Hayes Will Tour Europe

A tour of Europe is planned for next fall by Guy Hayes, director of admissions.

Mr. Hayes, his wife and daughter plan to sail for Europe on August 13, on the S. S. United States and return by plane October 1.

While in Europe the Hayes family will visit their son, Captain Larry E. Hayes, and his wife in Heilbronn, Germany. Larry is a graduate of McPherson College and the Kansas University Medical Center, and he is now a medical surgeon in the army.

An independent tour will be taken of the British Isles with special interest in London and Edinburgh, Berlin, Venice, and Geneva. Switzerland are points of interest Mr. Hayes and his family will visit on the European mainland.

Mr. Hayes, while in Europe, plans to visit two or three universities where he will study the contrasts between the European idea of only a selected few obtaining an education and the idea of mass education in the United States. He also plans to visit the European Kiwanis Clubs.

On return to the United States, Mr. Hayes will spend several months visiting various universities in the States and studying the total admissions process of solicitation, selection, screening, and record testing of students.

Mr. Hayes will return to his job as director of admissions on February 1, 1966.

"Evening In Venice" Theme for Banquet

By Anjie Benton

Graceful gondoliers floating in the iridescent, moon-lit canal waters of romantic Italy, charming sidewalk cafes with exotic guitar and mandolin music, the captivating fragrance of flowers in the quaint "floating city" of Venice — this gay, intriguing atmosphere will be captured in the theme, "Evening in Venice," for the Junior-Senior Banquet coming April 24.

The banquet will commence at 7:00 p. m. with the dance following from 9-11:30 p. m. in the Student Union. The dance is semi-formal; approximately 200 guests will be attending.

Dr. Harley Stump, Professor of English, will give the invocation at the banquet. McPherson High Dance Band will provide music for the festive occasion. Refreshments will be served at the dance.

Anita Morlan, Junior, McPherson, will present a reading for part of the program; Vance Alexander, senior, Geneseo, and Dave Ankenman, senior, McPherson, will sing, as will the McPherson High Ensemble.

The menu for the banquet includes baked garlic clams, fruit compote, stuffed celery, antipasto; Caesar salad, gelatin salad, red cabbage slaw, Italian cheese trays, Italian meat trays, small broiled potatoes.

Also included will be broiled lobster tails, chicken tetrazzini, roast steamboat of beef, hot parmesan Italian bread loaves, roasted nuts, banana cake and clear banana frosting.

Traveling Cast Will Give "Becket" In Four States

In colorful medieval costumes, a traveling cast will present nine performances of Jean Anouilh's "Becket" in churches throughout Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, and Kansas, from April 25-May 2.

Cast members, who were chosen Monday, April 5, are Ken Dauer, Jr. Dunkirk, Ohio, as Henry II, King of England; Ronald Cassidente, sophomore, Denver, as Thomas a Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury; and Ellen Sell, senior, Conway, as the Queen Mother.

Velma Hoyer, junior, McPherson, will portray the Young Queen; Jerry Barrows, junior, Waterloo, Iowa, Folliat; and Dennis Davies, sophomore, Panora, Iowa, will play the Monk, as well as act as lighting technician.

Anouilh has built his play around a historical situation which poses this question: Does the power of the state include prosecuting violators of the law within the structure of the Church, for example, priests?

We Get Letters . . .

Smoking And Drinking Not Essential For An Education

Dear Editor:
 After reading the letter entitled, "Not Here for Conversion," in last week's Spec. I have decided that the reasoning stated therein should not go unchallenged. It is for this reason that I find myself offering this letter in rebuttal. First of all, I am somewhat disappointed that the author of the letter did not claim his opinion by signing his name. If he is indeed sincere in his opinion, one cannot help but marvel at his obnoxious embarrassment about expressing it to the student body as a whole.

"C. Moore" sarcastically criticized the social and ethical standards here at MacCollege. He sounded oppressed by the fact that the administration and, I believe, the majority of the students frown upon habits which are endangering the health and squandering the money of the individual, as well as littering the campus with rubbish. Smoking and drinking are undeniably messy habits. They are particularly so when those who practice them are careless and inconsiderate.

Obviously "C. Moore" has put aside getting an education. Granted an education involves much more than the classes, books, and tests. However, one may become as well educated on this campus as he is willing to allow. An education is not given, it is obtained. It demands a certain combination of open-mindedness and careful scrutiny.

No complete education may be had by rebelling against

Critics Should Have Answers

Dear Editor,
 I have been hearing a lot over the news and around our campus about civil rights. There has been much criticism of those who go South and participate in the Negro demonstrations.

Just recently I heard a comment to the effect that the people who are getting killed in these demonstrations are receiving too much publicity; mainly because these people knew they were headed for trouble the minute they decided to go south.

I have heard remarks that, "Negroes should not be demonstrating anyway. They are lazy bums that do not want to improve or they would have by now." The attitudes that I am going to express are directed to the minority that feel this way. I find their opinion sickening.

Why don't we change the picture a little bit? It seems to me we have been sending troops to Viet Nam. Do we know what kind of people are in Viet Nam?

They are lazy darkskinned Asians. They do not want to improve, and they really do not care if the Communists overtake their country, but we keep sending troops. The reason is that we feel that Communism is a threat to them and will deprive them of their freedoms.

When Americans get killed, we hear about their deaths over T. V. and read about them in magazines. If we held the attitude that I referred to in the preceding paragraphs, we would probably say that American soldiers do not deserve any publicity.

They knew what they were getting into before they went to Viet Nam, plus the fact that they are dying for a worthless cause because the Vietnamese are not really interested in changing.

I doubt whether too many people will say that the death of an American soldier, which insures any person freedom and a chance to better himself, is a worthless death. But let any American citizen die for a Negro, and it is a worthless death.

What blind reasoning! How can it be worthless to die for an American citizen (when the Vietnamese are not) who should have the same rights as whites.

I think it is interesting that we Americans will fight in Viet Nam not paying any attention to race, but only to the goal of freedom, while in America we cannot see the goal of freedom because the stigma of racism (which we created) changes over it.

I would rather go out and demonstrate for Negro rights than be a Negro in the U. S. army dying for American Freedoms. That Negro knows what vain glory really is.

He was called into the army in World War I and died for American freedoms, but what did it get him? His wife and children are still discriminated against.

To enjoy the freedoms he died for, a Negro's children will have to keep on marching with Martin Luther King and getting beaten.

And a few whites, who are not looking for glory and are not so blind to think that our nation is a nation of equality, will have to get killed and beaten to bring attention to this whole problem.

My guess is that the college student who criticizes the Negro for fighting for freedom is nothing more than a fat, blind American. Fat because he reaps all of the benefits of our

Here for a Purpose

Dear Editor,
 In reply to last week's letter "Not Here for Conversion," let us look at the responsibilities which we feel every member of an organization should have toward that organization.

First of all, before a person becomes a member of any organization, whether it be a club, a fraternity, or an educational institution, he must recognize the purposes of that organization and, most importantly, recognize its particular means of obtaining these purposes. When he then joins that organization, he is in essence accepting its goals and ways of reaching them.

Let us now relate this idea to "Not Here for Conversion." The purposes and aims of McPherson College as summarized in the College Catalogue include: I. Liberal Education, II. Religious Development, III. Professional Education, and IV.

Personal Development. Any regulation of the college represents the means, it feels, of best fulfilling these aims.

Any person who is "invited" to McPherson College, as the author of last week's letter has pointed out, is invited for an education. But "because life is integral," the college functions upon the belief that "it is important that education should deal with all of life," which includes: "personal character, social competence, social responsibility, physical well-being, Christian homemaking, and Christian vocation." (McPherson College Catalogue).

Our becoming members of this college community was our acceptance of its aims. It only follows then that we respect and uphold the rules and regulations which aid our fulfilling these aims.

Mac Should Follow Church Standards

Dear Editor:
 In last week's Spectator (April 2) there was an article by an assumed student concerning "Therapeutic Tension Release and Relaxation Centers" — in short, "Smoking Lounges." I would like to say that I wholeheartedly disagree with Mr. (?) Butts for a number of reasons.

First, this is a college sponsored by the Church of the Brethren, and therefore should be run within the framework of that institution. The Church of the Brethren, which does not believe in drinking (Consumption of alcoholic beverages) and smoking, should not permit it in institutions which it sponsors.

Second, a paper accompanying the application blank was to be signed and returned with the application. This paper stated that the signee would follow the rules and regulations set up by the college.

If you will refer to page 22 of the 1965 McPherson College Catalog under Student Regulations, you will see that, "...the college since its inception, has ruled that alcoholic beverages, gambling, and smoking shall NOT be a part of its campus conduct." There it is down in black and white — a regulation in keeping with the beliefs of the Church of the Brethren.

My third comment has to do with "class." It was stated in an earlier Spectator that dressing up night would add class to the campus. To the visitor's eye, the class that may be gained by dressing up is wiped out by the sight of a half-dozen or so guys standing in the crosswalks between the S. U. and Dotzour, puffing on their cancer sticks.

First semester, I believe, the bigger percent of the students here were Brethren students. All our lives we have been taught that drinking and smoking are wrong. Are we to change our way of life in an institution supported by our faith, for a few that are unwilling to accept our few restrictions?

As God Dies, Society Dies

God is dead. Truth or blasphemy? Let's look at our society; let's look at the South; let's look at the cities where people can be stabbed in broad daylight and no one will help them. There is no living, breathing God—there is not even the emotion of a God left in the hearts of the people.

He has become a shadow—an oil painting—a hollow skelton, without any insides. One should be able to breathe the air and feel God; but now one only breathes the smog of a morally decadent society.

Whether a supernatural power exists matters little—what is important is the emotion of a God.

God is dead—and society is dying of the shock. Why is God dead?

Mainly, because our scientific society cannot accept the concept of a supernatural God. It discards the supernatural, and with it, the morality. The morality is the real God—the one that does not need to be, and cannot be, discarded if society is to survive.

By morality, I do not mean the petty little things Christians haggle over—smoking, swearing.

I mean morality in terms of society—that which keeps us from tearing each other apart like wild animals; that which allows the individual to be an individual; that which gives us something to live for; that which puts something into our hearts other than hatred and bitterness.

This morality is the God we must have; this is the God that is dead, and this is why society is dying.

Easter is almost here, and we will soon be celebrating the Resurrection. But as you are sitting in a comfortable church, wearing your new Easter clothes, you might ask yourself: Has Christ really risen—or is his body rotting beneath the feet of a cold, materialistic society? CSL

Student Questions Stuco Appropriation

Dear Students,
 I write concerning a Student Council action of March 30 in which the Council, by a 10-6 vote, appropriated approximately $120 for the purchase of stoles for the new A Cappella robes.

This $120, like all Student Council money, came from the student activity fee. Therefore, it must be considered as money provided by a tax on students. It was, in this case I feel, not used in the total interest of the Student Body at large.

I may say in all sincerity that I write not out of any personal desire to spite or despoil the members of the choir. I argue, rather, from two main bases, both of which I feel may quite legitimately be called points of constitutional or legal propriety.

First, contrary to normal Student Council practice, tax money was voted for the benefit of a limited group. If one argues that the surplus was there and therefore should be used, I would reply that this surplus was accumulated over a period of years and that it is by no means the prerogative of this particular Council to spend it all.

Or, even if it is to be spent, there are many other projects which would be much more in the total interest of the Student Body than the purchase of stoles for forty-six choir members.

Second, if perchance one is persuaded that this action was in fact in the total interest of the Student Body, there is yet another question which may call for an answer: why was the Student Council budget prevailed upon to pay for an item that should normally have been an expense of the same department which ordered the robes?

Again may I say I harbor no malice toward the A Cappella choir. I only feel that this was an obvious misappropriation of student funds. I feel that the proper role of any Student Council is, though certainly to serve the interests of the students, not to be a government dole board when other means are depleted.

To the extent that it moves into this realm, I feel it is accepting a responsibility which it has neither an obligation nor a right to accept.

Sincerely,
 Kenneth Ullom

5 Men Play Golf For Mac

By Les Bloom

Several weeks ago the golf season was quietly ushered in at McPherson. With little fanfare under the direction of Dutch Uhrlaub, pro of McPherson's country club, five men were selected to be Mac's golf team.

Four returning lettermen head the team. Ansel Neuberger, Sr., Hutchinson, Gene Czaplinski, Soph., McPherson, Bob Williams, Jr., McPherson, and George Jones, Soph., Canton head this year's team. Phil Grove, Fr., Laurens, Iowa rounds out the team.

Last year the team finished in a tie for fourth place in the conference. They feel they have a better shot at the title this year, but Emporia is the pre-season favorite.

So far this year the team is

Don't Get Caught In The Rain, Do Your Washing In The Dry, Pleasant Surroundings Of

undefeated in two matches. They have defeated Sterling 14½-½ and Friends 13½-½.

This afternoon the team will play host to the golfers of Bethel College. The meet is at the McPherson Country Club at 1:00. There is no admission charge.

There is more to golf than just hitting the ball. Ansel Neuberger, the team's top golfer, considers timing and proper weight shifting at least as important as strength. The correct mental attitude also is essential.

Bowling

In men's bowling action last week, Rex and the 3 Stooges conquered the high three game average with 2050. They were followed by the .007's with 1857 and the Football Flops with 1823.

Rex and the 3 Stooges also had the three high individual games, rolling 710, 683, and 653.

Larry Evans won the title of high three game series winner with 538. Vernon Adams trailed with 537, and Max Warner and Terry Wokaty tied for third with 528.

In the men's individual high game, Larry Evans rolled a 210, followed by Steve Larson with 196, and Jamie Oxley with 194.

Win and loss records at the end of men's action had the Football Flops defeating the Girls Team, 2-1; the L.B.J.'s knocked off the Big Ones, 3-0; Rex and the 3 Stooges downed the Goldfingers, 3-0; Big Red rolled over the Chieftans, 2-1; the .007's shot the Apostles, 3-0; and the Mac Pinboys defeated the Hawaiians, 2-1.

Warner Has Talent For Many Sports

Lynn Warner takes the final leap to break the string, thus winning the mile run in last Wednesday's track meet with Bethany.

By Les Bloom

One of the best all around athletes of MacCollege is Lynn Warner. Lynn is a first semester senior from West Milton, Ohio.

At present Lynn runs the half mile, mile, and 2 mile runs. He is also the number one singles player on the Bulldog tennis team. Earlier this year he ran on the cross-country team and was a starter for the varsity basketball team.

In high school he played baseball, and during the summer he plays softball. In his spare time he plays ping pong. Last year he was runnerup in the college tournament. This year he is again among the leaders.

He has played three years of basketball here, two years of tennis, and two years of cross-country to go along with his four years of basketball. At the end of this year he will have earned 10 college letters.

In his two years of cross-country he has placed second and fourth in the conference. He has consistently been one of the leading milers and two milers.

Lynn considers the mile as his race. His best time is 4:31, slightly above the school record of 4:24.9. Already this spring he has run a 4:34 mile and has his sights set on the school record.

Lynn is probably the only man in the conference to participate in two major spring sports. There is some conflict between his tennis and track, but Lynn considers it to be minimal. His afternoon program usually consists of playing tennis from 2:30 to 4:30 and then running from 4:30 to 5:30.

When questioned in general about sports, Lynn replied that, "Sports have always been my biggest interests. When pressed to pick his favorite sport, he reluctantly chose tennis. He said, "I really like them all, but tennis is my favorite because I feel that I have more potential there."

On running he said that "Running is the best conditioner there is," and that "I run every chance I get." He would like to run after graduation but does not plan to run competitively.

He doesn't find it too difficult to get into shape for running because of his year round participation in sports. He estimates that in the last two years he has competed in more than 100 athletic events each year.

Over $1500 worth of unique, handmade items from various foreign countries will be offered for sale in Friendship Hall.

The bazaar will also include an educational display which will feature items from the collections of faculty members who have traveled abroad.

Smoking and Drinking

that which inhibits the "pleasures" of self indulgence. Perhaps there is reason behind a law. Perhaps an education demands an understanding and application of it. Smoking areas on campus would not only permit but in a way condone the practice. But smoking is not essential to the education "C. Moore" claims to desire.

It is instead a wasteful habit which is detrimental to health. Health, incidentally, is as essential in education as in anything else. Then too, why should non-smoking and non-drinking students be subjected to the smoke, cigarette butts, broken bottles, and staggering liquor-soaked next door neighbors.

Next may I say that I doubt seriously whether this college attempts to convert anyone. Again this impression is a result of defensive and narrow rationalizations. This college like any other institution has the right to set up rules which are consistent with the views of its supporters. It also has the right to expect compliance on the part of those who utilize the services it offers.

Please understand that this letter is not necessarily directed to "Easterners." It is directed to the student body and to those who would care to consider the thoughts expressed here in the spirit in which they are intended.

I have tried to present an argument on the same grounds as did "Mr. Butts" — that is, excluding any religious aspects. Yet I must say that I believe religion to be deeply involved with this issue.

"Mr. Butts" referred to "holier" students in a derisive manner. This statement is a rather effective deterrent for rebuttal and I realize that by responding I am vulnerable to such criticism. It is in spite of a branding of this derogatory nature that I submit this letter.

Critics Should Have

constitution without lifting a finger, and blind because he pictures the whole country as he experiences it in his own little world.

All I can say to this unique American is, "Why don't you quit saying that freedom is not worth fighting for and point to something that is."

And instead of talking about it (which is all that seems to happen in this school) get off your chair and lead us to some worthy cause. Or is it easier to criticize?

I have not made any attempt in this article to present a solution to the Negro problem. I just wish those people who have no answer would quit trying to belittle those who have taken the initiative to present a solution.

At least they are trying.

April Is Teaching Month

This April marks the eighth annual Teaching Career Month. During this month, the local Student National Education Association is placing special emphasis upon the teaching professions.

The planned activities for the month include the regular meeting on April 26, at 7:00 P.M. in Mohler 212.

The meeting will consist of the showing of the film, "Children Without," followed by the election of officers for the 1965-66 year. Refreshments will be served during the marking of the ballots.

The SNEA hopes that the activities which they have scheduled for the rest of April will increase interest in SNEA and the teaching profession.

Edwards To Play Piano

Professor Robert Edwards, assistant professor of piano and organ, will be featured on piano at a Faculty Recital which will be held April 22, at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

The Recital, which will last approximately an hour and a quarter, will feature selections from Bach, Ravel, Beethoven, and Brahms.
