three productions next year,"

The cost of meal service will advance to $220 per semester for 21 meals per week and advances in other aspects of the institutional operation will be reflected.

A contract with Slater Food Service for improved service has been signed. The operation of this service will require several thousand dollars to meet advanced labor costs,

Other schools in the Midwest also show an increase in costs. State school costs have increased from Kansas University's 9.4 per cent, through Iowa's 49 cent to Oklahoma's 67 per cent. Nebraska is now seeking a 94 per cent budget hike.

"Mac Shack" is Name Given to Coffeehouse

"Mac Shack," the recently named coffeehouse, is rapidly nearing completion.

30, 337 students voted for their favorite coffeehouse title, after being presented with three suggested names.

Results of the voting were "Mac Shack," 118; "House of Commons," 114; and "Bull Dog Inn." 105

Progress was made on the "Mac Shack" during Easter Vacation. Shingling was applied to several walls, the ceilings were sprayed with plaster texture and wiring for the indirect-lighting was completed.

Plan 3-Story Library Center

A three - story rectangular building of approximately 38,-000 square feet is tentatively planned for McPherson College's new library resource center. A $326,013 grant from the federal government was recently received, but construction will not begin for at least 18 months.

The exterior of the building will be reinforced concrete with brick and glass. The interior will feature permanent partitions of plaster with 10-foot high ceilings in the main public

The first level of the library, which will be partially below ground level, will house learning centers including audio and visual labs, curriculum library, and seminar rooms.

The main floor of the structure will be the second floor, creating a centrally located distribution and control point. This is the place where library users will be able to quickly check the information they need.

Press Award Is Tribute

The Associated Collegiate Press first class honor award, presented to The Spectator for issues published during the fall semester, reflects more than recognition to the Spectator staff alone. The award is a tribute to the entire College community.

ACP ratings compare newspapers from colleges with similar enrollments, noting news coverage, editorial material, make-up and picture content, and scale each category on a point system.

The Spectator's first class award is second only to the All-American rating.

As the official campus newspaper for McPherson College, The Spectator is a student publication. Students edit it, determine its policy and set its goals, some by actual participation in the meeting of deadlines and the taking of pictures-others merely by their interest, criticism and support.

The award is thus a credit to the student body, without which The Spectator could not exist.

But the Spectator, in addition, depends upon the faculty and the administration for its existence. The College has always allowed The Spectator freedom and independence of expression.

The ACP award thus recognizes the autonomy of The Spectator and the strength of an administration that trusts the discretion of students to maintain high journalistic standards.

The Spectator is proud of its first class rating, and hopes the entire College shares in the sense of accomplishment and pride it represents.

and add visers from Iowa, North Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, and Missouri for a youth conference March 31-April 2.

The youth conference is a function within the development office. Paul Wagoner, associate director of development, was in charge of the church relations program which invited youth from the Church of the Brethren to the campus.

The main purpose is to acquaint students with the campus. Wagoner explained that visit is a main factor in getting the students to enroll here.

Dick Hanley, a high school junior at English Valleys, South English Iowa visited the campus. A potential speech or music major, he intends to enroll at McPherson.

"I like a small campus. It's real . comfortable. It's nothing like Iowa - you have green grass-" commented Hanley.

Hanley has three sisters who graduated from McPherson; Majorie, Marilyn, and Maxine. Also, his preacher, the Rev. Berwyn Oltman, and his school guidance counselor, Edward Butler, are McPherson gradu-

David Hendricks, sophomore at Kingsley High School, Kings-ley, Iowa, wants to be a sociology major. "I like the college; it's real nice here. It has a good atmosphere."

Hendricks' brother, Junior, presently a teacher at Summerfield, was a McPherson graduate. David hopes to follow in his brother's footsteps.

Larry Strausser, English Valleys student, North English, Iowa, is interested in accounting.

"I like the proximity of the buildings. The campus is com-pact and quite accessible."

A denominational speech contest was held at the conference. The winner Roxann Dahlberg,
