of the jukebox is shown by the student body in the near future, the board has announced they will suggest that the present machine be replaced by a less expensive machine.

Once Upon A Time . . .

Once upon a time eons and eons ago, there was a big wide world. And in this world there were many people from many countries.

These many people did not always agree with one another. As a result, there were always delegations and conferences and agreements.

However, the people weren't satisfied and there were wars.

Then one day a hydrogen bomb and an atom bomb were developed. And, as one nation gained nuclear weapons, others gained nuclear power and the race was on.

But this frightened the many peoples in the many lands. Therefore, as a means of protection, the people began to go underground. At first they only went several feet; but as the weapons became more disastrous, the people began to go further down under the earth.

They went a mile under the earth, then two miles, then five miles. And always, the people, hating the enemy and to protect themselves, built stronger and more powerful weapons.

As the destructibility of the weapons increased, the people, still seeking this protection, went down, down, down until one day they reached the center of the earth.

And there they met many other people. And they began to talk to one another. "We're from the United States of America." "We're from Russia." "We're from China."

And they looked around and said, "You're just like we are; let's be friends. We don't hate you anymore. Let's quit fighting."

And they all nodded agreement. But it was too late; the earth crumbled.

STUCO Is Active Claims Reader

Earlier this year in the Spectator, some NIT-WIT labeled the Student Council members as HALF-WITS. Since no one on the Council felt moved to answer the accusation, I feel that I must now step forward to meet the challenge.

Argo claims that the Student Council does not do anything or even attempt to do anything. Is this entirely true? I can remember a meeting a few weeks ago where a big step forward was actually taken by the Student Council only to be beaten back by some committee called the Library Committee.

To explain more about this fact, we must go back to last year when the students filled out a questionnaire.

One of the questions was concerned with the use of the library on Sunday. Over 80 per cent of the student body said that they would like to see the library open on Sunday and that they would use it if it were open.

This year the Student Council took this information to the Library Committee and asked that the library be opened on Sunday.

Back came the reply that the library was already open more than the average library, the librarians perhaps did not want to work there on Sunday and the college library help could not be trusted to do the work necessary, and finally it was said that the library was not used very much on Friday night. (Whatever Friday night has to do with Sunday afternoon I do not know).

Not satisfied with these excuses, the Student Council asked one of the Library Committee members to discuss the matter at one of the STUCO meetings.

Ideas were exchanged and new ideas were brought up at this meeting. The Council then asked the Library Committee to meet again and try to work out a plan for the opening of the library on a trial basis.

Will the Library Committee meet? Will the wishes of 80 per cent of the student body be satisfied?

Watch the library hours carefully in the future. If nothing happens, maybe the prediction that there will be a strike on campus (see the Commentator this week) will come true.

The Monkey Colony

'Twas some time ago when a dear old Monkey Colony decided to move from their forest habitat in search of a new tree. Now while they had been in the forest they had suffered through many storms.

For them the wind blew and the rains came down and afterwards the sun would shine on all of them. But one day one of those precious monkeys hung from a dead limb. Naturally, when the winds blew, the dead limb fell down and the dear little monkey was killed.

That was the day the monkey colony decided to move to a tree that was strong and good in every limb. They had found this tree in the middle of a large clearing. It looked strong and straight, and stood taller than any of the trees in the forest.

Many monkeys heard about this tree and they all came flocking to it. But in time the tree kept growing older, and dead limbs began to appear. Their sap had waned and they could no longer contribute to the strength and vitality of the tree.

The Monkeys did not know that the roots of the tree were somewhat strange. Since they had been covered with soil, the monkeys did not realize that the roots had spread out and remained close to the surface.

Perhaps this was why the tree had many dead limbs. But at a distance it still looked like a good strong tree because the leaves of the good other branches covered the dead limbs.

The tree had become dead and unsafe not because of itself particularly, but rather it suffered under the total influence of its environment. The tragic thing was that the tree could go on bearing the burdens of life and strain of living, covering its dead branches and making new twigs.

But what of the monkey colony? It was crowded into one tree because there were no other trees close by. Many monkeys were forced to sit on dead branches.

Such was the case of poor dear Luke, Louie and Lillie. They sat on their dead branch. They were happy where they were; they were able to stay alive and there were enough branches around them to give them shelter from the storms and they felt safe.

The monkey colony was no longer the happy colony of monkeys that first came to the tree. There were some bad things going on. Some of the monkeys did not care to help the colony; they were selfish.

There were many little things here and there. No great issue hung in the balance. It was simply a grand conglomeration of trivialities. But no one did anything to rectify the situation.

Luke would not listen to what was happening. He did not want to HEAR anything about it. Louie merely closed his eyes to the situation. He did not want to SEE the problems. And as for Lillie, she abhorred any discussion of the evils. She would not SPEAK about them.

One day the Monkeys began to worry; they sensed it was time for a great, real storm to come to their tree. Some of the monkeys left the tree to set out on their own to face the storm.

Some used a little of their initiative and moved closer to the main trunk of the tree. But alas, as a whole they had great faith in that old tree and sat resolutely on the dead limbs, assured that the tree offered

Rothrock's Article Appears In Book

Dr. Dayton G. Rothrock, professor of education and psychology, had an article entitled "Heterogeneous, Homogeneous or Individualized Approach to Reading?" published in the book, Teaching Reading: Selected Materials, edited by Walter B. Barbe.

There were 53 articles assembled for the book. These articles were selected on the basis of their significance to the problems of teaching reading.

protection from any storm.

Then the storm winds raged. The mighty rains came down; many limbs were blown to the ground. The tree rocked and rolled and strained against the vehement blasts. The tree was torn from the soil and even some of the green limbs were broken.

Only a few limbs were left intact, only a few roots were left in the ground. Which monkeys were left to start a new colony?

The Commentator Predictions For 1965

In this new year, the prediction craze once again rears its ugly head to send its scourge out among the masses. At the dawning of each new and glorious year, the tide of predictions sweep across the nation in its multitude of varieties. There are predictions about the weather. There are predictions about politics, baseball, football, olympics (or those olympics to come), fashions, cars, food, morals, religion, etc. There are even predictions about predictions. And soon you will see that there will be predictions about those who predict the predictions. (whew!)

In order to be a conformist, an average person, I will predict certain things to happen within the next year here at Mac, in the United States, and in the world.

Beginning first with that level of prediction which holds the most importance, the level which will affect the most important people, the level of prediction which concerns only those that are involved with the most basic of problems, I will predict what is to happen within the next year here at McPherson College.

Academically, I think that we are in for a very enlightening year. Now, by saying this, I am not sure if it will be the students who are enlightened by the teachers, or the teachers who will be enlightened by the students. Perhaps this is the year of the teacher rebellions, the year of the strike at McPherson. We shall see what we shall see.

Socially, McPherson College will pickup somewhat in the events which will be planned by the social committee. Foreseen in the future are more parties, street dances, movies, S and E Hawkins Day, and other goodies.

Governmentally, we may be in for a great year or a mediocre year. As I gaze into my crystallized popcorn ball, I can see that if a combination of new, young leadership in the administration, more power from the administration for the governing student council, and an active, imaginative, alert student council were to be boiled

Colleges Abroad For Juniors

Brethren Colleges Abroad Program is being offered for all juniors who have had at least two years of German or French at the college level. This program is being sponsored by Bridgewater, Elizabethtown, Juniata, LaVerne, Manchester, and McPherson Colleges.

This program includes a year of undergraduate study in Marburg, German, and Strasbourg, France.

Expenses for the trip include application fee, $10; transportation, $360; tuition, $750; activities fees and medical insurance, $100; Board and room, $500 to $700; and personal expenses, books, etc., $200 to $500.

into the same recipe, we will see great efforts made in all areas of campus life. However, if the ingredients are the same moldy ones which we were given to witness this year, we will sink our teeth into the worst piece of governmental cake ever baked, or halfbaked, on any college campus. Other than that, we're in for a good year.

As a nation, this will be a good year for crying towels. Stocking up on the greatest amount of these towels will be the Republicans, the Mets (again), Income Tax revenuers, Bobby Baker, the Ford Motor Co., and Jimmy Hoffa.

Others who will be in the race will be President Johnson, at times, Robert Welch, J. Edgar Hoover, United Nations, Senator Keating, Huntley-Brinkley, Elizabeth Taylor (the perennial), the New York Yankees (though I hate to admit it), Erskine Caldwell, and Sigmund Freud publications.

Concerning religion on a national level, more Protestant denominations will probably merge. There will also be much said about the changing of the traditions in the Catholic Church. I feel that this year there may be many attempts by the younger, collegiate-high school set to dig more deeply into religion and philosophy to try to understand more what it holds for them.

In predicting what will happen to morals within this next year, I think that, in following the trends of previous years, many new features could be uncovered.

As a world we will be entering another twenty-year period following a war. Whether we will be jinxed by this or not remains to be seen. At the moment we are not living with a potential Hitler. We are not living with a hibernating Stalin. Because of this, we as a world may breathe a little easier, although some will no doubt be breathing air which is polluted with the smell of burned gunpowder. Yet we do live in a world which harbors Castros, Maos, and Welchs, and because of this we will need to keep alert while breathing in our relaxed fashions.

Economically our world is still pressing more and more into inflation. In some nations now it is cheaper to light cigarettes with money than with matches. Unless the trend is changed, this situation could hit even the most stable of economies.

This desk is adding to its collection of predictions made for the coming year. From time to time I will add them to this column. Send yours to the Spec office.

Mac Grabs Third In Holiday Tourney

For the second year in a row, the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes won the 12th annual McPherson Holiday Tournament. Led by Jim Rash, the tournament's leading scorer and most valuable player, Wesleyan defeated College of Emporia 82 to 75 in the championship game which was very close until Wesleyan pulled ahead in the closing minutes.

McPherson placed third in the tournament by defeating Sterling College by the score of 68 to 67 in an exciting game which took an overtime period to decide the winner.

The game ended with a 64-64 deadlock. However, two free throws by George Czaplinski and a field goal by Dick Welch in the overtime period gave McPherson the victory.

Marion Enke paced the Bulldogs with 17 points, while George Czaplinski made 16 and John Tegeler ended up with 15.

The Bethel College Threshers captured fifth place by defeating Phillips University 71 to 65. Seventh place went to Northwestern State of Alva, Oklahoma, who defeated Tabor College 77 to 72.

Kansas Wesleyan won the right to play in the championship game by defeating Tabor 70 to 57 in the first round of play. Wesleyan then went on to defeat McPherson 95 to 93 in the semi-finals.

The Bulldogs led through most of the game, but early in the second period, Kansas Wesleyan managed to pull ahead. However, late in the game the Bulldogs rallied and tied the score 83-83 with 1.24 minutes remaining. The Bulldogs stalled for the last shot, but a McPherson player fouled and with two seconds to play, Wesleyan made two free throws to capture the victory.

Quite a scoring duel developed in this game between McPherson's George Czaplinski and Kansas Wesleyan's Jim Rash. Rash scored 36 points while Czaplinski dropped in 34.

In the first round of play, McPherson defeated a stubborn Phillips University team by the score of 75 to 72. Dick Welch and George Czaplinski both scored 19 points, while Marion Enke and John Tegeler made 16 points for the Bulldogs.

Free throw shooting proved to be the winning factor for the Bulldogs, since Phillips outscored McPherson from the field.

Phillips was charged with 26 fouls and McPherson took advantage of this to score 23 points out of 34 attempts. Phillips made only 10 points at the charity line.

George Czaplinski and John Tegeler of McPherson were selected by the coaches of the competing teams for the Tournament all-star team. George averaged 23 points per game and Tegeler averaged 14 during the three day tournament.

The following players were also selected for the tournament all star team: Jim Rash and LaVerie Martin, Kansas Wesleyan; Robert Pankratz and Larry Schmidt, Bethel; Gary Biggs and Ray Simpson, C. of E.; Ken Hewett, Phillips; and Darrel Inman, Northwestern Oklahoma.

Bulldogs Post Wins Over Braves And Presbies

McPherson trounced Ottawa last Tuesday night, Jan. 5, 100-77. This loss put Ottawa out of the three-way tie for first place. It left McPherson and Bethany to battle for the KCAC title.

The leading scorer in the game was George Czaplinski with a total of 30 points. Marion Enke was not far behind George with his 25 points. John Tegeler was pushing Marion with his 24 points, and Lynn Warner snapped 13 points through the net to help the Bulldogs.

Second high point man in the game was Toni Verdi with 27 points. Charles Mercer and Wayne Sutter each added 10 points to the Ottawa score while Evan Johnson put in 7 points.

College of Emporia was upended by McPherson 61-65 last Saturday in the McPherson roundhouse. Despite the strong attack led by Ray Simpson, the Presbies could not hold the counter attack that was led by George Czaplinski. The Presbies were out in the lead 61-60 with a minute and 17 seconds left to play in the game. Besides being ahead, the Presbies also had the ball which put the Bulldogs at a greater disadvantage.

The leading scorer of the game was Czaplinski with 28 for the Bulldogs. The second high point man was Simpson with 16 points for the Presbies. Other high scorers for Mac were: Dick Welch with 12, Marion Enke with 11, and John Tegeler with 10. Other high scorers for C of E were: Rich Edminston with 13 and Dale Haug with 12.

Junior Varsity Wins Against Emporia, 76-65

The Junior Varsity came through for McPherson College last Saturday night winning its first game of the season. Leading the Bulldogs to their decisive victory over C of E was Dan Stockstill with 12 points. Keith Kahnt and Gary Coleman each added 10 points in boosting the score to 76 with C of E having only 65.

High scorer for C of E was Bostwick with 26 points. Ketzoff added to C of E's score with 15 while Howland pumped in 8. This is the first win for the Junior Varsity so far this season. This is the first year of

Bulldogs To Battle Falcons Tonight

Friends University will encounter McPherson College, one of the first place teams this year, Friday, Jan. 15, at 8:00 in the roundhouse at McPherson.

McPherson is heavily favored over the Falcons. The Bulldogs have lost one conference game this year while the Falcons have lost several. Last year McPherson had a 10-8 season and placed fifth in the district.

Friends University had a 2-16 season last year but hope to do better this year with the addition of height underneath the backboard. Friends has seven returning lettermen this year which should help considerably.

These returning lettermen are:

- Larry Thompson G, 5-11, So.
- Keith Rucas, G, 5-8, So.
- Steve Bustin, F, 6-4, Sr.
- Odus Isaacs, F, 6-2, Jr.
- Marion Spatz, G, 6-4, Jr.
- Bob Laymon, C, 6-4, So.
- James Ellis, G, 5-9, So.

Fifteen Teams Participate In Intramural Play

Basketball is very popular around McPherson College but not all members of the college can have the pleasure of playing for the college.

For this reason many boys are playing intramural basketball. There are fifteen teams with an average membership of seven.

The membership that makes up these teams are from the people that enjoy playing basketball. It is purely a voluntary venture for the players since they are not an official team of the college.

Each team plays 14 games in the season, that is one game against each opposing team. The games start at different times on different days.

The time for these games will be posted for convenience of both players and those that wish to watch.

Mac Romps Swedes To Lead KCAC

LINDSBORG—Hitting 58 per cent of their shots from the field, the torrid Bulldogs of McPherson College took over first place alone in the Kansas Conference last night.

McPherson defeated Bethany 91 to 83 in the conference thriller after leading nearly all the way. The Bulldogs now have a conference record of 6-1 and Bethany has dropped to second with 5-2.

Three McPherson players made 81 points for the Bulldogs. Topping the three was Marion Enke with 33 points. George Czaplinski had 26 and John Tegeler 22. McPherson led 45 to 40 at the halftime.

The Bethany Swedes were cold from the field and made only 37 per cent of their shots. Bethany fouled consistently in an effort to check the Bulldogs and McPherson cashed in on the free throw opportunities to score 27 points.

McPherson's next game will be Friday night when the Bulldogs host Friends University.

Maccollege Girls Win One Game

The girls basketball team has played three games so far this season. The first one was a freshman-sophomore game with Central College. This game was lost by a score of 46 to 22. High scorer for Mac was Janet Rhinehart, sophomore, Brooklyn, Iowa, with 11 points.

On Dec. 12 the girls traveled to Lyons where they took part in a clinic. Here a tournament was played with shortened four minute quarters. In the first game, Mac won over Marymount 28-13. They then advanced to play Fort Hayes who also won its first round game. In this thriller Mac lost in an overtime 14-11.

Widrig Wants Locks Removed From Gym

All locks are to be off of the lockers in the boys Physical Education dressing room by Thursday, Jan. 21. A word of warning by Coach Widrig: "If the locks are not off of the lockers by then, I'll cut them off."

Follow the Bulldogs in the McPherson Sentinel college Basketball for all except one on the team.

Coach Widrig says that the main reason for the JV's losing most of their games so far is due to the slowness of learning the plays and the ability to execute them.

Bulldog Mascot Promotes Spirit

Maccollege's basketball team is now being assisted in their victory march with a new mascot. The idea for having a mascot started with the A - squad cheerleaders. They thought about having a real live bulldog as the mascot.

Terry Reyher, sophomore, Wiley, Colorado came up with the idea of dressing someone up as a bulldog. The freshman class donated the head from their float for the mascot to wear.

This is a new project spearheaded by the students. It is also the first year for a mascot at Maccollege. The main jobs of the mascot are to lead the players onto the floor and to encourage school spirit during the games.

Students are taking turns being the mascot, and should all be given a hearty thanks for the job they do in helping promote school spirit.

If anyone wants to be a mascot, he should contact Gary Fisher.

Coppock Spends Vacation Skiing In Colorado

Dr. Doris Coppock, associate professor and director of physical education for women, spent an interesting Christmas vacation skiing at Vail Pass in Colorado. The only trouble she had was crossing Loveland Pass. The snow was falling causing trouble in seeing in below zero weather.

Dr. Coppock and six friends rented a cabin during their week's stay. In case anyone in the group had an injury skiing, there were three doctors among the group to take care of them.

One of Dr. Coppock's most exciting experiences was riding the four seat gondola. She stated that when half way up the mountain the trees became all white, just like someone had taken a can of white paint and sprayed the trees.

Dr. Coppock said that the view from the top was "fabulous."

One of the passengers on the gondola said it was just like a scene from a Hollywood movie as you looked across the area in front of you.

Several times Dr. Coppock and her friends went to the top of the mountain and skied down. On the way down, they followed different roads leading to cabins in the hills.

Dr. Coppock said, "I had a ball. I can not think of a more pleasant way of spending a vacation. The scenery there is just beautiful."
