Planned Library Gets $326,000 Grant

The federal government has granted McPherson College $326,013 to apply to construction costs of a new library. The grant was approved by the Office of Education in Washington, D. C., and was made possible under Title One of the Higher Education Facilities Act. McPherson College has also applied for a federal loan to help finance the new facility which will cost approximately $1 million.

During the past two years, members of the Library Building Committee have made intensive studies of educational needs in a library resource center.

They have attempted to anticipate as accurately as possible the needs in this area at McPherson for the next 20-30 years.

As much flexibility as possible has been sought in the design of the building to accommodate future technical and mechanical changes in the field.

Dr. Edmon Low, head librarian at Oklahoma State Univ., has served as consultant during the planning. Architect for the project will be Robert Husmann of Houston.

Library Committee members are Dr. Dayton Rothrock, professor of education and psychology, chairman; Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College; Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of academic affairs; Miss Virginia

Harris, librarian; Dr. G. J. Ikenberry, professor of biology; and Leland Lengel, assistant professor of history and political science.

Melhorn, Miller Return From NEA Conference

"Leadership and Change" was the theme of the March 5-8 National Education Association conference which Dr. J. Jack Melhorn, president of the College, and Dr. Wayne Miller, director of religious life, attended.

"It was a fine conference," said Dr. Miller. "It seemed to me that there was a wide open attitude among the people present to search for new ways of doing things - new approaches to problems."

"Considerable revolution among students portrays their dissatisfaction. It forces questions to be asked and it demands answers."

"There is a strong feeling that higher education is going to have to make some rather intense adjustments in the near future."

Some of the questions raised at the conference were: "Must education come in two or three hour courses?" "Should there be a teacher in each classroom?" and "What is the relationship between teaching of conceptual material and factual material?" "Intense research is extremely important in finding answers to the questions," stated Dr.

Children's Theater Set for April 7

A children's theater production, "Regina the Iroquois Captive," will be featured Friday, April 7, at 4 p.m., in Brown Auditorium.

A professional troupe of the National Children's Theater of Dallas will stage the tale of a young Pennsylvania girl kidnapped by Iroquois Indians during the French and Indian War.

The main thrust for church-related colleges, according to speakers in a special church-related colleges workshop, rests in an emphasis on re-defining what it means to be both "church-related" and "liberal arts."

Speakers indicated that each college must answer this question for itself.

They suggested that those who do not have clearly defined goals are the ones who may disappear in the future.

Kansas Conference talent auditions have been postponed until Monday, April 10. Two acts will be chosen to represent McPherson College in the semi-final contest.

Mitchell Trio to Give Concert on April 1

The Mitchell Trio will present a concert April 1 in Brown Auditorium.

The trio is widely known for its high level of musicianship, its youth and vitality, and its honesty and taste.

The group carries on the old tradition of folk music and at the same time is a part of the new tradition.

They interpret the spirit of yesterday and reflect their own times.

Some of the things they have sung about are the John Birch Society, Barry Goldwater, the Ku Klux Klan, Elizabeth Taylor and Nazism in Germany.

The Mitchell Trio originated at Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash., in 1959. Their first professional performance was at New York's Blue Angel supper club.

They became immediately accepted and were soon a headline attraction across the country. Some of their outstanding engagements have been at New York's Basin Street East, Chicago's Edgewater Beach Hotel, Washington, D. C.'s The Cellar Door, Carnegie Hall, Town Hall, and the Chicago Opera House.

The Mitchell Trio has also appeared on such television programs as the Bell Telephone Hour, Ed Sullivan, the Tonight Show, the Mike Douglas Show, the Steve Allen Show and Hullabaloo.

They have recorded ten albums to date and are already planning their next. Their latest record is "Violets of Dawn."

Besides McPherson College, the group has given concerts at such schools as Cornell University, the University of Illinois, Stanford University, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Wisconsin and the U. S. Air Force Academy.

They also had a 15 week tour of Latin America under the auspices of the President's special International Program for Cultural Presentation, which is a project of the U. S. State Department.

The members of the Mitchell Trio are Joe Frazier, Mike Kobluck, and John Denver. The fourth member of the group is Milt Okun. He is the musical director, song-finder, editor, and record producer for the group.

Tickets are now on sale in the Student Union. Students will also be solicited in their dorms. Prices are $4, $3, and $2. All seats will be reserved.

Letters Edited For Clarity

"The Spectator" welcomes letters. Although we believe a signed letter makes a greater impression upon the reader, we publish both signed letters and those with signatures withheld.

All letters are edited for clarity, to make them conform to "Spectator" style and to adjust to space limitations. In editing, every effort is exercised to retain the writer's intent and thought.

Occasionally, a letter, too lengthy to print and whose meaning is not quite clear to the editors, appears. If the letter is signed, an editor calls the writer and makes the necessary changes.

If the letter is unsigned, it is held, for it cannot be printed until we can be sure that cutting has not altered the writer's intent.

So, if your letter does not appear, call us. Perhaps we need an explanation.

'Responsibility' Carries Big Emotional Impact

Editor:
In the last issue of the Spectator, the article on Dr. Viktor Frankl's lecture concluded in this manner: "The significant need today... is not for greater freedom but for a greater sense of responsibility."
"Man truly becomes man and his life achieves meaning when he fully accepts the responsibility of being man."

The noun "responsibility" and its corresponding adjective, "Responsible," carry with them an immense emotional impact.

They are what could be called positive expressions, and that to which they supposedly refer is deemed as "good," a response which is generally not questioned due to the very connotation of the words.

My questions at this point are: What is "responsibility"? What is a "responsible" man? We speak of responsibility as if it were some innate and demanding segment of the universe, requiring that every man be true to its essence in order to be considered a worthwhile man.

But what is its essence? Is responsibility some perfect thing which imposes its will upon man with an unmerciful iron hand?

Is man's life meaningful only in terms of this vague ideal? What is "the responsibility of being a man"?

"Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary" (1963), contributes the following as manners in which the term "responsibility" has been generally used in the recent past: "reliability, trustworthiness, being able to answer for one's conduct and obligations."

Although again suggesting some inherent and self-fulfilling goodness, none of these ideas can be absolute in nature, even if pursued to the utmost. All depend upon normative comparison.

To what, then, must man be responsible in order to justify his existence and thereby "become man"? Is not the very life of a man and his personal struggle for physical and mental endurance based upon individual world-and-value conceptions enough?

Play Gets Laughs

By NORMA TUCKER
Vivacity and rapid pace underscored last week's production of "Come Blow Your Horn," which delighted audiences for four evenings in Brown Auditorium.

The set, of blue and white, was the most attractive in-the-round set yet seen in Brown Auditorium, rivaling the "Sabrina Fair" and "Love in a Public Pool" proscenium sets. Technical aspects of the play were carried out with precision and competence.

But the play was really "made" by the excellent acting of each member of the cast. Merv Penner, jr, McPherson, and Marlin Hoover, soph, Denver, gave hilarious performances, keeping the audience roaring with laughter.

Linda Kurtz, sr, McLouth, and Clark Ratliffe, soph, Park Ridge, Ill., as the romantic leads, were enchanting, while "wide-eyed" and "prim" were personified by Marilyn Smith, soph, Cedaredge, Colo., and Floralyn Flory, soph, McPherson, in supporting roles.

But the bouquet for the show goes to Peggy Slater, soph, Denver, for her outstanding telephone-answering scene. Alone on stage, she kept the audience in her power throughout this portion of the play.

"Come Blow Your Horn," the final production before the leave planned by Loren D. Reyher, assistant professor in English and theater, certainly fulfilled the theater's old adage: "Always leave them laughing."

Augustana Choir Receives Praise For Good Blend

By SUSAN SELL
The performance of the 70 voice Augustana Choir in Brown Auditorium, Sunday, March 12, was well executed and showed why they have received a reputation as an "elite" choir.

Under the direction of Donald E. Morrison, the choir showed skillful leadership as they gave meaningful interpretations to French, Latin, German and English songs.

A folk song "Gute Nacht," sung in German by the Wennerberg Choir displayed the excellent blend that was evident throughout the program.

This third program of the 1966-67 McPherson College Cultural Series was one of ten appearances the Choir will make in their tour of five states.

Prof Attends AATG Meeting

Dr. Jan van Asselt, associate professor of German and linguistics, attended the March 11 meeting of the Kansas chapter of the American Association of Teachers of German on the Hutchinson Community College campus.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Dr. George von Ihering, professor at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. Dr. von Ihering lectured at McPherson College on March 9.

The afternoon session of the conference included a panel entitled "Preparing German Teachers" by two instructors from the University of Kansas, one instructor from H.C.C. and a representative of Shawnee Mission High School.

This was the third annual state-wide meeting of the association. Hosts in previous years have been K.U. and Wichita State University.

Problem: Facing Emptiness

By LINDA KURTZ
"Coming to grips with the feelings of emptiness, futility and loss which shakes modern man's existence is the fundamental problem for man today," said Dr. Viktor Frankl in a March 1 lecture on "Youth in Search for Meaning."

President of the Austrian Medical Society, author of "Man's Search for Meaning" and leading proponent of the school of logotherapy, Dr.

Frankl described his method for combatting what he called "existential vacuum" or "mass neurosis."

In a line of thought diametrically opposed to Freudian and neo-Freudian positions, Dr. Frankl said, "Too often people try to alibi existential despair by talking it away — by interpreting it as castration fears or defense mechanisms."

Finding meaning in life depends, according to Dr. Frankl, upon questioning — "a true proof of truly human existence" — and on education.

Doubting and questioning tempered with patience is the first step in finding individual meaning. "Courage should be matched with patience," he emphasized. "It's all right to boldly question, but one must wait for meaning to dawn on him."

In the second step, education, the principal goal is to discover what Dr. Frankl termed "conscience, the capacity of man to sniff out unique meanings in a given situation."

Conscience involves self-detachment and self-transcendence, said Dr. Frankl — a going beyond oneself to look for answers. It involves understanding that man is above psychological and biological determinism, which reduce man to "nothing but reaction formations and defense mechanisms," he said, in another refutation of Freudian theory.

In conclusion, Dr. Frankl emphasized that the overcoming of the existential vacuum depends on man's willingness to take a stand over the conditions he faces, when he said, "The essence of human existence is responsiveness."

'The Overcoat' Will Show

"The Overcoat," a Russian film, will be shown in convocations in Brown Auditorium, Thursday, March 30 at 9 a.m.

Adapted from the short story, "The Overcoat," by Nicolai Gogol, the film tells of the experiences of a poor man working as a copyist in St. Petersburg, Russia.

The man, dominated by all around him, struggles to raise his station by buying a new overcoat.

The cast of the film, which was produced in 1959, is entirely Russian, and Russian is spoken with English sub-titles given.

The film was obtained as a part of the American - Soviet cultural exchange program under the auspices of the U.S. State Department.

According to the New York Herald Tribune, "The Overcoat" is a "beautiful combination of bravura performance and subtle direction. It is a beautiful and often brilliant film."

Not only is the film a source of enjoyment and meaning for the viewer, but value can also be found in dramatic arts and film study, and Russian literature, history, language and culture.

Two Former Students Study Abroad; BCA Study at Marburg, Strasbourg

By DEE NORTHEY

Former McPherson College students, Marilyn Wood and Ron Adkins, are presently in a year's study abroad, sponsored by the Brethren Colleges Abroad Program at the Philipps-University, Marburg, West Germany.

Dr. Jan Van Asselt, associate professor of German and linguistics, will be 1967-68 director of the BCA Program, which has its headquarters in Marburg, West Germany, and Strasbourg, France.

Qualifications of the junior for the year abroad begin with a minimum of two years or its equivalent in German or French, at least a "b" accumulative average, a generally outstanding academic ability, intellectual initiative, ability to participate constructively in small groups, and the personal attributes necessary to serve as a responsible and scholarly representative of America abroad.

Having met these requirements for the German program, Adkins and Miss Wood began the first leg of their journey in New York City where qualified students gathered.

The forty-some students sailed to Le Havre, France, and were met by the program's European Director where they began a ten-day chartered bus tour through France and the low countries to Marburg and Strasbourg.

The first six to eight weeks of the students' stay at the universities are devoted to intensive language training and orientation. The student's evaluated work to this point is prerequisite to registering into the university. The academic year begins in mid-October at both universities.

It is possible for a student to earn as many credits at Marburg or Strasbourg as he would have earned in his home institution. A transcript of each student's course work is forwarded to the student's college

Students may live either in a dormitory or in carefully selected private homes. Room and board, travel expenses, medical insurance and tuition are all included in the fee of $2,050. Personal expenses are additional.

The Philipps-University, Marburg, is the oldest Protestant university in the world established in the 12th century. The average yearly student enrollment is about 10,000.

The Elisabeth-kirche, oldest Gothic cathedral in Germany, is located on the Lahn River in the city. A medieval castle, the former residence of the Counts of Hesse, is now the property of the university.

Strasbourg, the capital of the province of Alsace, is located 250 miles east of Paris at the intersection of the Ill and Rhine rivers.

The city boasts the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the Chateau des Rohan and numerous other cultural sites for the BCA students.

Strasbourg University was founded in the 16th century. Its library contains approximately three million volumes.

Students who participated in the BCA Program last year are Art McAuley, sr, Warrensburg, Mo., and Dan Zinn, sr, Houston, Texas.

Illinois Issue With Big 10 Sets Example for Others

By GENE CZAPLINSKI

The controversy surrounding the Illinois University Athletic Department threatens to cause the removal of the school from the Big Ten. It came as a result of a "Slush" fund which aided athletes illegally.

It seems that everyone on campus, including the housemothers, knew about the fund, but it was just a "token" aid practice and no one cared to question its validity.

The question of morals surrounding this incident has a far-reaching influence. The Illinois directors feel that they were a victim of holding the hot potato at the wrong time and that the list of schools offering "under the table" payments is a very lengthy one indeed.

The Big Ten does not see it that way. They are not tolerating this misbehavior and are punishing the University in almost unparalleled fashion.

There is nothing to add to this episode except a tip of the hat to the Big Ten for its move.

If the school were allowed to be excused with a "tsk tsk" and a pat on the head, the example would hurt the prestige of the conference considerably.

By taking firm and fast action, the conference is an example for the rest of its members — and the rest of the nation.

This incident proves that speculation can be justified, but no one can say that colleges, the Big Ten in particular, are not aware of these possibilities — and are ready to do something about them.

23 Students Organize Unnamed Baseball Team

Twenty-three students have recently formed a baseball team which does not yet have a name.

They have scheduled one game with Central College for April 1, and two more games are tentative. There is also a possibility of games with Hillsboro and Fort Hays State.

Although the team is not sponsored by the school, it has received the support of the school and local residents. This support includes equipment from the YMCA and the American Legion.

Pitching for the team are Stan Borowski and Craig Little.

Frank Faciola is the catcher, and Mike Traetto, Denny Dahlquist, and Keith Hummel cover first base.

College Coeds Cap Season With First In 3-College Meet

Hosting McPherson College coeds won two cage meets for a first place in a three-college Sports Day, March 11, when they defeated Sterling College and Graceland College of Iowa.

Consolation honors went to the Graceland cagers.

Seeded against Graceland in the first game, McPherson pulled out a 49-44 victory on the strength of scoring by Kathy Rogers, jr, Brooklyn, Iowa, with 20 points, and Lela Weddle, jr, Bloom, with 16. High scorer for Graceland was Loving with 34.

Against Sterling, the McPherson coeds nabbed a 33-26 triumph on the scoring of Weddle, with 14, and Janet Rhinehart, sr, Brooklyn, Iowa, with 10 points.

The three-college event capped an 8-4 season for the McPherson women.

Coffeehouse Committee Seeks Managers, Entertainment

Students interested in entertaining, working or taking a managing position for the coffeehouse may now submit their names to the Coffeehouse Committee.

Present managers are organizing the positions for the remainder of this semester and next fall.

Salaries will be paid for waitresses, waiters and janitors. Group or individual entertainers are also needed.

Positions are open for head managers, business manager and assistant business manager.

"Thus far, a married couple has expressed interest for a managing, or host and hostess position. I hope another couple will assume the janitorial responsibility," stated Bouse, Jr., Silver Lake, Ind., restoration chairman of the coffeehouse.

Present managing positions are now held by George Snavley, sr, Lebanon, Pa., and Roger Schrock sr, Harmony, Minn.; George Jones, sr, Canton, business manager; and Tom Brubaker, jr, Rocky Ford, Colo., assistant business manager.

Coffeehouse operation and maintenance finances are being run independent of the Student Council.

"Volunteer help for reconstruction of the coffeehouse has been slow this week. This is probably due to nine-weeks exams and the approaching vacation," stated Bouse.

He went on to emphasize, "The more help we are given, the sooner the coffeehouse will be ready for student use."

The upstairs painting is about finished, but there is still more painting and outside work to be done.

The entertainment room walls have been hung with burlap and will be furnished with indirect lighting. Plasterboard ceilings were installed by Steve Benyshek, sr, Cuba.

"There will be persons working on the coffeehouse during the first few days of Easter vacation. If anyone will be here during that time we would appreciate their helpfulness," commented Bouse.

Students are asked to be on the look-out for any tables or chairs they could donate to the coffeehouse. A refrigerator and old piano are also needed.

McPherson Foreign Students Give Reactions to College

By LOWA KATZ

Students have come halfway around the world to study at McPherson College. Danaisak Somprasong comes from Bangkok, Thailand; John Mulumba from Kenya; Jamil Al-Attar from Baghdad, Iraq; and Lowa Katz, from Toronto, Canada.

Each student explained the customs of his country and his reaction to McPherson.

In Thailand, reported Somprasong, the customs and fashions are conservative. The men wear tight trousers. The women wear dresses which are tight near the waist and are slit above the knees downward.

"I think of my home every day, every minute and every second," said Somprasong. "If I had continued my studies in Medical Science at Chulalongkorn, I would have studied further at the hospital. I studied for two years."

Kenya is also within the tropics. The land is not mountainous. The climate is cool, due to the altitude of the country, and there is a long and a short rain period.

Mulumba says, "I enjoy being here, but I would prefer to be home. I miss the country greatly, especially the beautiful weather."

"I hope to get my B.S. in Math here at McPherson College. After that I hope to go on to graduate school."

Al-Attar, who hopes to graduate this May with a degree in Chemistry, comes from Baghdad, Iraq.

"It is the 'Land of Love and Hate' between the two rivers," he said. "The climate is mild in winter and hot in the summer."

"I miss it a lot because it has been a long time since I last visited my country. I fought for it; I feel I have a right to live in it."

"I enjoy being here. The people are very friendly and hospitable. I believe that the American people love to help other people if they can. I feel that it is a great opportunity for me to be in this country."

Katz explained that Canada is similar to the United States. The prairies are a continuation of the great central plain and the Canadian Rockies run south to form the backbone of the

Dean Moves to Vaniman Because of Highway

By MARGE KECK

A big move is in prospect for the family of Dr. Merlin Frantz, dean of academic affairs, this Saturday. They will be moving from their home at 110 N. Eby to Vaniman Hall.

The move has been necessitated because of the new highway which will be going through about two miles away. The land on which the Frantz house now stands will become an access road to highway 56.

Dr. and Mrs. Frantz sold their house and land to the state, but in turn bought their house back from the state. They plan to move the house to a lot at 130 N. Maxwell and add on to the shell of the house.

Vaniman Hall, which is owned by McPherson College, has been used as a dormitory in years past. This year, however, it has not been used because of ample facilities on campus. The Frantz family will use only the first two floors of the three-story structure.

Dr. and Mrs. Frantz and their three daughters have lived in their present location for 13 years. They hope to move back into their home at its new location by the end of the summer, or as soon as it is ready for their use.

College to Host H.S. Conference

Approximately 125 senior high youth and counselors from the Iowa - Minnesota District, the Missouri District and the Southern Missouri - Arkansas District will attend the Senior High Conference at McPherson College, March 31-April 2.

Conference participants will be lodged in the dormitories.

Some of the activities scheduled are an A Cappella Choir concert, the District Speech Contest, a youth banquet and the Mitchell Trio concert.

The youth will have an opportunity to talk with various faculty members and consult Guy Hayes, director of admissions, on admissions information and scholarship interviews.

A number of the faculty will address the conference on problems concerning college admission, finance, and general information.

Next year, youth from districts in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas will be invited.

An April meeting will be held for those interested in student teaching next fall.

The Spring Formal Committee announced that the Spring Formal will be held Saturday, April 15, from 9-12 p.m.

The cost will be $1.50 per couple with refreshments being served.
