

Norman Luboff Choir will appear in Brown Auditorium Sunday at 3 p.m.

Luboff Choir Stages Concert Here Sunday

Norman Luboff and the Norman Luboff Choir will be on campus Jan. 30 at 3 p.m. to present the third program of the McPherson College Cultural Series in Brown Auditorium.

The popularity of the conductor-arranger and his group was achieved primarily through recordings on both the R.C.A. Victor and Columbia labels. Nearly every home boasting a phonograph also contains at least one of his nearly 30 best-selling albums.

After gaining popularity, it was not until the fall of 1963 that Luboff was able to take time from his recording activities and his work as an arranger and composer to embark on his first "in person" tour.

The touring Norman Luboff Choir consists of 30 professional singers and is accompanied by 4 instrumentalists. Selections range from the cantatas of Bach to the hit tunes of "Broadway. Except for the classical selections, Luboff has arranged most of the material himself.

Mr. Luboff's career began when he became a "pops" singer. Regularly appearing on Chicago radio stations, in local theatres and on recordings, he gained popularity not only as a singer er but as a composer. Married in 1944 to the former Betty Mullinger, a singer, Luboff now features his wife as lead soloist in the touring choir.

They became acquainted after his arrival in New York, when they found themselves booked on many of the same radio shows.

By 1945 Luboff's arrangements — from the Hit Parade, the Fred Allen, and Milton Berle shows, the Chorus of Stars, and others — had become so great that he gave up singing entirely. Working in Hollywood the next seven years, he composed and arranged music for more than 80 moving pictures, including "Giant" and "Search for Paradise."

Luboff arrangements have been heard on several television shows, including the Telephone Hour and the Dinah Shore Show, and others have been created for Doris Day, Rosemary Clooney and Harry Belafonte. He wrote his first show, entitled "Highland Fling," a fantasy about Robert Burns.

The Luboff family made their home in London for five years but are currently in the United States while the choir is on tour. Norman Luboff's tours will take him annually to nearly every state in the Union, and many of the Provinces of Canada.

Adult tickets will sell at $3.00, with admission for children under 12, $2.00. A limited amount of tickets will be available at the door. There will be no reserved seats.

Music Faculty Present

Jones' Clarinet Recital

The McPherson College Department of Music will present Robert Jones, assistant professor of music, and clarinetist, in a faculty recital tonight at 8 p.m. in Brown Auditorium.

Professor Jones received his

B.S. from Arizona State College at Flagstaff. During his senior year he was one of five nominees for the Student National Education Association Outstanding Student Teacher Award.

He received a Master of Music degree in 1963 from the University of Wichita, with a major in clarinet. He was a graduate teaching assistant in woodwinds.

In the program tonight Prof. Jones will be assisted by Robert Edwards, assistant professor of piano and organ, pianist, and his wife Mrs. Stephanie Jones, oboist.

His program will include an early classical, "Concerto for Clarinet," by Franz Rössler, and from the same period, "Trio in A Minor," by C.P.E. Bach, for clarinet, oboe, and piano.

The romantic period will be represented by the "Fantasy Pieces" of Robert Schumann. The remainder of the recital will include the "Premiere Rhapsodie," by the French impressionist, Claude Debussy, and Stravinsky's "Three Pieces for Unaccompanied Clarinet."

The recital is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Trustee Committee Holds Meeting

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees for McPherson College met on campus last Saturday, Jan. 22, and was briefed during morning and afternoon sessions concerning the development program and related topics.

They also tentatively approved the general floor plans for the new men's residence hall and did some long range planning in preparation for the March meeting of the entire Board of Trustees.

Officials Hear Eastern Talks

Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president, and Dr. Merlin L. Frantz, dean of academic affairs and professor of education and sociology, spent Jan. 8-13 in the East attending various committee meetings and the 52nd annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

The pair was in Stratford, Pa., at the Hotel Bellevue with other members of the AAC from Jan. 11-12 for a series of meetings and speeches.

In speaking to the AAC of the tendency toward specialization, John Brademas, U.S. congressman from Indiana urged, "Today's problems require the insight and participation of generalists as well as specialists. The specialist too often retreats from the intellectual and ethical ambiguities of leadership.

"College must help to produce men who see the larger issues in technical questions and who accept the ambiguities and tensions of responsible leadership. Liberal education, whatever its formal structure must help men to achieve a realistic view of public leadership, one which balances detached judgment and commitment."

In commenting on the liberal arts college's relationship to its society and culture Dr. Martin E. Marty, associate editor of "Christian Century," said to the AAC representatives:

"Those of us who defend the college, or who at least see prospect in it, ordinarily do so not only because on campus some know how to blow things up, or to make better pills, but also and especially because some have formed communities where the nature and destiny of man, alone and in world society, are subjects of scrutiny and concern."

On Jan. 8, 300 alumni of Brethren colleges in the Washington D. C. area were addressed by Dr. Ward Stewart at a dinner meeting.

At the University of Maryland the Committee of Higher Education, composed of the presidents of the 6 Brethren colleges and Bethany Theological Seminary, met Jan. 9 with Dr. S. Loren Bowman, chairman of the Commission on Higher Education of the General Brotherhood Board, Elgin, Ill.

The committee formulated plans for cooperative approaches to educationally disadvantaged youth, discussed church-college relations, and compared enrollment and development plans of each individual school.

"In evaluating our program on the basis of projection for the future, McPherson compares very favorably with any of the other schools," commented Dr. Melhorn.

Monday afternoon, Jan. 10, Dr. Melhorn and Dr. Frantz attended the Protestant Council of Universities and Colleges to analyze with other representatives the Danforth study, which suggests future direction of Christian colleges.

While in Philadelphia Dr. Frantz and Dr. Melhorn visited Independence Hall, Carpenters Hall, Christ Church and other historical sites. On the return trip to McPherson they stopped in the Chicago area for a second alumni meeting.

Marriage Class Shows Definite Drawing Power

The subject of marriage is very popular on the McPherson College Campus if sociology course no. 75 under Mr. Robert Keim, assistant professor of sociology is any indication.

The course is Marriage, and with 135 students enrolled, it could well be one of the most popular courses offered second semester.

Prof. Keim has divided the large group of students into two sections to accommodate all those who wanted to take the class. A 9:35 M.W.T.H. class now has 70 students enrolled, while the second smaller class meets at 12:20 with 45 students enrolled. When asked why there seem-

Trio to Scan For NCAA

Educators representing the North Central Accreditation Association will visit the McPherson College campus in April to review its total educational program and facilities.

Prior to the 3-man team's arrival an institutional profile prepared jointly by administration, faculty, and possibly certain student body members will be sent to NCAA headquarters.

The trio will review and evaluate Macollege's dormitories, classroom and laboratory facilities, administration, committees, library selections, finances, efforts to stimulate academic growth, and future development plans.

"The team's purpose is to insure the standards of the NCAA are being maintained in McPherson College, which is a member of the association.

A voluntary nongovernmental association, the NCAA is made up of colleges and universities in 19 states covering the north-middle west region of the United States.

A school becomes a NCAA member by meeting its accreditation standards. Macollege has been a member of the association intermittently for a number of years, and continuously since 1939.

Marriage Class Shows Definite Drawing Power

ed to be so much enthusiasm over his course, Prof. Keim replied, "Maybe it's a popular subject for people this age."

"I think there's a sincere attempt on the part of people in college to make a success of their marriage, and those taking this course are real serious about this . . . this seems to be their chief reason for taking the course."

Prof. Keim went on to explain how the course in Marriage will help students interested in a successful search for a mate by exploring some of the problems peculiar to premarital dating and engagement. Some of the problem areas

Mr. Robert Jones, assistant professor in Music and Mr. Robert L. Edwards, assistant professor of piano and organ rehearse for tonight's faculty recital which will feature Prof. Jones on Clarinet.

New Students Enroll

Approximately 50 new students have registered for second semester, bringing the total enrollment of 729, including special students.

Seventeen of the 49 new students are Kansas residents; the Eastern Seaboard states of New York and New Jersey are represented with 10 and 6 students respectively.

Transferees comprise the bulk of the new students, with 36, while 16 are freshmen.

viewed in this field are companionship and dating during early stages, engagement periods, pre-marital sex, in-law problems, and adequate finances for marriage.

"Most of the problems a couple might face before marriage are dealt with in the course," commented Prof. Keim.

Ten Receive January Degree

Editorial Page Is Gauge

The best gauge of the true value of a newspaper can be seen in a newspaper's editorial page, where the discerning reader will look for the policy of the paper, comments on the news content in the paper, and the opinions that are expressed, reflecting both the type of reader and the quality of the staff.

Of course, the general quality and makeup of the paper is reflected on every page, and the reader must view the entire paper when judging its value as a medium for reporting the news.

But the final analysis of any paper can be made only when the editorial page is followed and analyzed.

The editorial page is the mouthpiece of the paper for both the editor, the staff, and the reader. It is here that the reader can voice opinions about the news, the paper and its staff, or any subject that he feels is noteworthy.

The editor, like the reader, must voice opinions on the editorial page, but unlike the reader, it is the editor's duty to clarify at all times the paper's position on any subject that is of interest to its reading public. This is based on the newspaper's policy.

Interpretation is also part of the editorial page makeup, as the editor or staff can take straight factual news from the other pages of the paper and analyze and comment on it in a way that they feel will help readers understand more fully the issues involved in or behind the news.

It has been the policy of the "Spectator" during the past semester to bring to the readers all of the news of interest on the McPherson campus, with all the accuracy and speed possible.

Second semester will see no change in the "Spectator" policy on reporting all the news, but there will be a new, sincere effort to interpret the news in a way that will guide the reader to a point where he will be able to draw conclusions and form opinions based on the facts found in the news.

This interpretation will come through more use of editorials, with one appearing each week on some aspect of life that deals with a problem of interest for the readers of the "Spectator."

More space will be given to feature stories and reports that comment on ideas, as well as people, around the campus, and there will be a constant effort to have the editorial page reflect the true interest of the "Spectator" reading public.

To truly show the opinions and interest of the reading public, a newspaper must have communication with the public through letters to the editor.

In this sense the "Spectator" will depend on its entire reading public: the students, faculty and administration at the college, or the alumni, parents or friends, anywhere, who read this paper, for letters that will show that the "Spectator" is genuinely fulfilling its role as the main source of accurate, responsible communications at McPherson College.

We Get Letters

MCY Support Pope In Letter to Attorneys

Editor's Note: This is a copy of a letter sent by the MCY to the attorneys for the defense in the Duane Pope case. It is published here to show the interest of this group reflecting an interest of many students on this campus in Duane and his attorney's bid for appeal of the Federal Court's decision.

Dear Mr. Crosby and Professor Rudolf:

In a recent meeting of the McPherson College YMCA-YWCA (MCY) it was decided to write you a letter expressing appreciation to you for your part in defending Duane Pope in the trial that ended last month in Lincoln, Neb.

We realize that you did not have an easy task to perform. We were impressed, however, by your dedication to do your best in trying to demonstrate to the court that the Duane Pope at Big Springs, Neb., and the Duane Pope who attended McPherson College were not the same person in a psychological sense.

We have a deep concern for Duane's personal welfare. This is not in any sense due to the fact that we condone the terrible act which he has admittedly done. Rather our concern grows out of the belief: (a) that Duane was not in control of his mental faculties when he committed the theft and killings; (b) that much progress is being made in the treatment of mental illness and, thus, there is hope for Duane's recovery; (c) and that capital punishment is morally wrong and should be discontinued in all the states of our nation.

As you appeal the Federal Court's decision regarding Duane Pope, we as a student organization at McPherson College want you to know that you have our support and interest.

Many students and faculty have asked if there is any particular way that they can be helpful in supporting an appeal of the court's decision. If you have any suggestions we will be glad to share them with the college community.

Sincerely yours,
Miss Janet Livengood

Bitters Ask For Letters From Students

Dr. and Mrs. Desmond Bittering, the former president of McPherson College and his wife, are currently serving on the faculty of the University of the Seven Seas. Because of their travel experience on the ship, they have been asked to continue for the second semester cruise, beginning early in February.

From Feb. 4 to Feb. 8, the Bittersings will be in California, before beginning their second semester cruise. In a letter the Bittersings wrote to Dr. Merlin Franz, dean of academic affairs, they sent greetings to all McPherson College students. They said they would also appreciate receiving correspondence from any students. The Bittersings may be reached by writing to Chapman College, 333 North Glassell Street, Orange, California.

Human Soul Needs Freedom to Speak

By Jerry Lasater

Why should we insist so persistently on fitting human nature into one arbitrary mold for the sake of conventional consistency?

Why shouldn't we have recourse to different forms of religion and different systems of education, different universes of appreciation, according to the varying moods and needs of the soul?

Why cannot institutions, which are our creations, be made to serve us instead of our being enslaved by them?

The person who first comes to mind is Plato, whose poetic sanity has troubled his stupid and stereotyped analyzers. Plato was using different poetic moods as he felt them. Few people can say their souls are this way.

Why shouldn't every sincere man express life in a philosophy that seems reasonable to him at the time, that fits his experience now?

In art and poetry as with music, conventional limitations have made it less difficult for men to be sincere with themselves. We do not demand rigid consistency here.

We hate mere repetition. We look for a different mood of the soul in every new work of the artist. Here human nature has been able to find a more genuine expression for its complex tendencies, and those who enjoy the art find a variety for their differing inner attitudes.

Each mood has a different need. In one mood when we want lyric sweetness or dreary romance, Shelley and Keats will do. In other moods people crave for the searching of tragedy, for something appealing to the deeper self within them.

The greatest poem or story is that which expresses the soul most perfectly at the time. Let's not frown on someone who reads useless material, for this may be what his soul craves. And that soul is the most important thing in the world.

Capitol Hill Tour Creates Study Beyond Classroom

In the latter part of April, the American Politics class will expand its program beyond the classroom level for a unique learning experience, a trip to Washington D. C. and New York. A second semester, upper-level class, American Politics is offered on alternate years, and this trip is customarily included.

A two or three hour course depending upon whether a student wishes to include the trip, American Politics is taught by Dr. Raymond Flory, dean of student affairs and professor of history and political science.

The purpose of the course is to study the American political scene with special focus on public opinion and pressure groups.

While spending a week on Capitol Hill, the group will seek to observe not only Congressional sessions and committee meetings, but also the offices of pressure groups such as labor organizations.

The trip will consume approximately nine days and the group of thirty-five will go by chartered bus.

While stressing that the trip to Washington D. C. and New York is not the central angle of the course, Dr. Flory commented that this does comprise valid laboratory experience for a social science class.

Men Petition Purchasing Weight Training Machine

Editor's Note - Fifty men signed a petition requesting action on purchasing a weight training machine to augment the equipment of the athletic department. The following letter explains the feasibility of such a purchase.

Dear Editor:
For the past few months the talk of a weight training machine has been heard around the campus. This machine would eliminate the need for weights (which get stolen), and more than one person could use it at the same time.

The cost of the machine would be less than the cost of buying weights and having a babysitter at the gym to make sure disreputable persons do not pilfer the weights. It would also be more practical than buying the accessories needed to supplement the weights such as racks, benches, pulleys, etc.

Because our school participates in an athletic program, I feel this machine would be beneficial to athletes who would want to train for sports, and students who are interested in being physically fit and in building their bodies.

I would like to close this letter with a saying: "The future belongs to the physically fit," as seen on TV, heard on radio, read in papers and magazines. Let's let McPherson College do its part.

Compendium Wilson Exudes 'Originality-Plus'

By Jerry Lasater
The Nancy Wilson Show Capitol KAO 2136

If anyone has followed Miss Wilson's progress: from small time jazz singer to night club singer by records, this album will be a true revelation.

It is a recording of her performance at the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles. Miss Wilson presents the full body of her show instead of the unadorned songs of her early recordings.

Miss Wilson is very much herself with a style distinctly Wilson. She overplays occasionally, but this is a minor distraction compared to the rest of the program.

"Mom Always Liked You Best," by the Smothers Brothers, serves up a gaudy mixture of slapstick and sentiment, standup comedy, and romantic song. It is an oddly assorted set, some of it well seasoned and smooth, while parts are lumpy and ordinary.

Based on the fact Mom liked Tommy Smothers better than Dickie, the routine allows Dickie to indulge in his impressive projection of a small boy's shrill irritation.

This in and out bit of humor might have come off better if the audience laughter had not been so oppressive. In between Dickie's comedy turns, Tommy sings pleasantly enough.

On the whole these promising ingredients would probably have been even more effective with a bit more editorial discretion. Be that as it may.

KWU Invades Mac Territory

By Jamie Oxley
 Kansas Wesleyan invades the McPherson Roundhouse tomorrow night in what should prove to be an interesting rematch. The Coyotes humiliated the Bulldogs early in the season at Salina by the score of 84-57.

Adding to the Bulldogs' incentive for a victory is the fact that the Coyotes also took all three encounters between the two teams last year, by the scores of 82-79, 94-92, and 88-69.

Another factor in this contest is that it is being played on the McPherson home court, where the Bulldogs have whipped their last two highly rated foes, the Ottawa Braves and the Bethany Swedes.

Last Saturday night, Jan. 22, Tabor College proved that Kansas Wesleyan can be beaten by a team they had previously trounced. Tabor beat the Coyotes in Salina 93-85 after losing two earlier games 68-55 and 89-77.

At the moment Kansas Wesleyan is in second place in the conference with seven wins and three losses. Overall they have a record of ten wins and five losses. This compares to the Bulldogs 4-5 record in the conference and 6-8 record overall.

In their most recent conference game the Coyotes steamrolled Southwestern 121-94. However, in that game the Coyotes were called for 39 fouls.

Leading the Coyote attack is 5 ft. 10 in. guard LaVerie Martin. Six ft. 5 in. Paul Peters is an outstanding rebounder, besides a high scorer. Other Coyote players are Jack Stroller, Marion Ogden, and Ron Magathorn.

On paper the Coyotes would appear to have a decided edge over the Bulldogs; however, when all factors in this game are assessed, it should prove to be a tight game with breaks determining the winner.

Sportscope

By Gene Czaplinski
 Watching a professional basketball game on TV Sunday afternoon is a very enjoyable experience for this basketball buff, but the average basketball fan gets little enjoyment out of it.

Why? "All they do is run and shoot. There is no defense at all," seems to be a typical answer. The average fan places pro-ball in the class of a pancake race. Are they right?

A friend of mine moved to Los Angeles about a year ago. He was extremely critical of "horseshoe" basketball whenever the subject came up.

When I saw him at Christmas time, the third thing he said to me was, "The Lakers really went to town against the Hawks last night, didn't they?" He was a full-fledged Los Angeles Laker fan with all the trimmings.

"Seeing it in person makes all the difference," he said. "You see the tremendous effort each player makes, both offensively and defensively and you cannot help but be impressed. It is really a man's game."

The pros do play defense. In fact they play the best defense in the world. But the reason the teams score so many points is that these men are so tremendous offensively, they are impossible to defend against.

Not only are they fantastic shooters, but they possess catlike moves and are all fine

Bulldogs Nose Bethany 75-71

McPherson gained revenge for an early season loss Sat., Jan. 15, with a 75-71 victory over the Bethany College Swedes. The Swedes had romped over the Bulldogs in the Moundridge Tournament by the score of 84-70 in the first game of the season for both teams.

Dick Welch, sr., Delphi, Ind., provided early incentive for the Bulldogs' hitting, with the first three baskets early in the game, while George Czaplinski, sr., McPherson, kept the team ahead of the Swedes throughout the game with his 23 points.

Czaplinski led the Bulldog scorers, followed by John Smith, soph., Independence, Calif., with 15, Tom Worthing, jr., Wamego, with 13, and Welch with 12. Harvey Daniels of Bethany led all scorers with 29 points.

jumpers. An average college player could probably stop an average pro—if he had a crow bar in his arsenal.

People seem to think that abolition of the 24-second clock would help immeasurably in making the game "more strategic." However, a recent survey proved that a college team usually shoots within 15 seconds after it retains possession of the ball. So removing the 24-second clock would change the game very little.

The next time you watch the pros on TV, watch the defense. Notice how few times any player is wide-open for a shot. Notice the almost unbelievable ball-handling of the pros.

Notice these things, and if you really enjoy seeing great basketball played, you may enjoy watching the pros in action more often.

Mac Institutes Work-Study Plan

This year McPherson College has instituted a Work-Study Program which offers an opportunity for a college education to students who might otherwise be unable to attend.

Financed by the federal government, with matching funds from the college, the plan enables the student to work his way through college.

Several participants in the Work-Study Program now assist in the operation of the McPherson College museum working as hostesses and guides; they are also responsible for its maintenance. The Work-Study Program will be expanded in future years at MacCollege.

Falcons Grab 82-69 Win After Fast 1st Half Fray

Friends University scored 14 points to McPherson's 2 in the first 5 minutes of the second half, opening an unsurmountable lead to cop an 82-69 conference victory over the Bulldogs at Wichita, Sat., Jan. 22.

The first half was a close battle all the way, with the lead changing hands eight times and the score tied three times. The Falcons finally salvaged a 37-34 lead at the half-time buzzer.

After the Falcons' initial thrust in the second half, resulting in a 51-36 lead, the Bulldogs never drew nearer than seven points.

Keith Rucas, Friends' 5 ft. 8 in. backcourt ace, hit 13 of 19 shots from the field to lead all scorers with 28 points.

This game left both teams with conference records of four wins and five losses. John Smith, soph., Independence, Calif., tallied 21 points to lead the Bulldogs' offensive. Tom Worthing, jr., Wamego, followed with 12 points, Don Woodcock, soph., Washington, hit for 10, and George Czaplinski, sr., McPherson had 9.

Behind Rucas' 28 points for the Falcons were Whitcomb with 20 and Lovely with 19.

Bowling

A play-off resulted in the MacCollege intramural bowling league, following the final week of action on Jan. 11.

After those matches, which were placement matches with the number one team playing the number two team and on down the line, the final standings were set, except for a first place tie between the Sad Sacks and Sugar Bears.

The Sad Sacks took two games and lost one in their match to give each team 18½ wins and 8½ losses. In the play-off, held Jan. 14, the Sad Sacks won the first two games to wrap up the title.

The final standings were:

Team	W	L
Sad Sacks	18½	8½
Sugar Bears	18½	8½
Four Freshmen	18	9
Odd Balls	16	11
Townies	15½	11½
Lucky Strikes	15	12
Splinters	13½	13½
Pin Ups	10	17
McPhersonettes	10	17

Individual Tom Crago, soph., LaVerne, Calif., had the high game of 195, followed by Jim Guenther, fr., Piqua, Ohio, with 193 and Ed Myers, jr., Dixon, Ill., with 190. Stanley Borowski, fr., Newark, Del., hit the high series of 521, while Pete Kaiser, jr., Kenosha, Wis., had 509 and Ed Myers 505.

The Four Freshmen recorded the high team series with 1832 pins, and they had the second high team game of 639. The Townies had the high team game with 647 and the second high team series with 1744.

Dance Follows Game

The Social Committee is sponsoring a free dance tomorrow night.

Following the Kansas Wesleyan, McPherson College basketball game at the Roundhouse, the dance will be held in the Student Union.

King Midas and the Mufters have been contracted by the Social Committee to play for this dance.

Model Rooms Of New Dorm Under Study

With plans to review actual-size interior models of rooms for the projected new men's dormitory, Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president, Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of academic affairs, and R. Gordon Yoder, business manager and treasurer are leaving this afternoon for Houston, Tex.

The O'Meara - Chandler Corporation, an architect-builder firm, has the rooms on display at their plant in Houston. The rooms follow the projected floor plans for the new dorm, complete with woodwork, carpeting, paint and tile.

The proposed floor plans are designed in a suite complex with two rooms built around the adjoining toilet facilities.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees tentatively approved the general floor plans of the dormitory at their last business meeting.

Construction has been slated to begin on the dormitory sometime in February.

Dr. Melhorn, Dr. Frantz and Mr. Yoder plan to fly back to McPherson Friday evening, Jan. 28, following their inspection tour.

Frantz Hints Latin American Study Possible

Dr. Merlin O. Frantz, dean of academic affairs and professor of education and psychology, reports a strong possibility of academic study abroad at a Latin American university in 1966-67 for interested Macollege students.

The Committee on Brethren Colleges Abroad, composed of the deans of the 6 Brethren schools, was informed of the new opportunity for Latin American study when they met at the University of Maryland on January 9.

At that time a representative of the Council of Mennonite Colleges stated the present arranging of a program for study abroad with two Latin-American universities for the 1966-67 academic year which would be open to any interested students in the 6 Brethren schools.

Students who desire more information concerning this new development should contact Dr. Frantz or write directly to Henry Weaver, Jr., Secretary for International Education Services, Goshen College, Goshen, Ind., 46526.

The songs are backed up by a combination of banjos, six and twelve string guitars and a fine voice ensemble.
