

Student interviews will highlight Career Day

By CAROLYN DELL

Interviews with representatives from nation-wide business firms will be one of the highlights for students attending the AOCK Career Day on Feb. 24.

The event, held here on campus, will begin at 9 a.m. and continue throughout the day.

Attending will be juniors and seniors from each of the AOCK colleges. Each school will, also be represented by two faculty members.

Monroe Hughbanks, assistant professor in education, and Dr. O. A. Olson, professor of economics and business administration, will represent McPherson College.

The day will begin with registration and a coffee hour at 9. At 9:30 the group will meet in Brown Auditorium for a general assembly.

The rest of the day will be devoted to interviews, with students able to take part in at least five.

At the present over 20 employers, six graduate schools, three federal agencies and four personnel recruiters for public schools are expected to have representatives at the career day.

These interviews will give prospective employers an opportunity to see students from six colleges at one time.

Colleges taking part will be Kansas Wesleyan, Bethany, Sterling, Bethel, Tabor and McPherson who make up the membership of AOCK.

KSTA announces availability of scholarship

By JANE DADISMAN

This year, the Kansas State Teachers Association is announcing the availability of the C. O. Wright Scholarship to be given annually to a junior or senior enrolled in teacher education. The scholarship of $250 seeks to encourage young people to prepare for the teaching profession.

Students who have completed at least 45 hours of college credit and are enrolled in a teacher education curriculum are eligible. The applicant must be a member of the Student KSTA and must be planning to teach in Kansas.

Eligibility for consideration as a recipient of the scholarship is based on academic performance, aptitude for teaching, character, and personality, health, financial need and professional promise.

Also being offered this year are two scholarships by the Student Kansas Teachers Association. These scholarships, known as the "Ruth Stout Wright Scholarship" and the "Helen Miller Scholarship," will be awarded for $200 and $150 respectively.

The purpose of the scholarships is to present them as an honor and assistance to recipients who plan to become teachers. Each will be considered a gift if the recipient stays in Kansas. Otherwise, he will be expected to consider it an interest-free loan.

These two scholarships are available to students who will be seniors during the 1968-69 school year, are members of the Student KSTA, and are planning to teach in Kansas.

If more information is desired, contact Monroe Hughbanks, assistant professor of education, or Kathy Shank, sr, Fayetteville, W. Va.

Administrators to meet with student teachers

An opportunity to meet with school administrators, from various parts of the country, will be provided for prospective teachers during February and March.

The McPherson College Placement Bureau has scheduled five school administrators to be on campus and interview students interested in seeking teaching positions.

Administrators from schools around McPherson will also be on campus this semester to interview future teachers.

On Monday, Feb. 12, Mr. Rages and Mr. Noll from the Hutchinson schools will be holding interviews. On Tuesday, Feb. 13, Mr. Barney Elder, from the Gallup-McKinley County Schools in New Mexico, will be on campus.

On Monday, Feb. 26, Edwin C. Roeske from the Milwaukee Public Schools will be on campus. Ben F. Ahlschwede, from the Battle Creek, Mich. schools will be interviewing students on Thursday, Feb. 29.

Students will have an opportunity to meet with Robert D. Schmidt, of the Montezuma-Corcoran School District in Colorado, on Wednesday, March 6.

A representative of the Bakerville, California School District will be at McPherson on Thursday, March 7.

Prospective teachers, interested in working with the Bureau of Indian Affairs, can learn more about the organization on Friday, March 29. Louis E. Vander Ploeg, from Albuquerque, N. M., will represent the bureau.

Students interested in talking with these school administrators should sign the schedule for interviews, which will be on the bulletin board outside the placement office in Mohler Hall.

Dotzour to open doors Sunday

Men, parents, and friends will be welcomed in Dotzour Hall Sunday, Feb. 11, when the dormitory has its traditional open house from 2 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Vivian Rea, resident director of Dotzour, will be the official hostess. This is her first year as a resident director at McPherson College.

Chairman of the open house is Donna Brubaker, jr, Lyons, vice-president of the dormitory.

After the visitors have toured the building and visited the rooms, they are invited to have refreshments in the main lounge. The senior girls will serve punch.

Red, pink, and white flowers which emphasize the Valentine's Day theme will decorate the lounge and punch table.

Pi Kappa Delta will initiate new members

Pi Kappa Delta is a speech fraternity created in order to give recognition to orators and debaters in colleges and universities. The McPherson College chapter was organized in 1942.

Mrs. Alma Moore is the sponsor of the group this year. President is Gary Flory, sr, McPherson; vice president is Phil Lambert, jr, McPherson; secretary-treasurer is Mike Lovelless, soph, Mt. Rainier, Md.

Initiation date for new members is Feb. 14. To qualify for membership, students have competed in some form of public address contest work.

National tournaments are held every two years. In alternate years, province tournaments are held. This year a province tournament will be held at Kansas Wesleyan University, Salina, on March 15-16.

McPherson students plan to enter in the fields of oratory, discussion, extemporaneous speaking, and after dinner speaking.

It is hoped that by spring other students will have qualified for membership in the Pi Kappa Delta, because plans are being made for students to enter a contest of individual events in April.

This individual events contest will be held in Southern Colorado State College, Pueblo, Colo.

MCY helps juco set up Y program

By SANDY KUSSART

The MCY plans to hold regular meetings every other Sunday starting Sunday, Feb. 11. The place and time will be announced later. This action was taken to promote a feeling of group spirit among the club.

Previously, most of the work of the MCY had been done through the various committees. Although each committee has been active, it was felt that regularly scheduled meetings of the whole club would be beneficial.

Steve Rogers, soph., Brooklyn, Ia., and Carlos Green, jr, Cascade Locks, Ore., have been appointed to organize the meetings.

At present the MCY is working as a parent Y to the group that is forming at the Hutchinson Junior College. It is helping this new group set up its Y program (especially in the tutorial area), has extended invitations to them to attend our MCY activities, and has helped them with their constitution.

The Service Committee with Joyce Shellenberger, jr, Buhler, as chairman, has been very active. The Big Brother, tutorial, special education, and geriatrics programs all work through this committee.

The money earned from the work day held last Saturday will go into a special fund to help support the programs sponsored by the Service Committee for needy children.

Future plans being considered by the Social Committee, headed by Green, include a Valentine Party, an outing to Black Canyon, and a home-made ice-cream social.

Carolyn Dell, jr, Enid, Okla., chairman of the Worship Committee, and the other members of her committee are responsible for four chapels this semester and are planning some worship programs for the geriatrics ward of the hospital.

A new idea for the Publicity Committee, headed by Stan Bucher, soph., Lebanon, Pa., is a newsletter for the MCY members. This would be to let each member know what the various committees are doing.

Ron Meck, jr, Omaha, Neb., chairman of the Nominating Committee, announced that there are three candidates for the position of co-chairman of the Publicity Committee. The three nominees are Margie Holdereed, soph, Tacoma, Wash., Rose Marie Ulom, soph, Wiley, Colo., and Lynn Dee Standafer, soph, Worthington, Minn.

Pat Hayes, jr, Geneseo, and Paul Roth, sr, Bowling Springs, Pa., are co-chairmen of the MCY cabinet. Pat Drury, jr, Marshalltown, Iowa, and Bob Albin, sr, Marshalltown, Iowa, are co-vice-chairmen. They help co-ordinate the activities and make sure all events are on the school calendar.

The cabinet is considering holding the election of next year's MCY officers earlier in the semester to give them more experience by working with this year's cabinet.

Church dedicates blankets, money

Blanket Sunday was a large success. Sixty-two blankets were dedicated along with enough money to bring the number to 198.

Sermon topics during February will continue the "School on the Church and Foreign Policy," led by Lorell E. Weiss, professor of sociology. These begin at 6:45 p.m. with light refreshments, classes at 7:30 p.m.

20 students participate in work day; profits will be given to needy children

By LINDA DEAN

Twenty students participated in the work day sponsored by the McPherson College YMCA-YWCA Saturday.

A committee composed of Joyce Shellenberger, jr, Buhler, Sandra Kussart, fr, Cerro Gordo, Ill., George Hoover, soph, Plattsburg, Mo., Keith Hummel, sr, New Paris, Ind., and Les Shenefeld, jr, Navarre, worked together beforehand to line up working situations.

McPherson residents desiring students to work for them called committee members, who then worked out a schedule for those students who volunteered to work. Workers were paid whatever the persons employing them felt the work was worth.

Workers averaged three and a half to four hours work each, although several spent most of the day working.

Types of work ranged greatly as workers tried their skills at various jobs.

Cleaning house was a common work project for many girls. Sore knees and aching arms were not an uncommon aftermath for those who scrubbed floors.

Sandra Kussart and Susan Duncanson, jr, Lewiston, Minn., were entertained by a Siamese cat as they spent three hours cleaning, mopping, and ironing in a home.

For Donna Winegarden, fr, Des Moines, Iowa, and Patricia Hayes, jr, Geneseo, using a buffer to polish floors was a new experience. Their three and a half hours of cleaning was perked up at times by the sounds of accompaniment from pupils taking music lessons in the home.

Other girls who cleaned houses were Patricia Drury, jr, Marshalltown, Iowa, Joyce Bury, fr, Peoria, Ill., and Joyce Shellenberger.

Stan Bucher, soph, Lebanon, Pa., and Ed Kreider, soph, Quarryville, Pa., spent their working hours cleaning out a chicken house at a farm near McPherson.

The job of Carlos Green, jr, Cascade Locks, Ore. was to help one of the members of the administration in spading his garden.

Even though the day was not too cold, the air did not feel too warm to Cynthia McQuilliam, fr, Lyons, and Beth Snader, fr, Minneapolis, Minn., as they washed the inside and outside of two cars.

Later, these two girls and Rita DeCoursey, fr, McPherson, washed all the windows of a house.

A group of boys including Steve Rogers, soph, Brooklyn, Iowa, James Mowry, soph, Pekin, Ill., Ed Robinson, sr, Garfield Robert Albin, sr, Marshalltown, Iowa, Paul Roth, sr, Bowling Springs, Pa., and Keith Hummel raked leaves in several large lawns.

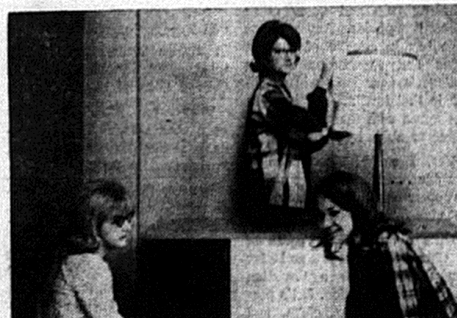

Hummel had an unusual job in helping a man work underneath his house.

Approximately $75 was made on the work day. For the number of students participating in relation to the amount of money made, committee members felt the work day was very successful.

The money made will be used to help needy children in connection with the Special Education class and the Big Brothers program. One possibility is providing an afternoon program for the needy children of the McPherson area.

Although the workers were exhausted after completing their work, each came away with the feeling that it felt good to work without being forced to work.

A service was being performed and much enjoyment was gained through the students' various experiences.

FAT HAYES, jr, Geneseo, background; Joyce Bury, fr, Peoria, Ill., and Sandy Kussart, fr, Cerro Gordo, Ill., foreground; demonstrate cleaning techniques used to earn money for needy children during the YMCA-YWCA work day.

'67 was a year to remember!

Editor's Note:
The Associated Collegiate Press Feature Service presents the year of happenings in 1967, taken from the University of Kansas Daily Kansan.

It was a year of the absurd, the ludicrous, the ridiculous.

The birth and death of hippiedom was heralded, and for a while Haight-Ashbury meant love. Inaugurated, it seemed, by Lady Bird's beautification program, flower power appeared to be a permanent thing. Bubble-gum companies were offering flower-printed paper dresses by mail order.

That development came in a year when a 17-year-old British girl weighing 90 pounds and measuring 31-22-32 made $120 an hour modeling for the same fashion magazines which advertise bosom-building aids.

Bobby Kennedy became a father for the tenth time and Ethel still played touch football before breakfast.

The hippies added a new dimension to American slang. The "straight" world was encouraged to "tune in, turn on, and drop out," "go where it's at," "do your own thing," and "find your bag."

The Arab-Israeli war yielded a series of jokes, such as the Arab tanks with back-up lights or the zillion dollar movie of the war called "The Shortest Day."

LEJ rejected an excellent portrait of himself as the "ugliest thing" he ever saw. Then he became a grandfather to a youngster whose "Republican" father called him an "Elephant" and he married off his daughter to a Vietnam-bound Marine captain instead of the undrafted George Hamilton.

Frank Sinatra was married, saw his daughter achieve fame, had his front teeth knocked out, and was separated from his young wife — all in one year.

And, to add to all these problems, Billie Joe McAllister threw something off the Tallahatchie bridge and what it was we'll never know . . .

Christian idealist wants no rejects on campus

Dear Editor:

On page 33, of the "Growl", under rules, regulations, and suggestions the first paragraph reads: "It is reasonable to assume that students who enroll in McPherson College are also willing to abide by the regulations of the college."

In view of the fact that the current handbook (which is sent to every student before he enrolls) contains a statement as to the purpose of the College: (McPherson College was founded to give students a thorough Christian liberal arts education and seeks to uphold high ideals of Christian conduct and growth in every phase of the student's life.)

It further states that students who persist in behavior counter to the regulations and purposes of the college may be subject to disciplinary action. I feel that the assumption stated in the "Growl" is a good one.

Why, because every one who has or is attending McPherson College know before he or she enrolled in the College that McPherson College was a church affiliated school. Furthermore, every student knew what rules he would be expected to follow.

For a majority of students, myself included, it was a matter of choice in coming to McPherson College. I was easily acceptable to several large, well-known universities, but I came to McPherson College.

Although I am not a member of the Church of the Brethren, I chose to come to McPherson because of the Christian ideals which it upholds. I came to McPherson because of the Christian atmosphere that has prevailed on the campus from 1887 until now, 1968 — hand in hand with progress.

It was not a matter of the only school that would accept me, I came so that I would be in association with students who would be willing to uphold the rules and regulations of a Christian college.

Surely a college that has continued to progress for over eighty years is not maintaining regulations that are unreasonable; if the rules were unreasonable McPherson could not have progressed as it has for 81 years.

I agree that McPherson has a very liberal policy on admissions. I agree that McPherson should progress in its rules and regulations by making its admissions requirements more strict. If students who are given a second chance for obtaining a college education by McPherson College are not appreciative, I say let us not give them a second chance . . . by not accepting them.

I say more power to McPherson College in having a non-smoking rule and every other ideal it upholds. Any student that has knowledge of the set rules and regulations of any college is very foolish in enrolling in that institution if he does not agree with them or at least agree to abide by them.

Yes, I agree, some changes are due . . . let's be more strict, as other institutions are, and not give rejects a second chance.

Let's uphold the purposes of a Christian college and let Christians receive a Christian liberal arts education. Let's progress, McPherson College, and keep a Christian atmosphere prevailing on campus and in the community.

Student claims Metzler has strong school spirit

No where on campus is there to be found the strong school spirit which is present on third floor Metzler. The only other dorm on campus which expresses strong spirit is Fahnstock Hall and this spirit has declined over the years where as Metzler's spirit has increased.

Some students will deny the fact that Metzler is stronger in school spirit than Fahnstock, but all one has to do is see the turnout of Metzler men at football and basketball games.

Since the opening of school after Christmas recess Metzler Hall now boasts a college dormitory flag of its own. The flag which is four feet by three feet has a white Bulldog and school emblem which stands on a field of red. The words "Third Floor Metzler" in black felt crosses the top of the flag.

The rivalry which is present between the men's dorms on campus is good, for the spirit of the college on a whole is increased.

As for Bittering Hall which has not been mentioned, it is hoped that they too enter this rivalry and become more aware of dormitory spirit which increases the spirit of the school on a whole.

A Cappella Choir will present concerts in Iowa, Minnesota

Presenting concerts in Iowa and Minnesota will highlight the year for the McPherson College A Cappella Choir.

The choir's annual spring tour is planned for April 27 to May 2. Donald R. Frederick, professor of voice, will direct the choir which will include 48 student members.

At present approximately 12 concerts are planned for the choir. More concerts may be added when the schedule is completed.

Paul Wagoner, associate director of development, is helping arrange concerts for the choir and will accompany the group on its tour.

Student wants literary magazine

by Marilyn Smith

The urge to express oneself seem to be universal. I think that college should help stimulate and focus this urge in creative self-expression of students.

A "literary magazine"—an anthology of student's poems, short stories, and articles, as well as the work of student artists and photographers—is one good way to help accomplish this goal.

"Sturm und Drang," the McPherson College literary magazine (the title is that of a youthful German literary movement), has twice been published.

Glancing through the 1966 volume, I see familiar names and feel pride in those who worked to create and communicate something beautiful or moving or meaningful.

More than that, I feel increased pride in McPherson College, for the literary magazine is part of its life.

Regardless of the excellence of the magazine itself however, the second publication was a financial failure.

Strongly-motivated interest and much time and effort made possible the first two volumes of "Sturm und Drang;" there may never be a third unless would-be poets, writers, and artists voice their interest and willingness to help make it a reality.

I have no doubt that there is in our midst abundant creative talent. The financial problem is not insurmountable. Let's have a literary magazine!

It could be a source of satisfaction and pride not only for those who contribute to it but also for the entire college.

Get ready to die

As I view my destined world ahead;
Alternatives be two, to tear my mind;
To enter the world my elders have left;
Or wait to enter, leaving their terms behind.

I feel as if the sky is falling.
How can I associate with all that's mad.
Must I disassociate as quickly as possible
Or sell out imagination from the Suburban Fad.

I am faced with my Fathers material world.
It beckons to me to exchange my soul.
So I turn inside — to the life of the right
And my movement takes nine months to foul.

Destroy my positive myth, Utopian.
Leave me limp, scared, and asking why.
The question/I ask, what can we do?
You answer, "Dial soap and get ready to die."

Dotzour women will become heart sisters

A week full of mystery and fun is coming to the women of McPherson College. All interested women of Dotzour can participate during Heart Sister Week, Feb. 12-18.

Girls interested will draw names thus determining who their heart sister is. Each day of this week, held traditionally over Valentines Day, the girls will perform a small favor or leave a small gift for their heart sister.

These deeds can range from making their beds to leaving a little snack for a study break. All this is to be done without revealing their true identities.

On Sunday, Feb. 18, a special breakfast for the participants will be held at the Student Union. A special program will be presented, the highlight being, of course, the disclosure of the identities of the heart sisters.

a close, action-filled contest. The team that controls the boards should win it.

Bethel is getting balanced scoring from Ediger, 13.3 points per game; Roberts, 13.0; and Roth, 11.5. Ediger, a freshman, has had a hot hand lately, and has been leading the team.

These three are joined in the starting line-up by Murray, a hustling guard, and Friesen, who had a big night against the Bulldogs in the last meeting.

Bethel is fifth in the conference while the Bulldogs are in a tie for eighth.

Southwestern's Evans is currently leading the conference in scoring with a 22.8 points per game average, and receives help from Mike Fast, who is averaging 13.6 points per game.

The Moundbuilders will go with Mike Fast, 6' senior and Ken Richard, 5'11" junior at guards, and Bill ReQua, 6'1" sophomore, J. M. Shepley, 6'5" sophomore and Loren Evans, 6'4" senior on the backline.

Bulldogs lose 90-87 OT 'barn-burner' to Coyotes of Kansas Wesleyan U

by PHEL GROVE

"Man, that was really a hard one to lose," one disappointed Bulldog basketball fan said as he walked from the McPherson Roundhouse Monday night.

The fan had a right to sound unhappy because he had just watched the Bulldogs fall to the favored Kansas Wesleyan team 90-87 in an overtime battle between the two Kansas conference teams.

The KWU victory gave the second place Coyotes a 5-3 conference record, and tumbled the Bulldogs into ninth place with a 3-9 record.

John Smith, 6-5 junior center, hit 38 points for the Bulldogs, and collected 29 of those in the first half. He ripped the net with four field goals and one free throw in the second half before fouling out with more than ten minutes showing on the clock.

The lead switched hands several times during the first half before the McPherson quintet pulled ahead 27-26. They widened the gap to 48-36 at halftime.

In the second half the Coyotes came storming back in the last few minutes of play. They led 76-74 with seven seconds remaining in the game.

Hal Wright wished a last second shot to tie the score at 76-76, which put the teams into a five-minute overtime.

With 15 seconds remaining in the overtime period, McPherson was down by one point, 88-87, but Wesleyan capitalized on a Bulldog error and put the game out of reach of the Bulldogs, 90-87, with only two seconds remaining on the clock.

McPherson played two other conference games during the past week. The Bulldogs lost to Friends University 92-61, Jan. 30, but defeated the Baker Wildcats Feb. 2, 84-55.

Smith of McPherson and Jim Jemerson of Friends each scored 30 points in the contest played at Wichita. Hal Wright, who hit for 13 points, was the only other Bulldog to score in the double figures.

The Falcons used an effective fast break to jump to their 47-26 halftime lead. They widened the gap in the second half by out-rebounding and out-shooting the McPherson team.

Friends is in first place in the Kansas conference and carried a 10-1 conference record into its meeting with Ottawa Tuesday night.

Smith was high scorer again for the Bulldogs when they met the Baker Wildcats at the Mc-Pherson Roundhouse. He scored 35 of the Bulldogs' 84 points. Wright scored 13 points for the Bulldogs, Don Woodcock scored 11 and Larry DeTour ten.

The Wildcats led 14-13 early in the first half, but from then on the Bulldogs were in command. The McPherson roundballers led by nine points, 37-28, at halftime.

The Bulldogs collected 24 points at the charity line. Baker collected only five points from the stripe.

Baker carried a 3-8 conference record into its game with Sterling Tuesday night.

Nine students and adults from McPherson will be spending this week-end on a ski trip to Winter Park, Colo.

The group will leave from McPherson by bus Friday night, Feb. 9. They will spend Saturday and Sunday skiing and return Sunday night.

The cost of the trip is $40 ($35 if one has his own equipment) plus meals and lessons (at $5 per lesson) for those who have never skied.

Short shots

By MIKE THOMPSON
What a mixed-up race! The KCAC basketball race that is. It looks like any team in the conference can knock off the leader on a given night. Friends and College of Emporia appear to be the hottest teams in the conference at present.

Loren Evans of Southwestern leads the conference in scoring with a 22.8 point per game average, and Bill Thayer of Sterling is in second place at 20.2. And our own John Smith is in third place with a 19.0 point per game average.

Becoming eligible at second semester, Smith has proved valuable to Coach Widrig's Bulldogs. He has shown much improvement and has scored 30 and 35 points respectively in the team's last two outings. The 6'5" senior is a hard worker with exceptional jumping ability.

Track season got its start at Lawrence last weekend. Jim Ryan ran in two events and, you guessed it, set two new Allen Fieldhouse records. What an athlete!

And the Big 8 conference will be seeing another fine miler in years to come. Enrolling at Oklahoma State the second semester is an 18 year old South African who has run the mile in 4:01.1 and the half-mile in 1:49.8.

A sign on the University of Missouri dressing room reads: "To play ball at Missouri, you have to be able to pass ... First your subjects, and then the ball ..."

Have you seen the bright colored shirts some of the athletes are wearing around campus? The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is selling them.

Buying one would help out a fine organization and also give you a shirt with a color for every occasion.

Kobe explores Napoleonic period by re-creation of military characters

By SUSAN SELL
Nick Kobe, sr., Shawnee Mission, has been painting and collecting military miniatures from the Napoleonic period for the past year.

The collecting of military miniatures was the time-honored activity of the ancient Chinese war lords, English and French noblemen and kings of Europe.

"The reason I am interested is that there seems to be a de-emphasis on military history in this country. By the study of military history, I wanted to become acquainted with an area still somewhat unexplored."

Kobe purchases the figures he paints. Prices usually range from 75 cents to $2.50.

The military miniatures Kobe collects are 30mm tall and are composed of 50 per cent lead and 50 per cent tin. He has 150 now, but has previously had as many as 300.

He was introduced to the hobby through a friend who belonged to the Kansas City Society of Napoleonic Collectors of Military Miniatures and War Games. Kobe is now a member of this organization.

There are societies of collectors in all of the major cities of the United States as well as in Europe and Asia.

Each of Kobe's 150 figures in his two regiments depicting characters in the army of the Grand Duchy of Hesse-Darmstadt is hand painted. The collection includes artillery, cavalry and infantry.

Each figure's uniform is verified by historical investigation. Most of the information is not available in public libraries. Kobe has sent to England and Sweden for information needed to paint the figures in historical dress.

The information he uses includes such details as what color horses the leaders rode.

The figures are painted with "flat colors" which have no gloss and give a realistic appearance.

One problem he encounters is finding right color combinations. To get the results he desires, he mixes his own paints.

Thumbtacks, toothpaste tubes, balsa wood, fishing line, wire, and body putty are materials he uses to obtain special effects he desires. The thumbtacks are used for bugles; the toothpaste tubes are used for flags.

The average time Kobe spends on one figure is two and one-half hours.

The artillery, which are also hand painted according to historical background, have brass barrels.

Kobe, like 10,000 other collectors in the Mid-west, uses his miniature figures in war games. The games are situated on "territories" similar to those of the battles being re-created.

Approximately 1,000 figures are used in one battle. The battles are fictional but the situations are factual. Moral of the soldiers and weather conditions are among conditions which are re-created.

Otterpohl challenges U.S. sympathy toward Israel

By MARCELLA SHERFY

Challenging America's sympathy for Israel, John Otterpohl outlined his understanding of the Arab-Israeli situation Jan. 21, 1968, at the evening service of the McPherson Church of the Brethren.

Mr. Otterpohl, a former Fulbright Scholar to Lebanon and presently a history teacher at Hutchinson High School, spared neither sarcasm nor bluntness in his repudiation of common assumptions about this simmering crisis.

Otterpohl began with a brief history of the Jewish people stressing their historic mistreatment by the Christian Church. Significant reaction to this treatment was witnessed in the late 1900's with the beginning of the Zionist movement.

Otterpohl defined a Zionist as one who wants a separate state for Jews based solely on their religion.

The twentieth century has then watched the growth and victory of the Zionist cause. Major events in that growth have come with the Balfour Declaration, in which Britain promised the Jews a home in Palestine and the subsequent acceptance of Palestine as mandate by Britain from the League of Nations.

After a quiet but sizable migration of Jews during the 1930's and 1940's, Israel proclaimed herself a nation in 1948 with United Nation's approval.

Her history from that date has included both continual economic and agricultural growth.

The remainder of Otterpohl's speech seemed to be based upon the unarticulated but implied belief that neither previous ownership nor suffering entitle a group of people to claim a piece of land by force.

He explained the action of the United Nations and the approval of the United States to a naive nurtured in preoccupation with Europe and post-war problems.

Discussing the position of Arab people previously living in Palestine, Otterpohl said that one and a half million Arabs have been driven out since 1948, a quarter million of these having left since June.

Those who remain, he said, are subject to martial law, restrictions on occupation, and deprivation of civil rights. He was also critical of Israel's failure to give serious thought to the handling of the refugee problem.

Otterpohl continued to list the present desires of the Arab states. These included the return of Israel to them, religious freedom in Israel, an end to the immigration of world Jewry to the area, and an end to the Jewish "chosen people" idea and use of the Bible and recent persecution for sympathy.

In contrast, he said that the Israelis wanted national security. This, Otterpohl, was farther away after the June conflict than before.

The Arab states had grudgingly come to accept the situation prior to June, but have now had their ire renewed.

Bringing the situation into focus of United States policy, the speaker commented that for a nation proclaiming neutrality and respect of territorial integrity, we have swept these
