

President J. Jack Melhorn

Energetic Melhorn Is 'Where The Action Is'

"Where the Action Is", a current TV program, is also an apt description of Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, new president of McPherson College.

He received a B.A. degree from Elizabethtown College (Penn.), a B.D. from Yale University Divinity School, a M.A. from the University of Southern California, and an Honorary LL.D. from Elizabethtown College.

He is currently a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Southern Calif., having completed his residency before coming to McPherson.

A man with a quick step, a quick smile, and a quick handshake, Dr. Melhorn wastes no time with transportation. He chooses a sporty, red Triumph and a Honda to take him places.

This same driving energy and affableness led Dr. Melhorn's election three times as mayor of LaVerne, Calif., where he was active in community and civic affairs.

Dr. Melhorn has more than an average interest in sports as a hobby.

"I have been a football widow for 17 years, even when we were dating," admits his wife, Mary whom he first met on the tennis courts.

Dr. and Mrs. Melhorn live at 1000 E. Euclid with their three children Mark, 12, Linda, 9 and Kent, 7. The Melhorn family is one which travels together, bowls together, and enjoys reading together.

Mrs. Melhorn, once a first grade teacher, is a member of Alpha Psi Omega, an organization, and a charming hostess to the many college groups whom she and Dr. Melhorn entertain in their home.

As for Dr. Melhorn's philosophies, on education he says: "The things which permeate a Christian college are based upon the belief that the liberal arts, rightly connected, will truly make man's surroundings free. It is Christian in that it has definite commitments.

As for Dr. Melhorn's views on Macollege, he says: "I feel the morale is very good on campus, and the student involvement is excellent compared to other colleges I have visited.

I also feel the Forum is an excellent place for the students to voice some of their needs and opinions. I feel Macollege will go on growing and extending itself in leadership, scholarship, and Christian fellowship."

As the person closest to him, his wife, has stated: "Jack tackles everything with determination. He never undertakes anything unless he feels he can devote his full time and energy to it. I would say that if he has a motto, it would be "Be informed."

Dean Of New York U. To Speak at Inauguration

Speaker for the Inauguration of President J. Jack Melhorn will be Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, executive dean of the State University of New York.

Dr. Boyer assumed his post at the State University this past September. Previously he served as director of the center for co-ordinated education at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

From 1956 to 1962 he was academic dean and professor of speech pathology and audiology at Upland College. Boyer served as assistant professor of speech and director of forensics at Loyola University of Los Angeles.

Besides serving in an academic capacity at several colleges, Boyer has acted as director of the commission of experimentation and research for the council for the advancement of small colleges.

In addition, Dr. Boyer is a member of the board of directors of the California council on the education of teachers and of the Mennonite mental health service, Inc.

After completing his undergraduate degree at Greenville (Ill.) College, Dr. Boyer took his master's degree at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. He also holds his Ph.D. from U.C.L.A.

Parents Day Activities Set

Parents of McPherson College students are invited to the campus Nov. 12-13 for the annual Parents Day activities.

At last year's activities, 165 parents registered and this year even more parents are expected.

The college will host visiting parents at the final home football game, with the Sterling Warriors, Friday Nov. 12, at the College Stadium.

Saturday's plans include a registration - coffee hour at 9 a.m. at Friendship Hall. Dr. Melhorn will greet and welcome parents at 10 a.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Until 11:30 a.m. parents will be given the opportunity to visit and counsel with faculty members in their offices.

This year's Parents Day has been planned to coincide with the inaugural proceedings and the Planning Conference.

Melhorn Inauguration Heads Sunday Events

With the presentation of a medallion upon which is engraved the college seal and the words "Office of the President," Dr. J. Jack Melhorn will become the ninth president of McPherson College during the Rite of Installation, Sunday Nov. 14, at 3 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

The inaugural program will start with the symbolic processional, with the McPherson College and Community Orchestra, directed by Robert G. Jones, director of bands and orchestra.

Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, past Dean at McPherson, and President Bridgewater College will be the Honorary Marshall of the Processional. The Marshalls of the Processional, who must lead the processional, include Dr. Raymond Flory, Dean of Students; and Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of Academic Af-airs.

They will be followed by delegates from Colleges and institutions in the order of the date the institution was founded. Then will come the delegates of learned societies and organizations.

The Clergy, faculty and Board of Trustees will follow in that order. The speakers and other dignitaries and the president's party will hold the seventh and eighth positions in the processional.

President Melhorn, walking alone, will be positioned at the end of the Processional, significantly indicating the traditional basis of our education system, with the old institutions in the forefront while new leaders accomplish new goals on the foundation of the old.

Following the processional,

Dr. A. Blair Helman, President of Manchester College will present the Invocation.

The McPherson College Concert Choir and the McPherson College and Community Orchestra under the joint direction of Donald R. Frederick, professor of voice and director of choral organizations, and Prof. Jones, will then present musical selections from Henry Purcell's "In Praise of Music."

The Rite Of Installation and Medallion Ceremony will then follow with Dr. Harold Fasnacht, chairman of the General Brotherhood Board, Church of the Brethren, in charge.

Assisting him will be Dr. Harold Mohler, chairman of the Board of Trustees; and Dr. S. Loren Bowman, executive secretary of the Christian Education Commission of the General Brotherhood Board.

The presentation of the medallion during the ceremony will set a precedent for future inaugurations, when the medallion will be passed on to other presidents.

Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, executive dean of the State University of New York will present the Inauguration Address following the Rite Of Installation.

President J. Jack Melhorn will then follow with a short response. According to Dr. Melhorn, the inaugural response seems to be more appropriate to the occasion since it allows for a more personal response to the relationship of the significance of becoming president of the institution.

The Benediction will be given by Dr. Roy E. McAuley, President of Elizabethtown College.

The ceremony will end with the recessional, with all the parties marching in reverse order from the processional, led by President Melhorn.

As the Processional held meaningful symbolism for the education system as a whole, the recessional holds an order of meaning for the institution and the new President.

The entire ceremony shows a continuity of emphasis and emphasizes lines of responsibility and authority in the education system.

Following the ceremonies, a reception and buffet dinner will be held in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Melhorn at 5 p.m. in the Student Union.

Over one hundred visiting dignitaries representing institutions and learned societies from across the nation, have accepted invitations to attend the ceremonies.

Letters and certificates of response and congratulations have been flowing steadily into the office of the president.

All students, parents, friends and faculty from McPherson College have been invited to attend the inaugural ceremonies.

er. Larry Elliott, assistant business manager, will lead discussion, and Myrna Hauck, admissions secretary, will act as recording secretary.

Melhorn Invites Students Sunday

President J. Jack Melhorn has extended a welcome and an invitation for all students to attend the Presidential Inaugural Ceremonies to be held Sunday, Nov. 14 at 3 p.m.

"I welcome all students and encourage them to take part in this experience," said Dr. Melhorn. "Keep in mind, however, that the college will be hosting many guests from across the nation for the weekend activities."

Dr. Melhorn indicated that there would be no compulsion for any student to attend, but that there would be adequate seating available for the ceremonies since the balcony will be open.

Congratulations President Melhorn

By Junior Hendricks
Student Council President

As we review the past ten weeks of our college life, we will undoubtedly call to mind many of our new acquaintances. Whether it be our new roommate, the new fellow or girl across the hall, our new-found best friend, or one of the new faces on the faculty, each one of these will have many and varying effects upon our lives.

As each of us pursues the goal of completing a college education we will find that many of these new acquaintances are giving their best efforts to improve our situation as students in an academic pursuit.

One of these acquaintances is Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, our new president.

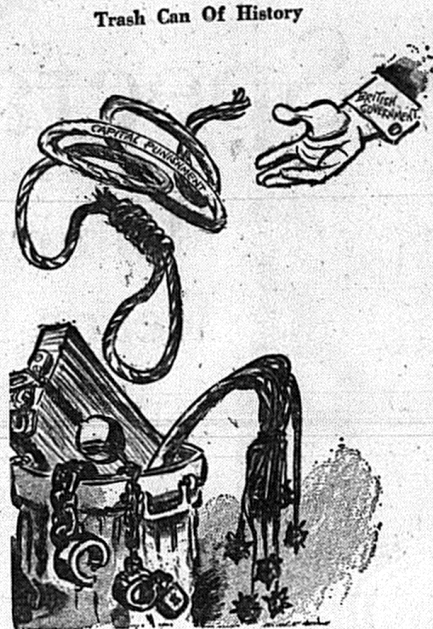

Dr. Melhorn has already gained the respect and admiration of the students of McPherson College by his enthusiastic desire to identify with the students whether it be in playing tennis or golf with some students, standing on the sidelines with the team during a football game or in just taking time to converse with the individual student about personal and impersonal problems.

Students find it difficult to understand how Dr. Melhorn works so many activities into his already busy schedule and continue to maintain his "go-go" spirit of enthusiasm.

Every student will do well to develop some of the spirit of life which our new president so vividly displays each day.

Without further words, on behalf of the Student Body of McPherson College, I want to convey our congratulations to Dr. Melhorn on his inauguration as our college president, and wish him well in his new role.

We Get Letters . . .

Opinionated Student Can Change Chapel

Dear Editor,

During the last forum, compulsory chapel was discussed. Many of the discussions were valid enough that the entire student body should know the faculty and student reactions.

The main point was how we can better our chapel and assembly programs. The two ideas that were presented advocated better programs of diverse interest.

One idea was that chapel could be a 1/2 credit per semester requirement which would be paid for accordingly. This would give the chapel committee significant funds to procure well-known speakers, and entertainers; chapel in this case would be once a week or as often as commitments were made.

The four credits would go towards graduation in the humanities area or wherever the administration thought feasible.

The second idea brought forth was that of interest seminars chosen by the individual students. This would be non-credit as now, but a student would have to attend ten or so activities a semester.

This could be done by setting up a program of several interests a week to which a student could choose to attend, as long as he made the set amount required. This would give each student a chance to pick topics to his interest.

Both of these ideas brought favorable reactions, but we need more student interest and reaction.

If you have another solution or support either of these, or are content with the present program, let me know through campus mail so I can give the chapel committee a good consensus of student opinion.

This is where we have to start with student opinion.

Do College Students Show Their Conceit?

Recently, after listening in on various bull sessions, I became aware of the overbearing self-righteousness that so many people are guilty of.

This is not to say that I cannot be included in this group, but that there are so many of us, who as college students feel that we "know it all" and our point of view is the only one. How can we be so egotistical?

Not to sound too critical, yet too often we forget who we actually are, and talk as someone we pretend to be. How superfluous we are.

We do not wish to reject individualism at all, but we must occasionally reconnoiter our own thoughts and ideas in order to be more rational in our daily activities.

While hashing through this problem several questions came to mind. Does the college student's status give him the right to feel superior to his family and friends?

Should we hold ourselves aloft from those with whom we argue? These and many other questions have confronted me. What's the solution?

No matter what we do in life, one thing is apparent; we will have to get along with all kinds of people. Selfishness and conceit is not the answer to getting along.

Forum

Students Discuss Compulsory Chapel

By Jerry Lasater

Should chapel be compulsory? Is the student body receptive to speakers? Should you be forced to worship?

These were only a few of the questions asked and discussed during the Forum last Sunday. Several conclusions were drawn and ideas were carried away from the discussion by students.

Everyone who attended the Forum found that even though most students feel that to be forced to attend chapel is a reason to rebel against the school and be disrespectful to speakers, chapel should be a needed hour of the week to stop and gain some new knowledge to be gained by informed speakers.

Job Interviews To Be Given

Future graduates from McPherson are being sought after by various government agencies.

A representative from the Milwaukee Public School system will be on campus Nov. 16. He will be interviewing students who are graduating in January for immediate employment in the Milwaukee school system.

On the following day, Nov. 17, a representative from the Bureau of Indian Affairs will visit the campus. He will talk to students who are interested in working at the Bureau's office in New Mexico.

Anyone interested in an interview with either of these representatives is to contact Dr. Dayton Rothrock, professor of education and psychology.

Yearly New-Caritis Hits College Males

By David Heffley

Many are the problems besetting the male at McPherson College, and one of the greatest is the seasonal restlessness known as new-caritis.

This restlessness takes many forms from mild to severe. In its milder forms, its symptoms are restlessness and agitation. Students afflicted are often seen wandering around in a daze with blank expressions on their faces. The milder forms are usually alleviated by going to a new car dealer's showroom and either looking at, touching, or even sitting behind the wheel of a new car.

The danger of this cure is that it often creates more disturbances than it cures. Many students have gone into traumatic shock in the showrooms. For example, one freshman had when he found that his roommate was unacceptable collateral for a car loan.

This disturbance strikes not only students, but also faculty members as well. One astute departmental head, who shall remain unnamed, when asked about this problem, just shook his head and kept mumbling something about three year's salary. He then went calmly shrieking from the showroom. Several solutions have been

Students who rustle papers and talk to their neighbors not only bother the speakers but put the college as a whole in the spot of being known as a group of uncivilized boys and girls who don't have the manners to show respect.

The chapel committee tries to secure speakers who will interest the large part of the students. Should those who do not like the topic or way of representation, feel it is being forced upon them?

One idea presented to the group was why couldn't chapel be given as credit. Each semester would count as 1/2 credit toward graduation.

Another idea was to add $10 on to the fees each student pays and use this to get interesting speakers and performers. Would students gain anything from these speakers even if they were good ones?

Students must want to get something from the ideas presented by speakers in order to enjoy them. In order to get the full meaning some of the speakers present a student must give his undivided attention and not have the attitude of being in a prison.

Should students go to chapel and assembly to be entertained or should they go to learn?

The question of courtesy was discussed to find if the lack of respect in chapel reflects on the whole campus attitude. Do students have the same amount of courtesy in college as they had at home?

Out of Forum came a feeling of helpfulness instead of just griping and doing nothing. The chapel committee is open to any advice or ideas as how to better the chapel.

offered. One is to ban new cars, but this would wreck the national economy. Another would be to ban all people connected in any way with colleges but that would be discriminatory. Or possibly, new cars could be provided for everyone, an idea which at least has a few supporters, like a party in the White House.

Quartet Performance Shows Excellence

By Mary Nell Albright

The Wichita String Quartet opened the McPherson Cultural Series with a successful, well-accepted concert Friday night. It is too bad that more townspeople and college students did not take advantage of the opportunity to hear the nationally-known group.

The classic chamber sound of the Haydn, Shostakovich's contemporary dissonances and rhythms, and Brahms' grandiose manner gave the program interesting, fascinating variety.

Though once or twice we felt that intonation was shaky, the overall impression of balance, tone, and technique was very good. Each of the numbers was played with exacting interpretation of dynamics, phrasing, and ensemble.

Ensemble, or balance of tone, in the group was to be especially appreciated. The cello wasn't too loud, the second violin or viola too weak, or the first violin over-bearing.

It was a real treat to hear Professor Robert Edwards, of our faculty, perform with the Quartet in Brahms' Quintet. The piano's new dimension added depth, and Edwards performed brilliantly.

We believe that the members of the Quartet were made somewhat uncomfortable by the applause, between some of the movements of the first numbers. The accepted procedure is to applaud only after the entire work has been completed.

Perhaps another thing which can be improved in our reception of such a distinguished group is the chairs which we could offer for their performance on the stage. Folding chairs are not the most comfortable chairs in which to sit while performing Shostakovich and Brahms.

Without a doubt, all who were in attendance know that we heard an exceptionally performed, extremely enjoyable concert.

Stuco Clears Old Business

Concerning themselves primarily with old business, the Student Council held their regular weekly meeting at 6:00 p.m., Nov. 2, in the Student Council Meeting Room.

A list of people who have served the college in years past was presented and the Council voted to give them honorary "Quadrangles" and "Spectator" subscriptions.

The Council continued discussing the possibility of sending "Spectators" to the two students representing McPherson College in the Brethren Colleges Abroad Program.

It was announced that Larry Bierwirth, sr., Bartonville, Ill., has accepted the chairmanship of the Exchange Chapel Committee, a group responsible for contacting area colleges and planning exchange programs with them.

Four More Scheduled For Lab Production

On Nov. 11 two Lab Theatre productions will be presented in Brown Auditorium at 7:00. One play, "The Sandbox" written by Edward Albee, will be under the student direction of Linda Wolf, fr., Wichita.

The play is from the theatre of the absurd, and deals with an absurd funeral. Said Linda, "I think the fact that the people in this play show such indifference makes this a very thought-provoking play."

Members of the cast are: Merv Perner, jr., Olathe; Nancy Brown, fr., Concord, Mass.; Jim Anderson, McPherson; John Smith, so., Independence, Calif.; Susie Dean, fr., Chicago.

Another play to be given Nov. 11 is cuttings from Norman Mailer's "The Deer Park". The student director, Art Campbell, so., Green Mountain, Iowa, feels the import of this play lies in the message it carries. It delves into the study of relationships of man and woman.

Those in the cast are: Priscilla Zigler, fr., Brookville, Ohio, as Elena Esposito; Tom Cook, fr., Cedar Rapids, Ia., as Charlie Eitel; and Lee Bittinger, so., Akron, Ohio, as Marion Faye.

"The Subject of Kezia," by Mrs. Havilock Ellis, will be presented Nov. 16 under the student

Reyher Goes To See Play

Loren D. Reyher, assistant professor of English and Drama, left yesterday morning for Kansas City where he will be the special guest of Mr. Maurice Breyer, president of the Kansas City Theatre Guild, and James Newman, press agent of the Kansas City Theatre Guild, at the opening night of "The Subject Was Roses".

On Wednesday afternoon Prof. Reyher was in the official greeting party at the Kansas City Airport to welcome Miss Martha Scott.

Miss Scott, the female lead of "The Subject Was Roses," has long been one of the leading actresses of stage screen and television. She is touring this season with "The Subject Was Roses."

direction of Pearl Fruth, jr., Sabetha, Ks. According to Pearl, the play has a real message centered around the theme of a woman's place in the home.

The cast is comprised of Kathie Andrews, jr., Rocky Ford, Colo.; Ken Van Blaricum, jr., Meade; and Pete Kaiser, jr., Kenosha, Wis.

Also on Nov. 16, under the direction of Pat Greenway, so., New Augusta, Ind., Eugene O'Neill's "Abortion" will be presented in Brown Auditorium.

The story concerns the repercussions of a college baseball hero's affair with a local girl. How the consequences of the affair affect his friends, his family, and his fiancée provide the dramatic situation. This play, according to Pat, is a good example of O'Neill's early effects on dramatic development.

The cast includes: Bill Wesson, so., Washington, D.C.; Nancy Kurtz, fr., Concord, Mass.; Linda Krown, jr., Billings, Mont.; Merv Perner, jr., Olathe; Stan Rodabaugh, so., Lanark, Ill.; Beth Brumbaugh, sr., Fruita, Colo.; and Gene Czaplinski, jr., McPherson.

Slater to Serve 500 At Buffet

While guests for the Inaugural Buffet are gathering at the Student Union dining hall at 5 p.m., Sunday evening, Mac students will be lining up at the Gym for a picnic supper.

Ross Woodard, Slater Food Service manager, is recruiting folk singers to perform while the students enjoy fried chicken, relishes, hot chocolate and cider. The picnic will be served on the Athletic Field if weather is suitable.

Invitations for the Inaugural Buffet have been sent to more than 500 persons including faculty, employees, and their spouses, trustees and their wives, official delegates, ministers, friends of the college, and community persons.

After the Inauguration guests will partake of steamboat ham, King Crab legs, fresh baked yams, and molded salads arranged on buffet tables.

Play rehearsal continues in full swing for the cast members of the play "Beyond the Horizon." Practicing here are Russell Merrifield, fr., Champaign, Ill.; Bob Slater, sr. Denver; Linda Andes, so., Mound City, Mo.; Gene Czaplinski, so., McPherson; and Jerry Lasater, fr., McPherson.

Stuco Has Been Busy In Areas of Student Life

In spite of the general consensus, the student council of McPherson College has been quite active this year.

Recently the idea of an honorary Quadrangle and Spectator to be presented to professors of long service to McPherson has been discussed. Student Council is now reviewing the list of prospective candidates. The process of choosing these teachers is not clear as yet.

Also on the Student Council calendar is the K.C.S.A., Kansas Council Student Association. This is a student association which includes all of the schools in our conference—plus Tabor College.

The purposes of this association are: to discuss the various difficulties in student governments, to compare possibilities for campus improvements and social activities, and to discuss the possibilities for various exchange chapels.

Recently a committee has been formed to evaluate the Homecoming activities. It is hoped that on the completion of this evaluation the committee will be able to make valid suggestions for the betterment of future homecomings.

Tentatively there has been planned an encouragement of better communication between our campus and the students participating in the Junior year abroad program.

The duty of the Student Council, however, that affects the students most closely is the approving of the budget for the year.

The income for the Student Council comes from four major sources: The $5.50 grant per student which comes to $3982.00, the balance forwarded from last year which is $186.57, the contribution of $207.36 from the Mens Council, and finally the Womens Council contribution of $4.13.

Out of this total are paid amounts to the following: the Board of Publication, $2,968.40; the McPherson College "Y", $50.00; the Cheerleaders, $50.00; the Growl (per semester), $191.25; the Womens Council, $100.00; the Mens Council, $50.00 (they had some left over from last year).

The Intramural Council, $60.00; the Social Committee, $600.00; Homecoming gifts, $15.00; Homecoming Displays, $45.00; honorary Quadrangle, $45.00; honorary Spectator, $22.50; and miscellaneous expenses of $20.00.

'Horizon' Rehearsals Bring Out Emotion

"Okay, kids, let's go over that scene one more time. Keep up the pace; don't lose that energy."

These are a few of the comments made by Loren D. Reyher, assistant professor of English and Drama, to the cast of "Beyond the Horizon," fall play of Macollege, as the second week of rehearsal came to a close.

As the first act, the most difficult one, is now behind them, Prof. Reyher stated that the cast has done an excellent job in memorizing lines and interpreting their roles. He feels the emotional impact of the show has now been achieved, and says he hopes the cast can continue to keep it until opening night.

The cast has thus far completed the first two acts. After memorizing the third act, they will begin to direct their energies toward reactions and place markers, and entrances and exits. After putting the entire show together, the cast will then have some time to help with programs publicity, and furniture-finding.

In his spare time, Prof. Reyher is also helping with the dramatic coaching of "Sound of Music"; the McPherson Senior High School musical which will be presented in Brown Auditorium Nov. 18.

Women To Sell Homemade Rolls

Homemade butterhorn rolls, with or without cinnamon and sugar — members of the McPherson College Home Economics Chapter hope their concoction sounds tasty, for the ladies of the chapter will be selling the rolls as a money-making project.

Order blanks for the rolls will be distributed in all dormitories and among faculty members and staff and should be placed in boxes provided by 6 p.m., Monday, Nov. 15.

Cost of the rolls has not been determined, according to Carol Klotz, jr., Fredericksburg, Iowa, chairman of the project. Other members of her committee are Susan Sell, fr., Canton; and Christina Flory, soph., McPherson.

Forum Ends Semester

Owing to the heaviness of the academic and extracurricular schedule, Forum, student discussion group, will discontinue its weekly meetings until second semester. However, it is to be noted that if issues which are particularly expedient arise in the near future, Forum may temporarily revive.

Interested students are invited to present possible topics for future Forum discussions to Mike Collins, sr., Denver.

Chess Players Invited To Local Tourney

All college chess players are invited to participate in the 2nd Annual McPherson city chess tournament, to be held at the Peoples Center, 101 S. Main, Sat., Nov. 13, starting at 9 a.m.

Prizes will be awarded for the highest ranking McPherson County player, for the highest ranking guest contestant from outside the county, and for the highest ranking McPherson County player in the junior division, which includes all players below 16 years of age.

Entry fees to cover the cost of the tournament will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. All players are asked to bring their own chess sets, chessboards and card tables, according to Ron Chaika and Robert Peters, co-chairmen of the Chess Tournament committee.

Enrollment Increases, Hours Attempted Drop

Data released by Dean Reynolds, registrar, indicate a substantial increase in the number of students enrolled for credit hours at McPherson College, but a drop in the average number of credit hours attempted by students, in comparison with last year's statistics.

Compiled by the Kansas State Regents' Committee from compulsory reports submitted by all state schools and voluntary reports of church-related and other private colleges, the statistics include head count, student credit hours, average student credit hour load and full-time equivalent enrollment.

This semester, 708 full-time and 53 part-time students are enrolled for a total of 11,065 credit hours. Present figures show an increase over the 573 full-time and 75 part-time students enrolled for 9,146 credit hours at this time last fall.

However, the average student load has dropped. The regents report designates average credit hours attempted by classes.

Last fall freshmen attempted an average of 15.1 credit hours, with sophomores carrying 15.6 hours. Juniors averaged 15.3 credit hours, and seniors, 15.4. The average special student attempted 5.1 hours.

This year's figures show freshmen attempting an average of 14.8 credit hours, and sophomores 15.3 hours. The average junior carries 15.1 credits and the average senior 15.6 hours. Special students this semester average 7.4 hours.

"The primary advantage in participating in the regents' report lies in its benefit to the administration," stated Mr. Reynolds.

"Small schools can be compared on the same basis, but for statistics of this nature to be really significant, we will have to participate in the reports over a longer period of time," he concluded.

Macollege Museum Rated Very High With Ancient Relics from Entire World

The most historical and fascinating place on Macampus is the college museum, located on the fourth floor of Harnly Hall. It is one of the most outstanding museums in this part of the country.

Curator of the museum is Dr. Robert E. Mohler, professor emeritus of biology. Dr. Mohler was a member of the Macollege faculty for 39 years. He retired in 1952.

The first thing Dr. Mohler does when a new item is received by the museum is to number and file it in its proper place.

The museum catalogue contains a description of the article, date received by the museum, and the donor. The original copy of this catalogue is kept in the fire proof vault in Sharp Hall and the carbon copy is kept in Dr. Mohler's office in the museum.

Relics are grouped in 13 different divisions, paleontology, geology, rocks and minerals, handicraft with special emphasis on the Early American handicraft, modern animals, modern plants, art and pictures of historic interest.

Also included are guns and war relics; curios and unclassified objects; historic items of special interest to McPherson college; birds, general anthropology; anthropology of Africa, China, India, Mexico, and Puerto Rico; books; and medical specimens.

In the paleontology division are many pre-historic specimens including one of the Ambelodon Shovelus mastodon, a dinosaur track three feet in length, a complete sabertooth tiger skeleton, and a slab containing more than 700 bones of rhinoceros, and other mammals.

The Ambelodon Shovelus mastodon was found in the Le Brea Tar Pits of California and donated to the museum by the late Dr. James Gilbert 1894, who was one of the first McPherson college graduates.

He was head of the science department of a large high school in California and was interested in paleontology.

The first and largest synthetic diamond made in the world is on display in the McPherson College Museum. It was made in the McPherson College laboratory by Dr. J. Willard Hershey, a former Macollege chemistry professor.

Several meteorites have been sent to the museum by Dr. Harvey H. Nininger, a former professor of McPherson College. Dr. Nininger is considered the most outstanding authority on meteorites in the world.

The African display includes articles Dr. and Mrs. Bittinger brought back from Africa while the Chinese display includes pottery and art works Rev. Ernest Ikenberry brought back from China when he returned from serving as a missionary.

Coins from approximately 30 countries in the world are on display in the museum. A bear's paw clam shell from near the Philippine Islands weighing 300 pounds and valued at $450 is on display also.

Several articles in the museum were excavated from caves inhabited by men long before the birth of Christ. Indian relics such as pottery and arrowheads are on display also.

Of special interest to Biology students are several specimens of parts of the body. Skulls and skeletons of man and animals are available.

At present the visiting hours are 3 to 5 p.m. week days. Several tour guides are available at all times to explain and answer questions presented by visitors.

The museum is presently undergoing an extensive cleaning and rearranging financed partly by the federal government and college. New articles are constantly being added to the collection to expand the different areas.

Progress Key To McPherson History

By Gen. James B. McPherson As Told To Nancy Noyes
I've seen a college students come and go, but I wonder how much they ever learn about McPherson.

Now I've been sitting here in West Side Park about 45 years—I think it was about 1918 when I was put here, although my memory may be getting a little rusty—and I'm still finding out things about the town.

The area in the vicinity of McPherson had a long history even before the town was born. Coronado, the Kaw Indians, the Santa Fe Trail and the cow drives all played a major part in the development of this area.

When did the city of McPherson begin? May 28, 1872, to be exact. McPherson was named after me, you know. Unfortunately, I fell in battle just before the Union forces, under Gen. Tecumseh Sherman, entered Atlanta during the War Between the States, but my "boys" didn't forget me.

When they came West to take up land under the Homestead Act—that was the G.I. bill of the late 1860's—they came here and laid out this town and gave it my name.

Those pioneers saw shady streets, each planted with trees after which they named the streets—maple, ash, elm, oak, walnut, chestnut, cherry, hickory. So the intersecting streets they gave their own names of Hill, Seitz, Simpson, Hartup, to mention only a few.

Of course, as time went by, elm trees got mixed up with the maples and oaks, and most of the fruit trees died, and with later side streets added, new pioneer family names were adapted. But the early hopes and dreams of cultured, prosperous, attractive city are still coming true.

One park, on land set aside by the townsie company, has grown into many. There was a time when the West Side Park, where I stand, was the site for the All Schools Day Fete; today, I hear, it's been moved to Lakeside Park, which includes a swimming pool, picnic ovens, Boy Scout and Girl Scout houses, a band shell, and a lagoon which is good for fishing in summer and ice skating in winter. That's progress!

The first church was a room over the General Store located on the corner of Main and Kansas avenue. It was shared alternately by Baptists and Methodists; today, McPherson has more than 20 churches, and the building still goes on.

New residential sections are being built too. They stretch so far and wide that I can't see 'em all, even though I sit high above the street.

McPherson residents have always been strong for fine-public buildings and schools. It has its Carnegie library and its new Safety Center. As the county seat, it has a new jail and a historic old courthouse. Someday, when they raze the courthouse for a newer one, the builders will find a tin box under the cornerstone; in the box, on scraps of paper are the names of the school children who proudly took part in the dedication ceremonies in the 1800's.

McPherson is one of the two cities in the United States which has two Carnegie libraries. Macollege, which was founded in 1887 with 60 students and seven faculty members, has its own Carnegie library. This college, which now has over 700 students and nearly 60 faculty members, has contributed to the cultural standards of McPherson, and its lively students and its fine families have made the town a better, more interesting place to live.

Central College, a two-year college, has also contributed culturally through students and faculty.

McPherson has sure come a long way since I got here in 1918. Then it was a pleasant, agricultural town of about 4500 people. Today it's still a pleasant town, but it's topped the 10,000 population mark, and it's breaking out all over with new industries.

There's an enormous commercial welding industry, an airplane plant, a plastics factory, an insulation manufacturing plant, a "mobile" homes plant, home offices of one of the state's largest road-construction firms, and an oil refinery, just to mention a few. Agriculture, too, still plays an important part in McPherson's prosperity.

McPherson has had a recent face-lifting, too, thanks to its progressive merchants. Why all those new two-story store fronts, the brilliant street lighting, the beautiful newspaper building, and the widened street makes McPherson's Main Street one of the finest in the state of Kansas. People of McPherson haven't been interested in just their town. They've always supported the state in its industrial and physical development.

New Chem Lab Nears Finish

A truck load of oblong crates pulling in front of Harnly Monday, Nov. 4, signalled the arrival of new equipment for the remodeled chemistry laboratory.

The new equipment, supplied and installed by the Kewaunee Science Furniture, N. C., includes lab station units, a chemical shelf, and ventilation hoods to remove fumes from experiment areas.

In the tradition of its ex-soldier founders, McPherson men have also gone out to the battlefields of every war this nation has fought, for the principles of freedom for all. I stand here as a monument to those men who were willing to fight for certain inalienable rights they believed belonged to all Americans. The list is long-read it carefully on the monuments in this park, and you will see that every name is that of a McPherson man, city or county-bred.

Faculty Will Sponsor 'Western Feed' Nov. 13

Bulldogs Meet Sterling In Final Season Game

"Whenever you pile humanity 279 pounds high, you've just got to grit your teeth and contend with it."

In these words, Coach Sid Smith of McPherson describes the situation that the McPherson College Bulldogs will face when they entertain the Warriors of Sterling College, Friday evening, Nov. 12, at 7:30.

Jay, Renolet, and Dill, three of Sterling's interior linemen weigh a combined 780 pounds of hard-running beef.

With these three contradicting running attacks, most of the Warriors opponents have elected to pass on them.

And what passing? Ed Buzzell of Ottawa threw for eight touchdowns when Ottawa humiliated Sterling 82-0 to account for one of Sterling's five losses. Mike Niemann of Friends threw five paydirt aeriels in Friends' 60-19 conquest of the Warriors. Sterling's offense has center-around the passing game with Andy Spotts and Terry Woodbury sharing quarterbacking duties this year.

Prime targets for their passes include the two ends, Nystrom and Spotts, and Harris, one of the halfbacks.

The interior line is much smaller than the defensive side, but features more mobility and reaction.

Vandever and Cerette, both at 210 pounds, will open at the offensive tackle slots. Laurence and Necodemus man the guard positions with Mesner hubbing the offense from his center post.

The Warriors operate out of the I formation using the Pro-Set offense. They rely heavily on short flare passes and slants off tackle to gain heavy yardage.

Coach Smith feels McPherson's defense should contain the Warriors' assaults, but mentioned, "we feel they will probably score on us, however; they have scored on practically every team they have played."

Of the offensive plan for the game, Smith added: "Our offense last week showed what it can do. If we continue to execute properly, we have the personnel to score well on them."

Speaking of the game in general, Smith gave this conclusion: "It could be one whale of a ballgame. I'd hate to predict who the winning team will be, but I'm sure both teams will know they've played a real football game."

Worthing Snags TD Pass Gains 'Player Of Week'

Commenting with a smile that "the guys are always kidding me because I can't catch a pass," Tom Worthing, jr., Wamego, earned the Player of the Week award for the game with the Ottawa Braves, Oct. 31, by showing his teammates that he could.

Instrumental in both Mac college touchdowns, Tom not only caught one touchdown pass, but also threw a key block that left quarterback Buddy Taylor, jr., Thomas, Okla., free to make the other major scoring play.

Tom, a 160 lb., 6'2" left end, has been active in sports since grade school. Lettering in football three years in high school, he was captain of his team his senior year. He also ran cross country in high school.

Tom has been out for football and has lettered every fall since

Warner Places First In Meet

Lynn Warner of McPherson College turned in another outstanding performance for the Bulldog Cross-Country Team at a meet held last Friday, Nov. 5 at Southwestern College of Winfield.

Warner captured first place with a time of 15:24 over the three-mile course. His closest pursuer was Cauble of Southwestern with a time of 15:33 with Dial of Southwestern next in 15:42.

Southwestern won the meet with a composite total of 22 points to 33 for the Bulldogs. The Mountbuilders are the defending conference cross-country champions and will defend their title at the conference championships today held at Wichita.

Sportscope

By Gene Czaplinski

Take a look at the gymnasium right across from the football field—see that giant going in? He's a basketball player and in the honest-bouncing-ball sport, Kansas takes a backseat to no one. In fact, no state within memory has produced three finer basketball teams in the same year as Kansas has done this year.

Kansas is a runaway favorite for the Big-Eight championship with only one challenger even in distant sight — you guessed who—Kansas State.

Wichita, whose Shockers have been beating opponents into submission the past five years, are rated as one of the top three teams in the perennially treacherous Missouri Valley Conference.

That sets the stage for Sportscope's '65-'66 top ten team predictions which will appear in this column each week. We have devised a "power" rating to determine a team's improvement each week or its faltering.

We feel that the greatest college basketball team up to this year was the fabulous University of San Francisco team of 1956. Thus, we award this team our 100-point rating which will stand as the goal of all the top-ranked teams this season.

If we feel that a team deserves to be ranked 85.0 for example, then this means that a team ranked 95.0 is ten points better than the first team.

Thus, we bring forth our national preview of the top ten teams in basketball, noting that our neck feels a bit stringent on this chicken stump.

1. Minnesota 95.0
2. Kansas 94.9
3. San Francisco 94.5
4. St. Joseph 91.1
5. Iowa 91.0
6. U.C.L.A. 90.3
7. Providence 88.9
8. Vanderbilt 88.0
9. Louisville 86.8
10. Kansas State 86.2

This marks the last week of our football picks. We've received some fine compliments on our column and wish to thank everyone for reading this corner of the sports page.

So, to set the pigskin season aside, we finish with these selections:

Sterling at McPherson...
This is one of Sterling's "up" weeks and the Bulldogs don't seem to be able to handle that kind of personnel. We pick Sterling with tongue in cheek.

Baker at Ottawa...
Weellil, after careful consideration, we find the home field will be the advantage, together with Buzzell's arm, and Scheufler and Booth, and that big line, and...

Bethel at Bethany...
Ever eaten Swedish meatballs? Try a little Falcon with them for an extra treat. Better yet, go over to Bethany Saturday night and see how Bethel gets' cooked, yourself.

KWU at Friends...
Friends has improved with every heave of Mike Niemann's passing arm. KWU will find out what his arm can do, unfortunately.

Southwestern at C of E...
Good ballgame. Southwestern has lost some tough ballgames this year to some good teams. They make their farewell by making this toughie a push-over. Take Southwestern.

Aroused Bulldogs Whip Threshers 39-7

An aroused McPherson College football team, winless in their first seven starts, turned on the Bethel Threshers at Newton last Saturday, Nov. 7, and pounded out a well-deserved 39-7 victory.

It was the Threshers' Homecoming, but the Bulldogs brought their own little surprise to the event a staunch defense and an offense that capitalized on their opponents' mistakes.

The defense was again led by linebacker Roy Parsons, soph., McPherson, who hounded the Threshers' backfield all afternoon. On offense, junior letterman Tom Worthing, Wamego, played his finest game at the end position.

Three of Mac's scores were on passes, two were on running plays, one on an intercepted Thresher pass.

Buddy Taylor, sr., Thomas, Okla., accounted for four touchdowns during the affair, throwing 6 and 17 yard passes to Jim Steinle; a 75-yarder to Tom Worthing; and running in from four yards out.

The other two touchdowns were a seven yard return of an interception by Arthur Clark and a four yard run by Stanley Dell.

Basketball Starts

Head basketball coach Don Widrig has announced that the first regular practice session of the McPherson College basketball team will be held on Saturday, Nov. 13 in the college gym.

Night practices for many of the players have been going on this week, however, this will be the first regular session of practice for the entire squad, past football players included.

Praised by his Head Football Coach Sid Smith as a good, consistent worker, Tom is rarely known to miss a practice. A math major with plans of becoming a teacher and possibly a coach, he also finds time to devote to campus extracurriculars. Tom is treasurer of M Club and a member of SNEA.

Optimistic about the Bulldogs' last two games, Tom finds enjoyment and challenge in just being out on the field, win or lose. Remarking also that students don't often think the squad pays much attention to the stands, Tom said, "We've noticed the increased school spirit in the last two home games especially and it does help quite a bit."

Achievement, Growth And Education Highlight Past Presidents' History

3-M Company Gives Grant

With a pomp and pageantry that bespeak the significance of the office to which he comes, Dr. J. Jack Melhorn will be inaugurated this coming Sunday afternoon, Nov. 14, as the ninth president of McPherson College.

Before him stand the energies, the dreams, the achievements of ten other men, eight presidents and two acting presidents, who have led this institution.

From strangely written church and educational journals, from old "Spectators" crackly with age, and from the memories of those who knew them come the information concerning these men.

The titles, the institutions, and the organizations reflect varying ages. But each source gives indication that the common denominator of all the men has been education.

Solomon Zook Sharp, the founder and first president of McPherson, was born in Huntingdon County, Pa., in 1835. A minister and elder, Prof. Sharp taught German, Latin, pedagogy, and mental and moral science prior to his work at McPherson.

As president from the college's opening year, 1888, until 1896, he devoted much of his energy to the training of teachers.

The institution began under Solomon Sharp on Sept. 5, 1888, with sixty students, seven faculty members, and one building, the first Fahnstock Hall, which served as dormitory, classroom, library, chapel, and for recreation facilities.

Having given this institution a solid beginning, Prof. Sharp left McPherson to become president of Plattsburg College in Plattsburg, Mo.

A member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, S. Z. Sharp was a collector for the Smithsonian Institute and a geologist for the State of Kansas. He was the author of "New Testament Baptism" and "Educational History of the Church of the Brethren."

A man whose major interest was mathematics, Charles Edward Arnold served as president from 1896 until his death in 1902. A native of Mineral County, West Virginia, Charles Arnold was born in 1866.

A teacher at Bridgewater College, Va., his alma mater and a sister institution of McPherson, he came to McPherson to teach in 1893. His term in of-vice saw the completion of the first administration building, Sharp Hall, and the formal naming of the school McPherson College.

Charles Arnold was also the author of the book "Journeys of Jesus."

With the erection of the Carnegie Library marking a highlight in his term of office, Edward Frantz served the college as president from 1902 until 1910. Born in 1868, Edward Frantz came from New Carlisle, Ohio.

With a background of ministerial work and teaching in ancient languages, Bible literature, and mathematics, he joined the teaching staff of McPherson College in 1890.

Edward Frantz left McPherson to become president of another sister college, LaVerne College, Calif., and to later edit the Church of the Brethren periodical "The Gospel Messenger."

Acting President Samuel J. Miller served the college during 1910 and 1911. He was born in 1863 in LaGrange County, Ind.

A minister as well as a professor of English, modern languages, and science, S. J. Miller also went on to become a president of LaVerne College.

Composer of the school song "O Sacred Truth," John Addison Clement was the fourth president of McPherson College. His term of office, 1911 to 1913, saw the addition of a department of agriculture and a department of domestic science.

His birthplace was North Georgetown, Ohio; his date of birth was 1875.

A leader in the field of psychology and education, Jon Clement wrote "The Standardization of Kansas Schools." He left McPherson College to assume a teaching position at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Henry Jacob Harnly served as acting president of the college during 1913 and 1914. Born at Manheim, Pa., in 1862, he was associated with McPherson College both before and after his term in office as a teacher of physiology, bionomics, and geology.

He was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The administration of Daniel Webster Kurtz, 1914 to 1927, saw the completion of Arnold Hall and Harnly Hall, the accreditation of the college by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the lifting of all back debts.

The man under whom this was accomplished, a teacher of Latin, Hebrew, Greek, and philosophy and theology, was born in 1879 in Stark County, Ohio.

D. W. Kurtz was the author of several books including "An Outline of the Fundamentals of Faith." A well-known lecturer, he was the vice-president of the International Sunday School Association and president of the Kansas College Presidents Association.

A student and teacher of history and political science, Vernon Franklin Schwalm was president of McPherson College from 1927 until 1941. A native of Elkhart County, Ind., V. F. Schwalm was born in 1887.

He came to the college from a third sister institution, Manchester College, Ind., where he had taught and served as dean. In the years of his presidency the college became a member of the Association of American College and the Physical Education Building was added.

V. F. Schwalm left to assume the position of president at Manchester College.

Seventh president of McPherson College was Woodford W. Peters who served from 1941 until 1950. Coming from Virginia, he was born in 1889.

He came to McPherson after being president of a now non-existent Brethren college at Mount Morris, Ill., and after heading the Department of Education at Manchester College.

Frantz Industrial Arts Building and the present Fahnstock Hall were completed during his term in office.

A frequent lecturer and contributor to church literature, W. W. Peters was a member of the National Educational Association. He became Director of Relief and Rehabilitation with the Brethren Service Commission following his stay here.

Educator, clergyman, missionary, author, and research anthropologist, Desmond W. Bittinger served McPherson College as president from 1950 to 1965.

Prior to these years, he had been a missionary in Nigeria, editor of the "Gospel Messenger," and an instructor in sociology, Brown Auditorium, Moller, Dotzour, and Metzler Halls, and the Student Union became additions to the campus during his term.

A native of Egton, W. Va., born in 1905, D. W. Bittinger wrote, among many others, "Wu Feng, Companion of Headhunters." He left McPherson to assume a teaching position on the University of the Seven Seas.

The list will be complete only until Sunday afternoon. Time, achievements, and the march of men move on.

McPherson College received a $2,500 grant from the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company (3M) last spring.

This grant was only available to private institutions for the purpose of preparing teachers in the use of the Overhead Projector.

Mac received from this grant: two Overhead Projectors, a Copying Machine, and Transparencies Originals. This equipment will be used in demonstrating the advantages of the Overhead Projector to the students who are majoring in Education.

Dr. Dayton Rothrock, Professor of Education and Psychology, feels that with the large classes that a teacher must instruct, he needs something to project his teaching and that the Overhead Projector can do this well.

Dr. Rothrock concluded by saying, "McPherson College was very glad and fortunate to receive such a grant."

Fourteen from Maccollege To Testify At Pope Trial

Fourteen students, faculty members, administrators, and staff members have been subpoenaed from McPherson College to testify at the trial of Duane Pope in Lincoln, Neb.

Beginning with the selection of the jury on Nov. 1 the case for the prosecution followed. The trial has been proceeding faster than first anticipated because the defense has allowed most of the details of the actual crime, which they are not contesting.

Because the witnesses from McPherson were called by the defense they will not have to appear until the latter part of the trial.

Jamie Oxley, sr., Lamar, Colo., and Toby Brown, sr. Wichita, were called to testify today.

Besides Oxley and Brown, those subpoenaed to testify are: S. M. Dell, professor of industrial arts education; Robert E. Keim, assistant professor in sociology, associate in admissions; Dayton G. Rothrock, professor of education and psychology.

Elmer Ruhser, superintendent of buildings and grounds; Marguerite Westfall, housemother, Metzler Hall; Irven Stern, assistant professor of philosophy and religion, psychology; Sidney L. Smith, associate professor and director of athletics, head football coach.

Donald Widrig, associate professor in physical education, head track and basketball coach; Alvin E. Willems, associate professor in industrial arts and mechanics; Una Yoder, instructor in speech; Earl M. Frantz, director of capital giving; and Raymond L. Flory, vice-president, dean of student affairs, professor of history and political science.

A farm boy from Roxbury and a graduate of McPherson College, Duane Pope has been accused of robbing a Big Springs, Neb., bank and killing three bank employees. Pope graduated May 31, 1965, from McPherson College. Five days later, June 4, something happened. "It's something we don't want to talk about," were the many explanations.
